Mayor Seeks Coordinator To Gear Narcotics Fight

Drug Arrests Up 180 Per Cent

THREE ERAS—Mayor James R. McIntyre is congratulated by former Mayors Amelio Della Chiesa and Thomas S. Burgin following his mid-term address at City Hall ceremonies. Death last month of David S. McIntosh leaves Burgin and Della Chiesa as Quincy's only living former mayors.

$20 Fine Asked For Autos Blocking City Snowplows

Owners of automobiles parked on Quincy streets interfering with snowplowing operations would be fined $20 under a proposed city ordinance.

Public Works Commissioner John M. Browne is seeking the ordinance as a crackdown on persons who leave their cars in the streets during storms, hindering and slowing plowing operations.

Cost of Quincy's snow plowing-removal operation for December is virtually double that of the same period in 1969.

City Auditor Alexander Smith said the cost for December was $102,000 compared to $53,500 in December, 1969.

Most of this is attributed to the much heavier snowfall this year.

Browne will meet this week with Mayor James R. McIntyre, City Solicitor Harry Pavan, Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Fire Chief Edward F. Barry to draw up the ordinance.

"I hope we can submit it to the City Council at its Jan. 18 meeting," he said.

Browne said that during the New Year's Day storm there was a "deluge" of complaints of cars parked on streets blocking plows.

"I had to hire eight off-duty police officers and assigned each with a highway foreman to go door-to-door asking people to move their cars from the streets so that we could plow," Browne reported.

"In most cases the people were cooperative and moved their cars at our request. But there were 25 to 30 vehicles towed."

Browne estimates that it costs the city between $1,000 and $1,500 an hour to keep snowfighting equipment on the streets during a storm.

"That is a pretty high rate that has to be borne by the taxpayers," he noted. "Cars parked on streets blocking plows slow the operation and increase the cost. I don't think it is fair to the taxpayers to let these people leave their cars in the street and hinder the snowplowing."

Browne notes that there is a city ordinance forbidding over-night parking on Quincy streets. But it carries a light $2 penalty, he said.

"We need a stiff penalty," he said. "The ordinance I seek would have these cars tagged with each tag carrying an automatic $20 fine."

Browne said a major problem during a storm is the unavailability of sufficient tow trucks to get cars off the streets when the owners cannot be located.

"Often times we are criticized for not plowing a street when the truth of the matter is we cannot even get into the street because of cars blocking our way."

Mayor McIntyre commended the Public Works Department for its work this winter.

"They have done a good job," he said. "We have received many fine comments from residents."

Browne said he will also seek strict enforcement of an ordinance that forbids piling snow onto sidewalks and at crosswalks.

"Many businessmen plow out their areas and leave the snow piled so high we can't get through it with our Bombardiers," Browne said. "Sometimes they pile it up on top of catch basins and this leads to flooding."

The division, which currently has a work force of 7,500, has a backlog of nine naval and commercial ships, including three of the world's largest dry cargo transports.

Mayor James R. McIntyre will seek a drugs program coordinator in hopes of curbing an alarming 180 per cent hike in narcotics offenses in Quincy during 1970.

Creation of a coordinator to gear private and public drugs programs was one of three 1971 major goals of McIntyre, keynoted in his third mid-term address earlier this week.

The other two:
• Construction of a multi-story downtown parking garage over the Ross parking area.

• Handing the full tab of operating the MBTA to the state.

He called on both the federal and state governments to stop making "token gestures" of financial aid to the cities and to begin, instead, badly needed "massive infusions" of monies.

"The drugs situation is very, very serious," McIntyre told the Quincy Sun last night. "We have got to do everything we can to win this battle. We owe it to our people."

The Mayor disclosed that narcotics offenses in Quincy during 1970 showed a 180 per cent increase over 1969.

"At the end of November of this year," he said, "188 persons had been arrested in Quincy on drugs charges. This compares to 64 in 1969."

"This is an alarming 180 per cent rise."

He also disclosed that at the end of November there was a 33 per cent increase in three crime categories: aggravated assaults, breaking and entering and larceny over $50.

Ninety-eight per cent of the 33 per cent increase, he said, was in breaking and entering and larceny.

"Most of our policemen are convinced," he said, "that these two offenses are most associated with drugs offenses. Many on drugs are committing these offenses to obtain money to purchase more narcotics."

Other crime in Quincy, he said, appears to be up about 16 per cent.

"If it had not been for the increase in drug abuse, Quincy would have had a decrease across the board in crime in general," McIntyre declared.

McIntyre said he would have a professionally trained coordinator working out of the city Health Department coordinate public and private drug programs in the city.

"I would hope to have Survival, Inc. and the South Shore Mental Health Association programs included," he said.

A Trojan Horse And A Nightmare

The controversial SST came in for double-barrel criticism from Mayor James R. McIntyre in his mid-term address this week.

McIntyre called it a "grandiose Trojan Horse" that would become a "nightmare" to Quincy.

He put it this way: "...the White House encourages grandiose Trojan Horses such as the $1.5 billion SST and cuts funds for programs like Headstart, Manpower and Housing.

"The supersonic transport plane will neutralize many regional and state efforts by emitting astonishing quantities of air and noise pollutants.

"For Quincy, which is within the take-off and landing paths of Logan Airport, the SST would be a nightmare, and a constant reminder of Washington's breach of faith with, and lack of concern for, the health and welfare of urban dwellers."

Openings At Shipyard For 450 Tradesmen

The Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics has immediate openings for 450 tradesmen, announces Industrial Relations Director Robert Smith.

He said the shipyard has a limited number of openings for unskilled workers to be trained on the job, but the majority of the positions are for skilled welders, shipfitters, pipefitters, sheetmetal workers and outside machinists.

Registration Open For Evening Voc-Tech Courses

Registration is still open for evening vocational courses at Quincy Vocational-Technical School, according to Edward T. Hannon, coordinator of adult education.

Courses in which there are openings are:

Practical electricity, advanced electrical code, plumbing, pipewelding, air conditioning and refrigeration, pipefitter maintenance, sheet metal, blue print reading, drafting, preparatory electronics, advanced electronics, color television repair, transistor fundamentals, offset press and machine shop.

Adult basic education classes resume this week. This program, free to all Quincy residents, is available to anyone who has not completed high school and wishes to prepare for the high school equivalency examination. Classes are held Monday and Wednesday evenings in English, mathematics and possible social studies, with certified teachers providing individual assistance.

Also underway is the second semester of Quincy Evening School, Practical Arts Division. Students registered for the first semester will continue their regular courses.

Those who wish to enroll in the following courses may do so at Broad Meadows Junior High School, 50 Calvin Rd. Registration fee is $5.

Adult Homemaking and handcraft courses now available are: Flower arranging [$15.00 for supplies; 10 lessons], Dressmaking, Draperies, silk screening [$7.50 supplies; 10 lessons], pastries, deserts and cake decorations [$7.50 supplies; 10 lessons], Vestamayd rugs, canvas painting [$20.00; 10 lessons], knitting, millinery and fur accessories.

Civic education classes in beginner's English and citizenship training are also again available.

Paul J. Daley Aboard Destroyer USS Fox

Navy Fireman Paul J. Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Daley of 242 Marlboro St., Wollaston, has returned to Newport, R.I., aboard the destroyer USS Myles C. Fox following the five month training exercise UNITAS XI.

Operation UNITAS XI took the Fox around South America on its mission of strengthening hemispheric defense of the sea lanes.

Many Heroin Cases Here

"I have seen no abatement of the use of drugs," Dist. Atty. George G. Burke says in issuing a warning against serious disease now being associated with drug abuse.

"There continues to be a heavy usage among teenagers and college students," he told the Quincy Sun. "We are still getting a great many heroin cases, among others, here in the Quincy Court."

"In addition, the claim has been stated that some of these drugs have no after effects. Here we have something that proves that some do have a long-lasting effect," he adds, referring to a follow-up by his office on a recent report in the New England Journal of Medicine on "Necrotizing Angiitis associated with Drug Abuse." "Necrotizing angiitis" refers to necrosis or death of arterial walls. Methamphetamine, better known as "speed," appears to be the common denominator of this disease which if initial indications are true, will result in over 50 per cent deaths, even with the best of medical treatment.

Following the New England Journal of Medicine report, Burke contacted Dr. B. Philip Citron, Chief Clinical Gastroenterology at the University of Southern California School of Medicine, for more details on his committee's findings.

Dr. Citron responded, stating, "In this disease which is associated with drug abuse, the main arteries involved are the arteries of the kidneys, liver, stomach and intestines. There is evidence that the blood vessels of the brain are also affected. At this point we do not know the minimum amount of exposure in time or dosage required to cause this disease."

Burke's office cited an instance of one young woman, experimenting with "speed," for three months, had contracted the disease.

"All of the people who have contracted this disease may have had exposure to other drugs, but 'speed' was used in common by all," the spokesman said.

Burke appeals to anyone considering experimenting with drugs to consider the findings of this medical research team.

Wardle Receives DFC Medal

Capt. Roger W. Wardle, who returned this month from a year's duty in Vietnam, was awarded among other medals, the Air Force Distinguished Flying Cross.

Capt. Wardle, aircraft commander, was engaged in reconnaissance missions.

The son of Mrs. Harry Wardle of 66 Albatross Rd., Adams Shore, Capt. Wardle is a 1961 Quincy High School graduate. He received his bachelor's degree in mathematics and physics from Brown University, where he was a member of ROTC. He enlisted in the Air Force following graduation. His present assignment is at Dover Air Force Base, Del., where he is flying transport planes. He is married to the former Marilyn Wallace of Toledo, Ohio.

Sunbeams

A sneak thief has stolen an historic memento from the City Council Chamber at City Hall.

The photo was presented to Mayor McIntyre who had it framed and inscribed and hung in a place of honor in the council chamber.

The photo is a rare one in that it shows four Quincy mayors together. And now, with the death of McIntosh last month, it can never be duplicated.

BOTH Burgin and Della Chiesa, now in their 60's and now Quincy's only living former mayors, were invited and participated in this week's mid-term ceremonies for Mayor McIntyre and the City Council.

It was a sentimental return to City Hall for both—especially for Burgin. He had the opportunity to personally pay tribute to retiring Assessors Chairman William Callahan whom he first appointed to the board.

And he noted that 46 years ago this week he started his own political career at the age 22 by taking his seat in the City Council as Ward 1 councillor.

DELLA CHIESA, now a resident of Pembroke, was also called on to say a few words and wished the "90,000 residents" he used to represent a happy New Year.

He also paid tribute to Callahan, whom he named chairman of the assessors, and to other department heads he had worked with.

He also gave City Council President Arthur Tobin quite a political boost. "He's a young man who is going places," said Della Chiesa. Later, he said one of the places could be governor.

Maybe it runs in the family. Young McCarthy is a nephew of Don Aikens, one of Arlanson's top ball carriers of the early 1950's. Aikens, today, of course, is a well known mural artist.

FORMER City Council President William C. Ellis, wife Katherine and family, are now living in Ft. Pierce, Fla.

They write to say they enjoy the Florida sun—and the Quincy Sun—but miss their friends up here.

Bill, an attorney, plans to enter the Florida bar this spring.

FINE FEATHERED friends dept: George A. Wilson, retired Quincy High principal, took part in the recent Audubon Society's National Bird Census. And helped determine that within a 15-mile radius of Quincy there were 98 different varieties of birds.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "Even if you're on the right track, you'll get run over if you just sit there."

SMILE DEPT: Good friend Hector J. Pelletier passes this one along from the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Assn. newsletter: "Marriage is like a railroad sign. You see a lovely girl and STOP. Then you LOOK. And after you're married, you—LISTEN."

Tobin Praises Colleagues, Pat On Committees

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin will make no committee chairman or committee member changes in 1971.

"Each council member is interested in the committee on which he serves and I am making no committee changes," Tobin said, following his re-election Monday as president.

In his acceptance speech at City Hall ceremonies, Tobin responded to Mayor James R. McIntyre's tribute to the City Council for its actions in bringing about many improvements to the city during last year.

"We are extremely fortunate that we have such a capable chief executive whose merits are recognized throughout the Commonwealth as one of the outstanding Mayors of Massachusetts," Tobin said. "It is because of his concern and his sincerity as chief executive of this city which motivated the Council.

"When I assumed the presidency in 1970, we pledged ourselves at that time to a total commitment to serve the City of Quincy and to work in unity and cooperation with the Mayor on pressive programs which would move the City forward."

Tobin said no other City Council had so many diverse issues before it at one time, so many vital decisions to make, nor so many crises to evaluate. "No other City Council stands more proudly on its record," he added.

"It was not leadership of any one member, it was the unique quality of individual leadership of the Councilors on the different programs submitted through the Mayor's office," Tobin said.

He cited leadership of Councilor Walter Hannon in acquiring the Black's Creek marshland; Councilor Edward Graham, the 17 acres of marshland at Houghs Neck and protection of the shore line through construction of seawalls.

Councilor Albert Barilaro, who motivated action to relieve flooding in West Quincy and Furnace Brook areas, along with Councilor Clifford Marshall; Councilors John Koegler, Marshall and Barilaro who spearheaded action for the $4.9 million elementary school in South Quincy.

Councilors John Quinn, Graham, Vincent Smyth and Hannon who led the action for school additions at Furnace Brook and Squantum Schools.

"In every important issue submitted to the Council by the Mayor, these programs were carefully reviewed, thoroughly debated, and then acted upon with comprehension," Tobin said.

Tobin credited Councilor George B. McDonald with leading action to help solve Quincy's dumping problems by proposing use of the Pike's Peak area in West Quincy away from the residential area where a landfill operation will open up hundreds of acres of "landlocked wilderness which when developed will develop a tax base for the City."

He credited Councilors Quinn, Graham and Smyth for their leadership in having ward by ward hearings on the city's rezoning proposal, and predicted that this would "produce one of the finest zoning documents in the metropolitan area which will preserve residences in good areas, and in certain areas promote economic growth."

Tobin spoke of the concern of City Auditor Alexander Smith who requested that he call a City Council meeting at 5 p.m. New Year's Eve to transact last minute business of the City.

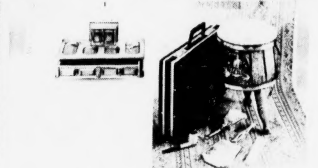

He thanked Council members for their cooperation in 1970, and for their confidence in him which led to his election again as president in 1971.

"The Mayor can expect us to continue this fine spirit of cooperation between Mayor and Council which in the end should be of ultimate benefit to the residents of the City because good, positive programs will be acted upon in the best interests of the City," Tobin said.

WELL DONE—Assessors Chairman William J. Callahan, retiring this month after 31 years service on the board, receives plaque from Mayor James R. McIntyre and City Council President Arthur H. Tobin in appreciation for his "dedication, loyalty and conscientious service."

Knights Of Pythias To Hold 'Breakfast Of Month' Sunday

Presidents Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold their "breakfast of the month" Sunday at 9:15 a.m. at Castle Hall, 10 Merrymount Rd.

The regular convention is scheduled for Jan. 20 with Chancellor Commander Myer Riseman presiding.

On Jan. 21, members will meet at the Jewish Community Center to leave at 6:30 p.m. to participate in a blood donor program.

Wollaston Legion Dinner, Awards Night Jan. 15

Wollaston Legion Post will hold a dinner and Awards Night Jan. 15 at Atlantic Masonic Temple, 57 Hunt St., North Quincy.

Social Hour will be from 6 to 7 p.m., and a business meeting at 8 p.m. will follow the dinner. Commander Joseph A. Cuniff will preside.

Reservations, limited to 100 persons, must be made in advance with Junior Vice Commander Frank Roberts.

A meeting of the Wollaston Legion Auxiliary will also follow the dinner. Mrs. Verna Kinniburgh will preside.

Squantum Garden Club To Meet

Squantum Garden Club members will meet Jan. 12 at the home of Mrs. Fred A. Abbe of 32 Surfside Lane.

"From East to West and Back" will be the program presented by Mrs. Donald W. Frazer.

Costume Fashion Show At Salem Lutheran

A Fashion Show featuring more than 40 costumes, some dating back to the Civil War era, will be presented by the Goodwill Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. at Salem Lutheran Church.

The program is presented by the Phoebe Circle, who are also hostesses for the Salem Lutheran Church Women's meeting.

Mrs. Janet Spidle will preside. Mrs. Harold Hilstrom and Mrs. Ruth MacDonald have planned the program.

The "Fashions of the Past" includes a cast of about 15 models who will display attire ranging from old-fashioned swim suits to some modern day mini-midi-maxi clothes.

The fashion show is the creation of Mrs. Byron Churchill, President of the

Auxiliary, as a means of raising funds for handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries so that they can have extra's like birthday lunches in addition to major projects of the Auxiliary year-round.

The Lord Taught

Back to Abraham, Joseph and John he lies

His love for mankind it never dies,

The Lord Taught.

Up to Richard, Henry, and Caesar he strode

His feet dragging down one weary road

The Lord Taught.

Past Lincoln to Churchill to Luther King he cried

You'd hear my voice if you only tried,

The Lord Taught

Now from John and Robert to all he sees

Learn my way it's the way of Peace,

Christ Teaches.

Friends

What do you have if you don't have friends?

Some say nothing, for some it depends.

There are the loners, who make it alone.

Isolation is what they condone.

And then there are those whose vice is greed,

For them life is wealth, and money's the seed.

Phonies are next, they always pretend,

When things get tough, they desert in the end.

Then come the users, friends are their game,

They tend to use people to attain a big name.

Some sit in an office, behind a closed door,

To them the outside is only a bore.

Still there are some that do give a damn,

They're always willing to lend a hand.

These are people whose trust you may seek,

They always help out when times seem bleak.

So, to sum it up, where would you be,

Without a friend, my point do you see?

Things can get hard and one tends to fall,

But as long as you have friends, you've got it all.

Celebrate With Cheese

The enormous diversity of products offered by the dairy industry provides countless possibilities for palatable treats. Homesteader's Casserole, as one example, is a one-dish meal including a succulent combination of cheese, meat and vegetables. You will be surprised how delicious that breakfast sausage can be later in the day as a delightfully unexpected dinner treat. Serve with fresh, crisp carrot and celery sticks and your favorite rolls and that quick but wholesome and unique summer dinner you have been searching for is complete.

Velveeta Process Cheese Spread provides a good nutritional package because it is not only made from natural cheeses which contain milk nutrients, but during processing supplemental milk minerals and solids are added. A two-ounce slice has more protein, calcium and vitamin A than an eight-ounce glass of whole milk. The velvety texture and mild flavor of processed cheese spread make Homesteader's Casserole an irresistible dish.

Homesteader's Casserole

1 9-oz. pkg. frozen cut green beans, cooked, drained
1/2 cup pearl onions, cooked, drained
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
3 cups hot mashed potatoes

1 lb. pork sausage links, cooked, drained
1/2 lb. Velveeta Pasteurized Process Cheese Spread, sliced

Combine green beans, onions and pimiento. In a 2-quart casserole, layer half the potatoes, sausage and cheese. Top with remaining potatoes, combined vegetables, remaining sausage and cheese. Cover; bake at 350°, 30 minutes.

THE SKI 'T'—Essential to any skier's wardrobe: the turtleneck cotton knit T-shirt for next-to-the-skin comfort. In colors to coordinate with every ski outfit, the White Stag shirt also comes in women's and children's sizes.

MANLY—Prescribed wear for the most dapper of chaps: the Norfolk jacket hand-somely cut in herringbone-printed cotton corduroy. It's by Chips 'n Twigs.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Jan. 7 - 14

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Your mind is racing forward with new ideas. In your desire for action, you may push others too far and cause unnecessary disputes.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Worry and anxiety plague you and the actions of others causes an upset. Take care to avoid accidents and to keep disputes at a minimum.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Your feelings are easily hurt this week. Perhaps the stand you have taken is questionable - correct any recent mistakes.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Agreements made now have a mutual advantage but don't let a sudden change in home or family affairs take you y surprise.

LEC [July 23-Aug. 22] - Activity at home lacks the emotionalism of recent weeks. Your ideas are more acceptable now, bringing social and financial benefits.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Fluctuating finances may upset the home scene and cause worry. Make plans now to tighten the purse strings but be diplomatic about it.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Since you feel more mentally alert this week, and more socially inclined, you can deal successfully with most any problem.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - You find yourself in a happier frame of mind and can now seek a way to improve financial matters. Start working toward a raise.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - You may find yourself drawn into close contact with someone who needs sympathy. The future looks brighter as opportunity knocks.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - You can further your own ambitions by joining or working with a group. Your popularity is at an all time high so get out more.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Recent employment setbacks are coming to an end. Your friends are being thoughtful so be sure and respond in like manner.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - The decision you make this week affecting your career is not a decision you like - so think carefully and be sure of your direction.

If the thought of facing the crowds with all its implied and real elbows, knees and shoulders, sends shivers down your spine, don't simply put your fear down to the fact that you are a year older. It is more likely due to the fact that you aren't eating properly.

Many people neglect to equate the way they feel with the fuel they put into their bodies—our fuel being, of course, food. If you've been on one of those high protein diets which feature whipped cream and martinis and fast weight loss, you may have been having fun, but you have been depriving your body of carbohydrates which you need for energy.

I guess all of us who are over thirty must watch their intake—there are few who are born under lucky stars. But while watching, pay attention to the kind of food you are eating, and don't skimp on your starch and sugar fruits and vegetables as you are counting your calories, else you'll be cutting down your energy level as well.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue,

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'The Resentment Chains'

I suspect that more people are suffering from carrying resentments than we realize. Recently a professional man came to me ... "Doctor, I have one problem...resentment. It's destroying me and my relationships with my wife and children. Now it's affecting my work and my health."

He had done much "home-work" on his problem. "What are the symptoms of your resentment?"...I asked.

"I'm quick to blame...I feel others deliberately try to hurt me...I get easily depressed and moody...I'm unhappy much of the time and charge my wife with the responsibility for my unhappiness...I'm easily irritated by inconveniences...by things being out of place or by things being left undone. I feel bitter toward members of the family...especially my wife. She doesn't deserve it...when I'm rational I know she's not that bad...it's me, I know...I just can't seem to be satisfied no matter what she does."

He had himself pretty well sized up. What was left for us in therapy was to learn how to control this recognized resentment.

Very often...we resent the wrong person. Many a husband shows resentment to his wife when it is really his mother he is resenting. Many a man remembers little real love from his mother...only that she worked...that she favored the other children...but the love and affection a boy needs from mother if missing may leave him resentful into adult life. So he may blame the woman closest to him now...his wife.

A wife may take out her repressed resentment against her father on her present man...her husband. No matter what the man does...good or bad...it's met with criticism. Resentment in the form of nagging ... criticism...disapproval...judgment...no one can live with it happily.

You say..."Hey! That's my problem...resentment...I don't like to admit it...maybe I won't have to admit it if I can find a cure for it."

There is a cure for resentment...forgiveness. I didn't say forgetting. You may not be able to blot out of your memory the neglect you felt as a child...or the critical words of a father or mother that were hurled at you every day of your childhood. But you can forgive. You may not be able to forget the drunkenness of your father or mother...the deprivation...the embarrassment...the fears. But you can forgive.

In every marriage there are plenty of things that we can resent in each other...the nights he stayed out late while you lay in bed and worried...the times she went way over the budget...the child she started labor pains and he was nowhere to be found and she called a cab...the summer she took the kids and went home to mother...the spring she had her "affair"...the New Year's Eve you caught him on the divan with your best girl friend...the year you were in court asking a legal separation. Now these are all past and you're still together...maybe not so far in the past...but not one event can be changed. You have a choice. You can continue to carry these offenses in bitterness and resentment...and suffer the destructive results. Or...you may forgive them...and be happy again.

The person who carries resentment against another person is living in chains. If you continue to live with resentment you can expect to develop nervousness...chronic tiredness...excessive depression...general unhappiness. But you can be rid of the resentment chains...by forgiving the offense...and the offender.

Don't say..."I can't forgive." That's about the dirtiest four-letter word I know..."can't". You can do what you want to do...because you have the power to think what you want to think.

ATHLETE'S FOOT FABLE

Athlete's foot is a misnomer created by advertising copywriters. Athlete's are no more subject to it than anyone else. It is not picked up primarily in swimming pools or gymnasiums and it is not primarily a foot disease. It occurs on other parts of the body as well, especially under the arms and in the groin.

Basically, it is a chronic fungus infection of the skin. As a rule, the immediate infection clears up reasonably quickly, but one who is susceptible to the fungus is likely to have it recur from time to time.

Doctors now believe that it is not contagious in the common sense of the word, since persons not sensitive to the fungus may be exposed to it with impunity. However, those who are sensitive to the fungus, develop its infection very easily. Especially in the warm weather when the feet sweat since the fungi thrive in a moist, warm environment.

My Tree

Why am I here today?
Why must I stay?
Is it because my friends have gone away?
Well, my tree is here today.
No my tree's not gone away.

I've climbed this tree so many times
Its rough branches I do know,

This swing that is so high,
I put it up there long ago.
It is very lonely here today.
I can hear the birds that sing so gay.

I must go now - mother calls,
But don't you run away on me.

And leave my swing high in your tree.

What December Is To Me

December, to me, is happiness, playing in the snow.
I like looking at the snow when it falls. Did you ever try to catch snowflakes on your tongue? Or make prints in the snow?

Stepping in the snow up to your waist and trying to get someplace is hard. So is shaking the snow off before going into the house, so your mother will be pleased.

What Is Peace?

Wheres is peace?
Where did it go?
Did it leave, long ago?
Why is this world
Fighting wars?
Where did it get
All its flaws?
Waiting, waiting,
Locked up in war,
Waiting for peace
To open the door.
Why can't we live in
A world without war,
With friendship and Brotherhood forevermore?

December Thoughts

To me December means snow!
Throwing your first snowball of the year,
Riding down a hill on a sled,
Going ice skating and falling down.

Watching "Charlie Brown" and other Christmas programs.
It means having holidays in your mind,

Giving and receiving gifts,
Waiting for all the eight days of Hanukkah,

And thinking of the new year.

The Month Of December

I like the month of December,
It is a month to remember.

The trees are bare,
And people are saying
Happy New Year.

Some are hanging decorations,
Some are having aggravations,
I like having a snowball fight,
And watching T.V. in the night.

I like to set up the Christmas tree,
It is the most fun there can be.

I like to go skating,
But I hate to keep on waiting,
My friends are so slow,
I could go back and forth to Idaho.

Does anyone know what peace is?

Who has experienced peace?
Is it sitting alone with your

Is peace taking drugs to get everything?

Many people don't even know what brotherhood, love, or friendship are, so how can they express what peace is?

Who can say there is any peace?

Riots, violence, killings.

How can they stop the wars

26 Police Officers Commended For Arrests, Rescues

APPRECIATION -- Mayor James R. McIntyre, presents certificates of appreciation to Anne Maggioro, Rita Finnegan and Tina Lifeset, of the Veterans Service Office, who packed gifts to Quincy servicemen in Vietnam; and to William Villone, director of veterans' services; Remo DeNicola, who contributed transistor radios for the men; and Lawrence Carnali, coordinator of gift packages.

At Atlantic Junior:

Girls Learn To Use Saws, Boys Taught To Cook

Innovation has become a familiar story at Atlantic Junior High School since Joseph T. McWeeny became teacher of industrial arts six years ago.

Accomplishments include the addition of a classroom in an area of the library, tiling of the outside of the school's gymnasium, the building of gneiss cabinets -- and an exchange program with the Economics Department.

This program finds girls being taught by Mr. McWeeny to replace washers in sinks, to put up curtain rods, find studs, and use saws under close supervision. Boys, in turn, learn how to cook, and enjoy sampling the finished product.

Mr. McWeeny, a Squantum resident, was a varsity football player under Jack Donahue at North Quincy High School, attended the University of Kansas, and received his bachelor's degree in education from Boston University. He is a member of the Quincy Education Association, was a building representative and serves on its salary committee.

Carrying on the family teaching tradition is William McWeeny, son of Joseph T., who starts in January as a science teacher at Central Junior High School.

"We attempt with our students to work with things of value to the school itself," says McWeeny, who credits now-retired principal John Evans as instrumental in sanctioning new programs at Atlantic.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn has announced commendations for excellent and dedicated police work to 26 officers.

Actions commended range from detection of crime and recovery of stolen items to several instances of life saving.

The commendations follow: ●Officers Edward Blinn and John Gilfeather who on Oct. 17 combined knowledge of their district and information received to effect the arrest of two men who had held up a liquor store, recovering the money taken and confiscating illegal narcotics. Their actions have resulted in a cessation of robberies in this district.

●Officers Gerald D'Arigo and Thomas Nigro who on Dec. 18, utilized information with diligence and intelligence which resulted in the apprehension of four men attempting to pass false payroll checks and thwarted a scheme which if successful, would have resulted in a substantial loss.

●Officers Stephen DiMattio, Ronald Johnson, Charles Kidney and Robert Perchard who on Dec. 13, at 4:20 a.m. by their quick action and intelligent utilization of scanty information effected the arrest of two men who had broken into the Town River Yacht Club and the recovery of an auto stolen in Boston.

●Officers James Condon, Richard Curran, and James Buchanan who on Nov. 28, as a result of alert observation and a diligent, tenacious investigation effected the arrest of an adult and a juvenile and the confiscation of seven pounds of marijuana.

●Officers Robert Wilson and Francis Spring who on Oct. 6, by the expert application of heart massage and manual resuscitation restored life to an 18 year old student at Eastern Nazarene College, who had suffered a respiratory arrest.

●Officer Donald Pearson for the exercise of alert observation, intelligent application of approved police methods and the utilization of other police units, caused the arrest of a man, the recovery of an auto stolen a week previous and obtained information which led to the clearing of housebreaks - Officers Timothy Tobin and William Cooper are also commended for their co-operation in this case.

●Officers Thomas Casey and John Foster who on Sept. 12, as a result of alert observation, their knowledge of the criminal element and an intelligent investigation effected the arrest of two notorious thieves and the recovery of four color and two portable television sets which had been stolen in Brockton the same night.

●Officers Robert Wilson and Peter Benedict who on Aug. 22, at 1:30 a.m. upon receiving information of a taxi stolen on Sea Street positioned themselves strategically and 15 minutes later apprehended two men and recovered the taxi. They are commended for the intelligent manner in which they effected this apprehension without a chase or display of weapons.

●Officers John Malvesti and William Buckley who on July

25, responded by ambulance to the Granite Rail Quarry where a youth had fallen off a cliff. Unable to reach the area with the vehicle because of granite blocks in the roadway, they moved stretcher and first aid equipment in on foot. Upon reaching the scene it was discovered the victim was Officer Malvesti's son.

Officer Malvesti divested himself of his uniform and swam about 150 feet to a ledge where the boy had landed, and learned that the boy's left hand was almost severed, his left leg torn open at the knee with knee cap and shin bone exposed and the bone in the left heel exposed.

Meanwhile Officer Buckley had utilized a large inner tube to float equipment out to Officer Malvesti. Standing waist deep in water on the ledge, Officer Malvesti applied splints and bandages to the affected limbs and then using the same inner tube and assisted by some swimmers floated the boy across the quarry and then to the ambulance.

At this writing the boy has almost completely recovered. The resourcefulness and professionalism exhibited under these trying conditions is most commendable.

●Sgt. Richard Buckley, Sgt. John Morton, Officers William Buccella, Thomas Murray and Charles Kidney who on Sept. 10, with other officers, responded to a disaster call at the Edgar Plant of Boston Edison Company in Weymouth where 12 men had been rendered unconscious at the bottom of a 60 foot shaft.

Despite extremely hazardous conditions complicated by noxious fumes, muck and slime with which the victims were covered, these officers assisted Weymouth firefighters in hauling victims out and transporting them to Quincy City Hospital. They were exposed to unusual conditions in the ambulances caused by the victims nausea and the odors from the muck from which they had been taken and the fact the victims were thrashing about and fighting the oxygen masks the officers were using. The gasses were so bad Sergeant Morton suffered ruptured blood vessels as a result and was subsequently hospitalized.

●Officers Donald Morford and Thomas Casey who on June 26, at 10:58 p.m. received information of a holdup at the Tri S gas station on Franklin St. with a description of four men and a car. As a result of their knowledge of their district and the people in it, they proceeded to the area where they suspected this car would be found and at 11:05 p.m. effected the arrest of four men who were identified as having perpetrated the hold up.

●Officer Stephen Burg who on June 22 at 1:45 p.m. while on duty in West Quincy received information of a break in progress at Furnace Brook Parkway and Miller St. He notified the police station via radio, and, though not in his district proceeded to the scene where he effected the arrest of two known thieves, one outside, the other inside where considerable damage had been done.

Mayor McIntyre:'Cities In Financial State Of Emergency'

The full text of Mayor McIntyre's mid-term address follows:

My fellow citizens, today marks the third occasion on which I have reported during mid term to our citizens.

Today also marks my moment of greatest concern regarding the fiscal future of Quincy and all cities, for I seriously doubt whether any can remain economically viable in the coming years without massive infusions of state and federal aid.

* 1971 is the year of the "Financial State of Emergency."

* 1971 must be the year the local property tax problem is resolved.

I call upon our Governor today to address himself to this state of emergency for our city and the others of this Commonwealth.

In 1971 the Commonwealth must raise many more millions of dollars to meet state expenses. As wards of the State, we, the cities, have sat by in the past in anticipation, but received no more than token gestures of financial aid. This must not happen again. This year, 1971, there must be basic, structural change in our system of taxation to unbend the property tax and it must be done now. We cannot wait for another study.

I pledge all the resources, talent, and experience that our government can offer to assist this undertaking and ask the Governor to pledge his resources toward relieving this crisis!

No one in this time of the New Year wants to be confronted with such a distressing picture, but it is there; must be redressed, and action must start with the chief executive officers of this Commonwealth and Nation.

Once again we must report that Washington has failed to take positive action on revenue sharing. Several bills have laid dormant which would provide between one to three billion dollars in unearmarked funds to local governments. This type of direct, no-strings-attached funding would allow municipalities to respond effectively to their own needs rather than those as imagined by the administration in Washington. It would also foster a greater sense of local responsibility and initiative rather than nurture the growth of elaborate federal bureaucracies. The cities of the United States must receive revenue sharing if they are to survive.

As bleak as this picture is, there are heartening achievements to present locally. In neighborhood improvement, conservation, environmental control, flood control, solid waste disposal, downtown business community, providing for our young and elderly, and many other areas we were able to move ahead in 1970, thanks primarily to a genuine spirit of cooperation from this City Council.

The neighborhood improvement program is nearing completion in North Quincy. Over $2 million in federal money is being infused into the Montclair-Wollaston area to improve streets, plant trees, repair public facilities and generate home improvements estimated at over $1.5 million dollars. This program, complemented by MBTA and city improvements, is the type of joint financing necessary to keep cities viable.

ATTENTION ON QUINCY POINT

We anticipate that major attention will soon focus on Quincy Point through federal approval of two grant applications, a $900,000 sewer project, necessitated by the growth of residential, commercial and industrial properties in the area, and a $2.2 million Neighborhood Improvement. These programs mean comprehensive rehabilitation and the complete upgrading of community facilities and utilities and will assure that Quincy Point will always be one of our finest neighborhoods.

Like all cities, Quincy must take stock of the air and water around us. As a coastal city, we share concern and responsibility for the survival of the seas and tidal marshes. We also seek to maintain the universal and fundamental right of people to breathe clean, healthful air, a right which today is being denied to many of our citizens.

Our efforts have been positive. Through eminent domain proceedings the Black's Creek Marsh is now and forever publicly owned, protected and preserved for future generations and for maintenance of our ocean resources. Action was also initiated to acquire substantial portions of marshlands in Houghs Neck and Quincy recently provided its share of funds for seawall construction to preserve our shoreline and protect against soil erosion. These are all appropriate and necessary steps.

Currently, as assessment is being made of methods by which the City, itself, can contribute to an improved environment. In 1971 we shall take steps to further focus public concern on the land and sea around us, develop a program to implement air pollution regulations of the Department of Public Health, and seek new sources of state, federal and private funds to finance the fight against the contamination of our surroundings. Our actions, however, can be only part of a cooperative spirit that must persuade our society to stop the destruction of life through pollution. The technology is available to correct the situation. It is time for private interests to stop quibbling over costs and get the job done.

SST A NIGHTMARE

Yet even these commitments cannot hope to provide a suitable environment for the children while the White House encourages grandiose Trojan Horses such as the $1.5 billion SST and cuts funds for programs like Headstart, Manpower and Housing. The supersonic transport plane will neutralize many regional and state efforts by emitting astonishing quantities of air and noise pollutants. For Quincy, which is within the take-off and landing paths of Logan Airport, the SST would be a nightmare, and a constant reminder of Washington's breach of faith with, and lack of concern for, the health and welfare of urban dwellers.

Our neighborhoods have been threatened by the spectre of flooding. In West and South Quincy every effort is being made to bring federal, state and local resources to bear on this problem. We shall continue to work through the U.S. Corps of Engineers, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, the Metropolitan District

ANOTHER HISTORIC moment for historic Quincy is recorded here as City Clerk John M. Gillis swears in Mrs. Josephine Carnali of 144 Liberty St., South Quincy, as Quincy's first woman clerk of City Council Committees. Mrs. Carnali who had filled the post in an acting capacity for a year, succeeds Percy N. Lane.

Commission, the Department of Public Works and our own agencies to alleviate conditions along our two most critical flood areas: the Furnace Brook drainage basin and the Town Brook.

A most vexing problem facing us in 1970 was solid waste disposal. The Metropolitan Area Planning Council estimates that by the year 1990, the greater Boston area will be producing over 4 1/2 million tons of solid waste material per year. Yet, a majority of the cities and towns are serviced by illegal open dumps. After exhaustive analysis to protect the ecology of the area, a sanitary land fill program has been developed for the Pike's Peak area. This operation will not only provide us with a needed disposal site, but will open up hundreds of acres of land for future development. While other communities languish in the throes of indecision over solid waste disposal, we are pleased to report a solution for Quincy.

NEW ZONING ORDINANCE

The new Zoning Ordinance, after extensive public hearings, is now under final review by the City Council. This new code, as amended, can provide our citizens with protection against incompatible and unattractive land development through improved regulations such as open space, buffer zones, sign controls and density.

Those who labored long on this rezoning are a source of pride for our community and are to be commended for a job well done. I urge the City Council to support their efforts by enactment of a new zoning ordinance.

MBTA A REALITY IN 1971

The long-awaited MBTA rapid transit service to Boston will become a reality in mid-1971. We look upon this event as a turning point in our transportation system, as it will eliminate the need for slow, undependable bus service to Boston. Instead, we will be served by a high-speed commuting service which has already attracted quality commercial development such as the Jordan Marsh Company, State Street Bank and the Kemper Insurance Company.

In order to assure that there are no last minute problems and to provide an appropriate welcome for the new transportation extension, I shall appoint a committee to coordinate its arrival during the summer of 1971.

Despite the economic and developmental benefits to be accrued from the facility, our payments to the MBTA are ballooning from less than $5,000 in 1966 to an estimated one million dollars by 1972. We cannot shoulder this assessment without relief. The choices are clear. Assessment formulas must be clarified and revised or the state must assume full financial responsibility. I have filed legislation for the state to assume full financial responsibility and will work diligently toward its passage.

TRAFFIC COMMISSION

In concert with MBTA construction we have worked for over-all improvements in traffic and parking. This administration has overseen constructing the North-South Artery parallel to the MBTA right-of-way and the reconstruction of several bridges. We fought for and won a fourth and fifth parking level to the MBTA garage in Quincy Square, and we initiated actions which have led to the TOPICS program, which I am proud to announce can provide $500,000 in federal assistance to improve traffic along the Southern Artery and Sea Street between Washington Street and Quincy Shore Drive. Because I believe that the time is appropriate to make further efforts to improve our traffic and parking coordination, I shall submit orders to the City Council to establish a Traffic Commission with greater powers and authority. This Commission will be responsible for overseeing traffic and parking engineering and improvements throughout the City.

MULTI-STORY PARKING GARAGE

A healthy community also requires a strong downtown area. If the central business district declines, it soon infects its degeneration into every part of community life and, consequently, every homeowner and rent payer bears an extra burden.

I concur with the findings of the recent Harvard report which suggests that we are at a crossroad which can make Quincy the Boom Town of the 70's if affirmative, progressive action is taken. I shall, therefore, submit orders to the City Council for construction of a multi-story parking garage over the Ross Parking area. I have reviewed the Harvard study regarding parking needs and traffic access and believe this proposal makes good common sense rather than taking homes or purchasing extensive private property.

Such a public commitment requires no small measure of response from the business community and should be complemented by sizable private investment to substantially upgrade the downtown area. Improved parking and access, combined with private rehabilitation, will have a direct stabilizing effect on revitalizing Quincy Square. This program to reinvigorate the economic heart of our city will produce a market place all will look to with pride.

We are fortunate in having a good school system in Quincy. One need not accept this conclusion based simply on my testimony. Increasingly, the Quincy Public Schools are gaining not only a national but an international reputation for excellence. During the past few years close to three thousand educators, from every state in the union and fifteen foreign lands, have visited our schools.

The Quincy Public Schools have distinguished themselves by involvement in such major educational programs as Project ABLE for the vocationally oriented student; Project PLAN, a self-pacing, individualized program for students at all grade levels; the Model Schools Program under the direction of the National Association of Secondary School Principals; several science programs in cooperation with the National Science Foundation; the Law and Social Responsibility Program in cooperation with the Lincoln Filene Center at Tufts University; and many others.

Unfortunately, I am not able to assure you that the cost of education will not continue to rise. For the past several years the budget of the School Department has increased approximately 15% per year, due largely to three factors:

- * Collective bargaining with employee groups.
- * The need to maintain and update our school buildings.
- * Inflation.

NEW SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION

School construction continues to be a serious and major commitment against the financial resources of the city. Soon the new million-dollar wing at the Quantum School will be dedicated, and now that the $4.9 million bond issue has been approved construction will begin on the new elementary school to replace the existing Lincoln and Hancock Schools.

For the first time in several years the September 1970 enrollment in our public schools did not increase, and we have stabilized, at least temporarily, at just under 17,000 students.

However, we must be mindful of the serious condition facing the parochial schools within our city. At present, approximately three thousand Quincy young people are receiving their education in parochial schools. I need not remind you that Catholic schools have come upon hard times and the extent to which they can continue to survive without financial assistance from the state is doubtful.

We must be prepared, in every way constitutional, to help parochial schools to remain open, and if it becomes necessary for any of the parochial schools within Quincy to close or to curtail their educational program in any way, we must be prepared to assume the responsibility for educating the young people now attending the parochial schools of our city.

CRIME INCREASE

On matters relating to our police department we find both a distressing situation and reasons for optimism. Quincy is caught up in a national growth in crime which last year caused the FBI crime index to rise 14% for suburban communities. Our optimism stems from the finding that were it not for narcotic arrests and drug related crimes Quincy would have experienced an actual decrease in crime in 1970.

A measure of the growing respect for our Department is apparent through numerous federal grants received, the advice and counsel sought by other communities, the appointment of Quincy police officials to state law enforcement committees, and Senator Edward M. Kennedy's law enforcement hearings first held here in Quincy.

The Department has initiated major operational improvements in 1970: the employment of international scouts as patrol vehicles has increased patrol mileage by 33% for less money, while permitting the flexibility of drivers functioning as foot patrolmen and mobile patrolmen as the situation dictates; a new federally supported dispatch-communications system has been installed which replaces the antiquated one channel system with three channel operations which permit us to communicate for the first time; and several major programs such as a management study of the Department, Project SPA, the national patrol force, and a new cadet program are examples of a Department responsive to change through deliberate and effective innovation.

DRUG PROGRAM COORDINATOR

Many efforts of the police and other public and private agencies have been made to alleviate the drug problem. Our responsibility is to reach to help our young people. In order that these efforts will serve one end I shall ask the City Council to establish a drug program coordinator within the Health Department to bring together all programs in our community for maximum effectiveness.

NEW HOUSING FOR ELDERLY

We are pleased to note new housing facilities for our elderly. The recently opened Martensen Street complex and facilities presently under construction at Washington Street in Quincy Point, Bicknell Street in Germantown, and still another on the drawing board for Clay Street in Wollaston, which will add nearly 750 low cost, modern and convenient apartment for citizens in our community who have contributed to our society and deserve our most sincere thanks.

anniversary of the founding of Quincy. This occasion deserves an enthusiastic celebration. I shall, therefore, establish an Anniversary Committee to begin preparations for this milestone in our City's history.

Barely a week goes by without receiving letters of congratulations for the work of Quincy's faithful employees. While we in public life enjoy the commendation of our fellow citizens for city services provided well, too often the true heroes of our municipality go unnoticed. Our city has dedicated, loyal and conscientious employees and I wish to thank them profusely for their services to the people of Quincy.

REVALUATION FIGHT

Lastly, as I look back upon 1970, there stands the defeat of our constitutional amendment permitting disproportionate assessments to avert the blow of revaluation on the homeowner.

I had struggled for more than four years to assure passage of this amendment in the legislature and worked for weeks on television and radio programs to educate the people of Massachusetts of its benefits. Unfortunately, the public was clearly brainwashed by a clever, well-financed committee of monied interests bent on protecting the rights of the more fortunate at the expense of the less so.

I pledge a continual fight against revaluation in court with every power at my command but this year, after the defeat of this amendment, there are fewer arrows in our quiver.

And so I bring to you a message of mixed feelings: of satisfaction for the achievements now behind and anticipation for the challenges ahead, but of deep concern over the financial plight of our city.

Let 1971 be the year of fiscal solution for the cities or 1972 will be the year of dissolution.

Let those in Washington and Boston put down their fiddles, behold the fiscally burning cities, and resolve to ACT.

coordinated effort between all private and public agencies to achieve our goal. We have got to all work together to solve this critical problem of drug abuse.

Calling for construction of a multi-story parking garage over the Ross parking area, McIntyre declared:

"A healthy community also requires a strong downtown area. If the central business district declines, it soon infects its degeneration into every part of community life and, consequently, every homeowner and rent payer bears an extra burden."

"I concur with the findings of the recent Harvard Report which suggests that we are at a crossroad which can make Quincy the Boom Town of the 70's if affirmative, progressive action is taken."

McIntyre said he will submit orders to the City Council for construction of the garage over the Ross parking area "rather than taking homes or purchasing extensive private property."

He called on the business community to complement this commitment with a "sizeable private investment to substantially upgrade the downtown area."

As for the MBTA, McIntyre announced that as a senator he has filed legislation for the state to assume full financial responsibility for operating the rapid transit system.

Said he:

North Hosts Everett, Quincy At Medford

It has been said that in any sport the best offense is a good defense.

If that is true, the North Quincy basketball team has one of the best offenses in the Greater Boston League.

Bob Nolan's Raiders have been superb on defense, which has sparked them to three wins in a row, two of them in the GBL. Their defense will continue to be a key as they host Everett Friday night and go to Somerville to face the perennial league power next Thursday.

Meanwhile, Marty Finnegan's Quincy team finally met a team its own size and grabbed its first victory. The Presidents play at Medford Friday night and will be home to Revere Tuesday.

North, which held newcomer Weymouth South to 31 points in its non-league opener, put on a brilliant defensive exhibition at Medford and walloped the Mustangs, rated among the GBL powers this year, 72-45. Medford, which blew Somerville off the court in the GBL jamboree, had been averaging more than 70 points a game.

"The name of the game tonight was defense," said a delighted Nolan. "I was concerned about this game because they had been really scoring in their first three games. But our kids went out and shut them off."

"Last year it was our defense which paced another fine season and it is going to be our strong point again this year. This win was a great tribute to the boys because they were willing to sacrifice the offense to play defense. That is an oddity in this day and age when the offense seems to mean everything. And we still scored 72 points."

The Raiders forced Medford to miss 33 of 57 shots from the floor while they hit on 29 of 56 shots.

Dave Nelson scored 18 points, Brian Donahue 16 and 6-8 Tom Cairns 12. Although Dan Zink didn't score, Nolan praised him for an outstanding effort.

"Dan played a fantastic game under the boards and on defense," Bob said. "We also had a great game under the boards from Cairns, and Donahue played an excellent defensive game."

Joe Amoroso's North junior varsity lost a 43-42 squeaker as Jim Driscoll and Pete Bellotti scored nine points each for the Raiders.

With 6-5 Bill Burke sidelined with a broken bone in his leg, Quincy had been hurting on the boards. However, facing an Everett team which had no big man, the Presidents pulled out their first win, 88-72, in a league game.

"This was the first time we really had an all-around team effort and the boys fast-broke well, and shot well," Finnegan said. "We finally put it all together as we ran better and had a good night off the boards."

The Quincy coach again had high praise for Bob Pike, who scored 17 points and was outstanding off the boards. He also lauded Rich Raymond, who had 14 points, Bob McDermott, who had 15 and rebounded well, Bill Maver, and Jim Dubois, who had 10.

The Presidents led, 45-31, at halftime and were never in trouble after that.

"I used 12 players and everyone contributed something," Finnegan added. "Five boys were in double figures and I'd like that in every game. I thought we played real fine defense and I feel our vacation practices helped us."

"We had more time to work. We had that late start and it is too bad they make us wait until Dec. 1 to start practice. Raymond and Dubois held their big scorer, Kevin McLaughlin, to eight points."

The Quincy jayvees, under new coach Mike Greenlaw, won 69-51, sparked by Willie Bertrand's 16 points.

Quincy, North Trackmen In BAA Schoolboy Meet

The Met Track League takes a day off Saturday and the Quincy and North Quincy teams will compete in the annual BAA schoolboy meet being held this year at Northeastern U.

With two league meets remaining, Gene Macomber's Quincy team has a 2-3 record, losing three in a row after winning its first two meets, and Bob Gentry's North squad has an 0-4 record. It still has a postponed meet with Milton to reschedule.

Each local team has received some outstanding individual performances but has shown a lack of depth in several events which has proven costly.

Last Saturday Quincy bowed to Arlington, 56½-29½, taking four firsts including the relay.

Bobby Ciano remained undefeated in the mile, Pete Daley won the 600 and Kevin Egersheim the hurdles.

North was edged by Rindge Tech, 45-41 as the Raiders took four first places.

John Panarelli stayed unbeaten in the shot put, Jeff Strungis won the 1000, Lee

David the hurdles and Tim Flynn the high jump.

North swept the shot put with Steve Leet second and John Gracella third.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Needham's powerhouse, 51½-30½, the closest meet Needham has had this year.

Quincy winners were Rich Menchi in the hurdles, Jim Bucchanieri in the shot and Ciano in the mile. The Presidents swept the shot with Menchi second and Roberto Volpini third.

North was defeated by Somerville, 48-38, with the Raiders' winners Panarelli in the shot put, Strungis in the 1000, Joe Marini in the 300 and Bob McCormack in the mile. The relay team also won.

They Look Good But-

Raiderettes Have Space Handicap

North Quincy is in only its second year of girls' basketball and Coach Marge Bollen feels if her girls had the space, they would be among the best teams in the state.

"We have a wonderful group here and the enthusiasm is tremendous," she said. "We had 40 girls turn out for practice and I didn't cut anyone. I have some excellent ninth graders who help rejuvenate their coach. There are about 20 of them and what enthusiasm and spirit they have!"

Despite an opening day loss to Hingham, Miss Bollen is confident the Raiderettes will have a successful season.

"Our biggest problem is space and that is the problem of every team at North Quincy," Marge said. "Our team decided to write 40 letters to the school committee pleading for athletic space. Quincy is lucky to have two gyms and the YMCA across the street."

"We try borrowing Montclair School but it is tied up with recreation for the elementary grades. We are very fortunate that Mr. Nolan [Bob, North boys' coach] gives us at least three days in the gym for early practice."

"But we have to compete with the majorettes, boys' gym team, volleyball, varsity and junior varsity boys' basketball and ninth grade boys' basketball. We simply must get more space at North Quincy."

Marge is being assisted this year by Miss Cheryl Manoli, a basketball enthusiast who is helping with the junior varsity without pay. She is a math teacher at North.

The North girls' starting team includes seniors Sue Bevans and Debbie Spanks, junior Lisa Kowalik, sophomore Leslie Runge and a ninth grader, Terry Fitzgerald.

Other varsity players are seniors Jean Riccuti, Nancy Amrhein and Polly Antonakas, junior Debbie Thornley and sophomore Cathy Downs.

Thirty girls are being carried on the junior varsity team, showing the need for an assistant coach.

The rest are ninth graders Kathy Ahern, Mary Barron, Denise Beresiewicz, Chris Corbin, Eileen Devoe, Sharon Devoe, Linda Tabor, Linda Doyle, Diane Giorgetti, Beth Lagodemos, Barbara Lynch, Maureen McGahan, Linda Mead, Sheila Morrison, Jonlyn Riley, Gail Senter, Elaine Tujotte and Donna Zenker.

"We have four sister combinations, the Antonakas, Riley, Thornleys and Devoes, which should be beneficial to our teamwork," the North coach added. "An outstanding ninth grader to watch is Denise Beresiewicz, a fast, aggressive 'natural' who could be on the varsity before the end of the season. And Linda Doyle has a great deal of experience."

North Quincy is one of the few schools in the area which has a girls' basketball team. The girls' basketball team has been in existence for several years.

120 North Students To Ski, Vacation In Austria

Again this year 120 North Quincy High School students will spend their February vacation in Innsbruck, Austria, site of the 1968 winter Olympics.

Senior Class Advisor John R. Pierce, a member of the Quincy Education Association, has been working for the past three months with other teachers making plans for the eight-day trip.

The students are members of the Cultural Club.

"This is the second year for this overseas, educational trip which combines both vacation and education," says Mr. Pierce, who with his wife and seven-year old daughter Kimberly, will accompany the group.

Also along will be 10 North Quincy High School teachers, several parents, and John Walsh, principal, who enjoyed the trip so much last year that he was "forced" to participate once again.

In spite of rising costs, Pierce managed to work out the same fee as in 1970, and the entire group will remain at one hotel in Innsbruck, Austria, with sightseeing tours of churches, museums and other historic areas in Munich.

All the teachers are interested in meeting overseas school teachers during the trip.

Plans call for departure from Log a International Airport on Feb. 12, with a return on Saturday, Feb. 20, at 6 p.m.

Evening Recreation Programs Underway

Evening recreation programs for junior and senior high age boys and girls are announced by James F. McCormick, Sr., chairman of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

Girls' programs from 6 to 9 p.m. will be held Mondays at Wollaston School; Tuesday, Snug Harbor and Atherton High; Wednesday, Montclair; Thursday, Atlantic Junior High and Sterling Junior High.

Boys' programs from 6 to 10 p.m. will be held Mondays at Atherton Hough, Sterling Junior High and Snug Harbor; Thursdays at Montclair and Atlantic; Fridays at Sterling, Wollaston and Snug Harbor.

Sneakers must be worn by all participants.

These programs under direction of the Quincy Recreation Department are made possible by a grant from the State Department of Youth Services.

Presidents, Raiders Meet M&M Friday

Quincy's hockey team, still lacking scoring power, will try to stay with the Greater Boston League leaders Saturday night when it plays Medford at Boston Arena.

The Presidents take a 3-1-1 record into the game.

North Quincy, which has a 2-3 mark under new coach Ron Erikson, faces strong Malden. The North-Malden game opens the action at 5:30, with the Quincy-Medford game following.

Next Wednesday night at 8:30 at Weymouth Skating Club, Quincy and North collide for the second time. Quincy nipped the Raiders, 3-2, in the opening game of the year after North had taken a 2-0 lead.

Monday night Quincy twice came from behind to tie Revere, 2-2, at Weymouth.

Revere scored first at 5:41 of the opening period but Steve Kleimola took Ed Wiedeman's pass to even the score at 7:20 of the period.

Following a scoreless second period Revere quickly regained the lead at 1:11 of the finale but Wiedeman scored on a breakaway to again tie it up at 2:29.

Both teams had chances to win it but the rival goalies were equal to the task and made several fine saves. Artie Boyle turned in another excellent performance for the Presidents.

North Quincy scored twice in the first period and went on to top Somerville, 4-2, for its second win under Erikson, himself a former Raider star. Last year the Raiders were 0-18.

Nick Struzik put North ahead at 4:07 of the opening period with Bob Frizzell setting up the score and at 10:59 Steve Leofanti scored on a solo dash.

In the middle session Leofanti scored again on a pass from Vin Cameron and in the final period Frizzell converted Neil Cronin's pass for the final Raider goal.

Quincy's offensive continued to falter last week as the Presidents were blanked by Malden, 3-0.

"We just have to score," Sylvia said, "I don't want to keep repeating myself, but the object of this game is to score and that is what it all boils down to. We did have more shots than usual tonight but their goalie [Paul McCarthy] was tough." McCarthy had 20 saves in scoring his shutout.

"We outshot them [20-13] and outskated them but we didn't outscore them and that is what counts," the Quincy coach continued. "We will have to come up with some drills that will allow us to shoot more on the net."

Malden drew first blood at 4:40 of the second period and for the rest of that period the Presidents felt the pressure on the Malden net but were stymied by McCarthy, who made two sparkling saves, one on John Prescott and the other on Kleimola.

The clincher came at 10:42 of the third period when Tom Howard managed to get a break-away on the Quincy defense and scored. Sylvia pulled goalie Boyle later and Steve Surrette scored into the open goal.

"That second goal hurt us but that is what happens when you are pressing," Sylvia added. "You have to get the job done early in the game. Our big problem is we are not shooting from the point effectively. Boyle did a tremendous job for us with some really fine saves."

North made a good showing but bowed to Medford, 4-2.

The Mustangs took an early lead with two first period goals. North scored early in the final period with Vin Cameron scoring with fine passes from Steve Leofanti and Steve MacKay.

The Raiders scored again a few minutes later when Cameron set up Leofanti, who beat goalie Jack Lee.

"The boys didn't do a bad job tonight, but we have a lot of work to do," said Erikson. "Jeff Sheehan played well in goal, making some fine saves."

Sheehan made a particularly sensational save on Bob Mahoney midway in the third period.

QUINCY's hockey starters, looking for good season, are Steve Bergonzi, Bill Burke, Art Boyle, John Prescott and Steve Cedrone.

Elks Pace Little Loop

Quincy Elks with a 34-6 record, rolled to a four point lead over Montclair Men's Club in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop, with Wollaston Bowladrome only six points behind.

The league title is up for grabs over the remaining 15 weeks, but the individual high average trophy seems safely in the hands of Paul Peckham, captain of Atlantic Fuel Oil Company's team and last season's title holder. Paul came up with a 330 high three last Saturday, and weekly high single of 124 to boost his average to 99.27.

Other top 10 bowlers are Mike Durkin of Hennessy Plumbing, with a 95.15 average; Dick Hirtle of Bryan Post; Bruce Perry of Hutchinson Oil; Mike Martirelli of Rep. Brett; Charles McCarthy, alternate; William J. Connolly of Morrissey; Dick Magnarelli of Wollaston Lobster; Bob Kelly of Bowladrome and Andy Wilkinson of Elks and Fred DiCarlo of Atty. Burke.

Elks, Wollaston Lobster Co. and Hutchinson Oil Company have had perfect attendance to date, a new Little Loop first for 10 weeks.

Squirts Defeat Braintree, 6-1

Quincy Youth Hockey Squirts All Stars posted a 6-1 victory over Braintree All Stars Sunday, giving them a record of four wins and one loss to date.

Coach Larry Cooney's Squirts started off with a quick goal by Jim Triglia in the first period, with two additional goals by Brian Jolley and John Norton. This made the score 3-1 with a goal by Braintree's Billy Alfarno.

John Norton, Leo Doyle and John Kelley accounted for an additional three goals in the second period, with assists by Doug MacDonald, Mark Assad and Bob Hayes.

The third period was scoreless, with both Quincy goal keepers Jim McHugh and Dean Prescott playing an excellent game.

Friday Quincy meets the strong Weymouth team at 7:45 p.m. at the Weymouth Skating Club, and on Saturday [Jan. 9] at 5:15 p.m. they face Natick at MDC Shea Rink in Quincy.

Gallagher Gym Coach

Peter Gallagher, a teacher at Snug Harbor School, has been named gymnastics coach at Quincy High school and hopes to get an active program started.

next year," Gallagher said.

Quincy has had little in the way of gymnastics and Gallagher, who runs a gym program and a fine soccer program at Snug Harbor, hopes to hike interest at the high school.

"Of course, it is too late to get into a league but I hope if I can stir up enough interest, we can join the Suburban League, to which North Quincy belongs,

Florida Trip 'Memorable'

Presidents Return Home To Winter

The Presidents football champs returned home to Quincy and winter Monday after a four-day trip to sunny Florida and the Orange Bowl game.

In Florida, they saw Nebraska defeat LSU in the Orange Bowl game New Year's night, and swam and sunned themselves in 70-degree temperatures.

It was a memorable experience for the 63 member Quincy High team plus an additional adult group of 22 including Principal Lloyd Creighton, Fathers Club members, a few teachers, Coach Hank Conroy and four assistant coaches, along with a few interested friends of the team who financed their own trip.

The trip was financed by a city-wide fund-raising drive which raised more than $15,000.

"Something out of this world," is the way Harold McCarthy, Fathers Club chairman, describes the jet flight from New York City to Miami. The entire 85-member group was housed on one of the three cabins aboard the National Airlines' Boeing 747, newest and largest airliner in flight.

During the hour's layover at Kennedy Airport, a gasoline truck exploded directly in front of the Quincy group. Watching the firefighters put out the flames took up most of the hour.

Temperature of 72 degrees greeted the visitors from the north when they reached Miami at noon, and a hot bus ride followed to the motel. Here the crew cooled off in the pool and ocean before starting up again on the planned itinerary.

"We rooted for LSU at the Orange Bowl 90% of the time - they got us the tickets - and we almost pulled it off," McCarthy said. "They were ahead there once!"

Return flight to Boston was held up because of the bad weather in the north. Despite that, with two hours 35 minutes flying time, they arrived early at Logan Airport where busses were waiting, and checked back at Quincy High at about 4 a.m. Monday. There was no school for team members that day.

"Now all we have to do is pick up the loose money and pay all our bills," McCarthy notes.

"There were no problems. The people at the motel said they were the greatest bunch of boys that they ever had the pleasure of working with."

"We ate one meal in a restaurant - not included in the package - and the head waitress congratulated us on the way the boys behaved. The boys then got up and thanked the Fathers Club and coaches for taking them on the trip, and in return, we would like to thank all the people who made the trip possible."

The fund goal was $15,061 and went over the top with $15,332 before the team took off for Florida.

Contributions are still coming and will be used for the football team banquet and to reward the team's 14 cheerleaders.

The new donations include $100 from members of the Quincy Police Department [in addition to $100 previously donated by the Police Betterment Association], $5 from Braintree Paint and Wallpaper Company and $10 from Van Oriola Plumbing and Heating Co.

Harvey's Plans Vets Winter Treat

Members of Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club made plans at Tuesday's meeting for their annual "mid-winter treat" for veterans at Chelsea Soldiers Home.

On Feb. 9-10 fishing club members, headed by Frank Locke, president, and five members of the Houghs Neck Legion Post led by Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon, will spend an evening at the hospital.

Films of the summer fishing trip taken by Harold O'Hare will be shown and Alan Peterson, Jr., of the Marine Fisheries Division of the State of Massachusetts will also show sports films and speak.

Fruit will be brought for the patients.

'Never Too Late To Give To Christmas Seals'

"It's never too late," says Mrs. John R. Penniman Quincy Chairman, "to give to Christmas Seals.

"The annual appeal is still in progress and a donation today is still needed to help carry out important programs to conquer chronic respiratory illness."

The Norfolk County-Newton Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association is continuing the fight against tuberculosis while focusing its attention on other crippling lung ailments.

One of the prime targets is emphysema, a disease of the lung that disables its victim. The association has been active all year in programs of research and education designed to learn more about emphysema and to inform the community about the dangers of the disease.

Moreover, Christmas Seal funds are used to combat a broader group of respiratory disease which in addition to emphysema include asthma, bronchitis and illnesses caused by air pollution and cigarette smoking. This grouping of diseases represents the tenth leading cause of death in this Country.

Contributions to the 1970 Christmas Seal Campaign are still coming into the Association. Residents who have not responded to the Christmas Seal letter are urged to do so right away to support the vital programs.

Everybody (Charlie Brown, Too) Does Something Right In Central Show

Charlie Brown and friends all did something right in "The Gang's Wintersong", original production of boys and girls in two seventh grade groups at Central Junior High School.

Sixty students, working with Miss Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor, selected the popular 'Peanuts' theme for the 45-minute holiday operetta. Writing the script were Lois Carver, Monica Gamache, Russell Hodgkins, Robert Kyser, David Ray and Jane Schwarz.

Ten lyrics were written by the composers with the assistance of Mrs. Catherine Carnabuci, music instructor, who was pianist for the presentation.

Auditions were judged by three ninth-graders for the speaking and singing roles.

The familiar cartoon roles were taken by William Shine as 'Charlie Brown'; Anthony Poole, 'Linus'; Mary Stebbins, 'Lucy'; Dana Cetlin, 'Schroeder'; Michael Therrien, 'Snoopy'; Meredith Stone, 'Freida'; Catherine Shaffer, 'Sally'; Bruce Simpson, 'Pigpen'; Janet MacRae, 'Violet'; and Elaine Shea, 'Peppermint Patty'.

The remainder of the group sang in the chorus, took over properties and lighting tasks.

The presentation was made to an audience of parents, and at two school assemblies.

Other groups taking part were the Central Junior High School Band directed by Bernard Goldstein; seventh grade girls' glee club, boys' choir and glee club; the madrigal singers, with selections by Betsy Hamburger, guitar, and Emily Gabel, recorder; Diane Dunn, Barbara Walker and Suzanne Hurley,

How to get the most from your hot water faucet

...install a flameless electric water heater

Families today seem to require more and more hot water. Many new washers use over 40 gallons of water. Add this to the family baths and showers, doing dishes, etc. and it adds up pretty fast. An old fashioned inefficient water heater operating off your furnace simply can't provide a ready supply of hot water. You can solve all your hot water problems easily with an electric water heater. It will supply enough hot water for all your family needs. Operates independently of your furnace so you can install it anywhere.

Rent an electric water heater for only $2 a month

Mass. Elks Assn. To Donate $50,000 In Scholarships, Other Awards

The Massachusetts Elks' Association, celebrating its 60th anniversary will donate nearly $50,000 in its 1970-71 fiscal year for scholarships and awards to hospitals and other institutions throughout the state.

President Edward J. O'Brien said the annual donations are in addition to the charitable works done by each of the 82 lodges in the state.

A total of $450,000 last year was contributed to worthy charities by the lodges that make up the member lodges of the association. There are now 47,613 members in Massachusetts.

"Our cardinal principle is charity," O'Brien said, "and while this word has a broad meaning, we interpret it to mean not handouts, but a helping hand to all age groups."

"Our program is geared to assist youngsters in obtaining higher education through our scholarship programs; to help the hospitalized veteran; to aid hospitals and other institutions defray costs and to try to make our neighborhoods better places in which to live."

The Massachusetts Elks' Scholarship, which has aided hundreds of Bay State youths with college scholarships, is under the general direction of Suffolk University President-emeritus Judge John E. Fenton, current Chairman of the Suffolk's Board of Trustees. He is a past grand exalted ruler of the Elks.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Jack Lemmon Director

Old time cowboy star BUSTER CRABBE makes his comeback in the western satire, called appropriately enough, "THE COMEBACK TRAIL"... The HARRY HURWITZ production co-stars IAN BALIN, and stories around two skinkint producers who make a western in Central Park because of their "limited budget"... LESLIE CARON returns to the screen after a three year hiatus in "THE HEAD OF THE FAMILY"... Miss CARON's performance was hailed as "breathlessly superb" at last year's VENICE FILM FESTIVAL... Isn't ELLIOTT GOULD over doing it with five films in one year? Over-exposure had proved detrimental to more than one actor's career, and the way GOULD's performances have been descending artistically, a short break from the cameras may do him more good than harm... How do you figure it? JOEY BISHOP was dropped from the nightly tele-waves for poor ratings... His replacement DICK CAVETT, is garnering even lower audience viewership—but, his late niter has been critically hailed as a "success"...

ALDO REY has formed J.A.B. Productions with JACK KIMMELMAN and BILL BORDY... J.A.B.'s first outing will be "HIGHRISE" with REY starring... HOWARD KEEL has been signed for a 90 minute daily variety-talk show series. The RALPH ANDREWS production is set to air wave in Sept. of this year... GLEN CAMPBELL will emcee the annual All Pro Grid Awards honoring professional players of both leagues, at Television City, Hollywood, Jan. 21... PETER O'TOOLE plays Rasputin in SAM SPIEGEL's "NICHOLAS AND ALEXANDRA"... Topcast in this historic epic are newcomers MICHAEL JAYSTON and JANET SUZMAN... What is OMAR SHARIFF doing nowadays?... Director ROMAIN GARY is after JASON ROBARDS to co-star along with JEAN SEBERG in "TOTAL DANGER"... FRED WARING is recuperating nicely at his Shawnee-on-the-Delaware home after suffering a mild heart attack a few editions back... Comedian JACK EAGLE is receiving the "big, can't miss" build-up... You can judge for yourself when he makes the rounds of the television variety hours...

ELI WALLACH and LEE VAN CLEEF team up again in the Yugoslavian production "TOMORROW'S DAWN"... "HAIR" is creating a stir in Israel. Not for its' nude scenes, but the "unholy" talk used... The latter irritated religious circles more than the nudity... The National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures is miffed at The Motion Picture Assn's change of rating for "RYAN'S DAUGHTER" from R to GP... The Catholic Office also disclosed that the success of "I AM CURIOUS, YELLOW" was due more to "middle aged voyeurs" than to the "youth market"... Why doesn't some network hand WALLY COX a series of his own?... MARLON BRANDO's "BURN" set, no fires at the box office... MELINA MERCOURI burns in a brilliantly touching performance in "PROMISE AT DAWN"... Possibly the best of the 70 season—"DAWN" will move her into an Academy Award nominee position with no problem... MERCOURI more than deserves an Oscar for a more than magnificent evenings enjoyment... Husband JULES DASSIN deserves credit for his winning screenplay, sensitive direction, and superlative production...

"I LOVE MY...WIFE" spotlights BRENDA VACCARA as a fresh and vibrant talent. Miss VACCARO more than proves with "WIFE" that her "MIDNIGHT COWBOY" success was no mere flash in the pan... Why don't producers give character actor SAL MINO a chance to demonstrate his limitless acting forte, with more film scripts?... DEAN MARTIN is beginning to rebound in the ratings in the wake of bad publicity some months back... FELICIA FARR stars in husbands' JACK LEMMON-directed "KOTCH"... For LEMMON this is his first time behind the cameras; and for Miss FARR, her first film in over ten years... DENNIS WEAVER continues to flounder around in a career spotted with cancelled TV series, and poorly made films. WEAVER was better off in "GUNSMOKE", but failed to appreciate the fact... RYAN O'NEAL's "LOVE STORY" hit could place him into the coveted $1 million plus super star category...

JAMES MASON is reading Shakespeare's "THE TEMPEST" for an upcoming film... The production will be directed by MICHAEL POWELL, and will star MASON and MIA FARROW in the roles of PROSPERO and ARIEL respectively... BEVERLY GRANT CONRAD's "COMING ATTRACTIONS" caught critics by surprise at a special showing at the Whitney Museum's New American Filmmaker Series, which was held in N.Y.C. a few weeks back... "ATTRACTIONS" was a documentary detailing the life of aging "transsexual" Francis Francine... OLIVER REED has signed to star in "THE FIRST OF JANUARY" for Sagittarius productions... The most solvent, and successful studio to emerge from the recession prone past year, was UNITED ARTISTS... Didn't have one film sink in the red, and showed consistent profits for all motion pictures made and released in 1970...

accommodating almost 1,000 vehicles, is expected to be completed in spring. In bottom photo, looking south new three-story $2.5 million Quincy District Courthouse takes shape at Chestnut St. and McGrath Highway. The courthouse, double the size of the old one, is expected to be completed in fall. HN Community Council President Takes Issue With Tobin Statement

Editor, Quincy Sun:

As President of the Houghs Neck Community Council, I feel it my duty to correct a recent statement by Council President Arthur H. Tobin praising Ward 1 Councillor Edward Graham for his leadership in the project to save 17 acres of Houghs Neck Marshland.

In the four year struggle by the residents to save this area, not once was Councillor Graham of any help.

The facts speak for themselves:

1966 - Councillor Francis X. McCauley submitted petitions to the City Council for a zoning change from Residence B to Residence A to protect against a proposal to build four-family apartments. Through the efforts of Councillor McCauley, the zoning change was effected.

1968 - A proposal by the Quincy Housing Authority to change the zoning from Residence A to Planned Unit Development. The residents engaged an attorney to defend them against the zoning change. The proposal was dropped and a public hearing never held.

1970 - [May] - A developer began to fill this marsh under a permit granted by the Department of Natural Resources. As President-elect of the Houghs Neck Community Council, I appealed to Gov. Francis W. Sargent, and on May 19, 1970 the permit to fill was revoked. I was notified of this by both the Department of Natural Resources and the Governor.

In August of 1970 at the request of Mayor McIntyre, a meeting was held with the Mayor, Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson, one of the owners of the marsh, and Robert F. Denvir, Houghs Neck Community Council President.

It was agreed that this area should be saved as Open Space. Mayor McIntyre requested that the Planning Dept. prepare the necessary forms to file for Federal help in the acquisition of this area.

On November 13, 1970 the City Council on the recommendation of the Mayor, voted unanimously to apply for Federal funds to save these 17 acres of marshland. [Perhaps this is the help that Councillor Tobin refers to.]

It is suggested that Council President Arthur Tobin know the facts before bouquets are handed out for jobs not performed.

Mayor To Resume Court Battle Against Revaluation

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT
Mayor James R. McIntyre is going back to court for another legal round with revaluation.

"We definitely are going to continue our fight to keep revaluation from being implemented," McIntyre said.

"We have been able to hold it off for four years. And we are going to do everything in our power to hold it off for at least one more year.

"Because of the present fiscal crisis-inflation, unemployment and general bad economy-this would be an even more burdensome year if revaluation became effective."

He said he would pick the "most propitious time" for the new court battle.

McIntyre who, at age 40, is starting his sixth year as Quincy's chief executive warned that 1971 will be a tax burden regardless.

Although he plans to cut the city budget to the necessary bone and invites the City Council to cut it even more, the present tax rate [$132.40] will go up, he warns.

He said the School Department's autonomous budget is substantially higher than last year's.

"If revaluation should be implemented this year the tax rate would go down but the tax bill for the average home owner would be considerably higher," he said.

In his mid-term address last week, McIntyre referred to the defeat of a proposed constitutional amendment permitting "disproportionate assessments to avert the blow of revaluation on the homeowner."

The proposed amendment would have authorized the legislature to classify real property according to its uses, and permit the assessment, rating and taxation of property at different rates in classes so established, but proportionately in the same class.

Reasonable abatements and exemptions would also have been authorized, McIntyre said.

McIntyre in his address spoke of his four years' work to assure passage of the amendment, and his efforts to educate the people of Massachusetts to its benefits. He blamed "monied interests" for its defeat.

"I pledge a continual fight against revaluation in court with every power at my command," McIntyre said, "but this year, after the defeat of the amendment, there are fewer arrows in our quiver."

Last night, he said: "We will go back into court again as soon as we think it the most propitious time."

"Revaluation would be a hardship, as has been proven in towns that have had it."

"Things are not bright fiscally for 1971 for local government not only here in Quincy but everywhere," he pointed out.

"I have no idea what the tax rate will be, but the tax burden will go up. The tax rate might go down, but the tax burden would go up for the average homeowner under revaluation," McIntyre stated.

"The fiscal crisis is more serious this year than ever before."

Most of the department budgets are in, and budget pruning sessions will start Jan. 23.

Most of the department budgets are larger, McIntyre disclosed.

"We are going to be cutting them as much as we can commensurate with basic and necessary services to the people. This is standard procedure. We are facing the toughest period, and we are facing a difficult year fiscally."

He listed the economy recession, people finding money tighter, while at the same time there is an inflationary situation.

"Collective bargaining has us involved and contracts are expiring which we have had for the last two or so years, with employee groups asking to have pay increases. The school budget is up substantially, and there isn't any control we have over that."

In September, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin predicted a minimum $250 tax bill hike, unless the law was changed.

Clifford Boatner Invents Students Math Games

Clifford Boatner, mathematics instructor at Central Junior High School, appeared Monday on WNAC-TV, Channel 7, to discuss math games which he has invented.

These included "SET", "MEASURE" and "CHECKERMATICS", educational games which evolved from his teaching experiences with Quincy students at the city's junior high schools.

Appearing with Boatner were students from Central, Willard and Quincy High School, including Donald Shaw, Donald Silverstein, Rodney Dill and Paul Levine, members of Quincy High School's Math League.

"CHECKERMATICS" was explained, with student participating. This game has been endorsed by the University of Massachusetts, Harvard University, Northeastern University and school systems in Quincy, Wilmington, Hingham, Newton, Braintree, Arlington, Chelmsford and Concord.

Boatner, a member of the Quincy Education Association, claims that "CHECKERMATICS" makes rote learning of math easy to digest. Idea for the game came to him while teaching Broad Meadows students. Noting their interest in checkers, he decided to apply it to math to make it easy and enjoyable to learn. Patents are now pending on this.

In addition to his interest in math, Boatner is a concert pianist, having started at age 9. At a concert at Carnegie Hall in New York in April, 1970, an estimated 300 students and parents from Quincy went by special bus to hear his performance.

Church Donates Parsonage For Survival, Inc. Center

Harborview Residents Hope To Convert Sailors Home Into Center

The Harborview Residents Committee, Inc. would like to convert the old Sailors Snug Harbor home at 9 Bicknell St. into a "second home" for its 5,000 Germantown residents.

The committee, headed by Edward Grindle, chairman, acquired the building when it was vacated by the Quincy Housing Authority which moved to the new senior citizen housing development on Martensen St.

The committee is asking donations of furniture, rugs, chairs, decorative pictures, posters, or "any article that would be affiliated with the maintenance or decorative atmosphere of the old Sailors' Building."

The Harborview Residents

Committee representing the whole Germantown community is a non-profit organization without funds to furnish the building.

They contemplate its use by all ages: Senior Citizens will meet there once a week. Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts will use its facilities. Nutritional programs, a Well Baby Clinic, and programs for the handicapped, will be held. There will be offices [or desks] where information may be obtained from the Community Action Program and Quincy Parents Council for Action personnel.

The second floor of the building is already in use by Germantown young people as a recreation center. They have gained three additional rooms with the recent change.

Thanks to the response of Quincy neighbors, their rooms are on the way to adequate furnishings - those on the first floor [now bare] the Harborview Residents Committee hopes to provide with furniture. Like the young people, they also expect to "redecorate".

Anyone interested in helping out may call Mrs. Janet DiGiusto, CAP secretary, at 471-1189 or 471-1190 between 9:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Arrangements will be made to pick up any useful items contributed.

The Quincy Centre Methodist Church Board this week voted unanimously to donate its eight-room parsonage at 166 Granite St. for use of Survival, Inc.'s Redirection Center.

Action followed a meeting between Rev. Riley Shirley, pastor, the Church's administrative board, and directors of Survival, Inc., represented by Dr. Charles Dierb, president; Police Chief Francis Finn and Dr. Ronald Rosso.

After an explanation and discussion of the goals and operation of the proposed drug treatment program, the Church Board voted unanimously to donate use of the parsonage by Survival, Inc.

The parsonage will be the central part of Survival's operation which will extend throughout the city. Non-opiate narcotic problems will be received and treated at 166 Granite St. It will house the offices of professional and para professional counsellors and the office of Dr. Rosso, the coordinator.

From the Redirection Center at the parsonage, those seeking help will be dispersed to Survival's facilities throughout the city.

The advantages of several program sites are:

It minimizes unnecessary mingling of "hard core" abusers with the less drug experienced and experimenting young people.

Many different approaches and types of treatment may be used.

Most important, citizens of different areas of the city can share the credit of contributing to helping the troubled youth of Quincy.

The parsonage at 166 Granite St. had been used for various Church programs, such as Sunday School.

"However," says Survival, Inc. executives, "these parishioners appeared to feel that their Christian mission would be better served by their donation to Survival. The executives of Survival were 'overwhelmed with the congregation's generosity and are most grateful.'"

HN Legion Sending POW Letters In Vietnamese

The Houghs Neck Legion Post, in cooperation with the Houghs Neck Community Council, is distributing to some 1,500 residents copies of a letter to be sent to Ton Duc Thang, President of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, on behalf of prisoners of war.

The letter, written in Vietnamese, may be signed, removed from the page of The Houghs Neck Community Council Bulletin and mailed. Postage cost is 25 cents.

The Houghs Neck Legion Post is taking part in the national drive in behalf of 1,600 U. S. Servicemen who are prisoners of war - or missing in action. The goal is 10 million letters to Hanoi.

The Hanoi government is asked to release all names of American prisoners of war, that they be permitted to correspond with their families, and that they be released.

"If most of us will take the time to mail this letter it surely will help further this important effort to ease the burden of our boys who are prisoners and their families," Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon wrote in a covering letter. "Please take the time to do this."

Additional copies of the letter are available at the Post Home.

Quincy Man Assists In CG Rescue

Coast Guard Seaman Bruce H. Walker, son of Mrs. Martha A. Walker of 294 Water St., Quincy, assisted in the rescue of 31 survivors from the ill-fated Finnish tanker Ragny, 600 miles southeast of Cape May, N.J.

Walker's ship, the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Escanaba, was enroute to a weather patrol station in the mid-Atlantic when it was diverted to the distressed tanker.

Although high winds and stormy seas hampered the cutter's life boats, they removed the survivors from the Ragny's stern section. Six other crewmen were lost when the 540-foot tanker's bow section sank.

A 10-hour search failed to turn up additional survivors and the cutter Escanaba headed for Bermuda to debark the 31 survivors.

Dues Are Too High

The Massachusetts League of Cities & Towns will have to get along without Quincy again this year.

The League sent to Quincy an invitation to join and with it a bill for the membership fee. To which Mayor James R. McIntyre replied:

"While I am concerned with the accomplishments of the League, a bleak fiscal situation is facing our city which does not allow us to budget the amount of $3,455.16 as our share.

"I wish to take this opportunity to wish the League continued success and perhaps at a future date, the City of Quincy could entertain re-applying in your organization."

Quincy was a member two years ago. Dues then were only about $1,700.

Dances To Highlight January Events For Quincy Legion

Saturday night dances on Jan. 16 and Jan. 30 will highlight Quincy Legion Post activities this month.

First Vice Commander Frederick F. Dwelley will be chairman for the dances to be held at the Post Memorial Home, 2 Mechanic St., from 8 to 12 p.m. with music by Earl Rand's band.

Commander James M. Hewitt will preside at tonight's 8 p.m. business meeting, and a social meeting on Jan. 28.

The annual Building Association meeting will be Jan. 21 at 8 p.m. with Dr. Carl Goodman presiding. There will be an election of new officers and annual reports will be presented.

A donation has been made by the Post to the Legion's Rehabilitation Stamp Fund which provides service to hospitalized and needy members during the year.

Past Commanders Paul McLaughlin and Rev. J. Irving Fletcher reported the turkey fund benefit and children's Christmas party a success, with more than 200 children and parents attending.

WHAT are you doing New Year's Eve? Dancing to the music of Frank D'Allesandro's orchestra and enjoying it are parishioners of St. Joseph's. In center are Mr. and Mrs. George McLean. She is chairman of Christian Service Commission of St. Joseph's.

The Challenge Of Life

Some go through life with the greatest of ease,

But, for me, I know, life isn't a breeze.

Life is a challenge that has to be met,

And in passing this test, one has to sweat.

True, man must work in life to survive,

But the desire to live is what keeps him alive.

Some, at times, have wanted to quit.

But the fire of life must not be unlit.

One must keep going, with the hardships too,

You just can't stop as some people do.

Man can't progress by standing still,

Time goes on as it always will.

So stick it out and the tide will turn,

In the end you'll get what you earn.

Maybe not here, but when you die,

You might be glad you decided to try.

Rich Kenney
22 Trainor Dr., Braintree

Epitaph

Here flows the blood from a broken heart

Washing my soul since we've been apart.

The longing for you brings unbearable pain

Remembering hours we spent in the lane.

You swore that you loved me for better or worse

How could I dream that your love was a curse?

By the June moon on high riding a cloud

I'll rest now forever wrapped in a shroud.

I'll swallow the dregs of a love unreturned,

For the hours in the lane I shall ever yearn.

Ah, to be in your arms 'neath the silvery glow

Is a moment of madness I'll nevermore know.

Broken-hearted Sylvia

With Posy Printed Spreads—

Flowers Bloom Here The Year 'Round

SPRING FRESH—Orange walls and carpeting create the perfect backdrop for Desley-Edson's quilted cotton bedspread splashed with spring flowers. Matching draperies at the window and a covering for a small round table continue the theme. Making the most of limited space, the corner of the recessed bed area takes a handsome bamboo unit. Luxurious comfort for reading is provided by a well-proportioned chair covered in deep green velvet.

MEXICAN-FLAVORED DECOR—A rustic and colorful look pervades this bedroom, cheered with a bright floral-printed cotton bedspread and matching floor-length draperies by Desley-Edson. The Mexican-flavored headboard and chest are antiqued in a soft blue-gray effect to harmonize with the fabric.

"How much is the giant jack-pot?"

"He's terribly frustrated. Next time he throws something, try not to duck."

Week of Jan. 14-21

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Drive defensively and handle all electrical equipment with care. Your new plans may have to wait for the right opportunity to come along.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - If you have been thinking of changing jobs, a good position may now be available. The heavy load you've been carrying, begins to lift.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Government or hospital work is now available to you. Other people are calling the shots now and there isn't much you can do about it.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - An unexpected event can bring things to a head and clear up something that has been bothering you. Emotions apt to run high.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Activities at home are quiet so this is a good time to rest up for the social whirl that is coming. Creative talents are favored now.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Expect the unexpected this week, especially in financial matters. A change in your plans for education could work out well.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Now is the time to expand your knowledge or education. Plans made this month will develop steadily and reach maturity by summer.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Activities will level off now so that you will no longer feel so up tight. Watch your finances - all is not as it seems.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - It's your turn to win the promotions along with a raise in salary. There may even be a little publicity during these weeks.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - A sudden shift in work could bring a slight advantage. You must begin thinking on a personal level but keep the lid on emotions.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Others may try to take advantage of your feelings but don't let sentiment outshine reason. Unexpected windfall comes your way.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Career matters that have been plaguing you come to a head. If you have a better offer, don't allow sentiment to stand in your way.

Win. Place. Show.

Whereas the fastest horse is judged the winner in a horse race, it isn't always true in real life that the fastest comes out ahead in the long run.

Witness the story of the tortoise and the hare. IF ONLY the hare had put his mind to it, instead of letting it wander into fantasies of strawberry shortcake and apple pie, he surely could have won.

But he didn't. And you won't either if you IF ONLY your days away and console yourself with only dreams of victory.

Remember the hare. He didn't win. Give me slow, steady, calm and relaxed losers, and they'll be the winners every time.

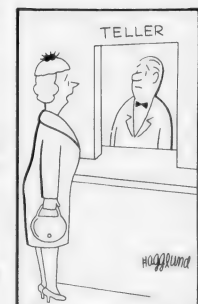

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Ave., Merrick, New York.

DIET WORKSHOP INSTANT ORANGE PUDDING

Dr. Crendon Tribute:

Dr. Paul Gossard Praised As 'Visionary Educational Leader'

Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence Crendon, paid tribute this week to the late Dr. Paul Gossard as a "visionary educational leader" as well as a "gentle, scholarly educator."

Dr. Gossard, for 19 years Quincy School Superintendent, until his retirement in 1963, died Saturday at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston. He was 73. He lived at 83 Elm Ave., Wollaston.

Services were held Tuesday in Bethany Congregational Church.

Dr. Crendon's statement, sent to all principals in the Quincy School system follows:

"I was saddened to learn of the passing of former Superintendent of Schools Dr. Paul Gossard. Dr. Gossard was an outstanding educator and served the young people and citizens of Quincy with distinction for two decades.

"He was Superintendent of Schools during my own days as a student within the Quincy schools. When I was a candidate for a teaching position in Quincy and confronted with military service at the time of the Korean conflict, Dr. Gossard was very helpful in counseling me, and he corresponded with me on several occasions while I was in the service. It was Paul Gossard who first recommended me to the Quincy School Committee for a promotional position.

"During his tenure as Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Gossard saw the size of the Quincy Public Schools increase from 10,000 to 15,000 students. He guided the school system through a major building program, including the Atlantic and Broad Meadows Junior High Schools, as well as the Myles Standish, Beechwood Knoll, Furnace Brook Parkway, Snug Harbor, and Great Hill elementary schools.

"The monumental task of directing the construction of seven new schools, plus many major additions, certainly in itself is a major contribution to a city by any one superintendent of schools.

"However, Paul Gossard was not just a builder of schools. He was a visionary educational leader. Fully two decades before the Commonwealth mandated kindergartens for all communities within Massachusetts, Paul Gossard was sensitive to the critical need of early childhood education and he recommended to the Quincy School Committee the implementation of a kindergarten program.

"Consequently, Quincy has had a kindergarten program since the mid-1950's. Dr. Gossard also foresaw the need of public education beyond high school graduation, and more than a decade ago he was instrumental in founding Quincy Junior College. Again he was far ahead of most educators and the state in this regard, and it has just been within the last several years that the Commonwealth has embarked upon developing a network of state-supported junior colleges.

"As Superintendent, Dr. Gossard inaugurated Quincy's program for gifted youngsters and our department of special education for handicapped and slow-learning youngsters. During his final year of service in 1963 Dr. Gossard was busy at work developing the concept and assisting in the preliminary plans for what we now know as Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

"In his personal life Paul Gossard was a quiet man and shunned public attention. Characteristic of him, when he retired he begged his friends and associates not to plan any type of testimonial in his behalf, and that wish was honored. His testimonial is omnipresent, not only in the bricks and mortar of the schools built during his superintendency but in the tens of thousands of lives touched by this gentle, scholarly educator.

"I know I speak for his former students, all my colleagues, past and present, and the Quincy School Committee, when I extend my deepest sympathy to his wife, his two daughters, his son, and their families."

Four Quincy Girls Capped At Catherine Laboure School

Four Quincy girls are among more than 80 freshmen of Catherine Laboure School of Nursing capped at a folk Mass last night in St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester.

Archbishop Humberto Medeiros was the principal celebrant.

The Quincy students are: Karen Daley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine J. Daley of 126 Clay St., Wollaston; Mary Margaret Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis V. Miller of 20 Sixth Ave., Quincy Point; Maryann Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Flynn of 35 Botolph St., and Denise Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Morgan of 33 Conant Rd., both of North Quincy.

This class of 1973 will probably be the last to graduate CLSN with the traditional diploma, as a petition has been submitted allowing the school to change from a three year diploma school to a junior college granting the associate degree.

Catherine Laboure School of Nursing is conducted by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul with cooperating facilities at Carney and St. Margaret's Hospitals in Dorchester, and St. John's Hospital in Lowell.

Ernest Barrett New President St. Boniface's Holy Name Society

New officers of St. Boniface's Holy Name Society, headed by Ernest Barrett, president, were installed Sunday by Rev. John Dacey, pastor, during a morning mass.

Other officers installed were Owen P. Daly, marshal; Frank Myett, vice president; John McLaughlin, treasurer; William Ryan, secretary.

Chairmen include John Connolly, program; Peter Landry, publicity; Donald West, military; Daniel Sullivan and William Duane, sick and vigil co-chairmen.

Two From Quincy Attend Evaluation Conference

Joseph S. Nicastro and Glen Niefing represented the Quincy Vocational-Technical School last week at the Second Amherst Conference for Evaluation.

Representatives were from each of the participating schools in the Massachusetts and New York Evaluation Service Center of Occupational Education.

A number of schools in Massachusetts and New York have joined together to build a model for evaluation of student progress in occupational education.

HEART CHECKUP: THE DOCTOR AS DETECTIVE

By Modestino G. Criscitiello, M.D.
Associate Professor of Medicine
Tufts New England Medical Center

When your physician peers into your eyes with his ophthalmoscope during a regular examination, he is probably learning much more about the state of your arteries than about the sharpness of your vision. The tiny blood vessels which he easily sees on the surface of the retina often reflect the condition of arteries elsewhere in your body.

In the course of the examination he will undertake many such simple tests which provide information about the health of your heart and blood vessels. If there is any circulatory disorder present, he may be able to detect it long before symptoms occur, thereby protecting you from serious difficulty. It is for this reason that the Massachusetts Heart Association, and its seven chapters, urge a yearly physical examination as a very important form of health insurance.

SYMPTOMS IMPORTANT

At the beginning of your examination you will be asked a series of questions about possible heart symptoms. You doctor will want to know, for example, how much exertion it takes to get you out of breath, and he may quiz you about certain telltale types of chest discomfort, dizziness, leg pain, etc., which may be clues to underlying heart or circulatory disorders. Of course, not all such symptoms mean trouble but certain patterns of response to these questions will be the signal for further tests.

When he performs the actual physical examination, he will be looking, probing, and listening for other possible clues. He will check the pulse, not only at your wrist but in the arteries of your legs and feet as well. He may listen with his stethoscope over some vessels especially the carotid arteries in your neck, in order to detect the "swishing" noise of blood flowing through a segment narrowed by arteriosclerosis [thickening of artery walls].

He will press firmly on the mid-abdomen in the search of any ballooning or bulging [aneurysm] of the major artery there [the aorta]. In some instances he may check the blood pressure in your legs as well as your arms, since a significant difference in these pressures may provide a warning of partial blockage of an artery.

CHOLESTEROL TEST

There will be careful examination of certain skin areas and tendons for abnormal deposits of cholesterol. The presence of these might indicate a tendency toward early arteriosclerosis. If it seems indicated, he may take a blood sample for a cholesterol count. He will look at the slight pulsations on your chest overlying your heart to see if there is any evidence of enlargement, and, of course, he will place his stethoscope over several areas of your heart and chest, listening carefully for murmurs or abnormal breath sounds. Some kinds of murmurs can be heard in normal hearts, but occasionally even a faint murmur of a certain type will lead to the early discovery of heart disease.

If you are over 40, he may advise an electrocardiogram at one of your regular examinations. This will provide a "baseline record" against which future comparisons can be made. He may also request a chest X-ray, not only for the usual TB check, but to record the heart size and shape.

"Living With Your Heart" is a public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association, which can provide further information on the care of the heart.

The Reds

I would like to tell you about myself. My name is Harry Elks, I play for the Reds Hockey team in Greenland. My hobby, playing Hockey, started when I was about ten. My father, my brothers and I used to play hockey on the ice in the winter. I could skate very well because my father was a figure skater. He used to go to skate for people all over the world. Every day after supper in the winter my father and I would go skating. That is why I can skate so well. In the summer when there wasn't any ice, we played street hockey. I became very interested in not just skating, but playing hockey.

When I turned 15 my father got me on a local hockey team. Our team was very good, well of course I say we were very good because I played on it. We used to play against many teams and we won many prizes. But, of course, we lost games too.

When I was about 22, old enough to play for the Reds, I went to every practice the Reds had. One day I said to the coach, "Do you need a new player?" The coach shook his head and said "Be serious". So I went to the bench and sat down. Then I thought for a moment and went back up to the coach and said, "At least let me try out?" I stood there for a while and then the coach said, "Alright kid, just for five minutes, then your through understand?" "Yes Sir," I said. After I skated for a while I got off the ice, and he said, "Why didn't you tell me you could skate?" That is how my career started. One night we played against the Globs of Maryland, we won 2 to 1. I made one of the goals! I continued playing and became a "star in hockey".

I am very old now. I don't play for the Reds because my body won't let me. But, I can say that I have had a wonderful life thanks to skating and my father's patience.

Miss MacDonald

Miss MacDonald came to work here about four years ago. She originally came from Quincy. She graduated from the Quincy High School. She went to Eastern Nazarene College.

She enjoys teaching first grade because she likes to know that little children are learning. She loves children. She says that they are so unpredictable, you never know what they'll do next.

When she's not teaching in the summer, she goes traveling. She has no brothers or sisters. She likes the winter season.

Gerry Cheevers

Monday afternoon on November 23, 1970 Gerry Cheevers from the Boston Bruins came to Wollaston School.

Mary Germaine is a student in one of the 5th grade rooms and her father knows all the Bruins personally and he asked Gerry to come to Wollaston School and talk to the 5th and 6th grades.

Mary Germaine and four other people of the 5th grade decorated the auditorium and introduced him.

A photographer from a Boston paper came and took pictures. One of the pictures was in the newspaper the next morning.

At first Gerry was going to just talk about hockey and sign autographs but he said he would rather have the children ask questions. They could ask questions about hockey, other players, and about him.

The time he spent with the 5th and 6th graders was 1:00 to 2:00. It was his free time.

These are some of the questions that were asked:

How fast does the puck go? What team does he like the best to play against? Do you know Bobby Orr personally? How did you get interested in hockey? And many more.

Gerry Cheevers signed many autographs.

Wollaston School was very lucky to have Gerry Cheevers come. We have never had anyone as famous as Gerry come to our school and he doesn't usually go to visit schools.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. Can I claim my child as a dependent while he is living with my estranged spouse?

A. The parent not having custody [or having it for the lesser period] is entitled to the dependency deduction for the child if:

A. He contributed at least $600 toward the child's support during the calendar year, and the decree of divorce or separate maintenance, or a written agreement between the parties, specified that he is entitled to the exemption; or

B. He provided $1,200 or more of support for the child [or children] for the calendar year and the parent having custody does not clearly establish that he provided a greater share of the child's support.

Q. My savings bank pays dividends instead of interest. How do I report this?

A. Dividends on a savings account should be reported under interest income on Schedule B, Part II.

Q. As a salesman, I am required to use my car for business and am not reimbursed for any of the expenses I incur. I have been a little lax in saving gas receipts this year so I have decided to claim the standard 10 cents a mile rate. What expenses are included?

A. If you have kept an accurate record of your business mileage in 1970, you may use the Standard Mileage Rate. The allowance has been increased for 1970 and now allows 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 business miles and 9 cents per mile for business mileage exceeding 15,000. The allowance includes gasoline, oil, lubrication, washing, repairs, supplies, tires, insurance, licenses, depreciation, excise tax and interest incurred to purchase the car. Items such as tolls and parking can be claimed in addition to the standard mileage rate.

Q. How do I report mutual fund distributions?

A. Ordinary dividends you receive from, or had reinvested in the fund, are included in your return as dividend income. If the dividends qualify, they may be subject to the $100 dividend exclusion, otherwise, they are completely taxable.

Capital gain dividends that you receive from, or had reinvested in the fund, are reported as long-term capital gains, regardless of how long you owned stock in the fund. If you had no other Schedule D transactions during the year, simply enter 50% of your capital gain dividends on Form 1040, line 39 and identify the source as "50% of capital gain distribution."

Return of capital distributions represent a return of your investment in the fund. These distributions serve to reduce your basis in the shares you own. If the distribution, when added to other such distributions received in the past, reduces your basis to zero, any excess is treated as a long-term capital gain.

Q. I am a working widow with two small children and I pay someone to look after them while I work. I have been told that these payments are deductible. Is this true?

A. Yes. You may deduct up to $900 of child care expenses where the expense was incurred for two or more children under the age of 13, in order for you to work or seek employment. The deduction is limited to $600 for one child or to the amount actually spent if less than $600.

Q. I started a new job in August and after adding up everything, I have discovered that one employer withheld $250 for social security and the other $300. I know that the maximum amount of social security that I am liable for in 1970 is $374.40, but how do I get credit for the extra $174.60?

A. The excess social security [F.I.C.A.] should be entered on line 62 of your Form 1040. It is treated in the same way as withholding and will serve to reduce the amount of tax due or increase the refund as the case may be. However, if one employer deducted more than $374.40 from your wages, you must get the difference from him and your tax return will not be affected.

Q. My husband died in November. Can I file a joint return for 1970?

A. If a person died in 1970, or in 1971 before filing a return for 1970, the executor, administrator or surviving spouse must file a return for the decedent. An executor or administrator may elect to file a joint return with the surviving spouse. If an executor or administrator has not been appointed, the survivor may file a joint return and indicate in the signature area that he or she is filing as a surviving spouse. Enter the date of death in the name and address area. If a refund is due, attach a completed Form 1310.

Q. I won a new refrigerator in a contest. The refrigerator was valued at $600. Do I have to report this on my tax return?

A. Yes. Prizes and awards, whether in cash, goods or services are taxable, and must be included in income at their fair market value. Q. Must I pay all the tax over and above withholding with my return or may I make arrangements to pay in installments?

A. Full payment is required by the filing deadline. Otherwise, interest is charged at the rate of 6% per annum for failure to pay tax when due. For returns required to be filed after 1969, unless failure to pay is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect, an additional penalty of one-half of one percent of the unpaid tax on the return is charged for each month or fractional month of delinquency, up to a maximum of 25%.

Q. Perhaps you could help me with a tax question that I have. We spent over $800 to repair damage caused by termites which infested our home. Do I have a legitimate casualty loss?

A. No. Under the law, a casualty is defined as the complete or partial destruction of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected or unusual nature. A casualty loss for termite damage is not allowed because the "suddenness" test is not met. Damage from termites usually does not occur until after two years following the original infestation of the property.

MAPC Favors Acquisition Of 17 HN Marsh Acres

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council has informed Mayor James R. McIntyre of its full support of the acquisition of 17 acres of saltwater marshes at Houghs Neck at a cost of $50,000.

Richard M. Doherty, the Council's executive Director, wrote in response to a notification that the City of Quincy planned to file for Federal financial assistance:

"The Council's Open Space Plan has cited the acquisition of the Houghs Neck saltwater marshes as an important step for retaining the natural character of the shore and as a complement to the existing dense residential development."

The marshes are located off Rockland St., in the Rock Island Cove area, and have in the past been considered as the site for both housing for the aged, and for commercial development of homes. Houghs Neck residents have opposed use of the marsh for anything except "open space."

January Art Exhibits At Libraries

Art exhibits for January at the Thomas Crane Public Library's main branch and North Quincy branch are announced by Carmen Ungar, art librarian. Marilyn Kane Ronane of North Quincy will have her work exhibited at North Quincy Branch. A graduate from Massachusetts College of Art, she studied copper enameling under Karlman Kubinyi, and returning to school, is now studying under the Master Program. She is a member of the Cambridge Art Association and the Massachusetts Association of Craftsmen and American Craft Council.

Carlton Barron, Jr. of Braintree will exhibit his paintings, featuring still life in oil, at the main library. He studied at New England School of Art, and has exhibited with the Braintree Art Association where he won first prize four different years.

He has also exhibited with the Plymouth Art Association, winning first prize in popular vote twice, along with an award for excellence in still life and best traditional painting in show.

Most recently, Barron's work was exhibited in Lincoln, England in conjunction with Plymouth's 350th anniversary. He has exhibited also in one man shows at Thayer and Tufts Libraries, and in group shows at Bare Cove Gallery and Brockton Museum.

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'My Thing...Your Thing'

Dr. Fritz Perl was an aged psychiatrist who died recently. He was a wise old man...concerned with the growth of persons...not liking quick gimmicks which turn people on but leave them empty after the gimmick wears off. He wanted people to be real...to grow and develop their own human potential. He gave what he called the Gestalt prayer:

I do my thing, and you do your thing.
I am not in this world to live up to your expectations
And you are not in this world to live up to mine.
You are you and I am I,
And if by chance we find each other, it's beautiful.
If not, it can't be helped.

This has become a kind of motto...and I've seen it hanging in some offices. In some ways I like it. I like the idea of being free...able to do "my thing"...writing a newspaper column and counseling with people...concerning human troubles...sorrows...happiness and often a new life. This is my life. Nobody tells me what I have to do...I do what I want to do...serve people to the best of my training and experience. I do "my thing".

Likewise...I like the idea of letting each person do his "my thing". I weary of parents wanting me to get a son to give up his motorcycle...cut his hair...go to Ivy League College because Dad did...and play football for the same foolish reason. Get off Dad!...let your boy do his thing...let him be himself. Don't try to make him a Xerox copy of you.

Trying to live up to the expectations of parents make young people pick marriage partners which please parents...not themselves...and these marriages are usually sick from the start. Trying to live up to the expectations of the boss give junior executives ulcers...colitis...chest pains...headaches. Trying to live up to the expectations of parishioners are driving men out of the ministry and priesthood by the hundreds.

But when we get into a marriage...Dr. Fritz, here I cannot agree with your prayer. This theory will wreck a marriage. Why? Because it isn't sharing...it isn't loving. It doesn't talk things through and resolve conflicts. It's simply...if by chance we find each other it's beautiful. If not, it can't be helped. No! No! You can't "build" a marriage on that. Marriage doesn't get built "by chance"...we don't "find each other's inner feelings" by chance. It doesn't turn out to be a "beautiful" marriage by chance.

People do well to ask...WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF MY MARRIAGE? I know there are various purposes...because I can't cook and she can...[a lot of wives are little more than house maids.] Some still marry for money...and many are continuing because there is so much money neither wants to divide it. Some women marry and remain married for security...some men to continue having a mother. Some people marry for the continual companionship of a man/woman...needing them because they love that one. That's the best reason I can think of.

But for whatever reason...if you both agree upon the purpose of your marriage than you dare not develop an independent...self-serving...self-sufficient...self-needing life. You won't make it "by chance". Your business is to make your "thing" and his/her "thing" dovetail...fit...and this doesn't just happen by "chance". No...Dr. Fritz...not by chance. It comes by hot argument and expressed emotion. It comes by reason. It comes by resolving the conflicts. It comes by working...playing...talking...making love...suffering...saving...giving...sharing...just about everything that human beings do, married couples do together. But not just by chance.

My "thing" must become your "thing"...your "thing", my "thing". That way I do my "thing" better. You do your "thing" better.

Paul, Quincy Sun Newsboys Perform Good Deed

Jack and Joey Chludzinski of 65 Doane St., Quincy Sun newsboys, combined a good deed with good sledding this past weekend.

While sliding on the hills of Wollaston Golf Club behind Furnace Brook School, the boys found a pocketbook, and scattered nearby were its contents including credit cards, car licenses and identification -- but no money.

They notified the owner, Miss Leslie Berger, a first grade teacher at Furnace Brook School, and returned with her to the spot where they had found the pocketbook, missing since Jan. 6. A little digging unearthed her car keys also.

Miss Berger responded with notes to each boy -- "Thank you for showing me that there are still honest people left in the world" -- and a suitable reward.

TOP CHRISTMAS PARADE AWARDS -- Shown are Robert Allan with the Mayor's trophy awarded Harvey's Salt Water Fishing Club; Anthony Famigletti, parade coordinator; Mrs. Howard Tattire, principal of Woodward School for Girls with $1,000 check from South Shore National Bank and Fr. Nolan Finds Success With Two-Platooning

Two-platooning is an accepted part of football but it is not the usual thing in basketball.

However, North Quincy basketball coach Bob Nolan is using a platoon system this year and feels it is the big reason the Raiders were unbeaten with a 5-0 overall mark and 4-0 Greater Boston League record going into Tuesday's big game at Somerville, which had the same record as North.

Friday night he will continue to use as many players as he can at Malden. The Raiders are idle Tuesday before hosting Quincy in the first of their two meetings next Friday.

"We have a lot of depth and I am using all my varsity players in most of our games," Nolan said. "I feel if a boy is good enough to earn a varsity uniform he is good enough to play each game. Our kids come to us well-versed thanks to our fine junior high and junior varsity coaches."

In an easy 82-50 win over Everett last week Nolan again used everyone and his platooning wore down Everett's Big Red.

"North Quincy is the best team we have faced and the two-platoon basketball is awfully tough to play against," said coach Vic Piscachetta. "I'd love to try it but just don't have the players. They just wore us down with all those players. It is tough to combat it."

After the first period ended with North leading, 18-14, Nolan put in four new men, leaving 6-8 Tom Cairns in. This group increased the lead to 35-26 at halftime.

"When we sent in five new players the opposing coach knew it was our pressing team," the North coach went on. "They go in and play a press type defense which has worked well in most cases because we have three scouting reports on the teams we play."

Nolan says the morale is high because everyone knows he will work up a sweat and, despite the feelings of many coaches that platooning takes up too much time, he feels it is well worth it and will continue to use it.

Cairns, junior center and one of the league's most improved players, scored 21 points. Dan Zink, who had an especially fine second half, had 13 and Dave Nelson chipped in 12.

Cairns also came up with 21 rebounds as the Raiders out-rebounded the Big Red, 54-24.

Joe Amoroso's North junior varsity ran its record to 4-1 with an easy 67-41 win as Jamie Doherty scored 20 points and Pete Bellotti had 14.

Earlier in the week Nolan used his entire squad once again as the Raiders bombed Chelsea, 62-41.

North had a poor shooting first half as it led, 25-18, but found its eyes in the last two periods to pull safely away.

Cairns led the team in both scoring and rebounding despite being double-teamed and sometimes even triple-teamed. "He did another grand job with three men on him, Nolan lauded.

Another thing which pleases Nolan immensely this year is the fine turnout of fans both at home and away. "We have a great following and it is very rewarding to the players to look up and see a lot of fans, especially adults," he said.

Against Chelsea Cairns had 12 points, Ken Baker 11 and Nelson 10 as nine players joined in the scoring.

The North jayvees again made it a clean sweep with a 68-27 cake walk. Pete Quinn scored 14 points and Doherty 10.

At Quincy

Finnegan At Praise Peak On 6-5 Pike

If there is a better all-around basketball player in the Greater Boston League than Quincy's Bob Pike, Coach Marty Finnegan hasn't seen him.

"I don't think there is a better player in the league," Marty said. "Bob has had more pressure on him due to the injury to Bill Burke, our 6-5 center, and he has done a remarkable job for us. His shooting has been terrific, he has done a tremendous job off the boards and there isn't a better defensive player anywhere."

"We have been having our troubles in some games because of lack of height but Bob has eased these problems tremendously and has come up with a bundle of rebounds in every game. In addition he has been our leading scorer and I just can't say enough about him."

The 6-3 Pike was a standout last year for the Presidents and is even better this year.

He hit his scoring peak last week with 37 points [16 baskets and five foul shots] and his rebounding continued to be sensational in a tough 68-67 overtime loss to Medford.

Quincy had a 2-3 record [2-2 in the league] going into Tuesday's game with powerful Revere and Pike will continue to be the key man when the Presidents host Chelsea Friday night and entertain B. C. High Tuesday night in a non-league game.

Finnegan has been hit hard by the flu. Standout Billy Maver missed the Medford game in which Quincy out-rebounded and out-shot the Mustangs, yet lost.

The Presidents had 51 rebounds to 32 for Medford and hit on 50 percent of its floor shots with 30 for 60 while the Mustangs had only a 38 percent average with 25 for 68. Foul shooting cost the Presidents the game as they hit on just seven of 19 while Medford clicked on 18 for 27.

"This was a very disappointing loss because the boys played their hearts out and played a very good game," Finnegan said. "I'm very proud because they never gave up. They were behind but came right back. We wanted to win this one especially with Maver out with the flu."

Quincy trailed by two with less than a minute to play but Joe Goguen forced a Medford turnover and Pike scored just before the buzzer to send the game into overtime.

Medford won it from the foul line in the extra session. Quincy got possession with seconds left but couldn't score the winning basket.

Mike Donaghue had a good night with 17 points for the Presidents.

Earlier in the week Quincy, despite the absence of two starters, Rich Raymond and Bob McDermott, exploded for a 72-49 win over Malden.

"The subs really came through for us in this game," Finnegan said. "The first period was pretty even with our defense doing a good job, but it was in the second quarter we really came to life. Joe Goguen filled in at guard and he made four steals good for baskets."

Pike had his usual great night with 25 points and 14 rebounds, sophomore John Reggiannini had 12 points and Donaghue, who had eight points, collected 15 rebounds.

"We are very pleased with the win," Finnegan concluded. "Donaghue and Ken Furlari gave us fine games off the boards with Pike and I'm especially pleased with the play of the reserves."

Met Track League Back In Action On Saturday

The Met Track League returns to action Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Navy's Fargo Building in Boston with the Quincy and North Quincy teams among those in action.

Following Saturday's action, only one set of meets is scheduled. One will be the Quincy-North meet.

The only local trackmen who did anything in last Saturday's State Coaches' meet at Northeastern was Quincy's Bobby Ciano, unbeaten in the mile in Met League competition.

Bobby stayed with the brilliant Rick Kent of Lawrence until the final two laps when Kent pulled away to win the mile run in 4:30.1. Ciano's time was a creditable 4:34.6.

Greenlaw Shooting

Mike Greenlaw, Quincy High's new assistant basketball coach, is showing this year why he was such a star at North Quincy High and Colgate University.

Mike, who was one of the top scorers in high school and college, is still scoring early and often as a member of the Rockland Legion team of the Cranberry League.

In a recent win over Quincy Generals, Greenlaw hit for 30 points and is averaging well over 20 in the Legion's four games.

Among other neighboring high school coaches playing for Rockland are Hingham Coach Skip Mortimer and Norwell Coach Jack Osgood.

Quincy High Orange Bowl Donations Still Coming In

Contributions are still being received to help finance the Quincy High School football team's trip to the Orange Bowl.

The sum of $15,000 was needed to send the championship squad to Florida on a four-day vacation.

Received to date is $15,742. The extra money will be used for the team's banquet Jan. 30 and to present gifts of appreciation to the 14 girl cheerleaders.

New donations:

Sears Roebuck, Derbes Brothers, $100 each; Johnson Auto Parts, $50; Atty. Richard Barry, $25; Quincy Medical Supply, $10; Purity Supreme, $10.

In addition, Burger King is continuing until Jan. 31, its "Whopper" offer to aid the fund.

Special blue coupons now in circulation may be redeemed with the purchase of a "Whopper" at Burger Kings in Quincy, Weymouth and Brockton.

For each coupon turned in with the purchase of a "Whopper", Burger King will return 25 cents to the Quincy High fund.

Quincy Icemen Seek Offense, Raiders Defense

If the Quincy hockey team's offense equalled the defense, the Presidents would probably walk away with the Greater Boston League championship.

However, despite one of the league's best defenses, Quincy has been handicapped by a lack of scoring which resulted in a 1-0 loss to league leading Medford last week at Boston Arena to drop the Presidents into third place in the league.

"I feel our defense is as good as any in the league," Coach Bob Sylvia said. "Artie Boyle is doing a great job in goal and the defensemen are certainly doing their job but we just are not scoring and it is starting to cost us. We have out-shot the other team in some games but just can't seem to get the puck by the goalie. If we don't start to score soon, it is going to be just too bad."

The Medford game was lost in the first minute and 39 seconds. Paul Quinn scored from a scramble in front of the Quincy net after Boyle had made a great diving save. The Presidents couldn't beat Medford's fine goalie, Jack Lee, who has given up just five goals in six games.

Boyle had 17 saves while Lee kicked out 12 Quincy shots.

North Quincy was bombed by Malden, 9-3, falling behind, 7-3, in the first two periods.

North's Bob McKay scored with Vin Cameron and Keith Losordo assisting in the opening period.

In the second session McKay scored again with Bobby Golden assisting, and Neil Cronin scored unassisted.

Last night the Presidents and Raiders met for the second time at Weymouth. Quincy won a 3-2 squeaker in their first meeting after North had taken a 2-0 lead.

Tonight North meets Chelsea at 6:30 and Quincy meets Everett in the second game at Boston Arena. Monday night at Weymouth it will be North vs Everett at 7 and Quincy vs Chelsea.

Elks Continue To Pace Bowling Little Loop

Quincy Elks continue to lead the Quincy Bowling Little Loop with a 38-6 record.

In second place, Montclair Men's Club has a 33-11 standing, with Wollaston Bowladrome and Dist. Atty. George Burke's teams tied for third place with 31-13.

Wollaston Bowladrome took the weekly high team three with 1,299 points, and had the weekly high team single of 508. Paul McGuigan, lead-off bowler for Wollaston Bowladrome with an average of 79.6, came up with a 115 single to top all contenders. The 12-year old Squantum youngster is a contender for most improved bowler and the Alden [Pop] Hatfield trophy awarded at the annual banquet.

Paul Peckham, of Atlantic leading the League with a 99.32 average, had the high triple of 302.

Quincy Youth Hockey Squirts All Stars had a busy weekend, defeating the Weymouth All Stars 4-2 at Weymouth Rink, and the Natick All Stars 7-4 at Shea Rink.

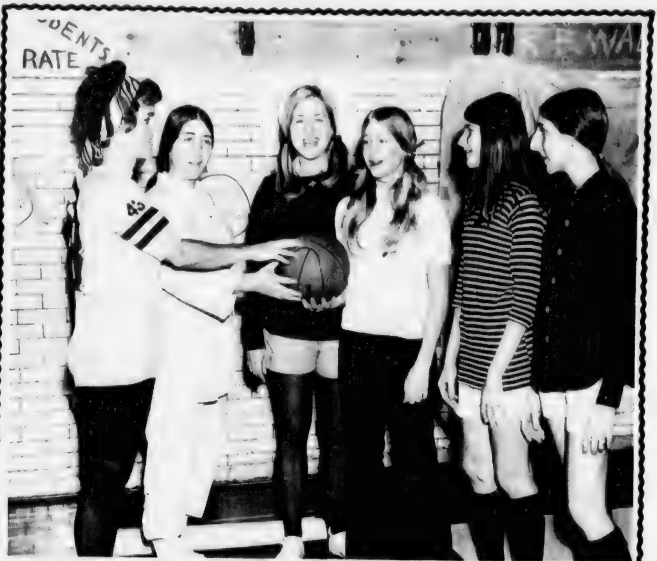

A strong Weymouth team began its third confrontation with Quincy with a goal by Brian Flipp, assisted by Cliff Houltling. However, with three minutes left in the first period, John Norton started what proved to be a great night for him with an unassisted breakaway goal, and Mike Furey pushed one in assisted by Mark Assad and Dave Lewis.

Weymouth tied the score in the second period, with Quincy's John-Kelley breaking the tie minutes later, assisted by John Norton, who succeeded in making the only score in the third period unassisted.

The next night on home grounds, Quincy met Natick, most evenly matched team. Quincy has faced to date. Scoring for the night were Mike Furey, two goals; Mark Assad, John Kelley, John Yaxter, Brian Jolley, one goal each; Jimmy Triglia, one goal and an assist; and Brian Bertoni, Jim Fitzpatrick, John Norton, Dave Lewis, Paul Cooney and Neil Sullivan all getting assists for Quincy. Jerry Cooney is coach.

Saturday Quincy faces South Boston at the MDC Rink in South Boston.

BENEFIT GAME -- Quincy Point Junior High teachers and students took part in recent benefit basketball game to raise funds to "adopt" a child overseas. Hope To 'Adopt' Child

Point Jr. Teachers, Students In 'Heart' Basketball Game

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT
Quincy Point Junior High teachers may play better basketball than their students, but final winners of a recent benefit double-header may be two little youngsters from overseas.

The idea of becoming "foster parents" of one, or possibly two, overseas children was originated by a student, according to Patrick J. Pappalardo, civics teacher, who encouraged the venture.

Two basketball games between students and teachers netted $63.55 for the project. Since a total of $150 is needed for two children, there may be other games, or contributions from students.

In a fast-moving game the women teachers defeated girl students, 20-6. Barbara Beatson and Kathleen Bertrand accounted for eight points each for the teachers, Mary Clifford and Patricia Gorman, two each. Giselle Koch completed the team.

Scoring two points each for the students were Silvia Faiella, Cheryl Gillis and Donna Caldarella. Other girls on the team were Chris Wagner, Cheryl Cooper, Helen Thompson, Leona Roccuzzo and Sandra Bass.

Men of the faculty showed the boys they were still in good shape by winning,

Frank Conroy was top scorer with 16 points, followed by Michael Hart, 10; Gerry Mulvey, 9; Guy Abruzzese, 7; Robert Furtado, 3. Other faculty players were Lawrence Keough and David Ezickson.

Frank Cogliano led the student scorers with 9 points; behind him were Bruce Riddick, 6; Mike Varrasso, Mark Dwyer, Bob Calvi and Bob Petzoldt, 4 each; Dave Goughen, Mike Cullen, two each. Also playing were John Farren and Ronnie Butt.

But the real winner - or winners - may be needy youngsters somewhere overseas.

Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney Underway Jan. 24

The 18th Annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tournament begins Jan. 24 at 1 p.m. at Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 11 Broad St. Applications for the tourney are now available.

The program which opened in 1954 at the Norfolk Downs Alleys with eight teams participating is sponsored each year by the Koch Club of Quincy.

Last year 30 teams entered the competition at Merrymount Alleys.

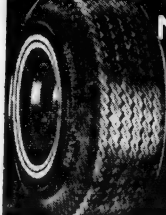

Teams entered must be from an organized men's bowling league. No "pickup" teams are allowed.

The top five bowlers in the league as of Jan. 15, bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers used as alternates. Bowlers entered must have completed half the season with their respective leagues. Any violation of the rules will forfeit the team's participation.

It is an elimination tourney - each team must win to continue. A $100 cash prize and team trophy will be presented to the championship team by Richard J. Koch, tourney director, upon completion of the championship rolloff.

ENC Off To Fast Start After School Vacation Break

The Eastern Nazarene basketball team, which had a 5-3 record before school vacation, is off to a fast start upon returning to action, rolling to two victories last weekend.

The Crusaders topped Husson, 89-81, as Ron Bradley finally exploded to score 43 points, and the following night defeated Bridgewater State, 89-69.

Friday night ENC will play Unity College at Unity, Me., and Saturday will go to Bangor to meet Husson again.

Bradley, former North Quincy High Star, who averaged more than 30 points a year ago and gained numerous honors, had been averaging only 19.8 points a game going into the Quincy tilt while Don Eads of Morrow, Ohio, was averaging 20.6 points.

"One reason for Bradley's drop in the scoring statistics is the fact he had been playing underneath the basket as a forward," Coach Jim Smith explained. "But he really snapped out of it against Husson and put on a brilliant shooting exhibition." Ron hit 15 times from the floor and added 13 foul shots.

ENC's hopes for a successful season have been boosted by the addition of two tall players who will give the Crusaders a lot of added board strength.

Rick Reyenger, former Quincy High star who is 6-7 and 220 pounds, has been discharged from the Army and is eligible, as is Jeff Davidson, 6-5, 220-pound transfer from Olivet Nazarene.

"With this height underneath, we'll try to let Bradley play back a little more as well," Smith said.

Also scoring in double figures for ENC are Paul Beston, former Quincy High and Quincy Junior College standout, averaging 12.1 points a game, and Don Constantine, another ex-North Quincy High star, averaging 10.6 points a game.

World Series Film A 'Must' For Fans, Says Sun Critic

More than 200 Red Sox players and officials, former players, representatives of other major league teams, umpires and members of the press, including Tom Sullivan of the Quincy Sun, saw the premiere showing of the 1970 World Series film last week at Fenway Park.

The 67th series film is rated as the finest ever produced and naturally highlights Brooks Robinson of the Orioles, who had a fantastic series. Every one of his spectacular plays is shown and re-shown in slow motion and all other features of the games are graphically shown.

Among several present and former Quincy residents on hand were special Red Sox scout Sam

Mele, former Yankee pitcher Johnny Fallon and former Red Sox pitcher Joe Mulligan.

The film should be a 'must' for showing at sports nights, banquets and other events. Quincy groups wishing to view the film can obtain it by writing to the Public Relations Dept., Boston Red Sox, Fenway Park, Boston, 02215, or contacting Coca-Cola Bottling plants throughout New England.

It is 16mm, sound, in full color and full of action.

Quincy Grid Awards Banquet On Jan. 30

Many award presentations will highlight the 16th annual Quincy High Football Awards Banquet sponsored by the Quincy Fathers' Club Saturday night, Jan. 30, at 6:30 in the Quincy Vocational Technical High School cafeteria.

City officials will be among the invited guests.

The top awards will be the Primavera Award to the most valuable player and the Jack Granville Memorial Award to the outstanding Quincy player in the North Quincy game.

Other awards:

Kennedy Award to the outstanding offensive lineman.

President Trophy to the outstanding defensive lineman. Moscardelli Award to the outstanding offensive back.

George Underwood Award to the outstanding linebacker.

Fathers Club Trophy to the Football Queen.

Fathers Club Trophy presented to Quincy High

School. Paul Grasso Memorial Award to the unsung hero presented by seniors of the 1965 football team.

Fathers' Club and other officers are Vice President Victor Craig, Secretary Frank Osborne and Treasurer Harold McCarthy. The board of directors includes C. Herbert Listman, Americo Speranza, George Bucavals, Dante Lauretto, Francis Hand, Arthur Richards and George Molla.

UCT Leading Pee-Wee's, Cox Rambler Tops Bantams

United Commercial Travelers holds a slim lead over Davis Insurance and Morrisette Post in the Pee Wee Division of the Quincy Youth Association Hockey League.

UCT and Davis both have a 5-1-0 record, with UCT leading by 26 to 23 goals. Morrisette follows with 4-1-1.

In the Bantam Division Cox Rambler has a one-point lead over Farina Kitchens. Cox Rambler stands at 6-2-1, with Farina at 5-2-2.

Last week in the Pee Wee Division Wollaston Theatre defeated Keohane 7-1. Wollaston Goals were by Rich Dorney and Rich Meehan, 2 each; John Kelly, Paul Cooney and Kevin McGrath, with Bob Fitzpatrick credited with two assists, Rich Dorney, Jim McNulty, Rich Meehan and Bill Doherty, one each. Jack McHugh scored for Keohane, with an assist by Tim McLean.

UCT wound up with an 8-4 victory over McGuire. UCT goals were scored by Paul Messina, 3; Brian Jolley, 2; John Norton, Rich Smith and John Mitchell, one each; assists were by John Mitchell, Paul Messina, Neal Sullivan, Dick Reinhardt, one each, with Frank Robinson and John Norton, two each. Tom Pistorino scored twice for McGuire; Doug MacDonald, and Dave Lewis, once each; Dave Previte was credited with two assists; Mike Pitts, one.

Crestview Nursing Home was one up over Hannon Tire with a score of 3-2. Crestview Goals were scored by Jim Triglia, Steve Clinton and Chris Erickson with assists by Jim Mossesso and Jim Triglia [two]. Brian Bertoni scored both goals for Hannon, assisted by Steve Cronin.

Davis Insurance won over Morrisette 4-1. Tom Cahill scored twice for Davis, Ed Santry and Dave Peters, one each; Paul Linderfelzer, Ed

Santry and Pat O'Reagan were credited with assists. John Yaxter gave Morrisette its one goal, assisted by Mark Kelly.

The standings:

In Bantam action, Cox edged Farina Kitchens 2-1. Paul Gustafson and Tom Kelly scored for Cox with an assist by Nick Cyr. Pat Barry gave Farina its goal with assists by Paul Lynch and John Tronca.

Sweeney's Funeral and Davis tied it up at one all, with Robert Marsters scoring for Sweeney, assisted by James Connolly and Fred Murray; Mike Wysocki accounting for Davis' goal, with assist by Joseph Peters.

Quacks Lose To JP, 6-1

The Quincy Quacks lost to Jamaica Plain 6-1 in a street hockey home game.

Quacks played to a scoreless tie until Jamaica Plain scored with 18 seconds left in the first period.

The Jamaica Bombers scored early in the second period on Jeff Bonish before Quincy got untracked. Returning to hustling play, Dave Stern stole the ball at the side of the Bomber net, giving it to Dave London who drove it past the goal tender.

The Quacks were outmanned, and fell behind 4-1 in the second period.

Outrun in the third period, two more goals went to Jamaica Plain. Dave Stern, leading Quacks scorer, was held to only one assist as Quincy could mount no offense.

Quincy will try again Sunday against Brighton at Furnace Brook School. Game time is 1 p.m.

Menchi Named To All-American Team

Rich Menchi, Quincy's all-scholastic end who has had many football honors bestowed upon him, has added another.

He was one of the Top 100 players named to the 1970 All-American football team chosen by Coach and Athlete Magazine and Sunkist Growers of Los Angeles.

Menchi is one of two Massachusetts players on the squad. The other is Mike Esposito of Wilmington, who set the state scoring record this past fall with 191 points.

Menchi has received numerous college offers. A good student, he can probably choose almost any college he prefers.

Tawa Wins Tourney

Tony Tawa, of Rockland, rode to an easy victory over a field of 48 entries in the Boston Bowlers Association December Ten Pin Handicap Tournament at Boston Bowl in Dorchester.

The tournament had been postponed due to the holidays and snow storms.

After placing 10th in the qualifying round he won three close matches by averaging over 200. In the final round he broke loose against runner-up Bill Kamp of Dedham 519-365 with scratch games of 256-223. First prize was a trophy and $100.

The cutoff was 800 for the two-day event. Hal Gallagher of Quincy had the high scratch series of 798 with a 255 game. Russ Tilton of Dorchester had a 252 game and Hector Fernandez of Quincy had a 236 game.

The next tournament will be held Jan. 23-24.

Health High-Lights

By Jack Silverstein

"SPEED FREAK"

"Speed" is the hippest war, kills. The term is slang for various kinds of amphetamines, including Benzedrine and Dexedrine, but most commonly denoting Methedrine. Users feel that amphetamines sharpen their physical and mental reactions and increase confidence, sometimes giving them a manic sense of power.

In varying doses, it is taken orally, snuffed or injected into the vein. The latter method is that used by the "Speed Freak" who seeks the meth high via doses of 6 to 200 times the normal medical dosage.

He may go for several days without eating or sleeping. In rare cases, the jolt can raise the blood pressure enough to cause immediate death. Chronic use can lead to a psychosis that many doctors feel is more similar to schizophrenia than any of the symptoms brought on by other dangerous drugs.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. Consumer News

By Robert H. Quinn
Attorney General

A Happier New Year For The Consumer

[This is another column prepared by Attorney General Robert H. Quinn to inform Massachusetts residents about the state consumer laws.]

One New Year's Resolution that should be on the list of every Massachusetts resident is to learn the three new state consumer protection laws that went into effect Jan. 10.

Massachusetts consumers now have their first opportunities to benefit from three new consumer laws which I sponsored in 1970.

CAR CANCEL

One of these new laws will protect consumers who buy cars that turn out to be "lemons." Every car buyer will have a week to see a registration sticker for his new car.

If he finds within seven days that the new car does not qualify for a sticker because it requires repairs that will add up to more than 10 per cent of the purchase price, he may return the car to the seller - along with a written estimate of the required repair costs - and ask for his money back. If he prefers to keep the car, he may try to arrange for the seller to pay for the repairs that are necessary before the car can pass inspection.

SECURITY DEPOSITS

Home renters who pay an extra-month's rent for their landlords to hold as security will benefit from a new law which sets up regulations for the handling of security deposit funds. This law will require landlords to account for every security deposit within a month after the termination of the lease.

After the date the lease expires, the landlord will have 30 days to return the tenant's money or to give the tenant an itemized list telling how the security deposit was spent on repairs or improvements to the apartment or house.

This law also provided that landlords will be required to begin paying five percent interest on all security deposits they hold for longer than twelve months.

TRUTH-IN-MORTGAGING

The third new law that took effect Jan. 1, specifies certain information that mortgage contracts will have to list in large type to help ensure that the consumer fully understands the mortgage terms before he signs.

Contracts will have to tell the mortgage interest rate and whether or not that rate can be raised. Contracts also will have to carry a sentence advising the consumer to ascertain whether any lawyers present during the transaction are representing the interests of both the bank and the mortgager.

If every Massachusetts consumer resolves to take these new consumer laws to heart, 1971 can be a happier new year for used car buyers and sellers, tenants and landlords, and mortgagors and banks throughout the Commonwealth.

If you have any questions about these new consumer laws, contact the Consumer Protection Division of my office at the State House in Boston.

Mayor Makes Seven Appointments

Seven appointments have been announced by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Mrs. Syria Louise Mayo of 39 Penn St., South Quincy, has been reappointed to the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers, her term to continue through the first Monday in January, 1975.

Appointed to the Board of Managers, Public Burial Places for a term through Sept. 1, 1973, are Felix C. Favorite of 139 Elmwood Ave., Wollaston and John A. Bersani of 90 Hall Pl., West Quincy.

Special Police Officers through January, 1972 will be Louis Simons of 24 Edgeworth Rd., North Quincy; John Caravaglio of 78 White St., West Quincy; Lester Glasser of 49 Eustis St., Wollaston; and Edward W. Hobbs, Jr., of 32 Hamden Circle, Wollaston.

Edwin Cummings Joins Consolidated Graphics

Edwin F. Cummings, of Quincy, has joined Consolidated Graphics as Chief Estimator.

Cummings brings an extensive graphic arts background to the Needham Heights firm. Since 1951, he has been associated with Recording & Statistical, Boston, most recently as Chief Estimator and Estimating Production Manager.

He is a member of Boston Craftsmen and P.I.N.E., a graduate of Dartmouth College and a veteran of World War II.

Jeremiah Mulcahy On Honor Roll

Jeremiah F. Mulcahy, of North Quincy, has been named to the Bridgton Academy Honor Roll, announces Headmaster Richard L. Goldsmith.

A post-graduate, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah F. Mulcahy of 86 Alstead St., and a graduate of North Quincy High School.

Peter A. Thomas On Duty In Philippines

Navy Seaman Peter A. Thomas, son of Eliot M. Thomas of 29 Windsor Road, North

Quincy, is serving at the U. S. Naval Base, Subic Bay, Philippines.

Congressman Burke Presides Over House

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] presided over the U.S. House of Representatives during its consideration of H.R. 16443, Federal Policy concerning Architectural, Engineering and Related Services and H.R. 18884, a bill to amend the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937.

Point Junior Students In Anti-Pollution Program

"Happiness is an Unpolluted World, Charlie Brown" was the original presentation of Mrs. Helena Rayner's seventh grade science class at Quincy Point Junior High School's holiday assembly.

To help solve the problem of pollution the Spirit of Christmas and the Spirit of Scientific Research showed slides of earth, past, present and future.

To help end pollution, students decided to present gift-wrapped packages labeled "clear water", "fresh air", "white snow", etc. which are illuminated when an ultra violet lamp is turned on.

The cast included Janice McLain [Lucy], David Perdios [Snoopy], Paul Nigro [Charlie Brown], Steven Palumbo [Spirit of Christmas], Fred White [Spirit of Scientific Research], Gail Reichert [Sally, Brian Cormack [Linus], Ellen Johnson [Pig Pen].

Sheryl Germain, Christine Mitchelson and William Norkus were children; Jeanne Breen and Laurel Gordon, prompters; Barbara Bruno, in charge of make-up; Keith McLain and Richard DiPietro, stagehands.

Songs were sung by the 4th grade class of Daniel Webster School.

Air Conditioning Seminar Held At Quincy Voc-Tech

An Air Conditioning/Refrigeration Seminar was held recently for three full days at Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Attending were 25 men from air conditioning-refrigeration and allied industries throughout New England, along with the entire air-conditioning-refrigeration student body of Quincy Voc-Tech.

Gene Silverio, air-conditioning-refrigeration instructor, and John McNamee, coordinator of the general piping area, were hosts, along with Maurice J. Daly, assistant superintendent of schools, and Laurence H. Babin, Quincy Voc-Tech director.

Conducting the seminar was Henry Schenker of Needham John Sheldon and Lloyd Williams, all associated with York equipment, a subsidiary of Borg-Warner.

The object of the seminar was to present a course in air conditioning servicing covering basic theory, electrical trouble shooting, proper refrigerant piping, proper evacuation, use of brazing equipment and nitrogen, and air distribution as it affects system operation. Slides, actual systems, tools, equipment and other visual aids were used.

Dr. Marc J. Williams Opens Quincy Office

Dr. Marc J. Williams, chiropractor, has opened a professional office in the Adams Building, Suite 309, at 1354

Hancock St., Quincy.

Dr. Williams is a graduate of John Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., and of the Palmer College of Chiropractic at Davenport, Iowa.

Active in athletics, Dr. Williams played in the national rugby tournament last year in Monterey, Calif., and plans to compete again this year. He is married and the father of a daughter.

A Cape Cod native, he will open an office there later in the year.

Bette Davis In 'Madame Sin'

RICHARD D. ZANUCK's 20th Century-Fox "resignation" as president was in large part due to a $25 million miscalculation termed "TORA, TORA, TORA"... That film and the horrendous "MYRA BRECKINRIDGE", gave the board of directors no choice but to ask for ZANUCK's and executive vice president DAVID HUMPERDINCK will make his film debut before the end of the year... ROBERT WAGNER and BETTE DAVIS have been signed to co-star in "MADAME SIN"... DIANE CIENTO, actress-wife of SEAN CONNERY, completed her second novel "HYBRID". If Miss CIENTO's second literary effort is as "folksy" as her first, "HYBRID" could set the best seller list burning for months... JOSEPH GABRIELS is the first South African Black to be signed to appear in a lead role at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. GABRIELS will sing in the role of Canio, the clown, in "PAGLIACCI"... Signs of the Times? Warner Bros'. "GO LEFT, YOUNG MAN" is a comedy about a youth who becomes a "conservative" in rebellion against his "radical" parents...

KAREN BLACK appears to be one actress who can do no wrong. Not only did Miss BLACK walk away with the NEW YORK FILM CRITICS best supporting actress award but to add frosting to the cake, she came within seven points of grabbing the best actress award as well... This brings to light an interesting question. How can an actress, or an actor for that matter, be nominated in both categories? One is either a lead or supporting actor-but never both!... Such were the hinks and behind the scenes politico-brownings of the once prestigious New York Film Critics awards... The way this column sees it the only individual who was worthy of recognition was the best actor winner GEORGE C. SCOTT... And oh yes, do keep your eyes on the career of CHIEF DAN GEORGE, walkaway prize grabber of the best supporting actor award. Remember him? The CHIEF did his thing but definitely not act, in "LITTLE BIG MAN"... Then again who knows... Big GEORGE just may yet hit it big with a virtuoso Alka Seltzer performance... Weren't the critics, if you can call them that, even slightly aware of KARL MALDEN's excellent, low keyed supporting role in "PATTON"? He didn't so much as receive a nod of the head by those "critics" who claim to know what it is all about... The New York Film Critics showcase had the foul stench of a "it's who you know" sell out... The only justified winner was SCOTT...

NBC's "FIRST TUESDAY" effort of Jan. 5th. dealing with Japan's military-industrial might, was a chilling reminder of the 1930's... What television needs in the way of informative programs is more of the same of "FIRST TUESDAY". Since its inception, the NBC staff has done a commendable job in keeping the public informed in little known events that are shaping our world... So why doesn't CBS and ABC follow suit?... And while on the subject of ABC, aren't they going to extremes with the "Talk Show" bit? Their next package is titled "THE EARLY LATE SHOW" and involves children 12 years old and under who will be interviewed ala CARSON, CAVETT et al... Oh my God! As if the viewer hasn't taken enough. Now we have to sit blurry eyed before the boob tube and listen to a child "tell it like it is" on the gambit of topics from sex to politics... Whew!!! And yes, JOHNNY CARSON is getting concited with age... The prima donna of the late-owl set, has turned himself into a primrose mannequin, and his once entertaining vehicle, into a distillery of polluted ideology guttered from the mouths of has-beens, bores, peons of intelligensia, and publicity crazed radi-labs...

"BREWSTER McCLOUD" offers minus zero in the form of entertainment, but will give those with the courage enough to see this far-out farce, a massive hangover... SALLY KELLERMAN of "M*A*S*H" fame is sorely wasted in the femme lead and newcomer BUD CORT demonstrates that his acting talent is as shallow as the "bird brain" he portrays... STANLEY BAKER and URSULA ANDRESS are filming the bank robbing, bed hopping suspense thriller "PERFECT FRIDAY"... The motion picture is scheduled for an early summer release... JANE RUSSELL inked a pact to star in the Mexican production "LA DAMA FELIX"... JEAN-PAUL BELMONDO and ROBERT HOSSEIN star as two international jewel thieves in a fic called appropriately enough "THE HEIST"... HENRI VERNEULL, who gave us last years "THE SICILIAN CLAN", will direct... TY HARDIN is keeping busy these days under the friendly, warm skies of Italy producing "DAY OF JUDGMENT"... Though not a big star in America HARDIN has proved a box office draw in southern Europe... GERALDINE CHAPLIN is contemplating whether or not to take the lead role in "LAST TRAIN FROM SIBERIA"... RICHARD ATTENBOROUGH was recently named a Pro Chancellor at England's prestigious Sussex University...

Wife Of Indiana Congressman To Christen Wabash Feb. 6

Mrs. William G. Bray, an associate professor at Indiana University and wife of the Congressman from Indiana's sixth district, will christen the Navy supply ship, Wabash, Feb. 6 at the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics.

Mrs. Bray was invited by the Secretary of the Navy to sponsor the new ship which is designed to supply combatant vessels at sea with a variety of provisions from fuel to munitions.

Wabash will be the fourth Navy ship to be named in honor of the city and river in Indiana. Officially designated as AOR-5, she has been under construction since Jan. 21, 1970 and will be delivered to the Navy later this year.

The first Wabash was a wooden steam frigate that served in the Civil War, the second was a freighter during World War I and the third was a gasoline tanker in World War II.

The fourth Wabash will be christened at 11:30 a.m. on Feb. 6 in ceremonies before representatives from Indiana and the city of Wabash together with federal, state and local officials, military leaders and shipbuilders.

The new Wabash measures 659 feet in length and will displace 37,360 tons fully loaded. She will be manned by a crew of 27 officers and 363 enlisted personnel. She is the fifth of its class to be built at Quincy.

Mrs. Bray, who was born in Huntington County, Indiana, taught in high schools and at Ball State University before assuming her current post. She is active in educational, government, business, civic and youth activities throughout Indiana. She served as principal committee man, vice committeeman and as a member of the Republican State Central Committee for many years.

In youth activities she is a leader in the Girls State program of the American Legion Auxiliary and has been educational director of Girls Nation since 1963.

Mrs. Bray is a member of many professional and honorary organizations, including Phi Chi Theta, Beta Gamma Sigma, Delta Pi Epsilon, Pi Omega Pi, Delta Kappa Gamma, Omicron Delta, National Secretaries Association and Indiana's Business Educators' Club.

Congressman and Mrs. Bray reside in Martinsville, Indiana. They have one son, Richard, who is prosecuting attorney of the 15th Judicial District, and three grandchildren.

Permits For $31,252

Wiring In December

City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts, reports a total of 193 inspections made in December and 99 permits issued for wiring costing an estimated $31,252.

Major wiring projects were a new three-family house at 43 O'Connell Ave., West Quincy, and a new five-apartment building at 1155 Sea St., Houghs Neck.

A total of 97 certificates of approval were issued; 17 defects were noted, and there were 10 re-inspections.

Parents Council Recommends

'Private' Procedure For Free Lunches

The Quincy Parents Council for Action recommends a "private" procedure for parents whose children are eligible for a free lunch ticket.

Parents of junior, senior or vocational high school students are advised to purchase stamped envelopes and each week mail a request for a lunch ticket to be returned in a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If children are too embarrassed to bring home the application because they feel they might be discriminated against at school, parents may obtain application blanks at the Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St. This can be mailed to the school principal directly without other personnel being aware of the situation, it was noted.

Parents are requested also to urge their children to purchase the weekly reduced tickets so that they may receive the nutritionally balanced main dishes served at the schools.

City Council Public Hearing In February

Furor Mounts Over Lunch Issue

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

"CAT NAP"--The family clothesbasket is solid comfort for "Chablis", one-year old pet of Donna Newell, 8, and Donald Newell, 6, Their Dad, Quincy Sun photographer, Don Newell, caught "Chablis" snoozing.

Mounting furor over the proposed hot lunch program for Snug Harbor School is expected to climax at a public hearing before the Quincy City Council's Finance Committee in February.

At this time it is not possible to set an exact date, Finance Committee Chairman J. Vincent Smyth said. There is some work to be done in advance, but the hearing will be held "sometime in February", he said.

Under the proposed program:

- 51 percent of the 720 pupils at Snug Harbor would receive their lunches free.

- The 49 per cent of the school's students who do not qualify for a free lunch would pay 30 cents per meal.

When the request of the School Committee for a $30,000.00 appropriation for the purchase of equipment for the Snug Harbor Lunch Program came up at Monday's City Council meeting, it was referred unanimously by the nine City Councillors to their Finance Committee.

At this point, Councillor Smyth introduced a resolve that the General Court amend its law regarding the hot lunch program to be initiated by the 1971 Legislature. This, too, passed unanimously.

School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly, lone member of the school board to vote against the program told the Quincy Sun:

"Actually, I am not at all surprised at what they [City Council] did Monday night.

"I think their reaction was similar to the reaction of people all across the City of Quincy. I described that reaction as "public outrage". I don't know what the Council is going to do with it. They will probably run with the ball through that public hearing and then lob it over to the School Committee and hope that it explodes when it gets there.

"If [the hot lunch program] is not a budget item right now. The budget is still in the School Committee and we haven't finished working on it. We have asked for this capital outlay, and if the Council just sits on it and refuses to give it to us, I think they are within their rights."

If the hot lunch item is included in the whole budget, he said, "they can't do a thing about it."

"Across the state, this is going to be a real problem -- fiscal autonomy for school committees," Kelly predicted. "I have a feeling that the legislature has been working around with this for the past two or three years, and they are a little undecided as to what they think and what they are going to do about it."

"I foresee danger signals all across the State, and if I read the signals right, I think the legislature is going to take away fiscal autonomy from the school committee."

85 Persons Affected

Relocation Of 36 Families For New School Begins Feb. 1

Efforts to relocate the 36 families affected by construction of the new Lincoln-Hancock School will get underway Feb. 1.

At that time Leonard Purpura and other relocation officers will be officially open for business at the South-West Community Center at Brewers Corner.

Some 85 persons are represented in the 36 families to be relocated so that the school construction can start.

"We hope to start moving as fast as we can after the first of February," Purpura said, "as fast as we can find units suitable at prices people can afford."

In the meantime, Relocation

Officers are organizing the office, getting listings on homes and apartments available and talking with persons to be relocated.

Anyone with an apartment or house to sell or rent may call Mr. Purpura at 471-9143.

In November the City Council voted the sum of $342,000 be set aside for possible property damage should suits be filed against the city for landtaking by eminent domain.

Buildings affected on sections of Granite, Booth and Water Streets include 10 single homes, nine duplex and three multiple units.

All those who will be required to move have been notified, and one family has already been relocated.

According to statistics compiled by Mary K. Goodwin at the Community Action Office in South-West Quincy, 71.3 percent of the families involved rent their homes, and 29.7 percent own the dwelling in which they live.

On the age level, 10.7 percent involved in the relocation effort are over 60 years of age, and 40.5 percent are under 21 years.

Maps are on display at the Center showing the areas affected.

Flu Bug On Rampage

"Stay home with that cold!" That is the advice given this week to Quincy students with colds or flu symptoms.

The average absenteeism rate at Quincy's three high schools dropped to 28.2 per cent Monday, after a high of 30.8 per cent last Friday.

The average winter rate for these schools is from 15 to 18 per cent, about 7 to 10 per cent lower than that now running.

In most instances those absent from school are teenagers or the very young, says Miss Alice O. Gray, head of health services for the Quincy Public Schools.

Teacher absenteeism rates have been affected only slightly, with the majority of schools reporting the normal percentage of teacher absenteeism, according to Miss Gray.

Parents should be on the lookout for children complaining of head and body aches, nausea or vomiting, Miss Gray cautions. To avoid complications, children with these symptoms should be kept at home.

Extra rest, plenty of good food, avoiding crowds and over-fatigue can go a long way to keep a person in good health at this time of year, she says.

367 Snug Harbor Students Would Get Free Hot Lunches

This is how the proposed pilot lunch program at Snug Harbor School would work:

- Students at the Vocational-Technical High School would prepare lunches for some 720 pupils at the Snug Harbor Elementary School.

- Culinary art students at the high school would prepare lunches a day in advance. The lunches would be brought to the elementary school and stored in special refrigeration units until needed the next day.

- Ovens would be installed in the school to heat up meals as they are needed. Present plans call for the gymnasium at Snug Harbor Elementary School to be used as a cafeteria for pupils.

- Special tables with seats attached, that can be folded against the wall when not in use, would be purchased for the cafeteria.

Fifty-one per cent of the 720 pupils at Snug Harbor would receive the lunches free under federal guidelines which apply to economically disadvantaged families.

- The 49 per cent of the school's students who do not qualify for a free lunch would pay 30 cents per meal. The state and federal governments would reimburse the city 42 cents for every student getting a free lunch and 12 cents for every student buying his lunch.

- A system is being worked out by Snug Harbor School officials to ensure that the identity of students getting a

Congratulates Paul Kelly On Anti-School Lunch Vote

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Congratulations to Quincy School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly for his vote against the elementary school lunch program.

It seems the overburdened taxpayers of Quincy have at last found an elected city official who practices as well as preaches economy in government. Most distressing was the failure of Mayor James R. McIntyre to speak out and vote against this program which would eventually cost the Quincy taxpayers between four and six million dollars annually.

If Mayor McIntyre would spend more time opposing costly programs of this sort which are clearly outside the scope of government, instead of blaming the state and federal governments for the plight of cities such as Quincy, the present financial crisis would soon be resolved.

A Pleasant Surprise

Editor, Quincy Sun:

It was a pleasant surprise to read on your "Young Ideas" page the selections of Christmas cinquains from my fifth grade class - also writings from other elementary school children.

It was an "extra" thrill to have them appear the day before Christmas.

Thank you,

Furor Mounts Over Hot Lunch Issue

"Speaking of the local problem," Kelly said, "People in Quincy are fed up to the neck with tax increases, they see another one this year, and they are very upset with inflation, losing jobs, etc. People this year more than ever before, are becoming more vociferous."

"I am going to attend that public hearing with interest," Kelly asserted. "I don't know whether I will speak out. I will make a judgement about that when it takes place."

Kelly expressed doubts that the hot lunch program could be reconsidered once again by the School Committee.

"It has already been reconsidered once, and I am not sure that it can be reconsidered again," Kelly said. "Maybe the public hearing might have some bearing on that."

Explaining his resolve, Smyth said:

"I would like them to go over this piece of legislation again and return some home rule to city and towns to see whether we think we can afford to sponsor this hot lunch program."

"It is all very well for the state to say, 'You must do it', but the cry is out right now. This is only 1971. Cities and towns are bankrupt. To take on a program of this nature by 1973 with mounting costs is something that we cannot do - it could cost about $6 to $8 million by then.

"It is about time that the cities and towns decide for themselves what they can afford to do. Even though it is partially funded, we don't know what they are going to continue to come up with."

Smyth continued: "We are all dreamers. We all like a lot of things. But the hard moment of reality is here right now. Maybe I will not be a member of the City Council in 1973, but I certainly don't want to burden anyone who succeeds me with this problem. The deserving poor we will always have with us, but they are going way beyond the bounds in this particular matter."

Asked to comment on the Council's action, School Committee Vice Chairman James F. McCormick declared, "We will wait and see what happens at the public hearing. I would rather not make any comment at this time."

Council President Arthur H. Tobin in bringing the request before the Council said, "This is a School Department budgetary item, and the School Department has always had full autonomy over its budget. It is here as a request of the School Committee before the School Department budget is presented to the Council."

Tobin added that City

Solicitor Harry Pavan had ruled that the Council has no authority to act to cut the School Department budget. The item was placed in the budget by a six to one vote of the School Committee, with Paul C. Kelly the lone dissenter.

"Councilors are being besieged from all sections of the city, asking that all the people of the City be heard on this particular item," Tobin said. "The hands of the City Council are handcuffed because there are no facts before us on this item."

"It is in fairness to all citizens of this city and to all members of the council to have this referred to the Finance Committee. And as a courtesy, the finance committee will set up a public hearing so that all citizens of Quincy can come forward and be heard pro and con."

"Based on the evidence received by the City Council at the proposed public hearing, petitions submitted to the City Council both for and against, we will present the facts before the Council and ask the School Committee to act in their capacity as elected officials," Tobin said.

Tobin added that all persons who had appeared and spoke before the School Committee would be invited to present their facts to the City Council at the public hearing.

free lunch would not be known to other pupils.

While none of the city's elementary schools have cafeteria facilities there is a winter lunch program at 12 schools serving some 1,500 youngsters who live more than one-half mile from their school.

In those schools the vast majority of the participating students eat at their desks. In some cases they use an auditorium or gym. A total of 57 matrons, six of whom are teachers, supervise the youngsters at the various schools.

Two elementary schools, Daniel Webster and Hancock, operate breakfast programs for economically disadvantaged youngsters.

At Furnace Brook, Montclair and Willard Schools, there is a year-round lunch program for students living more than three-quarters of a mile from school.

Snug Harbor School officials plan for the pilot lunch program to begin as soon as the necessary funding, equipment and personnel can be secured.

The pilot lunch program at Snug Harbor, according to James F. McCormick, Sr., vice chairman of the school committee, will serve as a "teaching class" for the culinary arts classes at Vocational-Technical High School.

The Vocational School will be able to prepare as many as 800 lunches per day which will more than cover Snug Harbor's needs at present, he says.

McCormick stressed that the lunch program is being piloted at Snug Harbor because more than 50 per cent of the children there are from economically disadvantaged families.

15 From QHS In Southeast Festival

Fifteen students of Quincy High School's Music Department will take part Friday and Saturday in the annual Southeast District music festival at Somerset, announces Mrs. Gale Harrison, choral supervisor.

Students from high schools in the area are selected by competition to perform in the chorus, band and orchestra. Rehearsals begin Friday afternoon for Saturday's performance.

Representing Quincy High School in the band will be John Fantucchio, clarinet; Donald Shaw and Edward Warshawer, drums. In the orchestra will be Joanne Ahola and Rodney Dill, violins; and Jeffrey Dill, bass.

Choral participants will be David D'Olimpio, Stevan Driscoll, Stephen Keeffe, Suzanne Long, John Neilson, Hedy Shechman, Donald Sweeney, Carolyn Trout and Robert Trubiano.

Quincy Man Takes Part In China Sea Rescue

Coast Guard Lt. [J.G.] Christopher D. Willis, son of Mrs. Barbara L. Willis of 11 Richfield St., Quincy, assisted in the rescue of 23 crewmen from the sinking motor vessel Joy Taylor in the South China Sea. The Joy Taylor, taking on water at 200 gallons an hour reported that her cargo of lube oil drums had shifted causing a 15 degree starboard list. The cargo shift prevented access to the ship's holds and all pumping equipment failed to operate.

Upon receiving the "SOS" the cutter Morgenthau sped to the scene to find the ship near floundering in eight foot seas, high winds and her crew overboard. Three hours later the Joy Taylor capsized and sank.

The cutter Morgenthau is currently serving with the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Quincy Senior Citizens May Apply For Jobs

Quincy residents 60 years and older interested in obtaining part or full-time work are urged by Donald Strong, executive secretary of the Quincy Council on Aging, to file new applications.

Edmund F. Ferry, senior job recruiter at Massachusetts Division of Employment Security office at 1433 Hancock St., is at the office Mondays through Fridays from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. to assist in preparation of the applications.

Applications made out previous to Jan. 1, 1971 are considered not a true picture of the applicant.

During the last year, 75 senior citizens were placed in either full or part-time work. Mr. Ferry reports.

City-Wide Students 'Write Hanoi' Campaign Underway Next Week

A Quincy Students "Write Hanoi" Campaign gets underway next week.

A city-wide house-to-house canvass to urge residents to write letters in behalf of American prisoners of war, similar to that recently completed in Hingham, is being sponsored by the Christian Service Committee of St. Joseph's parish in Quincy Point and the South Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association [International].

flyer and ask residents to write letters in their own handwriting, and will return to collect them. Residents will be asked also to provide 25 cents postage for the letters which will be mailed all at one time.

Quincy residents Alan Brudno, a prisoner for six years, and Richard Stratton, for five years, are among the 358 confirmed prisoners of war. In addition 1,534 men are listed as missing, making a total of 1,902.

The Quincy campaign is planned to coincide with Gov. Francis Sargent's proclamation designating the month of January as "Prisoner of War Month".

Letters written should cover the four points of the Geneva Conference:

- Release names of every American held prisoner.
- Allow prisoners to exchange letters regularly with their families.
- Repatriate seriously ill or wounded prisoners.
- Allow a neutral agent to inspect prison camps.

5,000 Names On POW Petitions

Some 5,000 names have already been signed to the 300 prisoner of war petitions being distributed throughout Quincy, reports James Gosselin of 23 Belmont St., North Quincy, chairman of the Quincy Teen Age Republican Association.

The group is spearheading a drive to aid prisoners of war through petitions and letters which will be collected and given to a neutral agent. He will deliver the completed petitions to the North Vietnamese embassy in Paris.

Those interested in helping on the POW committee or who would like a copy of the petition, may call Gosselin at 479-6583.

Germantown Youth To Write On Vandalism Causes, Cures

Germantown young people are being invited to express their thoughts on the causes and cures of vandalism.

A letter contest is being held during the next two months, open to youth from 12 to 18 years. They will write on what they believe causes vandalism, and what action can be taken to put a stop to the malicious destruction of property.

The student writing the best letter will receive a record album of his choosing. There will be other prizes for runners-up. Letters should be sent to Beacon-Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St.,

Quincy.

Invited to judge the letters will be a committee consisting of a representative of Snug Harbor School, the Harborview Residents Committee and Quincy Police Department, Rev. John J. Dacey of St. Boniface's Church.

Quincy Sun Special Features

Poet's Corner

The Quincy Sun

There is a little paper,
That comes to us each week.
It brings us information on—
Most anything we seek.

The lines inside are friendly,
And always aim to please.
The facts are stated clearly,
And make you feel at ease.

It brings us local items
On people that we know,
When something good befalls them:

They'd like to tell us so.

The SUN is like an old, old friend,
That weekly comes to call—
And the company it gives me;
I like the best of all.

By Margaret DeAngelo

The Old Man

The old man sat on a log by the lake,
With a dog at his side, his old pal Jake.

And as the two watched the day's fading sun,
The old man thought of when he was young.

"Yes, those were the days," he thought aloud,
His achievements in life of which he was proud.

He remembered the days when he played ball,
Slugging each pitch over the wall.

And he recalled the pranks he had pulled in school,
The classes he'd cut and the teachers he'd fool.

He envisioned a picture of his first girl,
When he met her, how his heart used to twirl.

He recollected football, playing as end,
Receiving passes from his best friend.

The two were close as he reminisced,
To see him again he only wished.

They both went to war for their country to fight,
But his good friend was killed, it didn't seem right.

The old man was startled by the sound of a bark,
The sun slowly dimmed and began to get dark.

He stared at old Jake and remembered again,
The times with his buddies and how it was then.

Yet, the sky has its clouds and the sea has its fog,
His friends were all gone except for his dog.

He had seen a lot in his ripe old age,
But the book of his life was near the last page.

Then into the lake a stone he threw,
Something always that he used to do.

And Jake got up and came to his side,
As the two left for home while the sun finally died.

Party Pleasing With Ease

Dinner parties often are easy-pleasing until the cook tries to think of new and different appetizers. If she's clever, she'll use what she has on hand to make a Sweet-Sour Dipping Sauce for fried shrimp, egg roll or bacon-wrapped chicken livers.

Then if she needs a second before-dinner delicacy, she might heat frankfurter nuggets in Currant Glaze, again using kitchen-handly foods. In both recipes preserves are called upon, for their goodness extends way beyond breakfast toast or coffee-time muffins.

Apple jelly "makes" the dipping sauce and currant jelly partners with salad mustard to glaze the franks. You'll see—at your very next party.

Sweet-Sour Dipping Sauce

1 tablespoon salad oil 2 tablespoons vinegar
1 clove garlic, minced 1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/4 cup sliced green onions 1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 (10-ounce) jar apple jelly

Combine oil, garlic and onions in saucepan; cook over low heat for a few minutes. Add jelly and remaining ingredients; bring to boil and cook 3 minutes. Cool; serve slightly warm with fried shrimp, egg roll or bacon-wrapped chicken livers. Makes 1 cup.

Currant Glazed Appetizer Franks

1 (10-ounce) jar currant jelly
1 pound cocktail franks or sliced franks
1 (6-ounce) jar salad mustard (3/4 cup)

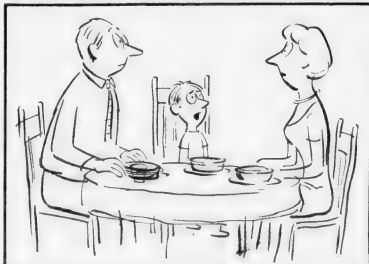

Heat jelly and mustard together, stirring occasionally, until blended. Add franks and heat. Serve with picks. Makes 8 servings.

LEISURE SUIT — Stanley Blacker designs the vest suit for the man of the 70's. Typical of the new look in men's wear, it's styled in Cone's ribbies cotton corduroy.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Jan. 21 - 28

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - If you are not involved in litigation, you can reap many benefits both social and financial. A feeling of independence prevails.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Much of the opposition has evaporated so correspondence or dealing with others go well. Your restlessness is forerunner of things to come.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Use caution this week as other people are apt to be violent and say things they don't mean. Look beyond the smoke screen.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - You should avoid acting on impulse this week and seek advice before making any important decisions. Your partner is willing to talk.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Creative activities are on the upswing and should bring in some added money soon. New friends add excitement to social scene.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Health problems can cause trouble this week and some emotional upsets are likely. Beware people who are only giving illusion of power.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - There are so many social activities going on and so many friends to visit, the problem is which to do first. Just don't over-do!

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - There is an important change of consciousness and the use of diplomacy will be to your benefit when dealing with others.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - This is the time to make your move but don't over-do things. Use good judgement and be prudent in all your affairs this week.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - There is a lot going on behind the scenes for you to talk about and your natural sense of prudence will keep you out of trouble.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Your enthusiastic response to friends can keep you busy for some time to come. Ideas are good but others may not listen yet.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Good judgement and a little caution is needed this week to maintain your reputation. Career affairs can keep you hopping for the month.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

What's Your Bag?

Are you a wishful shrinker or a real doer? Having made up your mind that this is the year to be thin, how are you preparing for the attack on your fat? A few words of advice...

A full refrigerator will go much further than the dozens of diet pamphlets you have sent for and certainly do more for your ultimate success and health than diet pills.

Of course when I say a full refrigerator I mean full of the right kind of foods. A good diet starts in the supermarket where what you are shows in your shopping cart, and carries through to your refrigerator where hopefully you have whipped up some of the recipes you find in the column and they are sitting, waiting for your appetite to call.

I hope you will agree with me that a safe, sane realistic diet is the bag for you.

If you have any questions regarding dieting or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Ave., Merrick, New York.

SCALLOP CREOLE

1 Cup Tomato Juice

1 Teaspoon Chopped Parsley
1/4 Teaspoon Dried Thyme
1/4 Teaspoon Salt
Dash Tabasco
1 Bay Leaf
1 Pound Scallops
1 Clove Garlic, Minced

In small saucepan, combine all ingredients except scallops and garlic. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes.

In skillet, saute scallops and garlic over very low heat until scallops are lightly browned. Combine scallops and tomato juice mixture and serve. Recipe contains equivalent of 12 ounces of cooked protein.

'Are You Really To Blame?'

It's a kind of American sport to blame...it's the name of the game to blame the President...the coach or quarterback...parents...husbands/wives... some people blame themselves. Letters from readers tell me that many people engage in this kind of blaming.

A wife said recently..."I'm just sick and tired of saying "I'm sorry" when I have done nothing to be sorry for."

It's completely dishonest to take the blame for something which you haven't done. This wife had adjusted and adjusted and adjusted to her selfish...neurotic husband. He didn't want to have friends...he didn't trust people...he feared she'd waste money. If she displeased him in any little way he'd punish her with a pouting silence until she could stand it no longer and would come crawling to him saying..."I'm sorry... it was all my fault!". Now...at long last she'd come to her senses...had learned that her husband was a spoiled "mama's boy"...that he was manipulating her just as he had manipulated his mother. She had been blaming herself. Now she is placing the responsibility for the marriage breakdown where it belonged.

It is a very common thing for a wife to blame a husband who finds the companionship of another woman more satisfying than herself. She blames the man...her friends blame the man...judges in probate courts often blame the man. Perhaps the real reason for the man's affair is a wife's coldness whose womanhood was undeveloped...for whom the sexual relationship is an unpleasant duty...not a pleasure. She used her man for security...but failed to meet his needs by being a fulfilled and fulfilling woman. Behind the closed doors her failure is hidden...to outsiders she comes up smelling sweet as a rose. The man gets blamed...yet she literally drove him to his "affair" by her unresponsiveness and emasculation. For that man to take the blame for her womanly inadequacy is not reasonable. Are you really to blame?

There are two good reasons why a partner should not take the blame for the other partner's weakness. First...because it simple perpetuates the problem...it enables the weakness to be avoided...and thus continued...by pointing to "what he had done." If the man comes whimpering..."It's all my fault...I was unfaithful...ungrateful...I'm so sorry...take me back and I'll be good"...he is falsely taking blame...giving comfort to and perpetuating his wife's sick attitude of resistance-to-the-male...which caused the trouble in the first place.

The second reason is that it causes the partner taking the blame to also take on guilt...and we all know that guilt destroys a person...whether real or false guilt. A woman came into the office recently with a black eye...scratched cheek...and a bruise on her left leg. "How'd all this happen?" I asked. [I get a little curious about such things.] With great hesitation she finally said that her husband had done it and quickly added..."but he didn't mean to...he was drinking...he's really a good man...maybe I caused him to do it." When I pressed her for what she had done to cause such an attack she couldn't come up with a thing. "Then why take the blame for it?" I asked. Her answer..."I always blame myself." She was an unhappy woman...first because of the way her husband treated her and secondly...because she was taking on guilt which she couldn't shake because she had done nothing for which to feel guilty.

Anyone who has lived with the alcoholic knows how easy it is to fall into this trap of blaming and doubting oneself...because the myth has been perpetuated that someone else causes one to drink. Hog-wash! You drink progressively because of your own physiological liver dysfunction...not because your husband/wife does something you don't like.

It occurs to me that a far more adult approach to the assigning or taking of blame would be a rational recognition of human inadequacies...then strong effort at correction...without putting the monkey on anyone's shoulder. It might not work in American politics...but I'm sure it will work in the American home.

Former Student Donates $1,500 Gift To Voc-Tech

A former Quincy Trade School student, Richard Ceriani, and his associate, Anthony Cibotti, of Lafayette Distributing Supply Co., have presented an air conditioning type of unit to Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Known as a "Heil Season

Selector with a Hermitage remote condensing unit with pre-charged lines", the gift has an approximate value of $1,500. It will be used as a teaching model for students in the school's air conditioning and refrigeration classes.

Mr. Ceriani, a 1954 student in the Plumbing Department, made a formal presentation to Maurice Daly, assistant superintendent in charge of vocational education; Laurence Babin, director of Quincy Vocational-Technical School, and Eugen Silverio, instructor in air conditioning and refrigeration.

Nancy Knew Why

One day Nancy took a walk around the block. There she saw a dog with three legs. Then it became dark in her home in her bed. The lights were off it was dark. Suddenly she fell asleep. She dreamed she was in dreamland. She saw a strange plant with waving arms. So she went near and it strangled her and she woke up screaming and crying. Her mother & father came running to her. They said what's the matter Nancy she said nothing but hugged & kissed there mother and father. So that's how Nancy Knew Why.

Winter

In winter all the children run. They run and run to have some fun.

They go and ski
Then have some tea.

After they have a nice warm drink
They go and skate at a rink.

Then they go, then they sled
When they come back they go to bed.

Then they go right to sleep
Then there is not a single peep.

Air Pollution

The Edison makes smoke and causes Air Pollution. The ships cars and trucks make air pollution. The people should not throw things off the ship. The buses smoke killed two men across the water. Two people made a fire and caused air pollution. All these things cause air pollution and more things that can be stopped if everyone will try to help stop it. Because if this is stopped the world will look a lot better and live a little better. If it can be stopped then lets. Cant we stop all the lets.

A Day To Remember

One day I went to a movie with my family. The movie was about a little girl that had a dog. The dog liked Patty very much. One day the little girl went to school. The little dog would wait out on the steps. One day the little dog did not go to school with the little girl. So that day the little dog went out to play and he was following another dog. He crossed the street and a car came and hit the little dog. When the little girl called her dog. Her mother did say your dog got hit buy a car. She said this is a day to remember.

A Two Ending Story

Jepley Cantol went to the city to buy some fruit. He saw his brother Zechrul there. His brother was as fat as 2 elephants, 5 hogs & 31 buffalo. He took 30,000 seats to sit in. Recently at the county fair 30,000 seats had been put away. Zechrul sat on the people. Everyone was screaming and yelling. Then suddenly, a herd of buffalo came charging toward the people. They couldn't run because Zechrul had a tight grip on them. What do you think they did?

The Fall Days

One day I saw a pretty leaf. I picked it up. It had different colors. I brought it to the house. I put it in a big cup. Then I put water in it. Something happened to the leaf. It turned brown. The winter came and my Mother said to throw it out. I was sad, but soon fall came and what do you think? I saw a pretty leaf and I told my Mother. She laughed. I said, "What is the matter?" My Mother said, "Nothing." My leaf and I lived happily ever after.

When I Was Little

When I was little I was afraid of water. Everytime I went near water I screamed. One night I had a dream that a little green man came out from the radiator. He was going to bite me but I stuck my tongue out at him. Then he started to cry. Then he said, "I hate you!" I said I think you are mean!" Ha! Ha! He started to cry and said "I really liked you know. Will you like me yes."

And meeting someone with a different face.
Tonight I'll dream I'll be in Iran

Then around the world I'll sail to Rome,

My Balloons

It was a windy day. I came from the circus with some balloons. The wind started to blow harder and harder and all at once a big blow came. Whoa, I said but the wind just blew harder. It picked me up. I went higher than my house, higher than the trees! I passed the apartment. A bird came along. It started to peck on the balloons. It popped one balloon. I went down. I almost landed but I started to go up again. I was about fifty nine feet high and the bird came back. It started to peck again. I said, "Shoo-shoo-scat." The bird said that the balloon was too hard. He was on the last balloon. Pop! He finished. I fell down - down I hit the ground. I landed in a pile of leaves and they had to put me in a hospital because I broke a leg.

On my vacation I went to Salisbury Beach in New Hampshire. We left after the hockey game on Saturday. It took about two hours. We saw a lot of horses on the way. We had fun there. My Tall Tale

Once upon a time there was a little baby fox. Who ate nothing but cardboard. So one early morning in August, Mother decided to let baby fox go out into the woods to play. So baby fox went out to get his friends Baby Bear and Baby Bunny. So then they skipped along and then Baby fox found a piece of cardboard and started to eat it. Baby Bunny and Baby Bear ran away from Baby fox. I guess they just didn't want to play with a card board eater.

Jewish Community Center Nursery School Starts Afternoon Sessions

The Quincy Jewish Community Center Nursery School at 10 Merrymount Rd is expanding.

Because of the success of the morning program, an afternoon session, three days a week, was started Jan. 25.

The informal program allows each child to progress at his own pace, choosing from a wide variety of creative activities. These include science programs, carpentry, music, dance, arts and crafts, care of nursery pets, indoor sandboxes, climbing apparatus, etc.

Weather permitting each day includes a period of outdoor play and occasional field trips. Spontaneous play is respected, and guided when needed.

Mrs. Carole Neitlich, is teaching a course called "Creative Experiences in the Classroom" and helps to train pre-school teachers for the Department of Public Health and the Department of Education.

SIDE ACTION—During an hour's layover at Kennedy Airport enroute to Florida, a gasoline truck exploded giving team chance to see airport fire department in action. There were no injuries.

Quincy High's Football Champs Trip To Florida

'The Year That Was'

In Quincy High School football, 1970 will go down as "The Year That Was." Nine times the Presidents took the field and nine times they came off the winner.

Not only that but the 1970 edition was the first team in the school's history to go through a season both undefeated and untied.

In doing so, the Presidents captured the Greater Boston League championship and shared the Eastern Mass. Class A title with Lowell.

And, in doing so, they extended their win streak to 12 games going back to the 1969 season.

It was one of the greatest high school grid teams ever to come out of the South Shore.

And, for head Coach Hank Conroy, a pretty good back himself at Quincy in the early 1940's, it was a coach's dream come true.

As soon as the season was over, the proud Quincy Fathers Club launched a fund-raising drive in hopes of sending the champs to the Orange Bowl game New Years Night as a reward. Goal: $15,300.

The drive was kicked off at the Christmas Festival Parade Nov. 29. Collected along the parade route: $2,668.

Hundreds of fans and friends were then heard from as donations rolled into the Quincy Savings Bank and Quincy Sun office, drop-off points for the campaign.

On Dec. 31, the 63-member squad, Principal Lloyd Creighton, Conroy, Assistant Coaches Glen Macomber, Dave Burke, John Boyan and Art Mosher and Fathers Club chaperones were off to Miami aboard the National Airlines Boeing 747--world's largest airliner.

They saw the Orange Bowl game and spent four days vacationing in a over 70-degree Miami weather.

For Conroy and the squad, it was a season to remember. And a trip to remember.

They come along like that only in a "Year That Was".

The champs who made the trip and will forever remember it thanks to the generosity of so many, are:

William Maver, Richard Menchi, Robert Gallo, David Lomano, Michael McGunagle, Paul Fanning, Robert Conti, Michael Craig, William Herbert, Robert D'Cristafano.

John Provost, Frank Pellegrino, Jon Milkowski, Robert Sylva, John Alfano, Ferris Hanna, James Buchianeri, Phil Luoma, Charles Mackay.

Joseph Nicaastro, George Sisti, Kevin Shea, Peter Gacicia, Sal Ventrilli, James Hanlon, David Infesselli, Paul Sampson, Patrick Corcoran, John Warren.

Joseph Coner, David Coull, Steve Laveau, Dennis Satterthwaite, Mike Guadino, Robert Malvesti, Fred Lumley, Michael Suikola.

OFF ON deep-sea fishing excursion are Ron Mastropietro, John Warren, Jack Wier, Frank DiCristafaro, Don Austin, Dave Maggani, Dave Spencer and [in background] Bob Volpini. The water turned out to be choppy and about all the boys caught was an introduction to sea sickness.

Quincy Hopes To Shake Flu Bug

If the flu bug decides to leave and 6-5 Bill Burke is able to get back into shape, Quincy's basketball picture should take a decided turn for the better over the second half of the season.

The Presidents, who broke even in two games last week to bring their overall record to 3-4 [3-3 in the Greater Boston League], faced non-league rival B. C. High Tuesday.

Coach Marty Finnegan hopes the flu, which has swept through the school, will be a thing of the past when his club faces powerful cross-town rival North Quincy at North Friday night. Tuesday Quincy faces another unenviable task, playing at Somerville.

Following a 74-61 loss to Revere, Quincy, with several players either still sidelined with the flu or just back in action and playing under par, squeezed by Chelsea, 68-57, in overtime. This thrilling win gave Quincy a 1-1 record in overtime games.

"These boys have really been slowed down by the flu and the subs have been doing a fine job for us," Finnegan said. "We finally had Billy Mayer back against Chelsea after he had missed two games [both losses] and he played an excellent game with 18 points and 10 rebounds. However, we didn't move the ball or shoot well and I feel the flu situation had a lot to do with it."

Also turning in his usual outstanding game was Bob Pike, 6-3 forward who had 15 points and 17 rebounds. John Reggiani, continuing his fine play, chipped in with 11 points.

Burke, who appeared for a few seconds against Revere, played a part of the Chelsea game but had to leave in the opening period when his ankle, broken a week before the first game, bothered him again. He scored two quick baskets before his departure.

"Bill's return would certainly help us out both in scoring and rebounding," Finnegan, bothered by a cold himself, said. "It may be a while before he can really help us, though."

The third period was Quincy's best as it hit on nine of 11 from the floor and increased a halftime 23-20 edge to 44-37, only to have the Red Devils tie it up in the fourth and force the game into overtime.

"We finally woke up in the third period but promptly went right back to sleep," said the Quincy coach.

Quincy had a 45-31 edge in rebounding and a 52-28 advantage in shooting percentage but 15 turnovers hurt it considerably.

The actual margin of victory was provided by Mike Donoghue, who sank two foul shots with 1:29 left in the extra session. This made the score 58-55 and Chelsea came back with a basket but couldn't tie it again.

In the Revere game the Patriots proved why they were regarded one of the league's pre-season favorites as their fast breaking offense accounted for 66 of their 74 points from the floor and their pressing defense kept the Presidents pretty well under control.

With Mayer out of action, the big Revere squad had a big edge off the boards and its pressing tactics forced a number of Quincy turnovers of which it took advantage.

"We really felt Mayer's loss off the boards in this game and our foul shooting again was poor [13 for 27]," Finnegan explained. "Overall, it was a disappointing game and was probably our worst of the year with too many turnovers and missed layups."

Pike scored 19 points and Reggiani had 16.

North Discovers Turnovers Mean A Lot

When you face a team playing an almost perfect game and hurt yourselves with turnovers, it is pretty hard to win.

But when you force the other team to make the turnovers it is a much different story.

North Quincy Coach Bob Nolan found these two facts out last week when the Raiders suffered their first loss of the year, then rebounded for an easy win.

North, with a 5-1 Greater Boston League record and 6-1 overall mark, had a day off Tuesday but Friday night hosts capable cross-town rival Quincy. Next Tuesday the Raiders greet a tough Revere team which just lost to North, 78-76, earlier in the season.

In last week's game at Somerville, North was beaten by the undefeated Highlanders, defending GBL champions and current leaders, by a totally unexpected 68-49 margin.

The Raiders bounced right back later in the week to wallop Malden, 60-44, which delighted Nolan no end.

"At Somerville we just ran into a team which played an almost perfect game," said the North coach.

"They had a fantastic shooting average and didn't have a single turnover until the final 50 seconds of the game. Early turnovers hurt us. We had nine in the first period and seven in the second, enabling them to roll up a big lead [36-20 at halftime]. We had to play catch-up ball and that is a big order at Somerville.

There were comparatively few fouls in the game with North being hit with 18 and Somerville only 13. Somerville hit on 16 of 25, North on 11 of 18.

Tom Cairns, 6-8 center, had 13 points and Tony Kelly 11 for the Raiders. Nolan had special praise for Kelly for his two-way play and hailed Bob Flaherty for holding Mike Fahey, who had been averaging 30 points a game, to only 18, his season's low.

But in the next game it was Malden which was forced into the costly turnovers, and, after falling behind, 13-11, in the opening period, the Raiders bounced back to take a 23-19 lead at the half and increased it in each of the last two periods.

"I was pleased with our defense which forced them into 19 turnovers while we had only five," Nolan said. "That is a whole ballgame in itself."

Bob admittedly was not satisfied with a sputtering offense but lauded the defense as superb. "It was good to see the team come back after the loss at Somerville," he said.

Four North players hit double figures. Dave Nelson with 14, Cairns with 13, Ken Baker and Brian Donahue with 12 each.

Joe Amoroso's North junior varsity easily won, 65-26, with Pete Bellotti scoring 20 points and Kevin Masters 12.

Trackmen Eye State Meet

The Met Track League, with only one set of meets including the Quincy-North clash, remaining, is idle until Feb. 6 when it will wind up at the Navy's Fargo Building.

In the meantime, the schoolboys now set their sights on the annual state meet.

The Class A [including Quincy] and D trials will be held Friday at 4 p.m. at Northeastern and the B [including North Quincy] and C trials Saturday at 9 a.m. at MIT.

The qualifiers will compete in the state meet Jan. 30 at Boston Garden.

Quincy, winner of its first two league meets, was edged by Rindge Tech, 47-39, last week for its fourth loss in a row.

The Presidents won five events. They swept the shot put but took only two other seconds, and eight third places weren't enough to pull out a win.

Bobby Ciano remained undefeated in the mile, Brian Feeney won the 1000, Jim Dubois the two-mile, Jim Buccianeri the shot put and Ray Lawyer the dash.

The only second place finishers were John Johnson in the high jump and Roberto Volpini in the shot. Taking thirds were Paul Wahlberg, mile; Mike Orlando, 1000; Chris Toy, 600; Pete Ciano, two-mile; Pete Daly, 300; Kevin Egersheim, high jump and hurdles, and Layer, shot put.

Winless North Quincy bowed to Arlington, 57 1/3-28 2/3, as the Raiders won only two events, including the relay, and Arlington swept three events.

John Panarelli continued undefeated in the shot put but that was the only individual win for North.

Taking seconds were Bob McCormack in the mile, Joe Marini, 300; Kevin Henry, two-mile; George McCall, high jump, and Lee Davis, hurdles. Third place finishers were Jeff Strungis, 600; Tim Flynn, 300; Flynn and McCormack, tied in high jump, and Davis, shot put.

Muldowney, McSweeney Teams Lead Koch Club Women

Koch Club Seniors in the women's bowling league are led by Nancy Muldowney's team who took the first half.

Jeanne McSweeney's team leads the Koch Club Termites.

Other members are Barbara Welch, Susan Kane and Patty Batts.

In Saturday's games, Laurie

DiCarlo's team placed first with 1,123 with Laurie herself rolling the high team single of 395. Next in both places were Judy Flynn's team with 1,108, and Judy with high of 392.

Carol Morris had the high individual three of 346, and tied for high single of 125 with Judy Abbruzzese. Denise Berezsniewicz had a high three of 337.

Top 10 bowlers are Joanne Flynn with 95.1 average; Denise Berezsniewicz, 94.4; Leno Puleo, 93.3, followed by Carol Morris, Judy Abbruzzese, Pat Monahan, Susan Batts, Pat McGrath, Tricia Newcomb and Jeanne Rathgeb.

Playing with Jeanne McSweeney on the top Termites team are Mary Welch, Jean Tabak and Joanne Ruane.

Gail Gattorna's team had the high team score of 976, with Gail rolling 351. Debbie Alessi's team followed with 938 pinfall, and Debbie rolling 338. Gail Gattorna placed first with 342 high individual three, and high single of 126. Following was Ann Alibrandi with high three of 309 and high single of 120.

Top 10 bowlers are Ann Alibrandi with 89, Susan Ball 86.1; Gail Gattorna, 85.3; Kathy McSweeney, Carol Sears, Marie Nestor, Debbie Alessi, Mary Cooney, Adrienne White and Jackie Little.

Quincy Seeks 6, North Meets Revere

FORMER QUINCY Co-Captain Jim Ducey has clinched a starting guard berth on the University of Vermont basketball team. Ducey has taken over as the team leader and playmaker and, according to Coach Art Loche, has done a very effective job. He is a sophomore and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ducey of 138 Waterston Ave., Quincy.

Bradley Back On Beam For Nazarene

North Quincy's Ron Bradley appears to be back on the beam again which makes Eastern Nazarene's basketball picture much brighter.

ENC returned from the three-week holiday layoff and defeated Husson, 89-81, and Bridgewater State, 89-69, as Bradley sparked.

The Crusaders then made a two-day trip to Maine and, after leading most of the way, dropped a 94-90 heartbreaker to Unity. They then nipped Husson, 74-73, to make their season's record 8-4.

Bradley, who averaged 30.6 points a game last year and received numerous honors, had been shooting less and passing off more until the addition of 6-7, 220-pound Rick Reyenger, former Quincy High standout. This enabled Coach Jim Smith to have Bradley begin shooting more and it has paid off.

Against Husson in the first game he exploded for 43 points, had 17 rebounds and 11 assists.

WJDA To Broadcast Hockey Game Saturday

Radio Station WJDA will broadcast its first hockey game Saturday at 1:45 p.m.

Archbishop Williams of Braintree will be playing the Boston College High team at Against Bridgewater he played only half the game but scored 22 points, pulled down 15 rebounds and had 11 assists.

"After that game the officials told me Ron was one of the best they had ever seen and admitted they called him for traveling several times by mistake due to his great deception," Smith said.

ENC led Unity, 90-89, with only a minute left but Unity scored two quick baskets and time ran out before the Wollaston hoopmen could recover.

The bright spot in this game was the performance of freshman Clark Adams, who exploded for 31 points. Bradley had 21. Reyenger 12 and North Quincy's Don Constantine, a consistently fine performer, 10.

ENC played at Farmington, Me., Tuesday, goes to Roberts Wesleyan tonight, hosts Roberts Friday night at Quincy Vo-Tech and Saturday is home to Gordon at Vo-Tech.

Ridge Arena. Chet Gould will be doing the play by play broadcast.

Plans are to continue the local hockey broadcasts for the next five Saturdays.

Quincy Hockey Coach Bob Sylvia believes in calling a spade a spade.

When his players perform well, he is quick to praise them but when he feels they play a poor game and fail to display hustle, he tells them so.

Some coaches, including some of Bob's fellow Quincy High coaches, don't go along with this philosophy. But it apparently is paying off for Sylvia.

When Quincy dropped a 1-0 decision to Greater Boston League leading Medford, Bob blasted the Presidents for what he called a very poor game and lack of hustle.

The players apparently took heed and in their next game turned in one of their better performances in walloping North Quincy, 6-1.

Then, with several players ailing [the flu has spread through the school like wildfire], the Presidents came from behind to tie second place Everett, 1-1.

Monday Quincy continued to play well and defeated Chelsea, 5-0, as Ed Weidemann scored three goals and added an assist for four points.

Saturday night Quincy seeks its sixth win when it meets Somerville in the second of four games at Boston Arena. North Quincy meets Revere in the 5:30 p.m. opener. Monday night Quincy faces Malden at 7:30 and North meets Medford in the second game at Weymouth Skating Club.

"I don't believe in being too easy on these boys," Bob said. "When they do a good job I say so but when I think they do a bad job and don't hustle, I also say so. Some of the other coaches don't like it but that's just the way I am. Against Medford the boys certainly were not hustling and I let them know it. When the puck went into the corner they just stood around waiting for the other to go after it instead of digging in and driving for it."

"But against North Quincy they played a real fine game. We came alive in that game and I was very pleased. I'll take that against a North team because we have respect for them. It is a good night anytime you can score six goals against them."

"And, the boys also did very well against Medford. Several of them were under par but they gave their all and I had no complaints whatever. Ed Weidemann, who scored the tying goal with less than five minutes left, was especially outstanding as was our goalie, Artie Boyle."

Against North Quincy Dom Burke put Quincy ahead with an unassisted goal in the opening period and in the second session Weidemann took Bob Cattaneo's pass and converted to make it 2-0.

Also in that second period, when, as Sylvia said, "we put it away", Jim Cattaneo scored unassisted, Steve Bergonzi hit with Jim Cattaneo assisting, and Johnny Black rang the bell on a pass from Burke. In the finale Jim Starkey scored with an assist from Paul Campbell and North averted a shutout on Nick Struzik with assists for Neil Cronin and Al Stracuzzi.

"We used a lot of sophomores in this game and everyone played," Sylvia went on. "Our third line of Starkey, Campbell, both sophomores, and Ken Kearney, a senior, impressed me. Pete McNally, another soph, also played well. Then, we had a new second line of sophomore Black and veterans Burke and Alan Colby and they moved the puck well."

North Coach Ron Ellison was disappointed. "I thought we'd do better than that and it really hurts to lose, especially to Quincy," he said. "But our boys gave me 100 percent but things just didn't go our way. Quincy played very well and certainly deserved the win."

On the same night Quincy tied Everett, North wound up in a disappointing 3-3 tie with Chelsea, despite the hat trick [three goals] by Tom O'Malley.

North led, 3-1, with only four minutes to play but the Red Devils bounced back to tie it up.

One of O'Malley's goals was unassisted while Bobby Golden assisted on two and Ken Graham also had an assist.

"This tie was very disappointing to us because it looked like we had our third win just about wrapped up," Erikson said. "But, again, the boys played their hearts out and you can't ask any more than that."

Monday night Quincy moved into a second place tie with Everett thanks to the Presidents' 5-0 romp over Chelsea and North Quincy, playing one of its better games, especially on defense, holding Everett to a 1-1 tie in games at Weymouth.

Weidemann, with Bob and Jim Cattaneo assisting, and Weidemann again, with Steve Kleimola assisting, put Quincy ahead, 2-0, in the opening period. In the middle period Weidemann scored on a pass from Kleimola and Jim Cattaneo scored his second goal with Weidemann assisting. In the final session Bob Cattaneo completed the scoring unassisted.

North Quincy put on its finest defensive exhibition of the season against strong Everett.

QJC Downs Cape, Bows To Massasoit

The Quincy Junior College basketball team came back from the holiday vacation to topple Cape Cod Community College, 61-57, in overtime but then was bombed by powerful Massasoit, 92-50, as Massasoit stretched its undefeated streak to nine.

The even split left QJC with a 2-4 Mass. Conference record but only a 3-9 overall mark.

Luigi Fleuteri hit on a three-pointer with 17 seconds left to send the Cape Cod game into overtime and Bob Uhlar's basket and two foul shots by Fleuteri clinched the win in the extra period.

Fleuteri, Jim Machado and Rich Ross all hit for 16 points for the Quincy five.

It was no contest against potent Massasoit as the winners, dominating the boards, had a 46-27 halftime lead and outscored QJC, 46-23, in the second half.

Ross had 13 points, Machado 12 and Fleuteri 11 for the out-classed Quincy team.

QUINCY TENNIS CLUB WINNERS -- Receiving awards were Mrs. Barbara Mahar, women's singles; Mrs. Jesse Copman and Mrs. Jane Heggie, women's doubles; Bill Powers, winner of annual Hobart Holly Award for most promising junior tennis player; Sally Rickson, women's lobster tourney. At rear are Bob Pipes and Dr. Phil Maloney, men's doubles. Dr. Maloney also received the men's singles award.

McLaughlin Signs As Scout

Quincy's Dick McLaughlin, who had an outstanding 12-year

minor league baseball career but never could quite make it with the Los Angeles Dodgers has called it quits to become a scout for the Dodgers.

Dick, former Abp. Williams outfielder, will scout 20 states in the midwest, looking for talent for the Dodgers in high schools, colleges and pro leagues in the area.

McLaughlin was offered the job at the end of the 1970 season by Bert Wells, midwest scouting supervisor, and he quickly accepted.

Highly thought of in the Dodgers' organization, he was pretty certain of a job when he quit playing. In 1966 Fresno Thompson, then the club's vice president, said "There is no reason why he should not be a valuable member of our organization."

Dick, always a good hitter, began as a pitcher in 1958 when signed by Cohasset's Billy Enos for the Kansas City Athletics. He was released after one year and signed as an outfielder in 1960 by Bill Kearns, Weymouth basketball coach, then a scout for the Dodgers. Bill, incidentally, now scouts for the Kansas City Royals.

Dick played in every classification of minor league ball, up through the Sophomore League to the Three-L, Pioneer, Northwest, California, Texas and finally to the top minor league classification, the Triple-A Pacific Coast League where he played for the past several years with Spokane Indians.

Until last year when the 30-year-old McLaughlin was a player-coach and used almost exclusively as a pinch hitter, he had hit around .300 every year.

THANK YOU

We wish to thank the hundreds of fans and friends who made it possible for the Quincy High School State Class A and Greater Boston League championship football team to make its recent trip to Miami and the Orange Bowl game.

And a special personal thank-you to the Quincy Sun for its generous and outstanding news coverage which by focusing city-wide attention on our fund-raising campaign to finance the trip, made it a success.

Without the generosity and help of all, the memorable trip for the team would not have been possible.

On behalf of the team and coaches, the Quincy Fathers Club thanks all of you most sincerely.

Men's Candlepin Tourney To Start Rolling Sunday

The 18th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney opens Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St.

Twelve teams will compete in the opening round with the remaining entries bowling on Jan. 31.

Sunday's competition includes the Federal Auto Body, Quincy Merchants, Louie's Cafe, North Quincy K. of C., Squantum Men, St. Boniface, Wollaston Men, Professional Men, Quincy Church League, the Social Club, Carlyle Merchants and the host Koch Club of Quincy.

A representative of each team should be at the alleys at 12:45 p.m. on Sunday to draw for their opposition. Each team will draw for an alley, with the team drawing the opposite alley providing the opposition for the afternoon.

Deadline for entries is tomorrow evening. Applications must be returned to the Merrymount Daylight Alleys by this date.

The tourney is sponsored annually by the Koch Club of Quincy.

Women's Candlepin Tourney Underway Feb. 21

The 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney starts Feb. 21 at 1 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., where applications are now available.

The tourney which originated in 1956 at Norfolk Downs Alley with eight teams competing, saw an increase last year to 30 teams.

It is sponsored annually by the Koch Club of Quincy.

Any organized women's candlepin bowling league is eligible to enter a team. "No pickup teams will be allowed." The top five bowlers in the league as of Feb. 1, 1971 bowl in competition with the sixth and seventh bowlers used as alternates.

Bowlers entered must have bowled half the season thus far with their respective leagues. Any violation of these rules will forfeit the team's participation. It is an elimination tourney, and each team must win to continue. A fifty dollar cash prize will be awarded the winning team, and each team member will receive a trophy.

Trophies will be awarded also for high tourney average, high three and high single.

UCT Holds Lead In Pee Wee Division

United Commercial Travelers continues to hold a slight lead in the Quincy Youth Hockey League Pee Wee Division with six wins and one loss, 30 goals and 10 assists.

Davis is second with six wins, one loss and 26 goals.

In this week's competition, UCT defeated Morrisette Post 4-0, with Mark Rooney and Paul Messina scoring one each for UCT; Brian Jolley, with two to his credit. Assists were by Bob Hayes, Dick Reinhardt, Rich Carnah and John Norton.

The Daniel Davis team continued its winning trend with a two point lead over Maguire's Lounge, 3-1. Ed Santry scored twice for Davis, Rich McCarter, once. John Marsters, Frank Lapierre, Rich O'Connell and Dave Peters were credited with assists. James Mailbach, unassisted, gave Maguire's its point.

Wollaston Theatre took over Hannon Tire 8-1. Scoring for Wollaston were Mike McGrath, Bill Doherty, Rich Dorney, John Cooney, Paul Cooney, Bob Fitzpatrick, one each, and Rich Meehan with two goals. Rich Meehan and Rich Dorney had assists.

Crestview won over Keohan's

3-2. Scoring for Crestview were Jim Mossesso, Chris Erickson and Jim Triglia, with assists by Jim Triglia and Jim Mossesso. John Furey and Dan Donovan accounted for Keohan's goals, with assists by Hugh MacDermott.

In the Bantam League, Sweeney defeated Farina 6-1. Sweeney's goals were by John Ryan, and Gerry McEleney, two each, Rob Henderson and Joe Pistorino, one each. Assists were by John Ahola, John Norton, Robert Marsters, Pete Raymer, with Fred Murray credited with two. Paul O'Donnell scored Farina's goal, assisted by Paul Lynch.

Davis won over Cox 5-3.

QEA President Opposes Charter Flight Restriction

Robert W. Garner, president of the Quincy Education Association, is opposing legislation which would eliminate charter flight service by an organization with more than 20,000 members, as proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

"In as much as our organization has close to 800 members and is affiliated with the 45,000-member Massachusetts Teachers Association, QEA would oppose this pending legislation," Garner says.

He has written to Senators Edward W. Brooke and Edward M. Kennedy and Congressman James A. Burke asking their assistance in opposing any attempt to restrict teacher organizations from utilizing charter aircraft.

He points out that it is in the national interest for teachers to have access to the most economical forms of transportation to help improve the education of school children everywhere.

Webby Promoted To Annapolis Executive Post

Edward C. Webby, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Edward Webby of 2 Sachem Park, Wollaston, has been appointed administrative assistant to the County Executive of Community and Industrial Affairs in Anne Arundel County, Annapolis, Md.

Webby, who joined the county group in 1968, was coordinator of the county's abandoned automobile program, which has been acclaimed a model for the entire state.

He also initiated a Youth in Government program, patterning it after Quincy's group in which he had participated as a student.

Webby, a 1959 Quincy High School graduate, graduated from St. John's College in Annapolis in 1963, and did graduate work in physics for two summers at the University of Vermont on a National Science Foundation Fellowship.

His previous positions were with Reuben Donnelly Corp. in Washington, and as a teacher at Otter Valley High School in Brandon, Vt., where he was head of the science department.

He is married to the former Lois Blum of Chevy Chase, Md. and they have three children.

Comdr. John M. Quin, Jr. Patrol Squadron CO

Navy Commander John M. Quin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Quin of 33 Pontiac Road, Merrymount, has assumed duties as Commanding Officer of Patrol Squadron 17 at the U.S. Naval Station, Sangley Point, Philippines.

A 1946 graduate of Boston College High School, he was commissioned a Naval officer in 1953 after attending the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy.

Col. Stephen Keefe, Named Assistant To AF Reserve Deputy Chief

Col. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., of Quincy, has been named Reserve Assistant to the Deputy to the Chief of the Air Force Reserve, with duty at the Pentagon in Washington.

Colonel Keefe, a civilian attorney in Quincy, formerly served as vice commander of the 94th Military Airlift Wing at L.G. Hanscom Field, Mass.

He enlisted in the Air Force in April 1942 and was appointed an aviation cadet in August of the same year. He received his pilot's wings and was commissioned a second lieutenant in May 1943. During the remainder of World War II he was with the Air Transport Command and served as a C-54 flight commander in North Africa from November 1944 until February 1946.

After separation from active duty in April 1946 he entered the Air Force Reserve at L.G. Hanscom Field. He was recalled to active duty in February 1950 and served in Korea during the Korean Conflict as a tactical inspector and legal officer with the 8th Fighter Bomber Wing from July 1951 until July 1952.

After the conflict, he again entered the Air Force Reserve at L.G. Hanscom Field and held several staff assignments between January 1954 and July 1968 including tactical inspector and later wing operations officer for the 94th Troop Carrier Wing; commander, 731st Troop Carrier Squadron; commander, 901st Troop Carrier Group; and commander, 901st Military Airlift Group.

Colonel Keefe became a mobilization augmentee with the Office of Plans and Operations Electronics Systems Division at L.G. Hanscom Field in December 1968, a position he held until March 1970. He was then named assistant vice commander and later vice commander of the 94th Military Airlift Wing, where he served until his assignment to this Reserve general officer position.

Keefe attended Northeastern University, Suffolk University and Suffolk Law School in Boston where he received a Doctorate in Law. He is married to the former Mary T. Feeley and they have three sons, David, Michael and Stephen. The make their home at 175 Rock Island Road, Houghs Neck.

The Colonel is active in civic affairs and is a member of the American Bar Association, Massachusetts Bar Association, American Judicature Society and American Lawyers Association. He is also a member of numerous military organizations including the Reserve Officers Association, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Air Force Association.

Five School Vehicles Have New Look

Beige, orange and dark brown are the colors that give the Quincy Public School Department's five vehicles a new and distinctive look.

Adding a whimsical touch are the words, "Your Child's Business Address" written across the back of the truck cabins. The school's insignia is inscribed on the door panel, and the truck's number on the front fender.

The color scheme was developed by Walter E. Lunsman, director of arts and humanities for the Quincy Public Schools, and Richard D. Ramsdell, assistant director.

Actual painting was done in the Auto Body Department of Quincy Vocational-Technical School by Charles Magnarelli, department head, Paul Williams and Santos Romano.

In a letter to the five men,

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, commended them for the "fabulous job", adding: "The actual painting of the vehicles points to the extraordinary capability and high professional credentials of the instructors at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School. The color scheme developed by Mr. Lunsman and Mr. Ramsdell of our Arts and Humanities Department certainly is unique and distinctive."

Mothers March Starts Sunday

The annual Mothers March against birth defects will begin Sunday, Jan. 24th.

"We are most concerned with the fact that so many children are born less than perfect," said Mrs. Kenneth B. Hammerle, Quincy Mothers March Chairman.

"During the month of January," we intend to appeal to everyone in the Massachusetts Bay Chapter area and in this way insure future children of a healthy birth right. We feel certain, people will open their doors and hearts to the future of the unborn.

"If only everyone could visit one of the Birth Defects Centers supported by the March of Dimes contributors, they would see how many of these defects can be corrected so these children can lead normal and productive lives.

"The Salk Institute for Biological Studies in San Diego, California, another recipient of March of Dimes assistance, is dedicated to research projects aimed at uncovering the basic secrets of life."

Douglas Stevens On Television Jan. 28, 31

Douglas Stevens of 52 Edison Park, Quincy Point, will be seen in a live Channell 44 television program Jan. 28 at 9 p.m.

It will be taped and rebroadcast Jan. 31 over Educational Channel 2.

Stevens, 20, is a member of Boston's newest multi-media, musical comedy, rock, satire group "Gross National Productions". This is comprised of eight students, ranging from 19 to 22 years, five from Massachusetts College of Art and three from Salem State College.

Before giving their first "concert" on Dec. 1, the group spent eight months preparing their material. Each has a hand in writing, directing, singing, acting and playing one or several of the baker's dozen of instruments featured. These include drums, electric and regular pianos, tenor and alto saxophones, clarinet, flute, mandolin, violin, accordion, bass, accousti and lead guitars.

Stevens, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Stevens, attended Daniel Webster and St. Joseph's schools at Quincy Point, and graduated from Quincy High School in 1968 before entering Massachusetts College of Art.

CP Parent Counselling Meeting On Jan. 26

A meeting will be held Jan. 26 at 8 p.m. at Trinity Episcopal Church, 241 Broad St., Weymouth, in the continuing series of Cerebral-Palsy Parent Counselling Programs.

The session will be held in conjunction with a PTA meeting of the multiple Handicapped Community Clinical Nursery School, operated by Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., headed by Arthur Ciampa, of Quincy, executive director, and the South Shore Mental Health Center.

Progress reports on plans and programs for the year, and on legislative processes, will be made.

The meeting is open to parents of cerebral palsied children and others interested.

Will Cold Water Close Pores?

It is said that you should follow a hot shower with a cold one to close the pores. But, alas, according to medical authorities, there is no scientific basis for this because you can't open and close pores - period!

Pores are the openings onto the skin's surface of the sweat glands, oil glands and hair follicles. Their size can't be altered. The "enlarged pores" which is often of cosmetic concern, is the opening of a hair follicle which has a fine hair and a large oil gland. Astringents may appear to make the enlarged pores less obvious by slightly swelling the skin surrounding it.

When you take a hot bath or shower, the heat may increase the circulation slightly by causing the small blood vessels close to the surface to dilate. A cold shower immediately afterward reverses the process and may feel good, but it serves no other purpose.

Quincy Youth Hockey Squirts All Stars defeated South Boston Hockey Squirts All Stars 4-3 Saturday at the MDC Rink in South Boston.

Within minutes of the first period, Quincy was behind 2 to 0 with two fine unassisted goals by Jack Guerin of South Boston's first line, Mike Furey of Quincy's third line put Quincy on the board seconds before the end of the period.

Midway into the second period, Kevin McGrath, assisted by Mike Furey and Mark Assad, put Quincy back on an even keel and made it a new game. The three Quincy lines kept South Boston from scoring this period.

But the very fine Boston team coached by Frank Kelley would not quit. In the third period Cliff Masticole put South Boston back into the lead with an unassisted goal.

At the next face off, Mark Assad of Quincy who controlled skating on the third line, took the puck the length of the ice, fed it to Kevin McGrath who sank the tying goal. A goal by Mike Furey assisted by McGrath gave Jerry Cooney's Quincy team the hard fought win. Jim McHugh and Dean Prescott were goalies.

Quincy now sports a 7-1-0 record.

Quacks Bombed By Brighton

The Quincy Quacks street hockey buffs were buried by Brighton goals as they lost here Sunday 11-2.

The Quacks took an early 1-0 lead as Dave Stern scored from Brian Sullivan. Minutes later, Kevin Sullivan went in alone on the Bats' goalie, but was foiled.

From then on the Quacks went into a decline as the Pat Nestor's team has won the Alley Kats Bowling league first half competition.

Other team members are Dottie Schuyler, Mary Moloney, Marylou Burlingame and Rose Flavin.

In Saturday's match, Anne Cunningham's team had high team three with 1,475, and Madie DelGreco's team followed with 1,471. Madie DelGreco and Brighton team scored six straight goals. Starting a comeback, Dave Stern scored on a pass from Steve Golden, but Quincy could not sustain this drive, and Brighton scored five times more before the game ended.

The Quacks will play the league's first doubleheader this week in South Boston.

Ruth Doherty tied for high team single with 528.

Maizie Mullen had high individual three with 351 and high individual single of 135.

Top 10 bowlers are:
Pat Nestor with 1,026

average; Marie Ford, 99.5; Janice Hutchins, 99.4; Joan Prezioso, 99.1; followed by Sarah Cobban, Maizie Mullen, Anne Cunningham, Ruth Doherty, Madie DelGreco, Rita Guinta and Mal Nestor.

22 Hockey Nets Added

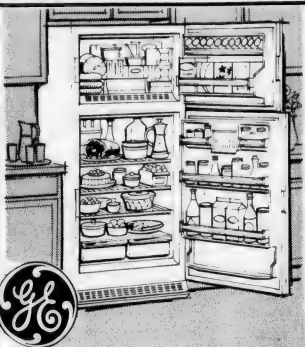

Twenty-two hockey goal nets for use on blackout school areas have been added to the Quincy Recreation Department's winter program, announces Recreation Director William F. Ryan.

The increase of interest in hockey for the past two years has resulted in boys playing "street hockey", in many cases under hazardous conditions. By putting up the new nets, Ryan hopes that some accidents may be prevented.

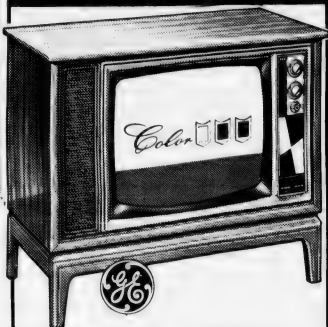

The goals, made by the department's personnel at the Dawes Memorial Building, are being set up in 10 locations where after school and Saturday programs are held for boys. These include Lincoln, Parker, Massachusetts Fields, Snug Harbor, Beechwood Knoll, Quincy, Montclair, Gridley Bryant and Wollaston Schools, and Fore River.

Individuals Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. Last year I made an error on my tax form due to a misunderstanding on my part as to how to handle medical insurance premiums. Could you help me out?

A. One-half of the premiums paid for medical insurance up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted if you itemize deductions on Schedule A. This maximum is not subject to the 3% limitation that applies to other medical expenses. The balance of the premiums should be added to the other medical deductions and is subject to the 3% limitation [3% of Adjusted Gross Income]

Q. Last Spring, I put a $500 deposit on a house. Later on, I decided not to buy the house but the real estate agent refused to give me back my $500. Can I deduct this as a bad debt?

A. No. This is a personal loss incurred by you because you failed to comply with the terms of an agreement you entered into. Such a loss is not deductible.

Sons Of Legion To Install Officers Sunday

Squadron No. 380 Sons of the Legion will install officers Sunday following a 2 p.m. meeting of Department Officers at the Houghs Neck Legion Post Home, 1116 Sea St.

Thomas Timcoe will be installed by Department Officers as commander; Gary Clark, vice commander; David Manson, adjutant; Carl Symonds, chaplain; Roy Crombie, sergeant-at-arms; John Morrell, historian; John Timcoe, finance officer and chairman.

Following the installation, the Houghs Neck Legion Auxiliary will serve a dinner.

Boys of the Squadron have taken monthly trips, the first to the trolley museum in Maine, then to Edaville Railroad to see the holiday display, and in January to the Boston Aquarium. February's trip will be to the Science Museum in Boston.

'Future With A Past' Jan. 28 Subject For Historical Society

"The Future With A Past" will be the subject of City Planning Director Geoffrey A. Davidson, at the Jan. 28 meeting of Quincy Historical Society at 7:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq. H. Hobart Holly will preside.

Mr. Davidson will discuss ways in which planning and renewal can be used to preserve and improve historic sites and structures, and preserve rather than destroy the character of an area.

Local, state and federal programs directed to these ends will be discussed, and he will speak also on planning Quincy's future.

Senior Citizens May Register For ENC Spring Semester

Quincy residents 60 and over who want to attend college classes at Quincy Junior College or Eastern Nazarene College must register for the Spring semester.

Senior citizens may attend classes free of charge without receiving academic credit.

Prospective students may register any week day at Eastern Nazarene College, while registration at Quincy Junior College will be Feb. 1, 2 and 3.

Those enrolling for the first time are requested to secure a letter from the Quincy Council on Aging. Appointments may be made by calling 471-1730.

Twenty-five Quincy Senior Citizens attended college classes last fall under this plan.

Learning Disabilities Assn. To Organize Jan. 26

The South Shore Chapter, Massachusetts Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, will hold an organizational meeting Jan. 26 at 8 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center, 10 Merrymount Rd., Quincy.

Kenneth A. Sargent, executive director of MACLD, will show a film, "Why Billy Can't Learn", discuss the field of learning disabilities, and answer questions.

Parents, teachers and others interested are welcome.

Further information may be obtained by calling Samuel Greenwald at 479-8932.

Business Communications Course Offered By Junior College

A business communications course will be offered by Quincy Junior College for the first time by the Evening Division, according to Miss Virginia Waller, chairman of the Secretarial Studies Department.

The course, applicable as requirement for the One-Year Secretarial Certificate, will provide an opportunity for secretaries to improve their skill in writing various types of business letters and reports as well as other forms of written communications.

Classes will meet Mondays and Wednesday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. at the college.

Further information may be obtained by calling the college offices at 34 Coddington St.

MBTA Reduced Fare ID Cards Now Valid For Life

MBTA reduced fare ID cards for Quincy and other senior citizens in the state will be valid for the life of the holder.

MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelley said that the "expiration date" on the cards will be discontinued immediately.

"The Authority has received numerous questions about the expiration date on our golden agers," said Kelly. "This date was originally put on the cards to be used as an accounting and control factor. We have established an improved method of accounting and control and, to eliminate any possibility of confusion, the expiration date will not appear on cards issued in the future."

"I hasten to assure the more than 150,000 senior citizens who have registered since August of 1969 that their reduced fare passes do not have to be renewed and are good for the rest of their lives."

Chapter 574 of the Acts of 1969, the law governing the issuance of reduced fare passes to senior citizens, became effective on Aug. 15, 1969. It provides that persons 65-years of age and older who live in a city or town within the MBTA district may, upon obtaining an identification card from the Authority, ride all MBTA lines at "one half the adult cash fare adjusted to the next lowest five-cent increment".

For example, if the regular adult fare on a bus is 20 cents, the senior citizen identification card permits the holder to ride for 10 cents, and where the rapid transit fare is 25 cents the senior citizen pass holder rides for 10 cents.

For those senior citizens who have not yet registered for their reduced fare ID, the MBTA has a registration office at the Authority's Government Center Station on the Green Line, which is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

To register, any person 65 years of age or older should bring to the Government Center Station office proof of residency in the MBTA district - driver's license, library card, charge plate; proof of age - birth certificate, baptismal record, Medicare card; and fifty cents, the fee charged for processing the registration and providing the identification card with a color photo of the holder.

Should the identification card be lost or become defaced, the Senior Citizen Registration Office at Government Center should be notified by phoning 722-5438.

Medicare Extended Care Payments Depend On 'Skilled Nursing'

Medicare help in paying for extended care for the elderly in nursing homes and similar facilities depends on "continuing skilled nursing care" and three other conditions, according to Frank Culkin, social security district manager in Quincy.

Medicare hospital insurance helps pay for extended care, Culkin said, if the patient:

- * Needs continuing skilled nursing care—"not just help with such things as bathing, eating, dressing, and taking medicine at the right time";

- * Is in an extended-care facility that is approved for Medicare payments;

- * Has been admitted to the facility because he needs additional care for a condition treated while he was in a hospital;

- * Has been in the hospital for at least three consecutive days and has been admitted to the extended-care facility within 14 days after being discharged from the hospital.

People eligible for social security retirement benefits are automatically eligible at 65 for the Medicare hospital insurance program, Culkin said.

Hancock Bank Shows Substantial Increases

Substantial increases in assets, deposits and earnings are reported by Hancock Bank for the year ended Dec. 31, 1970.

Net income was up 16.2% over Dec. 31, 1969 with $718,061.93 compared to

Total resources climbed to $67,189,969.09 an increase of $2,936,220.93 over last year.

Total deposits grew to $57,392,768.41 as compared to $53,669,949.23 as of December 31 a year ago.

Per share earnings for the year grew from $2.21 Dec. 31, 1969 to $2.56, Dec. 31, 1970, a gain of 35 cents per share.

'Gone With Wind' All-Time Box Office Champ

The runaway motion picture champ of 1970 was "AIRPORT". The ROSS HUNTER production ran ahead of all other releases with domestic rentals exceeding $37 million... Close runner-ups in the number two and three positions respectively were "M*A*S*H", $22 million, and "PATTON" $21 million... Ironically enough "AIRPORT" can never be seen on airlines because of its theme [skyjacking]... The film to watch for in 1971 is "PANIC IN NEEDLE PARK". The picture is a story of two young people caught up in the hopelessness and despair of drug addiction... Tony Award winner AL PACINO and newcomer KITTYY WINN are the two young lovers reaching out for freedom in a personal world being destroyed by their self destructive need for a "fix"... Veteran actor RALPH BELLAMY has a supporting role in "DOCTORS' WIVES". The Columbia release sports an all star cast which includes DYAN CARRON, RICHARD CRENNA, GENE HACKMAN and CARROLL O'CONNOR... TONY MUSANTE is "Eddie" in the forthcoming "GRISSOM GANG"... Quote, Unquote: EYDIE GORME's sharp rebuttal to Women's Lib advocates, "I couldn't care less about that male supremacy nonsense or who wears the pants. I do the home bit...and Steve [LAWRENCE] does everything else"...

"GONE WITH THE WIND" is right back where it belongs, on top of the heap as King of All-Time Box Office Cinema releases... Rounding out the big three are "SOUND OF MUSIC" and "THE GRADUATE". The 1939 MGM award winning picture regained the number one rating because of a successful reissue run at movie houses here and in Canada... Until the beginning of last year, "SOUND OF MUSIC" was the homeviewer something constructive in the form of "entertainment"... After all, how many times is one expected to "digest" the adventures of "STAR TREK" and "FELONY SQUAD" before becoming nauseous with boredom?... And as for their 9 p.m. nitely movies! Well, they're great if you appreciate flip-flop, flim-flam, circa 1930... Variety shows come and go, but perennial show stopper ED SULLIVAN goes on and on... 23 years to be exact... Not bad for a former sports staffer whom the critics labeled as "too wooden, too stiff" away back in 1948...

ANJANETTE COMER gets a well deserved chance to demonstrate her bountiful acting ability in "RABBIT RUN"... The FLIP WILSON Show is now being telecast in England... Which is America's way of saying "thank you" for giving us DAVID FROST... Warner Bros. "MY FAIR LADY" will be re-released this month... PETER SELLERS has a comeback hit on his hands in "THERE'S A GIRL IN MY SOUP". And oh yes his co-star GOLDIE HAWN is not the whole show as far too many film critics would have us believe... Let's just say Miss HAWN does a fair to middlin' job, and leave it at that... L.A. deputy attorney BURT KATZ is lending his legal expertise to RUSS MEYER'S "THE SEVEN MINUTES"... KATZ was signed on as a legal advisor after his smash debut at the CHARLES MANSON trial spoof. Well as the old saying goes, "one semi-adequate performance leads to another"... If MEYER was that desperate for a flamboyant, entertainer-lawyer type, couldn't he have had selected someone with more impressive credits to his name, say F. LEE BAILEY?... Such is show biz, circa 1971...

GEORGE C. SCOTT is winning "PATTON" accolades faster than even he can keep track of... THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF FILM CRITICS named SCOTT the years "outstanding actor"... The SOCIETY's "outstanding motion picture" of 1970 was "M*A*S*H". It wouldn't surprise this critic if both war films were named co-winners of the "Best Picture of the Year" by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Though no two films have shared the OSCAR before, and is more than deserving of OSCAR recognition... RYAN O'NEAL could develop into the big star of the seventies. His next film, "THE WILD ROVERS" has him acting in an action role similar to the parts STEVE MCQUEEN excelled at in the early sixties... "LOVE STORY" propelled O'NEAL to star status, and with a few more smash hits under his belt, O'NEAL could emerge the male sex symbol of the decade... He is one of a handful of newer actors whom have charisma to back up their talent and virile good looks... With such a combination going for him, how can RYAN O'NEAL miss?... PETER BOYLE and CANDICE BERGEN join talents in the upcoming "T. R. BASKIN"... Looks like Miss BERGEN is not going to devote her energies solely to writing as has been rumored about by several "name" columnists... Which is just as well. If an individual can act as well as write, why not have the best of both worlds like BERGEN and pursue both...

Gary Bullis Enlists In Army For Cooking School

Gary Bullis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bullis of 109 Taffrail Rd., Germantown, has enlisted in the Army for Cooking School and is now undergoing basic training.

Bullis said he enlisted in the Army because he knew he could be guaranteed his schooling before he took his oath of enlistment through the Army's guaranteed enlistment program whereby he receives a guarantee in writing to the school of his choice. Like most youths today, he wanted to know in advance what his job would be in the Army.

He also has the opportunity to get his High School education in the service through the Army's General Educational Development tests according to SFC Earl P. Anair, 85 Sea St., Quincy, local Army Recruiter.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS INVITATION FOR BIDS
QUINCY, MASSACHUSETTS

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

Sealed bids for the Sewage Works Improvements for Quincy Point, will be received by the City of Quincy until 10:20 [a.m.] o'clock Tuesday Feb. 2, 1971, at the office of the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Work to be done consists of installing approximately 10,650 feet of 20" D.I. Force Main and all of the necessary connections and appurtenances.

Contract documents, including plans and specifications are available at the office of the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, or at the office of the Consulting Engineer, Robert Charles Engineering Associates, Inc., 35 Saratoga Street, E. Boston, Massachusetts.

Specifications, plans and other documents may be obtained by a deposit of $30.00 [Thirty Dollars]. Such deposits shall be in the form of a cashier's check made out to the City of Quincy and will be refunded to each person who returns the plans, specifications, and other documents in good condition within twenty-one (21) calendar days after the bid opening.

Each bid must be accompanied by bid security in the form of a treasurer's or cashier's check, or a certified check on a Massachusetts Trust Company or a Massachusetts National Bank made payable to the City of Quincy in an amount equal to at least 5% of the total bid price.

NO OTHER FORM OF BID SECURITY WILL BE ACCEPTED.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bonds set forth in the specifications.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum wage rates as set forth in a schedule contained in the specifications must be paid on this project. Attention is also called to the requirements relating to Workmen's Compensation and condition of employment.

The City of Quincy reserves the right to waive any informality to reject any and all bids and to accept the proposal deemed in the best interest of the City. Bid deposits will be returned to all except the three lowest bidders within three days after the opening of bids, and the remaining cash or checks will be returned promptly after the Owner and the accepted bidder have executed the contract, or if no award has been made within 60 days after the date of the opening of bids, upon demand of the bidder at any time thereafter, so long as he has not been notified of the acceptance of his bid.

Procedures respecting bids and the selection of Contractor shall be in conformity with the General Laws, Chapter 149, Section 44A to 44L, inclusive, Ter. Ed., as amended and revised to date.

John M. Browne,
Commissioner of Public Works

'Necessities Only' In Austerity Move

$1 Million Cut From Budget

Mayor James R. McIntyre has lopped more than $1 million from municipal budget requests with "necessities only" surviving the fiscal pruning shears.

The $1 million-plus was slashed from some $8.8 million in appropriation requests in some 30 different municipal budgets by last night.

Department heads request for new equipment are getting the "thumbs down" sign from McIntyre unless the equipment is deemed absolutely necessary.

One victim of the austerity move was the proposal of City Clerk John M. Gillis to bring in voting machines at a cost of approximately $326,000.

Though Gillis had hoped to have the machines to expedite vote counting in Quincy elections and noted, in the long run, they would pay for themselves by cutting election costs, the Mayor rejected them for this year.

McIntyre, James J. Ricciuti, his executive secretary, and City Auditor Alexander Smith have been in marathon budget sessions.

On a bright note, despite other fiscal clouds, the city has approximately $304,000 in its E & D account, Mayor McIntyre disclosed today.

The money can be tapped for tax purposes this year. If all of it were used, it would represent a $150 cushion on the tax rate.

"I want to commend the department heads for working diligently to collect bills owed the city and for keeping expenses down to keep the city in the black," McIntyre said.

Some 27 budgets were given a close going over in a 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday session and another 7 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. session Monday night.

There were two more sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The bigger departments will be given the look-over in a planned "long weekend", during which McIntyre hopes to finish up the pruning.

Public works, city hospital and water departments are scheduled for a day-long Saturday session.

Fire and police departments are among those set for an all-day Sunday session.

McIntyre plans to submit the budget to the City Council Feb. 16.

The council's Finance Committee, headed by Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth will then tackle some more trimming before final passage.

"It doesn't look like there will be much for the council to cut," said one City Hall observer. "It will be all lean, no fat by the time the council gets it."

Present tax rate is $132.20.

The Mayor has given no inkling as to what he thinks the 1971 tax rate will be.

He again intends to go to court to prevent revaluation from being implemented.

If revaluation is implemented, he warns, the tax rate will go down but the tax bill of the average Quincy homeowner will go up considerably.

In his mid-term address earlier this month, the Mayor expressed grave concern over the "fiscal future of Quincy and all cities for I seriously doubt whether any can remain economically viable in the coming years without massive infusions of state and federal aid."

He called 1971 "the year of Financial State of Emergency."

Free Lunches 'Unnecessary' Says HN Council

The Houghs Neck Community Council by unanimous vote of its executive board has gone on record opposing "any form of subsidized lunch program" for the Quincy Public Elementary Schools.

In a letter written to Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, Finance Committee chairman, Robert F. Denvir, Jr., president of the council, listed the council's position as follows.

• "It is the responsibility and privilege of parents to see that their own children are provided with lunches.

• "At a time of financial crisis in Quincy, we should not add any further program we cannot afford to the programs we have already undertaken.

• "Free or subsidized lunches are unnecessary to the better educational program of Quincy's schools.

• "This program would place too heavy a burden on the overburdened home taxpayer, already faced with the threat of additional taxes when property revaluation is implemented."

Copies of the letter were sent to Mayor James R. McIntyre, vice-chairman, James F. McCormick, Sr., and Paul C. Kelly of the Quincy School Committee, as well as news media.

Commenting on the letter,

McCormick said, "I would like to say I can appreciate and respect their concern. I do believe, however, that the School Committee is acting in accordance with the law passed by the House of Representatives and are compelled to do so.

"I believe they have a right to complain, but we are only doing what we have to do," he added.

Says Figures Quoted For Lunch Program Not Factual

Editor, Quincy Sun:

The League of Women Voters has as its goal the active participation of citizens in government. The taxpayer has not only a right but an obligation to determine that his tax dollar is spent wisely and to help establish priorities among the many legitimate demands for that same dollar.

Discussion of issues is vital to the above process but it is necessary that the discussion be based on fact. This has not been done in the case of the Snug Harbor lunch program. Mr. McCauley's estimate of $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 for such a program is irresponsible.

Charges in the newspaper and on radio that the costs would be astronomical, would bankrupt the city, would cost the city $1,000,000 annually, and would add $10 to the tax rate are incorrect and equally irresponsible.

The facts are that with the most liberal estimates of possible expenses, an analysis of the first year costs to the city, after reimbursements, was set at $45,000. Mayor McIntyre stated that this would add twenty-five cents to the tax rate. The Division of Nutrition of the State Dept. of Education estimates an even lower cost.

Costs after the first year vary with the efficiency of the program, of course. However, a neighboring community is operating a hot lunch program, meeting Federal standards, at no cost to the community. We do not imply that all communities operate in the black but if it is being done, it can be done.

The town of Concord is now preparing meals for its own system and several other small towns. It is seeking to extend the operation into at least two other communities. Does this sound as though it were a money drain to the community?

The city of Malden has had approved and is about to go ahead on a $100,000 central kitchen for distribution of meals to its students and possibly other communities. Other forward looking communities are doing the same because Federal and State reimbursements indicate that it is a fiscally responsible action for a community concerned with the growth and development of its children.

Federal law directs the states to submit plans for extending lunch programs into every school in the state. Massachusetts in law states that it must be done by 1973. The sum of $30,000 is set aside by the state and earmarked to get Quincy started on a program to feed its neediest children, provided that we do it before June 1971.

Will we join the other forward looking communities in the state or will we continue to maintain that feeding children is the concern only of the parents and that $45,000 is too much money to spend for assistance to parents in Germantown whose financial circumstances make it difficult to provide an adequate diet which we feel should be every child's right.

Special Dates For Taxpayer Assistance At IRS Office

Acting District Director Elmer H. Klinsman announces a special schedule of dates on which taxpayer assistance will be given during February in the Quincy office located at 1 Cliveden St.

The dates are Wednesdays - Feb. 3, 10, 17 and 24 and Fridays - Feb. 5, 12, 19 and 26.

On the dates indicated, Internal Revenue Service personnel will be available from 8:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. to render taxpayer assistance to all taxpayers who call at the office seeking assistance in the preparation of their Federal income tax returns, Klinsman said.

He urges all taxpayers in need of assistance to complete as much of their return as possible before calling at the office.

Taxpayers desiring telephone assistance may call 472-9032 or 479-5028 any time from 8:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. on the dates indicated.

Opening dates for the month of March will be announced at a later date.

McIntyre To Take Part In Urban Problems Conference

Mayor James R. McIntyre will participate in a National Urban Coalition conference Feb. 21-23 at Warren, Va.

McIntyre is one of 120 government leaders in the nation being invited by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington to take part.

The conference will cover managerial, fiscal and urban growth problems.

Snug Harbor Teacher Sees No Need For Lunch Program

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Judging from what I have read in the press and heard spoken at the meeting of the Quincy School Committee on January 13, all of the facts were not placed before the committee when it voted to approve the pilot lunch program at the Snug Harbor School. As a citizen of this city and a teacher at the Snug Harbor School, I feel obligated to present to the members of the school committee and the taxpayers of this city some compelling reasons why this program should not have been approved.

First, as Mr. Kelly so ably pointed out, not one thread of evidence has been presented to the school committee that the children in the Snug Harbor School district are "going hungry" due to the lack of an adequate lunch. As a teacher at the school I most certainly have not been made aware of any great hunger problems which would justify the implementation of a school lunch program. Admittedly, some children, on occasion, may not have what could be called a "nutritionally balanced lunch" but I would dare to say that this is also true of many children in more affluent situations.

The problem of providing nutritionally balanced meals is one that should be attacked, as I see it, through education of the parents to the necessity for such meals and how they may best make use of their food dollar in accomplishing this. The Snug Harbor School area is most fortunate in having such an educational program already established which from my understanding has been working most effectively with residents of this area toward these ends.

Having taught elsewhere in this city and in a neighboring town where a lunch program was in effect, I certainly have seen no evidence that children in the Snug Harbor School are suffering nutritionally any more than one would find in any school regardless of the levels of incomes that the families have. The children at the Snug Harbor School are as full of energy and enthusiasm, as resistant to sicknesses, and as physically fit as the children of any school in which I have taught and by comparison, in my judgement, even more so. I have found that the vast majority of parents of children at the Snug Harbor School do a most commendable job in providing for the needs of their children and it is most unfair to say otherwise.

In my estimation, the institution of a pilot lunch program at the Snug Harbor School will create more problems than it will solve.

First is the problem of space. Snug Harbor School, like most of the schools in the city, is overcrowded. With an enrollment of well over 800 pupils every available space is being used to the fullest extent.

This leaves but two alternatives for providing space for the children to eat lunch. The first and most obvious would be the classrooms themselves. If this alternative were chosen it would entail certain problems. Depending upon whether there were two or three time-blocks set aside for lunch, it would require the hiring of 12 to 18 matrons to staff the 35 classrooms in the school during the lunch periods. For reasons of health and sanitation it would be necessary that each and every classroom and connecting hallways and staircases be thoroughly cleaned of any spilled food and debris each and every day.

This would require additional personnel on the custodial force now at the school at a substantial cost to the taxpayer. With the large number of matrons required, combined with the restlessness of the children, there would be a good chance that there might be some difficulties in managing the class during the lunch period and children could be hurt and learning materials which might be in the classroom damaged or destroyed.

If lunches were eaten in the classrooms it would be necessary that children be taken to some central location at a distance from the classroom to pick up their lunches, carry them back up over stairs and through the corridors all in a very limited space of time thus increasing the possibilities of accidents and spillage in addition to cutting into the period set aside for eating lunches. The second possibility for providing eating space would be to make use of the school gymnasium [Snug Harbor School is one of the few schools left in the city where the gymnasium has not been converted into classroom space]. Using this area for feeding would mean that the physical education program [at least during the months of bad weather when the need for exercise is the greatest] for the over 800 pupils in the school would have to be severely curtailed to allow for setting up tables and benches, eating of lunches, and subsequent restoration of the gym to its original state.

Feeding of lunches to all of the children in two lunch periods would mean that over 400 children would be making use of this area at each lunch with all available space including the stage being used for eating. It is hard to even imagine how any child could eat a peaceful lunch confined to a room filled with over 400 youngsters who after a full morning of school work would be restless and noisy to say the least. The responsibility for control of this situation would rest in the hands of matrons not accustomed to dealing with such large groups of children. To compound the situation the younger children would no doubt require some assistance from the matrons in tasks such as opening milk cartons. Blessed be the matrons!

It is my understanding that once the Snug Harbor School Lunch Program is instituted all children in the district will be required to participate regardless of parental wishes, regardless of how close they may live to the school, and regardless of how pleasant the weather might be as the program will run from September to June.

The time schedule for the lunch periods will allow for but limited outdoor exercise if any at all. At the conclusion of a full morning of school work the children need fresh air and exercise before beginning the work of the afternoon. Otherwise they become easily fatigued, restless, and even irritable creating a most difficult atmosphere for learning in the afternoon.

Some final facts to ponder. The Snug Harbor School Lunch Program is a pilot project which envisions that all elementary schools would eventually have a similar program. To be a truly pilot program which would be transferable to other schools throughout the city the lunches would have to be eaten in the classrooms with all of the accompanying problems since in most of our elementary schools no other space is available. The cost of the Snug Harbor School Lunch Program as outlined to the Quincy School Committee was somewhere in the neighborhood of $123,000 with about 50% of that figure reimbursable from the state. [This figure is a conservative one which envisions making use of the gym, food service from the Voc-Tech School, and very limited numbers of matrons]

If the lunch program were to be expanded into all of our elementary schools, classrooms would have to be used for eating. The Voc-Tech School could not provide the food service, and the number of matrons required would be astronomical. The annual cost would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

If the problems of eating lunches in the classroom were to be avoided, the 22 neighborhood elementary schools in our city would require extensive renovations or additions which would cost by one estimate somewhere in the vicinity of $6,500,000 [at today's costs].

I know that many of you share my concern and I hope that the Quincy School Committee will reconsider its action of January 13 on the Snug Harbor School Lunch Program and that immediate steps will be taken by our elected representatives in the General Court to amend the legislation which will make such programs mandatory in 1973.

'Let The Red Cross In' POW Letter Drive Begins

"Let the Red Cross In" is the theme for a POW letter writing campaign launched this week by the Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter, according to Irving J. Boyes, Chapter Chairman.

Mr. Boyes is urging individuals and organizations to "Write Hanoi" to support this effort to bring about humane treatment for the more than 1,400 prisoners of war and those missing in action.

Letters should be written to the Office of the President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam, and may be sent air mail for 25 cents.

The message can be brief: "Please let the Red Cross inspect our prisons - Release the sick and wounded - Allow more freedom to communicate with families and loved ones."

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin will be honored at a $25-per plate dinner March 11 at Caesar's Monticello.

The ink on the tickets had hardly dried when the political Speculation Corps was playing mental ping-pong with the obvious question: "Is he getting ready to run for mayor?"

Immediate reaction by many was that Tobin had gotten the word: Mayor James R. McIntyre wasn't going to seek re-election.

Thus the dinner—a fund-raiser to help finance the campaign. And, with McIntyre as honorary chairman of the dinner, Tobin was publicly getting His Honor's blessing.

Then, second thoughts began to set in.

The dinner is billed as a testimonial to Tobin as council president. And those working on the committee note that this is the first such tribute to him since he was elected.

And, they point out, the committee includes all members of the City Council. So, they argue, if this was planned to raise funds for a Mayorality run, what are all members of the council doing on the committee when two or three of them might be mayoralty candidates, themselves?

Meanwhile, insiders continue to insist McIntyre will do an FDR—seek a fourth term—before bowing out of City Hall.

But, of course, the Tobin dinner will continue to keep the political pot simmering, and the questions popping.

The committee is looking for an estimated 1,300 or more turnout for the event. Quincy District Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan is chairman. Singer Robert Goulet will be the main entertainment attraction.

INCIDENTALLY, one of the committee members for the Tobin dinner is School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly.

Kelly is being mentioned as a city council-at-large candidate this year if one of the incumbents doesn't seek re-election.

And that should add another dash of speculation over the dinner. If Tobin ran for mayor, Kelly would run for Tobin's council seat.

Ah, politics. Never a dull moment.

SHORT STORY: It was midnight and the temperature a freezing 10 degrees. A family of six children was without fuel oil. Dr. Charles Djerf heard about it and put in a quick call to fellow Quincy Rotarian Fred Bergfors, Jr. The oil was at the home, pronto.

WELL, you'd have to say that Rep. Joseph E. Brett will be well remembered every day this year. He sent out 2,500 desk calendars with his name on them, of course. Most of them were distributed in the local area but some got to 40 other states and one to Japan.

BILL VEECK, guest speaker at the recent South Shore Mothers of Twins Club "Fathers Night" launched a crusade to get LeRoy [Satchel] Paige into baseball's Hall of Fame. Veeck, who brought Paige into the major leagues, praised him as a "super athlete—a winning pitcher in organized baseball for approximately 50 years". The durable Paige is now over 70.

NICE-GESTURE-DEPT: Inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction are grateful to a number of Quincy residents for donations of shoes, clothing, magazines and other articles.

Generous residents include: Miss Mary D. Bair, Mrs. David B. MacIntosh, Joseph W. Pinel, Mrs. Grace M. Sikora, Mrs. Roland Blair, George L. Wallace, Roger Swanson, Charles N. Ross, Mrs. Stephen H. Boyajian, Ethan Allen, Mrs. Edna W. Nicoll, Mrs. William S. Ash, Eugene L. Ronayne.

OUR TIMES: Jack Golden, the Quincy printer, tells about the two men aboard a plane who struck up a conversation. One complained bitterly about the state of the country. The other finally got tired of listening to the first fellow's gripes and said, "So why don't you write your Congressman?"

"What good would that do?", the griper asked. "I'm my Congressman!"

HN Groups Join Forces To Aid Homeless Youth Center

Three Houghton Neck organizations are cooperating with Sgt. Grenham Youth Center officials to provide recreation areas for the youths' activities, according to Leo Kelly, advisory board president.

The Center is now without permanent headquarters. Threat of increased rent and a dispute with owners of the 1213 Sea St. building over major improvements, influenced by the advisory board's move.

The Youth Center program, however, will be continued five nights a week, Monday through Friday, from 6 to 10 p.m., starting Feb. 5.

Monday and Tuesday, the group will use the lower hall of the Houghton Neck American Legion Post Home at 1116 Sea St. Wednesday and Thursday, Fellowship Hall at the Houghton Neck Congregational Church will be used; and Friday, St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Darrow St.

A drama club is being formed under the direction of Miss Marcia Mitchell, a Quincy school teacher, and Miss Judy Hickey, who teaches in West Bridgewater. Those interested may call Theresa Iacovino or Mary Picard.

The Youth Center has a hockey club that skates Friday from 10 to 11 p.m. at Shea MDC rink in West Quincy, coached by Jack Duffy, Ted Miller and Jack Walsh.

Basketball activity is available at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall on Tuesday night, coached by Joe Amyouny. Monday and Tuesday nights the Atherton Hough School hall is open for basketball.

Adult supervisors interested in volunteering to assist the various programs, or to initiate others, are always needed. Information may be obtained from Kelly, William Mitchell, Jr., Jack Nigro, Dave MacMillan, Mrs. Eleanor LeBel, David Blowers or Ted Johnson.

Junior supervisors from 17 to 21 years are also welcome.

Membership in the Sgt. Grenham Youth Center is free to all Houghton Neck youth from 12 to 16 years and 11 months. Club rules and membership cards are available at the three halls.

HELPING HAND—Bill Means, [right] representing Burger King, presents to Frank Keegan, principal of Thomas B. Pollard School, a $200 check from PTA-sponsored drive for audio-visual equipment in the school's media center. Looking on are Chris Staffieri, Miss Rosemarie Guivens, and Cheryl Ferguson, representing students and faculty of kindergarten through sixth grade who took part in a coupon campaign. For each coupon redeemed at any Burger King with purchase of a "Whopper", the school was given 25-cents by the company.

Koch To Outline Plans For Cranch Hills Parks

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, will appear tonight [Thursday] before the Cranch Hospital Hills Association executive board to discuss plans for area parks.

These include: *Robert Burns Park on Upland Rd.

*Children's park on hospital land, on Glendale Rd.

*Unnamed playground on Whitwell St.

In a letter to Koch from Dr. Donald MacLeod, association president, its executive board was noted as supporting efforts of the Park-Recreation Board to retain Wollaston Golf Course as Residence A or open space "during the current rezoning until such time as the Mayor and City Council have time to hold public hearings to ascertain the desires of the citizens of Quincy as to the future use of the property."

Koch was asked to give his views on proposed public uses of the land in North Quincy where Wollaston Golf Course is located.

QCA To Hold Open Meeting On School Lunch Program

The proposed hot school lunch program for Quincy Schools will be the main topic for discussion at an open meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association executive board of directors on Feb. 3 at 8 p.m. at Montclair Men's Club, Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

Laurence J. Curtin, QCA president, said that the hot school lunch proposal was of such importance that the QCA decided to hold an open public meeting. All interested Quincy residents are invited to attend and present their views on the subject.

Curtin said the QCA is interested in hearing all points of view of interested Quincy residents before the association takes any official position on the matter.

He urged all precinct captains, directors and alternates to attend.

Fire Forces Emblem Club To Cancel M. Of D. Dance

A fire at Elks Hall has forced the Quincy Emblem Club to cancel its annual benefit March of Dimes dance scheduled for Friday night, announces Mrs. Sue MacInnis, chairman.

But club members hope that the estimated 300 persons planning to dance to aid the March of Dimes cause will continue to make their donation to the Emblem Club so that they may still help those with polio or birth defects.

The fire which broke out about 4 a.m. Sunday morning caused considerable smoke and water damage to the hall before it was brought under control. Social events and meetings are being cancelled temporarily.

Recipient of the Emblem Club's special award will be announced Feb. 10, instead of Friday evening.

BARBITUATE ABUSE DANGER

Barbituates are used medically as tranquilizers or sedatives to induce sleep or reduce daytime tension and anxiety. They should be considered highly dangerous when taken without medical advice and prescription. In higher doses, the effects resemble alcoholic drunkenness: confusion, slurred speech and staggering. The body's tolerance level for these drugs increases rapidly, so that constantly increasing doses are necessary to maintain their effect.

Users may become confused about how many pills they have taken and die of an accidental overdose. In fact barbituates are a leading cause of accidental poison deaths and also one of the main methods people choose to commit suicide. When taken with alcohol, their effects are greatly increased. In such a situation, a normal dose could become a lethal dose. It's something to think about.

Money is meaningless without good health. My '51 Chevy

It was getting quite late, towards the end of June,
When I was pressed for a car,
and needed one soon.
The money was scarce from the job that I had,
It paid so low it made a man
mad.

But I didn't need much, a car's what I craved, Finally the day came, when enough I had saved.
A "51" Chevy is what had me enticed,
And eighty bucks is what it was priced.

So I bought this old car, this old antique,
Despite all warnings it would last just a week.
It made me proud, the ancient machine,
It was my first, the best I had seen.

My friends all laughed, and thought it wrong,
To buy such a car, that wouldn't last long.
But all summer long the car was O.K.,
It ran all the time, not missing
a day.

Soon all came to love the old car,
It got me around and many times far.
We often times went, to the Cape up and back,
Of the miles I covered, I seemed to lose track.

It turned out all right, this investment of mine,
It drove mighty smooth and it's condition was fine.
It was the biggest around without a doubt,
Really unique and always stood out.

However, good things in life
many times halt,
It's a trend of life, nobody's fault.
The winter was near, so I decided to sell,
I might have been wrong, it's hard to tell.

Simple things in life are what makes a man real,
I don't have much, and am not a big wheel.
But I did have a car, big, gray,
and old,
It might have looked worn,
but to me it was gold.

Dish Made To Please Men Features Thrifty Chicken

There are women who dress for men, and women who cook for men—heartily, savory, robust dishes to cheer a man after a hard day. Chicken Stew with Onions is just that kind of cooking. It is old-fashioned in flavor with a rich, creamy sauce and lots of onions. For all its fine flavor this chicken stew is a thoroughly thrifty dish. Everybody knows chicken is an economical buy, but did you know that chicken has a protein content that no other meat exceeds and few can equal? It is protein of the highest quality, too, says the National Broiler Council. Put all this good nutrition before your man in a dish he is sure to like.

Chicken Stew With Onions

- | | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| 2 broiler-fryer chickens,
cut in serving pieces | 5 medium onions, sliced |
| 3 cups water | 3 tablespoons butter or margarine |
| 2½ teaspoons salt | 1 cup evaporated milk, divided |
| 1 cup coarsely cut celery tops | 3 tablespoons flour |
| 3 sprigs parsley | 2 egg yolks |
| ¼ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon | 2 tablespoons lemon juice |

Put chicken in kettle; add water, salt, celery, parsley and tarragon. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour. Remove chicken to casserole; keep warm. Strain broth and boil rapidly until reduced to 2½ cups. Cook onions in butter until slightly brown; add to chicken in casserole. Blend ½ cup of the evaporated milk with flour until smooth. Add to stock and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Beat together remaining ½ cup evaporated milk and egg yolks. Add to hot stock and stir until slightly thickened. Stir in lemon juice and pour over chicken. Serve sprinkled with chopped parsley.

YIELD: 8 servings.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Jan. 28 - Feb. 4

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - An adventurous spirit prevails and others stir up your emotions. There is still opposition to contend with and possible unwanted surprise.

TAURUS [Apr. 20 - May 20] - Your frustrations may have you in a state of confused thinking, but now is not the time to let your emotions over-ride your good sense.

GEMINI [May 21 - June 21] - Keeping calm and using common sense will help solve some of the health problems that may have cropped up. Arguments cause emotional upsets.

CANCER [June 22 - July 22] - Trying to force your ideas on others won't work at this time. If you'll stop to listen, you'll find that old friends are sincerely trying to help.

LEO [July 23 - Aug. 22] - There are still some frustrations to overcome before your talents are fully appreciated. Keep trying - benefits can come quite suddenly.

VIRGO [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22] - Letting your emotions rule you only creates upsets at home. You should assume your responsibilities gracefully and look to the future.

LIBRA [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22] - Your attitude toward life is changing - some are suddenly made to face reality. It is a time to look to your creative abilities.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21] - It's time to seek self-knowledge. Recent events that went wrong were badly planned in the first place. Self assurance helps stabilize your life.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21] - Expand your view-point, take a look at your motives, then point yourself in the right direction. Opportunity is yours for the grabbing.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19] - A change of job right now could put you in line for future benefits. This is the time to shake off the drudgery and get yourself going.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20 - Feb. 18] - Most of you have been living from crises to crises for the past couple of years - take heart, this period in your life is almost over.

PISCES [Feb. 19 - Mar. 20] - There are more responsibilities in work or home that may bring worry and tension. Guard your health and keep a level head.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

An apple a day does more for a dieter than just keep the doctor away!

Apples are a rich source of important vitamins and minerals. Containing a natural form of sugar, they also satisfy the body's craving for carbohydrates or "something sweet", and this helps to discourage raids on the cookie jar.

Many diets suffer an early demise because they make no allowance for the demands of a sweet tooth. The result is that after a few days or weeks of deprivation, the desire for sugar becomes overpowering. This can cause us to forget the advantages of being slim until we've polished off several thousand calories worth of candy.

Make having an apple each day a must if you wish to look and feel good and do your best on your diet.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder please

15 Missouri Students 'Camp In' At Trinity Church, Study Problems

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Back at Central Methodist College, in Fayette, Mo., are 15 students and their professor who "camped in" recently at Trinity Lutheran Church, guests of Rev. James Kimmel and his parishioners.

It was a first trip to New England for nearly all the 10 girls and five boys, but the second year that Dr. Charles Moore, sociology department head, has accompanied a group of his students to what is now Quincy headquarters.

Here for an "on the spot" study of urban problems, they had talks with Harvard and MIT professors, Boston officials, transportation experts, and visits to housing developments, "a lot of churches", the Police Academy.

There were a number of conclusions. Among them:

*Boston is more active in tearing down buildings than in building new ones, or in repairing old ones. Churches have the greatest interest and are doing more than any other group to provide better housing.

"Blacks are more militant, but appear to learn more - "Boston is more tense than the mid-west".

*Boston's large student population has a lot to do with its activity.

Fringe benefits of the trip centered in Quincy. These included community life at Trinity Lutheran where all crowded into the kitchen at one time to prepare most of their meals. Even though food was "really expensive", it cost less than eating out.

The church women treated the students to a beef stew when they arrived—a spaghetti supper before they left.

Some had their first sauna bath; they ate their first lobsters; attended plays, heard the Boston Symphony Orchestra, took part in Sunday worship at Trinity Lutheran.

The $180, 10-day all-expense trip for each—transportation in three cars,—attracted many more students than could come. Students from freshmen to seniors were chosen on a basis of "intelligence". Dr. Moore laughed, along with an ability to live together in confined quarters.

"We probably could have done the same thing in St. Louis, but we wouldn't have seen New England," was the general opinion.

Students included Selma Wesley, Nanette Shelton, Janell Kelly and Gary Baker, all of St. Louis, Mo.; Joan Edwards of Greenwood, Mo.; Jane Knapp of Peoria, Ill.; Karen Miller of Tipton, Mo.; Karen Shannon of Elsberry, Mo.; Becky Rowth of Keytesville, Mo.; Neal Brown of Santa Ana, Calif.; Michael Enloe of Jefferson City, Mo.; Dixie Jennings of Dexter, Mo.; Steve H. Johnson of Springfield, Mo.; Lynn Bushie of St. James, Mo.; David Dozier of New Bloomfield, Mo.; and Dr. Moore of Fayette, Mo.

Rabbi Bruce Ehrman To Speak Feb. 2 At United First Parish

Rabbi Bruce Ehrman, spiritual leader of Reformed Temple Israel, Brockton, will speak next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at United First Parish church parish house, Quincy Sq., announces Dr. Bradford E. Gale, minister.

This is the second in the church's winter forum series on the general theme, "Updating Religion to Meet the Needs of the Seventies".

Rev. Richard Leger of St. Thomas More Church, Braintree, was the first speaker.

Representative Protestant ministers will speak on the same topic in subsequent programs of the series.

Robert Offenbach of Quincy is general chairman of the meetings, which are informal fireside conversations.

Mrs. Clarence P. Cassidy is hostess for the February meeting.

Dr. Leslie Parrott To Speak Feb. 7 At Council Of Churches Meeting

Dr. Leslie Parrott, president of Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, will speak during a worship service at the annual meeting of the South Shore Council of Churches Feb. 7 at 3 p.m.

The meeting will be held in First Baptist Church of Braintree, at 594 Washington St. James R. Cameron will preside.

This will be the first opportunity for many churchmen of the South Shore to hear and meet Dr. Parrott, and an informal reception will follow the annual meeting. Special music will be by the MacCallum family.

At the business session following Dr. Parrott's address, there will be an election of officers, approval of a proposed budget, and an oral report by the president. Annual written reports will be distributed.

The meeting is open to the public.

St. John's HNS To Hold Bean Supper On Feb. 13

St. John's Holy Name will hold a bean supper Feb. 13 in the Parish Hall immediately following the 5 p.m. Mass in the church. Members of the Holy Name are invited to attend Mass and receive Communion as a group.

Following the supper which will be served by the Holy Name catering committee there will be a brief business meeting and a showing of the 1970 World Series.

Plans for the coming year will be discussed. An Irish Night will be held March 20 and all members are invited to attend.

Vincent Villard is ticket chairman and Joseph Buonopane is committee chairman. Tickets for the Irish Night will be available at the Feb. 13 meeting.

St. John's Holy Name participates in a variety of parish activities. Members assist in paper drives, the setting up and taking down of the Christmas crib, St. John's Boys Baseball league and Bowling league, social activities such as Irish and Italian nights. Members also assist in the Parish Confraternity of Christian Doctrine program.

Buonopane reported at the Holy Name's last meeting that the sending of gifts to servicemen from the parish by the Holy Name has been enthusiastically received. Letters of gratitude from servicemen have been received by Mr. Buonopane.

A slate of new officers will be installed at the Feb. 13 meeting. Monsignor, Frederic G. M. Driscoll is the Holy Name chaplain.

Services Today For J. Ernest Collins

Funeral services for J. Ernest [Honey] Collins, 84, veteran member of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, will be held this afternoon at 2 p.m. at Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Rev. Stephen Brown of First United Presbyterian Church will officiate. Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Mr. Collins, formerly of 57 Independence Ave., South Quincy, died Monday at Quincy City Hospital.

First appointed for a 1933 to 1937 term as a member of the original Park Board, Collins was reappointed by Mayor Charles A. Ross in 1943 and had served 28 consecutive years, as a member of the Park Board, Recreation Commission [established in 1958] and the Park-Recreation Board [established in 1962]. He served a total 33 years on the boards without pay.

He was a member of the first class at Lincoln School, and in his younger years, a semi-professional baseball player in South Quincy. His nickname was the result of fans calling him a "honey of a player". Later he was owner of Thomas Collins and Son Granite business.

In 1969 "Collins Rest-A-While" Park on Southern Artery was named in his honor.

Mayor James R. McIntyre, who ordered flags on municipal buildings lowered to half-staff in Mr. Collins' memory, said of him:

"He served the city and its youth with dedication for the past 33 years. We are sorely going to miss him as a friend, and as a dedicated loyal, unpaid public servant."

James F. McCormick, Sr., chairman of the Park-Recreation Board, said:

"I have served on the board with "Honey" Collins since 1965, and found him to be a very informed and dedicated servant of the people. In respect to park and recreation, no man has done more than Mr. Collins and we will miss him."

Executive Secretary Richard J. Koch said in tribute:

"He gave the city many years of devoted service on all these commissions. Many times he was criticized for being tight-fisted relative to the budget. But along with being a good commissioner, he also felt he had a responsibility to the taxpayer. His big concern was vandalism because he felt vandalism took away from the Board's opportunity to improve and add many new facilities throughout the city.

"I worked very closely with him, and I think he was well respected by all members of the Park and Recreation Board who have served with him. They have differed with him, but they always respected the man."

Mr. Collins leaves a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Gustafson of Manchester, N.H.; two brothers, Samuel Collins of Quincy and Harold Collins of Cape Cod; and two sisters, Mrs. John Pritchard of Quincy and Mrs. Harold McLaughlin of Braintree; three grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Donations in his memory may be made to the building fund of First United Presbyterian Church.

Women's Union To View Slides On 'Great Britain At Leisure'

"Great Britain at Leisure", slides of a recent group trip led by Rev. John D. Banks, will be shown at a special evening meeting of the Women's Union at Bethany Congregational Church on Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Slides will be shown by George M. Roberts and Rev. Banks, with commentary by Rev. Banks.

All church members and their friends are invited.

Coffee and light refreshments will be served at 7 p.m.

Urges Completion Of Mothers March Returns

Mrs. Kenneth B. Hamerle, Quincy Chairman for the Mothers March of Dimes, announces that although many marches have completed their assignments, there are still a few to be completed. Returns, she said, should be made to captains or to the Hancock Bank and Trust Company.

She urges all those that have yet to march to please do so by Feb. 1.

Mayor Proclaims 'POW Week'

Mayor James R. McIntyre has proclaimed the week of Jan. 31 Prisoner of War Week in Quincy.

During the week, Quincy students will visit each home to ask citizens to write letters to the North Vietnam government requesting that they observe the Geneva Conventions for humane treatment of prisoners of war.

Mayor McIntyre proclamation reads:

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, There are known to be 1,902 members of the Armed Forces of the United States officially listed either as missing in action or as prisoners of war in Southeast Asia, and

WHEREAS, two sons of Quincy are prisoners of war, Alan Brudno who is in his sixth year of imprisonment and Richard Stratton who is in his fifth year of imprisonment, and

of and service to their prisons, and these men are maltreated, ill fed, medically ignored and their presence is, for the most part, denied by the enemy, and

WHEREAS, they have for the most part been denied communication with their loved ones in the United States, and

WHEREAS, these servicemen, who have left their beloved country to serve our Nation as men have done from time immemorial, deserve the wholehearted moral support of every American, despite personal opinion on this conflict itself, and

WHEREAS, we believe that an outpouring of letters from the citizens of the United States could lead these countries to feel in the eyes of world opinion that it would be advantageous for them to observe the Geneva Conventions for humane treatment of prisoners of war, and

of January 31, 1971, the students of Quincy are visiting each house to ask every citizen to write such a letter and are returning to collect them, so that all the letters from the City of Quincy can be mailed at one time, and

WHEREAS, Governor Francis W. Sargent has proclaimed the month of January, 1971, as PRISONER OF WAR MONTH in Massachusetts.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, James R. McIntyre, Mayor of the City of Quincy, do hereby declare the week of January 31, 1971 as PRISONER OF WAR WEEK and urge all citizens to write letters to the leaders of North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, the Pathet Lao and Red China to apply the Geneva Conventions to our men in their prisoner of war camps, and urge them to say special prayers for them in all places of worship on Saturday, January 30, or Sunday, January 31, 1971.

The Little Colt

One warm sunny summer day
About the 3rd in the month of May
I let out the little colt to play
Then the mother went out to

But soon the little colt came

With the mother right behind him
I guess the colt still likes his

When will be he old enough to

My Life As A Snowflake

Once upon a time it was snowing very hard and I happened to be one of the snowflakes. My name was Flake Off. It was a dangerous mission for our flakes. You see, we are North Pole snow flakes, and we're the best. Oh no! I'm coming into a landing. There were trucks out on the street and kids all over the place. The kids were having a snowball fight and if they picked me I would die and never be seen again. It's been an hour now and I still haven't been picked up. Now some of the kids are making a snowman. Oh no! He picked me up! He is rolling me all around and I'm turning into a snowball.
But it's nearly night and in the night I will die.

And that's what I did.

Drifting

Here I come a drifting,
Among the sky so white.
Here I come a tumbling,
Merrily so white.
Here I come a falling,
Right out of sight.
The Sun is shining brightly
now,
And it's time for me to take a rest.

I'll see you all next year
When I come a drifting home,
Merrily so white.

a moth,
Wrapped in the elegant silk of the spider
Each timely attack he wound himself tighter—
And soon as he was thoroughly wrapped in the spider's rope,
He gently with last struggles of hope
He couldn't escape from the spider's frill—
And soon he lay very still.
The spider approached slowly with ease,
On a silver web attached to trees.
Web's design, oh, so fine
But such a design,
That is found in such a small scale
Is most beautiful despite the gale.

Drugs

I was surprised when I heard my friend Tom was on drugs.
"Where did you hear that?" Jeff asked his mother. "I saw his dad and he looked like something had happened. So I went over to him and he told me Tom was trying to get off of drugs."

The days went by slowly for Jeff. He was waiting to hear from Tom. As he sat in his room, he asked himself, why would a good kid like Tom want to go on drugs? Why," he said puzzled.

His mother called "come and get it". He walked down to the dinner table. He began to say something but he stopped. He couldn't talk about it. After dinner he went back to his room.

The next day Jeff asked his dad if he could go to see Tom.
"Yes," said his father. So on Sunday he went to visit him at the hospital. When he got there Tom told Jeff that the doctor had said he could have visitors only for a little while. Tom seemed a little pale, but was glad to see Jeff. Jeff stayed there about an hour. They talked about the good times they had had. The doctor came in and said that it was time to go. They said good-bye. After 3 months, Tom was a lot better. He was up and around. All he had remaining was an infection from the dirty needles he had used.
The doctor took care of the infection, and soon Tom and Jeff were together again. Tom had decided never to go back to drugs again because it was such a painfull and awful experience.
Jeff had learned the same thing
by just watching Tom suffering.

My True Story

One day as I was walking down the street I just happened to meet my friend, Joanne, I said to her, "Would you like to hear a true story?" She said, "of course!" So we started walking down to the store as I was telling the story. It went like this, Once there was a house that was polkadotted. It was a small house with only one cat and one dog living in it. One night at about midnight the dog and cat started screaming. Then Joanne stopped me and said "It better be true." Then I said, they were screaming so loud they woke up the neighbors, they came rushing in. So the cat and dog layed down quick. Joanne said,
"That's not true."

The Goal That

Started The Game

The two teams were firing slap shots from all over the place. But the goal tenders of the Seals team and the Bruins team kept stopping the shots. It was just the first period, and the two teams were all over the place.

A player from the Bruins team got the puck and from 50 feet out let the shot go. It hit the lower right hand corner of the net. That was the goal that started the game! At the end of the first period the score remained the same. Then the second period and the start of the 3rd each of the two teams were anxious to get a goal. The Seals did and that put them ahead 2 to 1. But later on in the period a player from the Bruins team scored a goal. The "reff" said, "No goal!" The Bruins player had lifted the puck up into the right hand corner. The player put up an argument. But, the game ended 2 to 1, with a disallowed goal on the Bruins.

It just goes to show you that you have to be a good sport in 15 Central Students Studying 'Down On The Farm'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Central Junior High School may have the answer to a question dating back to a World War I tune: "How ya gonna keep 'em down on the farm?"

Their answer is a reverse trend that sends 15 city boys into the country every Wednesday.

Promptly at 7:30 a.m. a bus provided by the School Department takes the boys to Norfolk County Agricultural School at Walpole for a full day of study and experience. It returns them to Central in time for after school sports.

The boys, volunteers from standard to advanced placement classes, wouldn't think of missing a day!

"Why waste the time when there are a lot of kids who would like to go?" is the comment Miss Mary Catherine Iannoni, head guidance counselor, gets.

Mark Reale of 97 Fenno St., Arthur Page of 103 Wollaston Ave., and David O'Connell of 78 Winthrop Ave., all of Wollaston, are typical of the group Miss Iannoni sees off weekly.

Mark is a forestry enthusiast.

He became interested last year when guidance Counsellor Donald Cooper of Walpole, a Central alumni, talked about the Norfolk County School at an assembly and showed slides.

Arthur volunteered because he says, "I might like to have a farm someday."

David has a definite financial interest. "I like it because I work in a garden shop part time after school and weekends." [His father owns the Newport Garden Shop.]

This is the second year Central has had this program as part of its "VOICE" project [Vocationally Oriented Individualized Career Experiences.]

Twenty-five different boys went to Norfolk Aggy at various times last year. Miss Iannoni reports, and a few really enjoyed it. Two of these boys are going full-time this year.

This year there are 15 boys attending on a regular basis, all with parental approval, and there is a waiting list. The program closes the second week in May, 1971.

There are seven periods in the day, two periods each of elementary plant science, elementary animal science and agricultural machinery, and one free period.

The boys get a full range of practical experience weeding gardens, feeding the animals, working with plants, helping bed down the cows. They can recount experiences with the 30 milking cows, 35 to 40 beef steers, sheep, two pigs, turkeys. They clean stalls, weigh little calves.

"When we go up there, we learn common sense things," one of the boys confided to Miss Iannoni. "We are doing instead of discussing."

One teenager, she says, "lives the rest of the week for the one day at Walpole."

New Library Opens At Gordon House

Gordon House Library at Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing officially opened Tuesday with ceremonies led by Mrs. Frances LaMontagne, director of nursing.

The new library is located in the former nursing arts laboratory. Installed in the new location are study tables of walnut with formica finish, study chairs of bright leather with foam rubber cushioning at seat and back, and lounge chairs with tweed upholstery in varying colors.

Walls are off-white, with champagne-beige fiberglass draw-drapes, sandy-beige shelving and dark red carpeting.

There are three adjoining rooms in the new facility. The Main Room houses the bulk of the nursing collection, reference collection, card catalog, pamphlet file and circulation desk and work area for the librarian.

There is a Reading Room designed for quiet study, and a Periodical Room for the magazine collection.

In vited guests at the ceremonies were Hospital Director Harlan L. Paine, Miss Constance Lundy, assistant director; Edmund Grogan and Ronald Beale, contractors for the new facility; Miss Michaeline Russell, assistant director of nursing service; Mrs. Avilda Schulze, assistant director of the School of Nursing.

Dr. Conrad Nobili, chairman of the medical library committee; Mrs. Marion Briggs, medical librarian; Mrs. Harriet Sequin, director of inservice education; nursing supervisors, nursing faculty and student government officers.

Eastern Nazarene College Trustees To Meet Feb. 1

The 36 member Board of Trustees of Eastern Nazarene College will meet at 3 p.m. Feb. 1, on the campus for a 24-hour working session devoted primarily to three key areas.

The areas are:

• A report of the Ad Hoc Faculty Relations Committee on matters relating to contract, tenure, retirement and other such matters affecting faculty and staff welfare.

• The proposed annual operating budget for the 1971-72 year which begins July 1.

• Appointments of faculty.

The meeting will begin with the President's Report by Dr. Leslie Parrott. It will contain his recommendations. Following a dinner hour, the Board will spend Monday evening in committee discussions, returning to the full Board session on Tuesday morning for committee reports.

Because the college is making radical adjustments to live within the proposed operating budget for the current year, the trustees, for this meeting, will be house guests of the

North Faces Somerville

Quincy Icemen Eye Tourney Berth

By Monday night the Quincy hockey team, apparently headed for another Eastern Mass. Tourney berth, will know just where it stands as far as the Greater Boston League championship is concerned.

The Presidents got a good start toward this objective Monday night when they turned in one of their best performances to blank Malden, 3-0, and break a second place tie.

Friday Quincy, now in second by itself with a 7-2-2 record, takes on strong fourth place Revere at 6:30 at Boston Arena and Monday comes the big one against league-leading Medford at 7:50 at Weymouth Arena.

Meanwhile, North Quincy meets Somerville in the second game Friday at Boston and faces Malden in the 7:30 opener Monday at Weymouth.

Quincy goalie Artie Boyle was superb in Monday's big win over Malden, while the defense turned in its usual fine performance and the Presidents moved the puck well.

"This was the start of our most important series of games and the kids played like I knew they could," Coach Bob Sylvia said.

Steve Kleimola put the Presidents ahead early in the game with assists by Steve Cedrone and Al Colby, and later in the opening period Kleimola fed Cedrone, who made it 2-0.

The final goal in the last period was scored by Don Burke with assists by Colby and Rick Patten.

Ron Erikson's North Quincy team, following three straight ties including outstanding games against Revere and Everett, found Medford too strong and bowed, 6-1.

Medford, staying two points in front of Quincy, took a 3-0 lead in the opening period and coasted the rest of the way.

North's only goal came in the middle period and was scored by Tom O'Malley, with Bob Golden and Ken Graham assisting.

Last Saturday the Presidents finished the first half of the season and tuned up for their three successive "meat and potatoes" games with a 3-1 win over Somerville at Boston Arena.

"We didn't look overly impressive but they were loose, as all teams at the bottom of a league are, and they can hurt you if you press," Sylvia said. "We did a lot of switching around in that game, trying to get them to work together and to find some scoring punch."

"Like most other teams, we have been hit by the flu and other illnesses and have been taking it a little bit easy. We are not in the shape we were, so it is back to fundamentals. We must win those big ones if we are to be considered a threat for the title."

Somerville, winner of only two games, jumped off to a 1-0 first period lead but Quincy tied it early in the second period on Ken Kearney's goal with John Black and Colby assisting. Later in the period Kleimola scored the winning goal with Ed Wiedermann assisting.

In the final period Colby scored the insurance goal on passes from Bob Cattaneo and Cedrone.

North Quincy turned in another superb defensive performance to hold favored Revere to a scoreless tie, the Raiders' third tie game in a row.

"We are really a new team now," said a pleased Erikson. "The boys have confidence in themselves and not only are starting to put things together, but are giving out 100 percent and doing things in a manner that shows they are sure of themselves."

"The kids got a big boost when we walked past the Medford dressing room and their coach said, "Where'd you get the new team?" The first time we played Revere they blew us off the ice and the kids were embarrassed. But then in the 1-1 tie with Everett the kids realized in the third period they aren't that bad and that did it."

Bobby Guerriero had an outstanding night in goal with 23 saves, including many of the spectacular variety. In the third period he saved the tie with three great saves.

Also coming in for praise were Keith Losordo, Neil Cronin, Al Stracuzzo, Golden, O'Malley, Graham, Steve Leofanti, Vin Cameron and Bob Frizzell.

Leofanti and Cameron had the flu but, according to Erikson, didn't show it, while Frizzell hadn't played all week because of a hairline fracture of the collarbone but played an aggressive game.

ENC Explodes For 320 Points In Three Games

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team exploded for 320 points in three games last week and won them all to give it a fine 11-4 season record.

Despite all the scoring, one of Coach Jim Smith's most valuable men is North Quincy's Steve Shoff, 5-9 guard, who had been averaging only four points a game until scoring 11 against Roberts Wesleyan and 12 against Framingham State last week.

"Steve has done a fine job for us and gives a measure of control to our attack," Smith said. "He knows he's not going to be a high scorer, so instead of looking for the hoop, he looks for the open man. He is important because he's a good passer, a fine ball-handler and also a tough defensive player."

In a recent game against Husson College, Steve scored only two points but they were two of the biggest points of the night and gave ENC a 74-73 comeback win.

"Steve stole the ball twice in the last two minutes and the second time, with just 16 seconds to play, he scored on the steal and gave us the winning basket," Smith continued.

Following that win at Husson, the Crusaders edged Framingham State, 95-92, as Ron Bradley scored 33 points, including 11 from the foul line, Don Eads scored 21 and Shoff had 12.

Bradley hit on four clutch foul shots in the closing seconds to bring ENC from behind for the victory.

ENC then rolled over Roberts Wesleyan, 109-88, with Bradley having 25, Dave Constantine of North Quincy 17, Eads 18, freshman Clark Adams 13, Shoff and Quincy's Rick Reyenger 11 each.

In their latest outing the Crusaders defeated Gordon, 116-96, with another great exhibition of shooting.

Bradley exploded for 38 points, Eads had 24, Adams 22 and Shoff continued to improve as a scorer with 13 points.

Bradley, hitting now like he did a year ago, leads the Crusaders in scoring with an average of better than 22 points a game and also leads in rebounds with an average of 14 per game. Eads is averaging more than 19 points a game, Adams is averaging 15 and Paul Beston of Quincy has an 11 point average. Reyenger, the 6-7 freshman, is second in rebounds with 14 a game and his addition has been a great boost to the team.

North Captain's Luncheon A Hit

"It's always fair weather when good friends get together."

That was the theme of a recent Captain's Luncheon held by the North Quincy football coaches for all members of the Raider's squad at Sherry's. It came off so well that Coach Ralph Frazier sees the event being held annually.

"We had the luncheon to elect our captains for next year, give out a variety of awards and to allow the coaches to say a few words to the players," Frazier said. "We don't get much of a chance to say anything to the boys and this gave us all a chance to speak to the squad and tell the boys just what we think of them. It was a nice affair."

Elected tri-captains of next fall's squad were Kevin Egan, Bob McKay and Dave Mahoney.

Jimmy Saruda was presented the Jack Donahue Award for being selected the outstanding North player in the Quincy game. Donahue, who has given this award since retiring as Raider coach, made the presentation.

All-scholastic trophies were presented by Principal John Walsh and Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone to John Panarelli and Tony Kelly.

All senior players received key plates inscribed with their initials and the words "North Quincy Football 1970".

Humorous awards went to all members of the squad, who numbered about 75.

Bruins' Trainer Y Speaker

Dan Canney, trainer for the world champion Boston Bruins, will speak Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at a Father-Son Program of the Quincy YMCA.

In addition, films of the 1970 Stanley Cup Playoffs will be shown.

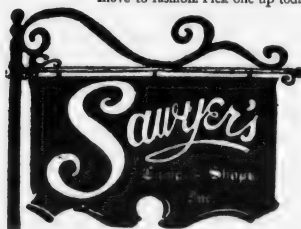

The program is open to all members, guests and friends, to all hockey fans. Tickets priced for adults and children are on sale at the YMCA main desk.

Merchants Roll High In Men's Candlepin Opener

Quincy Merchants topped St. Boniface Holy Name, 1792-1653, to gain the lead in the 18th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney which opened Sunday at Merrymount Alleys.

Ken Wagner showed the way for the Merchants with a 381 score, assisted by Leo DePola's 380; Ron Johnston with 353, Bob Hurst's 344 and Ron Gibson's 334.

Fred Sabate led St. Boniface with 345; Paul Vickers, 341; and Ken Hanson's 338 were all in a losing cause.

In the second highest score of the day, Ray Snell blasted out a 415, and Larry Bryan a 407 to lead Federal Auto Body to a 1748-1630 win over Carlyle Merchants of Whitman. Joe Grant's 346 was high for Carlyle Merchants, while Chick Dennis had 330.

A strong and consistent Quincy Church League eliminated North Quincy Knights of Columbus with a 1691-1540 win. Dick Collins led the Church League with 374, while Dave Bates chipped in with 361 and Steve Miller, 330. Frank Grant's 337 was tops for the Knights.

Louies Cafe did it all in the first string for a 1682-1649 victory over Boston Gear Works, with Boston Gear taking both second and third strings.

The host Koch Club of Quincy dumped the Professional Men from competition with a 1671-1578 win. Koch Club captured all three strings for its opening day win. Joe Derringer's 375 included a 152 high single for the day. Tom Hayes followed with 342. Art Learson's 336 was top for the Professional men.

The O.S.M. League ousted the Social Club 1652-1612 in the final match of the afternoon. Vic Craig with 349 and Arny Martinson with 340 led O.S.M. with Tom Yerkes chipping in a 332. Steve Mariani bowled 353 for the Social Club and Ricky Palumbo 336.

Yesterday's winners will return Feb. 9 to meet next Sunday's winners from the remaining 14 teams starting Jan. 31. The tourney is sponsored annually by the Koch Club of Quincy as part of its winter athletic and recreation program.

UCT Defeats Wollaston To Hold Pee Wee Lead

United Commercial Travelers solidified its top place in the Quincy Youth Hockey League PeeWee Division defeating Wollaston Theatre at Weymouth Rink 6-2. This gives UCT seven wins and one loss.

Davis continues in second place with six wins, one tie, and one loss, followed by Morrisette and Wollaston with records of 4-2-2 each.

This week's UCT goals were scored by John Mitchell and Frank Robinson, two each; Bob Hayes and John Norton, with assists by John Norton, Rick Carnali, Paul Messina and John Mitchell, two each. Kevin McGrath and Billy Doherty accounted for Wollaston Theatre's goals, with assists by John Kelly and Jim Fitzpatrick.

Hannon Tire and Morrisette Post tied 1-1, with Jerry Cronin scoring for Hannon assisted by Steve Cronin, and Don Gosselin for Morrisette with assist by Paul Higgins.

Davis Insurance and Crestview Nursing Home also tied it up with one all. David Mitchell scored for Davis, with assist by Paul McCormack; David Pedias for Crestview, with assist by Jim Triglia.

Maguire's Lounge topped Keohane Funeral Home 4-2. Rich Troy, James Maibach, Kevin Cotter and Dave Previte scored for Maguire's, with credits for assists going to James Maibach, Frank McGinnis, Dave Previte, Kevin Cotter and Doug MacDonald. John Chiavari accounted for both of Keohane's goals, with assists by Jack McHugh, Dan Donovan and Tim MacLean.

The Bantams saw Farina Kitchens topple Davis Insurance 4-3. Farina's goals were by Paul Cattaneo, who scored twice; Pat Barry and Mark Hurley. Pat

Barry was credited with two assists, Steve Paglierani, John Tromca and Billy Connolly, one each. Scoring for Davis were Eddie MacDonald, Mike Wysocki, and Rick Avery, with assists by Rick Avery, Eddie MacDonald and Frankie Guest. Sweeney's Funeral Home scored over Cox Rambler 3-2. Sweeney's goals were by Joe Pistorino, Peter Raymer and Gerry McEleney, with assists by Johnny Norton, John Ryan, Fred Murray and Joe Pistorino. Billy Speranza and Tom Kelly rolled up the two goals for Cox, with James Cooney and Brian Nevin on assists.

Amorosino Will Direct Nance Football School

Joe Amorosino, physical education teacher at Sterling Junior High School, junior varsity basketball coach at North Quincy High and coach of the Sterling soccer team, perennial city champions, will be director of the first annual Jim Nance Football Instructional School.

The school will be held at Camp Naticook at Reeds Ferry (Nashua), N.H. during the spring school vacation from April 18-24. It is open to all boys from 13 to 18.

Program director for the school will be Lou DiMartinis, football coach at Sterling, also city champ in that sport.

Nance's staff will include Ron Sellers of the Patriots, Butch Byrd of the Bills, Al Atkinson of the Jets, Coaches Joe Yukica of Boston College and Larry Navieaux of Boston University, North Quincy's Bo Lyons, line coach at Northeastern, and Bill Bates, head trainer of the Patriots.

In addition, Nance, former national collegiate wrestling champion, will give a wrestling demonstration.

Enrollment is open to beginners, average and advanced football players. Outstanding college players will serve as counselors. Registration will be held April 18, from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Further information can be obtained by writing Amorosino, 103 Academy St., Braintree, 02184.

Sanderson Shines At Mount Hermon School

North Quincy basketball coach Bob Nolan is proud of the fact all his players over the past five years have gone on to prep school and college.

One of his stars from last year, Rick Sanderson, is doing a great job for Mount Hermon School and in the recent Hill School Invitational Tourney in Pottstown, Pa., scored 40 points in three games and was named to the all-tourney team. His team finished second in the tourney.

Sanderson, one of the Raiders' stickouts in basketball and a starting end and safety man on the football team, has his eye on an Ivy League college for next year.

Quincy Friends Visit At Bolton Valley Ski Lodge

Steve Riley, owner of Black Bear Lodge, Bolton Valley, Vermont, and his wife Debbie, were hosts to a group of well known Quincy businessmen and their families over the weekend.

George Riley, Quincy City Purchasing Agent and partner of Riley & Reilly Insurance Co. brought his four boys, Mark, Scott, Paul and Kirk to ski and visit his brother at Bolton Valley.

Included in the skiing party were William Kelley, president of The Hancock Bank and Trust Co., Quincy, with his son and three daughters. Richard Settles, owner of Settles Glass Company in Quincy, accompanied them. This was a first visit for Settles; both Riley and Kelley have enjoyed Bolton Valley a number of times since the area was opened five years ago.

The skiing conditions at Bolton Valley ski resort were reported as "great" over the long weekend. With the completion of Interstate 89 to Bolton, the drive time coupled with the skiing conditions, insure Riley frequent visits from his family and friends in the Quincy area.

A Lot Of Satisfaction

Quincy Win Over North Sweet Upset

Quincy's athletic teams have come up with some big wins over cross-town rival North Quincy in recent years.

The Presidents shocked the Raiders on Thanksgiving of 1968 to knock North out of the Greater Boston League football title.

In 1969 they clinched a tie for the GBL title, their first crown, with a 53-0 whumping of North, a record score in the 38-year series.

Last Thanksgiving Quincy won its first undisputed league title and completed the first perfect season in the school's history with another victory over North.

But no Quincy win has ever given more satisfaction than last week's 75-70 upset win for Marty Finnegan's basketball team over Bob Nolan's favored Raiders, whose only other defeat had been at the hands of undefeated Somerville. The game was played at jam-packed North gym.

The happy Finnegan hoped the great victory would give his club a big boost for last Tuesday's game at Somerville. Friday night the Presidents play at Everett and Tuesday will be home to Malden.

Meanwhile, Nolan hoped for a North rebound Tuesday against powerful Revere. Friday the Raiders host Medford and Tuesday will play at Chelsea.

There were several interesting angles to last week's game.

Mike Greenlaw, the new Quincy junior varsity coach, is a former North star and is now an English teacher at North, and was given a lot of credit for the big win for his scouting of the Raiders.

And several members of the Quincy varsity squad played for North's jayvee coach, Joe Amoroso, at Sterling Junior High.

"This was a great win for the boys and they certainly deserved it," Finnegan said. "The key, I think, came in the third period. Bob Pike, our top scorer and rebounder, had four fouls in the first half and I had him sit out the third period. I felt if the others could hold North, we might pull it out when Bob returned."

"That is the way it turned out. We trailed them, 43-38, and the boys played them even in the third period without Pike. Bob came back, didn't commit another foul and we outscored them, 19-9, to win it."

Marty praised Greenlaw for "a great scouting job and for executing the North offense so well with his jayvees in practice."

"Quincy played a really fantastic game," Nolan said. "They were an inspired club and they took it away from us in that third period without Pike."

Finnegan lauded 5-7 sophomore John Reggiani, the playmaker, who exploded for 24 points. He also had praise for Bobby McDermott for his defensive play on Brian Donahue in the second half. Donahue scored 14 points in the first half, only seven in the second.

Bill Maver had 15 points and Pike 14, and both rebounded well again. Bill Burke, 6-5 center whose ankle, broken in pre-season practice, is not coming around as well as hoped for, played briefly in the opening period.

"He played only a few minutes but did his job," Finnegan said. "I've been spotting him, hoping he will come around during the second half of the schedule. We are just about over the flu and Burke's return would really help us."

Donahue led the Raiders with his 21 points, 6-8 Tom Cairns had 20 and was strong on the boards and Tony Kelly had 12.

Fouls hurt North as Ken Baker, Dave Nelson and Cairns all fouled out, as did Rick Raymond of Quincy.

"I coached basketball for three years at Sterling Junior High before taking over the North jayvees and Maver, Raymond, McDermott, Mike Donoghue and Herb Gustafson of Quincy all played for me," said Amoroso.

"Also, Reggiani was a student of mine and went to my basketball school in New Hampshire. After the game I went in and congratulated them on a great victory. I also had some of the Quincy junior varsity players with me at Sterling."

The win gave Quincy a 4-3 league mark and 5-4 overall record as the Presidents hope to rebound from three straight losing seasons. The loss, which hurt North's title chances, left its record at 5-2 in the league and 6-2 overall.

Amoroso's jayvees walloped Greenlaw's team, 59-39, as Ken Masters had 13 points and Jamie Doherty 12. The win gave North a 6-2 mark and dropped Quincy to 6-3 as well as ending its five-game win streak.

The North coaches had a good chance to scout the Presidents earlier in the week as the Raiders had a night off and Quincy overcame a 45-35 half-time deficit to edge B. C. High, 75-72, on the Quincy court.

"The boys proved they have the ability to come from behind," Finnegan said. "They are real spunky and never give up. That's the way they have been playing since the season started."

Finnegan deserves much of the credit himself for the win as he switched strategy after the non-too-happy first half. The Presidents stormed on to the court for the second half and took the play away from the Eagles.

"We decided we needed more penetration of their zone defense and had to pick up the pace," Marty said. "We didn't want them to control the game the way they had in the first half. By forcing them to hurry their shots, we cut down on the number of baskets they were getting from in close and that made the big difference."

Pike had another good night with 28 points, three over his season's average, but the big surprise was the scoring of McDermott.

McDermott, sent in for Donoghue to provide the speed necessary to offset the Eagles' superior height, scored 24 points, by far his biggest output of the year.

"He did a great job and we got the fast break with him in there," Finnegan went on. "We weren't getting the ball to him enough in the first half because we were playing offense on one side of the floor. As soon as we changed things at the half, he got a lot more shots and really came through for us." He hit for 17 points in the second half after only seven in the first two periods.

Pike was 11 for 13 from the floor, hitting on nine straight baskets in the first three periods. He and Maver stood out on the defensive board, and Reggiani scored seven of his 10 points in the final period.

Quincy out-rebounded the taller Eagles, 37-32, and connected on 46 percent of its floor shots to 43 percent for the losers.

Greenlaw's Quincy junior varsity won its fifth straight, 56-37.

Five From Quincy, North In State Meet

Quincy's track team will have three representatives in Saturday's state championship meet at Boston Garden, while North Quincy will have two.

The five qualified in last weekend's qualifying meets. Quincy's Bobby Ciano, unbeaten in Met League competition, finished fourth in the Class A mile at Northeastern, Ray Lawyer placed ninth in the 50-yard dash, and Pete Daley was 12th in the 300-yard run.

North's John Panarelli, also undefeated in the Met League, placed fourth in the Class B shot put at MIT and Kevin Henry finished 10th in the two-mile.

The state schoolboy meet will be held in the morning and afternoon at the Garden, followed by the annual BAA meet at night.

The Quincy Quacks street hockey team was bombed by Newton, Sunday, 16-2.

The Quacks had Bill Brabazon as goalie, substituting for Jeff Bonish who was out with the flu. Also sick was Brian Sullivan, candidate for the all-star game at Lynn during February school vacation.

Newton took an early lead. Quincy fought back as Dave Stern scored with an assist from Steve Golden and Mark Feldman.

Newton then rolled up nine goals before Quincy got going in the third period when Ron Smith took one of the few Quincy passes made to a teammate from Steve Golden and drove it home. Quincy put Dave Stern into the net but Newton got five goals in the last five minutes of the game.

Quacks will be idle next week, and will play the previously scheduled Doubleheader in South Boston next.

Come . Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'On Being A Good Father'

"Daddy, you weren't always right...but you were strong and fair...and we always knew where we stood." It was my older daughter speaking. I liked what she said. I've often said that my children are my four best credentials.

Children grow up to be the product of their homes. I like strong men...they make the best fathers...the best husbands. Weak men make weak...unstable children who often become weak...unstable adults. That's why many adults are floundering. They engage in the pursuit of happiness...but never attain it.

The father that conditions children to be well-adjusted adults...for one thing shows firmness in his love...brings them from total dependence to full independence. While a mother may love unconditionally a strong father says in essence..."I love you, Sammy boy, but you get out there and shovel that snow"... "You have certain responsibilities in the home and I expect you to follow through on them." He does not shelter...is not permissive...does not indulge his children because he had nothing as a boy and therefore doesn't want his children to be without things as he was. His love is real...not sentimental...not soft. He is firm...so kids know where they stand.

Secondly...the father conditions children to think for themselves. If he makes a lot of rules and enforces the rules...he prepares them for Army life but not for family life. He doesn't tell his children..."Do this because I said so"...but encourages curiosity...reasoning...ingenuity. Too many do's and don'ts discourage thinking...and if a person doesn't learn to think when young they'll be gullible as adults...taking others' answers without question. That's fine for sellers of toothpaste...but it doesn't make real happy...stable...people.

Again...the father conditions children not to manipulate people. Children learn early to manipulate easy...weak parents. They can't manipulate the strong father. Children drive wedges between parents...they play one against the other...they ask permission from the one more likely to give the child his/her way. The manipulated father or mother is not a respected father or mother. The strong father is not afraid of saying NO when in his judgment NO is the best answer. He is not victim of his son's snow job. He is not afraid of his daughter's disapproval. He will not be manipulated. So he teaches children not to manipulate.

And this I firmly believe...the strong father conditions his children to avoid idleness. He leads them into growth potential...activities...sports...music...art...workshop in the basement...old car in the back yard...work on the grounds...mowing...planting...fertilizing...all these in lieu of the old chore of chopping wood and filling the wood box. Idleness means no direction...wasted human development...other loafing companions...very often...too often I suspect drug addiction. A good father helps his boy/girl to avoid idleness.

There are problems being a strong father...one is the time factor. How can a father organize his family responsibilities and follow through to see that the responsibilities assigned are carried out...and at the same time be gone from the home from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. to maintain a reasonable living standard? The answer is by the partnership of his wife...the children's mother. When children know that their father and mother stand together...supporting each other right down the line...loving and sharing the home responsibility...children can see that their assigned tasks share in the harmony and success of the home.

Perhaps the biggest problem for most fathers is just not knowing how to be a strong man...having been conditioned to be mama's boy. So many men were "child-centered raised" by mothers...grandmothers...aunts...nuns in parochial schools...ladies in public schools...den mothers in scouts...more ladies if they go to Sunday School. For too many men there was no example of what it is to be a man...much less a husband father. But they can learn...if they want to. One of the most important tasks of the conscientious counselor is the teaching of adult males how to be men...or restoring manly dignity when it has been lost.

In the face of announcements of the early demise of marriage...and the giving way of the American Family to the commune...I suspect that building in a little more strength in the backbones and hearts of our men might cause marriage and the American Family to be a little more effective...a lot more desirable...and things effective and desirable are likely to be around for a while.

Burke Favors New Courthouse

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke of Quincy spoke out this week on the need for a new superior courthouse for Norfolk County at Dedham.

At a State House hearing Tuesday, Burke declared:

"The need for expanded facilities has now existed for many years. Every department of county government housed in the present building has been affected by the overcrowded conditions which over the last five or six years have mushroomed to the extent that we are now practically bursting at the seams."

Burke enumerated overcrowded conditions in the district attorney's office, problems of having part of his staff and files in widely separated locations, and recommended strongly the passage of legislation for a new Court House.

"This relief has been too long due," he said.

Mr. Kelley announced that Mr. Keefe's south division collected more money in this year's campaign than any other division.

Mr. Kelley also announced that David J. Gaffey of Scituate, Charles Hayes of Norwell and Kenneth E. Moll of Hingham had brought in over 100% for their towns in the campaign.

QEA Suggests Scholarship In Dr. Gossard's Memory

Again this year the Quincy Education Association is preparing to set aside a sizeable amount of money for scholarships to graduating students of Quincy, North Quincy and Vocational-Technical High Schools.

Miss Ilda DiMascio of Beechwood Knoll School, scholarship chairman for the past five years, has suggested donations to the QEA Scholarship Fund in memory of the late Dr. A. Paul Gossard, retired Quincy School Superintendent.

"I know the family of the late Superintendent of Schools would appreciate very much moneys donated for the purpose of establishing a permanent scholarship," Miss DiMascio points out.

Miss DiMascio and her committee are always interested in ideas and ways in which to increase the size of the scholarship fund. In addition individuals, teachers and families are encouraged to donate. Money given for deserving students may be designated for specific purposes, if it is the wish

A. George D'Angelo Joins Colpitt's Travel Agency

A. George D'Angelo, proprietor of Ship's Haven Restaurant in Quincy Square for the past 16 years, is leaving his career as restaurateur to become a full-time member of the professional staff of Colpitt's Travel Agency.

He will arrange and conduct tours for groups as well as individuals.

Colpitt's, with offices at 1550 Hancock St., is the former Carlson Travel Agency long established in Quincy.

Mr. D'Angelo, a specialist in arranging leisurely tours, dates his experience back to the end of World War II. At that time he had full charge of dining facilities at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and combined this position with that of arranging and conducting tours in both the United States and Europe.

Following this he traveled widely in Pennsylvania, Washington, D.C., Florida and other areas as a supervisor for Howard D. Johnson of Wollaston.

Ship's Haven Restaurant has been sold to Charles Zaccaria and Nicholas DeCamp.

David D. Wainwright Home After Service In Vietnam

Warrant Officer David D.

Wainwright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wainwright of 97 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck, has returned to Quincy after more than a year in Vietnam as a helicopter pilot.

While there he was awarded the Air Medal with V and Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, among other citations. He was stationed at Phu Heip and Tuy Hoa.

He is a 1966 graduate of Quincy High School and attended Northeastern University before entering the Army.

Now, Tiny Tim The Actor

"ALEX IN WONDERLAND" leaves one "in a quandary as to whether the film is a cinematic self-portrait of the director, PAUL MAZURSKY, or to the directors boyhood idol, FEDERICO FELLINI. Whatever the answer, "ALEX" is not this reviewer's idea of a fun-filled evening... So atrocious a production is it, that superlative actor DON SUTHERLAND becomes bogged down in the lunacies which more than abound...

ELIO PETRI is with it all the way in the murder-thriller, "INVESTIGATION OF A CITIZEN ABOVE SUSPICION"... PETRI's masterpiece is the prime example of what a murder genre is all about... Watch for this motion picture to garner multi-awards at the CANNES FILM FESTIVAL in April... And while on the subject of film festivals, so ms like every city wants to get in on the act. For the curious, the ROCHESTER [N.Y.] FILM FESTIVAL is being held in October, in all of places, XEROX SQUARE... Newcomer SAMANTHA RIDGE has been chosen this years "New York Summer Film Festival Queen"...

Can the male of the species survive the seasonal demise of Sunday afternoon and evening, and Monday p.m. football?... The television football season seems to become longer each year... Maybe the TV networks never heard of the word "OVEREXPOSURE"...

TINY TIM has taken off on his long over due acting career... TIM will be making his debut in "LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE"... MAGGIE SMITH will be touring America this year with England's prestigious National Theater Company... When is PETER FINCH going to make another film?...

Maybe BOB HOPE should cool it with his "CHRISTMAS SPECIALS". Old ski noses' latest production was dull, boring, and all to repetitious of years gone by... HOPE's type of humor is far too passe for the "hip" generation...

Salem, Mass. is fast becoming known as the home of "B-WITCHED"... And with good reason! ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY filmed several episodes of her highly entertaining series in that fair town not too many months ago...

The proposed PHYLLIS DILLER-DON RICKLES situation-comedy merger never materialized... Which is probably just as well... DON RICKLES is solidly entrenched on a successful night club and film career, and Miss DILLER always works better as a single... BARB: A STREISAND's "THE OWL AND THE PUSSYCAT" was UNITED ARTISTS big money maker of 1970... A recent survey conducted by the UNITED NATIONS listed 251,000 film houses all over the world. And yes, the United States led all countries... QUOTE, UNQUOTE: Actor TONY CURTIS commenting on the current economic crises hitting filmdom: "Hollywood is filled with people staring into their swimming pools"... ANNA CALDERMARSHALL has the femme role of "Cathy" in the remake of "WUTHERING HEIGHTS". The film is slated for an early spring release... TONY ZERBE debuts in "I AM LEGEND"... Watch for this young versatile actor... You'll be hearing more of his name in the future.

Television CASSETTE's may be the coming fad, but WALT DISNEY Productions aren't the least bit interested in leasing any of their properties to the new media...

Is KIM NOVACK in semi or permanent retirement?... Signs of our "anything goes era"... Dutch sex magazine editor JAN WENDERHOLT has scheduled a Pornography special for European Tele-view watchers... Luckily there is no chance of it being aired over here... Those who have seen "SONG OF NORWAY" will have to agree that EDWARD G. ROBINSON has mellowed into a more than competent character actor... And while on the subject of "NORWAY", wasn't FLORENCE HENDERSON as enchanting as "SOUND OF MUSIC's" JULIE ANDREWS?...

"GOIN' DOWN THE ROAD" swept every important award at the 1970 Canadian Film Festival, and possesses enough box-office impact to make it one of the best of 71... Well worth the price of admission!... Denmark is becoming notorious for X-rated film peddling. The latest Danish epic, "THREESOME", is an X-rated loser if ever there was one... And naturally Boston's WEST END CINEMA is first running it... Who else?... LEE PHILIP of Chicago's WBBM-TV, may be on the move upward to a big New York nightly newscasting time slot... When, if ever, is DIANA ROSS going to make her film debut?...

Probably the best way to describe ABC-TV's "ALL IN THE FAMILY", is to say, it is a "surly" description of what America is attempting to rid itself of... Wouldn't ELI WALLACH make an excellent lead as star of his own weekly series?... Maybe the upcoming filming of "BEST OF FRIENDS" will do for DENNIS WEAVERS' floundering career what three TV series couldn't do; namely, place the personable Mr. WEAVER in the orbit of star status...

Bergeson Sees GD's Prospects 'Excellent'

Excellent business prospects ships, General Manager Lloyd for General Dynamics lie in Bergeson feels. future building of merchant With the United States about to enter the greatest commercial shipbuilding boom since World War II, Bergeson believes the challenge facing the Quincy Shipbuilding Division is to hone its efficiency to a razor's edge of competitiveness.

In 1972, Bergeson points out, the shipyard is scheduled to deliver its final Navy ship. Under the Navy's proposed 1971 budget, there are no construction funds for ships suited to Quincy facilities. However, types of merchant ships planned over the next ten years are suitable.

Invited to the White House when President Nixon signed into law the Merchant Marine Act of 1970 calling for 300 new merchant ships, Bergeson observed:

"I'm very hopeful that we will be a major participant in the program. We have an outstanding facility, the management ability, and a dedicated, skilled work force that can and will build quality ships at competitive prices and at competitive costs."

Quincy Shipyard must become more efficient right now to enter the competition for a share of the maritime program, Bergeson emphasized.

Wiring, costing an estimated $1,306,123.70, was installed in new and old buildings during 1970 reports City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts.

Only 60 of the 1,616 permits issued were for new buildings. The remainder were for remodeling and additional wiring in existing buildings.

Fees from the permits totalled $9,256.

Topping the major wiring projects was a new 64-apartment building at 30 French St., North Quincy. Other new buildings were a 56-unit apartment at 40 French St.; 40-apartments at 530 Willard St., West Quincy; 32-apartments at 225 Independence Ave., South Quincy; and 30-apartments at 310 Copeland St., West Quincy.

New commercial projects included a Pilgrim Diner at 126 Quincy Ave., Retail Stores Delivery at 199 Commander Shea Blvd., Squantum, Eastern Nazarene College at 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston; Salvation Army at 6 Baxter St., Quincy Center, South Shore National Bank at 496 Sea St., Adams Shore, International House of Pancakes at 111 Washington St., Quincy Center.

Norfolk County Trust Co. at 60 Quincy Shore Drive, North Quincy, Hancock Motor Bank at 515 Southern Artery; Volkswagen Agency at 90 Quincy Shore Drive; and a new Quincy District Courthouse at 50 Chestnut St., Quincy Center.

New office buildings at 341 Hancock St. and 875 Southern Artery; new research building for Hazeltine Corp. at 155 Hazeltine Dr.; new rectory for First Presbyterian Church at 262 Franklin St.; new additions to Retail Stores Delivery at 199 Commander Shea Blvd., and Bethel Beach Church of the Nazarene at 33 Empire St.; remodeling of 1495 Hancock St. for Hancock Bank & Trust; new Housing for the elderly at 33 St. Germain St.

There were 1,831 inspections of new and additional wiring; 123 re-inspections of old wiring. Some 190 defects were noted.

With an assistant for the last six months, Pitts pointed out that the number of inspections were up more than 500 from the previous year. With an assistant for the full year, the number of inspections will more than double, he said.

Citizens Institute To Meet Saturday

Quincy's building boom continued through 1970 with new construction valued at an estimated $21,349,841, reports Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald.

Wards 1 and 6 saw most of the building action with construction estimated at $9,213,455 and $5,738,425 respectively.

Following them were Ward 2 with $2,825,445; Ward 4 with $1,539,775 and Ward 5 with $1,356,641.

Ward 3 saw few hammers and nails in comparison, the only ward that did not break the $1 million mark. Construction there amounted to an estimated $676,100.

The year 1970 was not as dramatic as 1969 which brought some $26.6 million in new construction.

But it was far ahead of 1968's $12,199,997.

The actual number of permits issued during 1970-1,159-was 103 more than the year before. Fees for the 1,159 permits totalled $25,403.

"We feel," says MacDonald,

"that our schedule of fees should be revised upwards and the maximum fee increased. We are making a study of fee schedules in other cities and towns."

And while a lot was "going up" in Quincy during 1970, a few things were also "coming down".

MacDonald reports that during the year there were 53 demolitions.

Many of the demolitions were to provide space for new construction. And the others were part of the Building Department's continuing campaign to rid the city of old, dilapidated and dangerous structures.

2,500 Flaunt Auto Excise Tax Law

Delinquents Owe $252,178

TALL STORY--Quincy's first federally funded housing for Senior Citizens opened this week on Washington St., Quincy Point. The 14-story, 156-unit $2.6 million apartment structure is being occupied from the top at the rate of five apartments per day, with occupants selected from the more than 1,000 applications on file with the Quincy Housing Authority. Rent, based on no more than 25% of income, includes heat and utilities. Note the television antennas. Reception should be good.

An estimated 2,500 auto excise tax delinquents owe Quincy a total $252,178--some of the money dating back seven years.

This was disclosed today by City Tax Collector-Treasurer David R. Houston who hopes to crack down on the delinquents with a new law to suspend their driver licenses.

Houston, who has engaged in a running battle with delinquents since taking office in April, 1966, declared:

"It's still the same old story. The majority of auto owners pay their taxes. And the minority go right on flaunting the law. It's not fair to let the latter continue to get away with it."

Houston estimated that 97 per cent of vehicle owners in Quincy pay their excise taxes while three per cent remain delinquent.

"But three per cent can add up to a lot of money," said Houston. "Like the $252,178 now owed. That represents $1.20 on the tax rate."

The $252,178 total, he said, includes:

- $159,195 owed for 1970.
- $36,882 owed for 1969.
- $15,615 owed for 1968.
- $27,311 owed from 1964 through 1967.

The money also includes, he said, $13,200 owed in dealer [Cont. on Page 2]

Bertolon Named New City Assessor

Henry J. Bertolon, 44, of 96 Connell St., West Quincy, has been appointed to the Board of Assessors by Mayor James R. McIntyre. The post pays $10,360.

The appointment fills the vacancy created by the retirement of William C. Callahan, chairman of the board of assessors.

Elmer K. Fagerlund was named chairman this week by Mayor McIntyre.

Bertolon, married and the father of five children, has been legislative assistant to McIntyre in the Senate for the past two years. He was a former assistant assessor in Quincy.

His education includes four years at Boston University College of Business Administration Evening College. He is now enrolled in Metropolitan College at Boston University pursuing a bachelor of applied science degree in urban affairs.

Bertolon received a certificate as Housing Inspector from the University of Southern Illinois. In addition to being a former assistant assessor he was also a code enforcement housing [Cont. on Page 2]

Over $3 Million Cut From Budget Requests

Mayor James R. McIntyre has slashed "a little more than $3 million" from municipal budget requests for 1971.

The cuts, he said, are equivalent to about $15 on the tax rate.

McIntyre, City Auditor Alexander Smith and James J. Ricciuti, executive secretary, spent 10 marathon sessions working on the budget, completing the task early this week.

The Mayor said he will present the 1971 municipal budget to the City Council Feb. 16.

The council's Finance Committee, headed by Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth will then go over it for possible further pruning.

McIntyre said it was impossible at this time to ascertain the exact size of the budget he will send to the council.

Council Hearing Feb. 11 On Pilot Hot Lunch Program

The City Council's Finance Committee will hold a public hearing Feb. 11 in connection with the controversial pilot hot lunch program proposed for the Snug Harbor elementary school. Finance Chairman J. Vincent Smyth announced the 7:30 p.m. hearing will be held in the spacious Quincy Vocational-Technical School cafeteria to accommodate an expected large turnout.

He said he is sending out letters to all civic associations and other interested organizations inviting them to have representatives attend and participate in the hearing.

"We want to give all interested citizens of Quincy the opportunity to be heard on whether this pilot program should be initiated at this time, instead of waiting until 1973, the mandatory date decreed by registration plate excise taxes since 1968.

Houston said the delinquency excise tax total last Dec. 31 stood as high as $327,946.

But during January, his department collected $75,769, cutting the total outstanding to the current $252,178.

Houston is chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Massachusetts Collectors and Treasurers Association which represents all 351 Massachusetts cities and towns.

As chairman, he has filed legislation which would give to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles the power to suspend driver licenses of chronic auto excise delinquents whose names are submitted by the tax collector of a city or town.

The Registrar would have the authority to impose the suspension after a hearing on the individual case had been held.

"We tried this method in 1966 and it was extremely successful," recalled Houston. "But when a Medford resident challenged the legality of the suspensions, counsel for the Registry advised that the hearings be discontinued until such time as legislation was passed spelling out the legality of the hearings and license suspensions."

This is the third attempt to get the law onto the books.

Bills were filed in 1967 [by Mayor-Sen. James R. McIn tyre] and again in 1970. Both came close to passage but were defeated in 11th hour moves.

"We feel we have a good chance this year to get it passed," said Houston.

He said suspending licenses rather than registrations would be more effective in cracking down on tax delinquents.

If a registration is revoked, he noted, the vehicle can be re-registered by someone else in the same family.

A suspended driver's license, however, cannot be transferred to anyone else, he said.

He said his interpretation of the current bill is that the license would remain suspended until the tax is paid.

Houston expressed concern that excise tax collections this year will be slower than usual due to the fact that a new law requires tax bills to clearly state that the tax is not due until 60 days from date of issuance.

In the past, the bills were due after 30 days.

Mail Your Valentines By Feb. 11

Postmaster George K. Walker asks that Valentines be mailed by Thursday, Feb. 11, to assure their delivery before Valentine's Day, Feb. 14.

Valentine cards, whether sealed or unsealed, require a minimum of six cents postage, and should bear the ZIP Code number, not only in the address, but also on the return address as this assists in the delivery of the cards.

Walker points out that the volume of Valentines is second to that of Christmas cards. Since many of the Valentines are for local delivery, special deposit containers have been placed in the lobby of each post office to assure faster handling and delivery of the Valentines.

Outside of the New England States, Valentines should be mailed via Air Mail no later than Feb. 9.

the legislature," Smyth said.

The question at hand for the public hearing involves a $30,000 appropriation request to purchase equipment to get the lunch program underway.

The appropriation order was submitted to the council at the School Committee's request Jan. 18. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

Since then the School Committee has passed the school department budget [$17.2 million including athletic programs and Quincy Junior College] with the money for the lunch program equipment "built in".

"It was the intent then of the City Council to hear the pros and cons on the proposed lunch program," said Smyth. "It is still our intent."

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Norfolk County Sheriff Charles W. Hedges says this positively will be his last term.

The former Quincy Republican has four years to go. "I'm stepping down then," says he.

Four years is still a long way off to most people. But to politicians, that's just around the corner.

As sheriff, Hedges has been unbeatable. The sheriff's badge is one of the last Republican political possessions in the county.

Democrats are eyeing the post and think they can win it when Hedges departs.

Names being mentioned as potential contenders: City Councillor Edward S. Graham who ran against Hedges last time out; John J. Sullivan of Wollaston, presently executive secretary to the Norfolk County Commissioners who made an impressive bid as a 21-year-old several years ago; City Councillor-Commissioner George B. McDonald, Councillor John J. Quinn and City Clerk John M. Gillis.

SPEAKING of Hedges, he has seen a lot of changes since taking over as sheriff 10 years ago [Dec. 27, 1960].

Back then, he recalls, most of the inmates at the House of Correction and jail were there as drunks or for offenses related to drinking.

Now, says he, 65 per cent of those confined are there in connection with drugs—either direct drugs cases or for being arrested for offenses related to drugs. Such as burglaries, and thefts to finance the obtaining of drugs.

"It's really quite serious," says Hedges, "when you consider 2,000 to 3,000 young prisoners go through the House of Correction in a year."

IT'S beginning to look like Quincy residents will never see voting machines in the city.

City Clerk John M. Gillis wanted them this year to expedite vote counting. Approximate cost: $326,000. Eventually, they would pay for themselves by cutting election tabulation work.

Gillis now joins the ranks of others who tried to bring the machines into Quincy. Among the others is former City Manager Edward T. Lewis.

Back in 1957-14 years ago—Lewis in his budget message to the City Council noted: "Also in this budget, a small amount has been included so that we may experiment with voting machines—$700 will enable us to rent four machines, and it is my intent to have them placed in the precincts which have difficulty in getting early returns."

THERE will always be weirdos around making obscene phone calls. What can women do to keep from becoming targets? Simple, says the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Assn.: "Don't Talk. Hang Up."

★★★

A local political figure reportedly is considering a momentous decision. The big question: Should he or should he not get himself a hairpiece?

MORE THANKS: Inmates at Norfolk County House of Correction send thanks to more Quincy residents for donations of clothing and other needed articles. Among them:

Mrs. Bradford Saivetz, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ham, Bryan Post VFW Commander James Mulloy, Mrs. Helen J. Roche, Edward T. Rush, Angelo Casna, Carl W. Anderson, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Mrs. Edwin J. Boland, Mrs. Rose Morrissey, Paul Ford, Miss Millicent Chapman.

SPRING can't be too far away. The pot-hole season is already here. Hard to keep up with them. They break out like the measles. Our nomination for the biggest pot holes in town: Independence Ave.

10,000 'Write Hanoi' Letters Quincy Goal This Week

A hoped-for 10,000 "Write Hanoi" letters by this weekend is the goal of the current campaign in Quincy sponsored by the Christian Service Commission of St. Joseph's Church and the South Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association [Internationally].

Flyers are being distributed throughout Quincy by volunteer students from North and Quincy High Schools. In the neighborhood canvass, residents are being asked to write either to Hanoi, or to Communist China, seeking better treatment for American prisoners of war.

"Five Minutes and 25 Cents" is the request: Five minutes to write a letter and 25-cents for postage.

Major businesses of Quincy are cooperating in the drive, Local 5 of the Shipbuilders Union [AFL-CIO] distributed 7,000 flyers on Tuesday at General Dynamics, and will collect letters.

Raytheon, New England Telephone, Globe Rubber are doing the same. Boston Gear has conducted its own drive.

Heading the drive at North Quincy High School are Peter

Chisom, assistant principal; William Morgan, president of the Student Council; and Paula DeMasi, cheerleader.

Student leaders at Quincy High School are Vincent Peruzzi, president of the Student Council, and Dianne DiBona, with John F. Harrington, head of the Social Studies Department.

Rev. James J. McCarthy and Mrs. Ann McLean are directing the drive for St. Joseph's Christian Service Commission, and Miss Grace Giunchiglia, for the National Secretaries Association.

Directors of Survival, Inc. today announced "definite plans" for use of property at 60 South St., Quincy Center, as a Redirection Center.

Joseph Ricci, a graduate of Daytop Village in New York, will be resident director of the center.

Assuring that his "cardinal rules for such a therapeutic community will be obeyed," he declared in a statement issued by Survival directors:

"There will be no drugs, no physical violence and no sexual activity. The Redirection Center will provide live-in residence for males only. Females will be cared to on a day-resident status until comfortable and proper cased accommodations can be arranged."

Ricci said Survival, Inc. needs donations of tables, chairs, desks, lamps, beds, kitchen appliances and other household or office furniture for the center.

Survival directors noted that their intent to purchase the property has been known since early January due to zoning matters and support from the Norfolk County Commission's federal grant proposal.

They said the South Street House will be used as therapeutic community in which the following services will be performed:

●First, young heavy drug abusers will be referred for personal and physical examinations by a medical doctor. Good treatment as well as a new drug control law requires that offenders be determined that they are "dependent" or "addicted" before further treatment or court action.

●Second, the afflicted abuser will receive a psychological and social evaluation to determine which treatment would be most fitting for each individual case."

●Third, the powerful treatment, effects of the therapeutic community will be employed from the very first contact with Survival.

Here, the ex-addict staff as well as his peers will interact with the patient to redirect his life patterns and values.

The new site acquisition is part of Survival's long range plan to locate different parts of their program in different parts of Quincy. The program's coordinator, Dr. Ronald G. Rosso said he feels that:

"This not only allows various areas of Quincy to participate in the community's struggle against drug abuse, but also distributes the load so that no one location is overburdened with participants. Further, multiple locations allow a separation of the "hard core" addicts from those who are only experimenting or less involved with drugs.

Dr. Rosso repeated his invitation to Survival's neighbors in Quincy and their representatives on the City Council:

"You are welcome to visit our facilities and encouraged to discuss with us any aspects of the program's operations."

LWV Praises QCA For Lunch Program Hearing

The League of Women Voters of Quincy today praised the directors of the Quincy Citizens Association for sponsoring an open discussion of the proposed Snug Harbor hot lunch program.

"We applaud the efforts of the QCA to hear both sides of the issue before taking a stand on the program," says Mrs. David Coletti, League president. "Supporting or opposing any program without listening to arguments on each side is not in the best tradition of democracy in America," she continued. "Those who do so take a chance on polarizing people rather than bringing them together to solve their common problems."

To help citizens make a decision on this program, the League is offering to send a speaker to any group wishing to hear their support position.

The League urges interested citizens to contact Mrs. John Kane of 164 Atlantic St., North Quincy, for a speaker on the hot lunch program.

$21.3 Million Construction

The buildings, MacDonald notes, must by law be exterminated before being torn down.

There was a sort of "comeback" in construction of single family dwellings during the year.

Permits for 27 new dwellings costing an estimated $407,516 were issued compared to 16 valued at $273,430 in 1969.

Major construction projects for which permits were issued included:

- A 275-unit apartment building, $4,830,000.
- Kemper Insurance office building, $4 million.
- Quincy District Courthouse, $1,861,744.
- Huckins Avenue School, $896,750.
- A 48-unit dwelling, $480,000.
- A 53-unit dwelling, $372,000.
- A 36-unit dwelling, $288,000.
- A 35-unit dwelling, $280,000.

St. Moritz Assn. Opposes Free Hot Lunch Program

Members of the St. Moritz Association at its recent meeting voted unanimous opposition to a free hot lunch program at Snug Harbor School or at any Quincy Schools.

Harold Coose, president, will represent the Association on its stand at the public hearing to be called by the City Council.

Association members voted 38 to 1 in favor of leaving a 40-acre tract of West Quincy land zoned Residence A, until Old Colony Crushed Stone should submit "a worthwhile plan that took many problems into consideration."

This action followed a presentation by Atty. Leon Newman, representing Old Colony Crushed Stone, who outlined some of the reasons why they wished the land rezoned to Residence C. Under the new zoning category, this would permit eight-story apartment buildings.

Questioned regarding provisions for entrance to the land and for alleviating traffic congestion already existing on Willard St., Newman said there would be only one road into the property and he did not anticipate any increase in traffic.

"You already have a traffic problem," he said. "Any increase in traffic generated by Old Colony would not over-burden the road."

In other action, members voted on a motion to change the boundaries of the association to include all of Ward 4, West Quincy.

In the Christmas decoration contest, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jursuz of 10 Frederic St., won first prize for best decorated house, with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Coletti of 125 Bunker Hill Lane in second place, Mr. and Mrs. Dante Cingolani of 9 Montello St. won top prize for the best decorated doorway.

At the next meeting Murray Portman will present the latest film on drugs that has been made by Kemper Insurance Company.

Over 250 Expected At Seniors Valentine Dance

More than 250 persons are expected to attend the Quincy Senior Citizens' Hearts and Flowers Valentine Dance at the Fore River Clubhouse, on Nevada Rd., Quincy, Feb. 12 from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m.

The event is being sponsored by the Quincy Council on Aging and the Quincy Amvets Memorial Post under the direction of Mrs. Marion Andrews and Anthony Famigletti.

Tickets will be available until Feb. 9 at the Quincy Council on Aging Office located in the Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St.

Highlighting the dance will be the selection of a King and Queen of Hearts. Mayor James R. McIntyre will officiate at the crowning ceremony. Gifts, donated by members of the Quincy City Council members, will be presented to the King and Queen by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin. Special prizes will be awarded during the evening and refreshments will be served.

The dance is open to any senior citizen. Special guests will include Mayor and Mrs. McIntyre, members of the Quincy City Council and their wives, officers and members of the Quincy Amvets Memorial Post.

Dance committee members include: Mrs. Alice Levins, Mrs. Mary Whalen, Mrs. Mary Woods, Mrs. Florence Gately, Mrs. Jessie Stewart, Mrs. Theodore Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fiddle, Mr. and Mrs. John Maki, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood, Miss Helen Malone, Miss Gerry Lynch, Theodore Johnson, Shirley Bryan and Theodore Fleming.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Andrews at the Quincy Council on Aging Office.

GIRDLES AND VARICOSE VEINS

There is increasing evidence that girdles may contribute to varicose veins. Varicose veins are caused by a breakdown of the valves that ordinarily maintain a continuous flow of blood to the heart. When the valves cease to function properly, the blood accumulates at intervals causing dilations that project in lumpy fashion above the surface of the skin. Pregnant women and overweight people are especially susceptible.

A research team recently completing a study of nearly 1,000 English and Egyptian mill workers, found that only six percent of the Egyptian woman had varicose veins as opposed to thirty two percent of their English counterparts. The significant point was that three out of five of the English workers wore corsets or girdles. Only two of the Egyptian women wore them. The doctors concluded that girdles may significantly increase your chances of getting varicose veins.

Wollaston Women Juniors In 'Write Hanoi' Project

Wollaston Woman's Club Juniors have joined the movement to "Write Hanoi".

At a fall conference, the Wollaston Juniors along with other Junior Clubs, voted to adopt the Prisoner of War resolution which had been passed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs last June.

This resolution calls for the immediate release of sick and injured prisoners of war, the impartial inspection of prison camps, and the identification of men held prisoners. It also proclaims the rights of prisoners to correspond with their families.

Protest letters have been written to Hanoi and to governments who have diplomatic relations with Hanoi, to work for humanitarian treatment for those held captive and for their release as quickly as possible.

Wollaston Juniors are urging their members and friends to write to Hanoi in the hope of securing humane treatment of all prisoners of war. They urge every citizen to take the time to add their protests through letters. Copy of a sample letter may be obtained from Mrs. Charles Knowles of 47 Liberty St., Braintree.

Letters should be addressed to: His Excellency, the President, Democratic Republic, Hanoi, North Vietnam; or Mr. Yuan Thuy, Delegation of Democratic Republic, 94 Chussey Le Rue, Paris, France.

Poet's Corner

Memory Road

By Margaret DeAngelo

I'd like to walk a country road,
When everything is still.
And watch the never-ending breeze
Caress a daffodil.

I'd like to reach up to a cloud—
Up in the sky of blue.
And make a pillow for my head:

To make a dream come true.

I'd like the golden, mellow sun

Hand me its gold on a spoon,
To catch a raindrop in my hand,

And dance with 'the man in the moon'.

Oh, what peace of mind I'd have,

If all these things could be.

But alas! I must be content-at least

To live in memory.

The Apple Tree

I stood beneath the apple tree
The apples were so good to see

Very high above my head
I saw them shining round and red

A robin sang a tiny song
And after I had waited long,

A fairy in the apple tree
Threw an apple down to me.

Dreams

I sometimes try recalling my dreams,

But must be unreal it always seems.

They seem so strange, never quite clear,

Unfinished flashes, that soon disappear.

What can they mean, these tales of night?

Hidden in shadows, concealed from the light.

Lingering still as one calmly sleeps.

Then haunting the mind in which it creeps.

Cloudy colors and foggy faces,

The hazy visions ones mind chases.

Grabbing and grasping, trying to grope,

But catching a dream, is of no hope.

The answers are locked I have to suppose,

Stored deep within to never expose.

And so we'll sleep our slumbersome trance,

Harboring dreams that continue to dance.

Nectarine Special Occasion Cake

For a shower or other auspicious event it would be hard to find a more festive dessert than "Nectarine Honey Meringue Cake." It has flair and flavor galore, but you'll find it easy to assemble. Our markets will be well supplied with fresh California nectarines only through September, so don't wait too long to make this great cake.

Nectarine Honey Meringue Cake

3 or 4 fresh nectarines
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 package (3 oz.) lemon gelatin
2 layers (9 inches ea.) baked white or yellow cake, cooled
1 egg white
1/4 cup honey

Slice nectarines to measure 2 cups; combine with water in covered pan and boil, covered, 5 minutes. Blend cornstarch with gelatin. Mix into fruit in saucepan and cook, stirring, until mixture is thickened; then cook 1 minute longer. Cool. Spread on tops of cake layers; stack layers. Whip egg white with honey at high speed until stiff. Dollop in center of top cake layer and spread remainder around sides of cake. Cut 9 to 12 more nectarine slices; arrange in center of top. Makes 9 to 12 servings.

Win A Prize For Your Apple Recipe

A $100 first prize will be won by a lucky Massachusetts homemaker in an unusual apple recipe contest sponsored by the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture.

Eight prizes in all will be awarded, says Commr. Nathan Chandler. Second prize is $50, third $25, and five runners-up will receive $10 each. There will be a number of honorable mentions.

The contest is a search for fresh, unusual and perhaps unique recipes for native apples. Pies, cakes, cobblers, puddings, preserves — you name it — all are eligible, and each will be judged on their merits as good, tasty, practical recipes a homemaker can reproduce.

There is no entry fee. Recipes are to be sent to the MDA, and must be postmarked not later than Feb. 25, 1971, to be considered. Winners will be announced early in March, and checks will be mailed directly to them.

Judges in the contest are: Margaret M. McPherson, Director, Consumer Information Division, Boston Gas Co., and Irmalee Moore, Home Service Director, Boston Edison Co. Winning recipes will be reproduced in their own test kitchens.

Top quality native APPLES of every variety are in plentiful supply right now on produce counters everywhere, at reasonable prices. Buy a bag of your favorites and get going—they might make you a $100 richer!

Recipes should be printed, or typewritten if possible, and mailed directly to: Guy Paris, Asst. Director of Markets, Mass. Dept. of Agriculture, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, Mass. 02202

Director, The Diet Workshop

Watch, Wait and be Wary.

That's a good motto for life...it's a good motto for dieters too. Watch what you eat. Wait—don't expect to become sylphlike overnight. And please don't test your will power by filling up the candy dish. Instead, try keeping a bowl of fresh fruit on the coffee table as a reminder that you don't have to be a martyr to lose weight.

Whether you are overweight, underweight or just the right weight, your body requires well-balanced meals. For those of you who want to slim down, the trick is to substitute nutritious, low calorie foods for those which are crammed with calories. You must also learn to be satisfied with an average weight loss of about two pounds a week, a diet that promises faster results can endanger your health and will, rarely, if ever, deliver lasting results.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Ave., Merrick, New York.

Union Congregational Votes $26,000, Elects John W. Wilson Moderator

John W. Wilson was elected moderator of Union Congregational Church of Wollaston Park at a recent annual meeting.

Also elected were Mrs. Norman MacLean, clerk; F. Ernest Roberts, treasurer; Leavitt S. Lombard, financial secretary; Mrs. Robert B. Graham, Jr. [interim], assistant financial secretary; and Mrs. Richard Bryant, auditor.

An annual budget of $26,000 for 1971 was adopted.

Trustees for three years will be William E. Roberts, William Abbott and Carl Bock, while Robert A. Peterson, George H.

Faragher and Harold G. Cathie were elected deacons.

Mrs. Robert W. Jordan, Mrs. Anthony J. Koury and Mrs. William E. Roberts were elected deaconesses.

Mrs. Leavitt S. Lombard, Mrs. James A. Rideout and Mrs. Edward T. Menz will serve on the board of religious education; Mrs. Norman L. Stevens, Mrs. Charles H. Balkam, Mrs. John R. McTiernan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Cathie, board of Christian benevolences.

John W. Wilson will be a three-year member of the music committee.

Robert A. Peterson will be captain of the board of ushers; Harold G. Cathie, William L. Ryder, George H. Faragher and Leavitt S. Lombard, lieutenants. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goodwin were elected delegates to the South Shore Council of Churches; Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacLean, delegates to the Metropolitan Boston Association and Massachusetts Conference.

On the nominating committee are Mrs. Charles Graf, Mrs. Leavitt S. Lombard, Robert A. Peterson, Mrs. William E. Roberts and John W. Wilson, chairman.

Lucius Anderson, Irene Larrington First Church Of Christ Readers

Lucius M. Anderson of 207 East Squantum St. and Mrs. Irene M. Larrington [Mrs. Albert N. Larrington] of 10 Knollwood Rd., both of North Quincy, are newly-elected Readers of First Church of Christ Scientist, Quincy.

They begin their three-year term of conducting church services this month. Mr. Anderson as First Reader and Mrs. Larrington as Second Reader. They replace retiring Readers Guy R. Sargent and Mrs. Evelyn B. Robinson, whose terms expired this month.

Since there are no ordained clergy in Christian Science, all church functions are conducted entirely by the local members. The two elected Readers conduct Sunday and Wednesday evening services, reading the Christian Science weekly Lesson-Sermon to the congregation on Sunday. Hymns, a solo and prayer are included in the service.

The 26 Lesson-Sermon subjects range from "God" to "Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?"

They were chosen by Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science and author of the denomination's textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures".

Wednesday evening meetings conducted by the First Reader include a period when individual members of the congregation give testimonies about their experiences in Christian Science healing. Readings from the Bible and the church's textbook are presented at this service also, but on a topic chosen by the Reader.

Frederick W. MacMillan Elected First Church Of Squantum Moderator

Frederick W. MacMillan was elected moderator of The First Church of Squantum at the recent annual meeting. He succeeds William Galameaux.

Donald W. Frazer was elected head usher; Mrs. Joseph MacRitchie, Robert S. Leggat, Mrs. Donald W. Frazer and Carl W. Anderson, board of deacons and deaconesses; Mrs. Paul Gifford, M. Luther Swenson and Lester Young, board of trustees; Mrs. Gwendolyn Simpson, music committee.

A budget of $27,461, for 1971 was approved.

The retirement of Samuel Lyman, church sexton for the past 19 years, was noted with this tribute: "He will always be remembered with gratitude, appreciation and great affection for his devoted service to the church."

Devotions were led by Rev. Ernest H. Hayhow, minister, Mrs. James Sumner is Church Clerk.

Printed annual reports were accepted.

Woman Minister To Speak Sunday At United First Parish Church

Rev. Judith Anderson Hoehler will speak at United First Parish Church [Unitarian Universalist] Sunday at 10:45 a.m. when Theological Sunday is observed. "Keep This Door Open" will be her subject.

Dr. Bradford E. Gale, minister, will officiate at the special service.

Rev. Mrs. Hoehler is a representative from the Board of Directors of Meadville-Lombard Theological School affiliated with the University of Chicago. Meadville is a Unitarian Universalist graduate school for the education of liberal ministers.

Rev. Mrs. Hoehler, a native of Quincy and a graduate of Weymouth High School, was educated at Rutgers University, the University of Chile at Santiago, and Harvard Divinity School from which she graduated with honors in the first class to admit women.

She is director of religious education at First Parish [Unitarian] at Weston, a member of the Ministerial Fellowship Committee of the Unitarian Universalist Association, chairman of the Weston METCO committee, and active in suburban-city relations and the field of mental retardation.

Rev. Mrs. Hoehler is married to Rev. Harry H. Hoehler, minister of the First Parish in Weston, and is the mother of three daughters.

A reception will follow in the parish hall with Mrs. Clarence P. Cassidy and Miss Norma Johnson as hostesses.

A special offering will be taken at the morning service in support of the scholarship program at the midwestern theological school.

Speer Family In Feb. 10 Concert At Nazarene Church

The Speer Family Singers, known as "America's first family of gospel singing", will present a sacred concert Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. at Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, 37 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

The Speers are believed to have the largest and most versatile repertoire in gospel music. They appear regularly on a syndicated television show, "The Gospel Singing Caravan", and have recorded more than 25 long-play albums.

Members of the group include Ben and Brock Speer, Harold Lane, Susan Speer, Sue Chenault and Bob and Jeanne Johnson. In 1969 they were awarded the Gospel Music Association's "Dove" as the best mixed group. The public is invited.

On Being A Good Mother

The problem in motherhood seems to be that nobody knows how to do it just right...how to hit a happy medium between overmothering and neglect. Either extreme is dangerous. If she goes to bed before the 16-year-old is home she's accused of indifference. If she waits up she's overly concerned. "What's a mother to do?"

The key is gradual separation. When that baby leaves your womb he/she is utterly helpless and dependent...dependent upon you. Now mother's job [and father's] is to bring that child through the stages of development to full maturity...physically...mentally...emotionally...to complete separation from mother.

It is not unique for a woman to want a baby...to be happy with and diligent in caring for the helpless new-born child. This attitude seems to exist instinctively in animals as well as the human female. So great is this drive that some women easily have and care for their babies...in fact keep on having babies...but some can't do much in their motherhood for children beyond the baby stage. Perhaps this is a wish for power...a need to be needed...the desire to possess. The child is helpless...dependent...subject to the mother's will. The domineering and possessive mother may lack mature womanhood and get great satisfaction in keeping the child dependent upon her...because of her own fears. She literally "uses" the child to give meaning to her own life.

As the child grows...the good mother must gradually encourage...support...the separation of the child from her. This is so-o-o-o-o difficult for some mothers. Only the mother who is stable in her own being can stand to see the child grow away from her...not try to hold him/her back...and to go on loving when the child is growing away from her. That's being a good mother. True mother love is an unconditional affirmation...toward her child...and toward herself.

How sad...and how frequently...we see the boy-girl who remains fixed at some early stage of relationship with mother...who simply doesn't break that early attachment to mother...remaining dependent...lacking self confidence...needing to be cared for...weak because mother has controlled...manipulated...possessed this child. He may even marry a woman who "babies" him. She may marry a man who is "oh so tender...kind and thoughtful." The problem is that the mother didn't separate her child from her...encourage the child's growth to a full independence. So...conditioned to control...manipulation...being possessed...he/she avoids mature manhood/womanhood.

My own feeling is that after the first five or so years...the child needs the father's influence and guidance more than the mother's. Father love gives authority...guidance...freedom...sturdiness of character...aggressiveness in the male...womanliness in the female. A good mother encourages the father relationship with the child...because in so doing the child learns to cope with the problems of life. There is a gradual...graceful withdrawal on the part of the good mother in the process of separation. Then she can look with pride at her offspring's growth and at what she has done.

When a woman shows this kind of mother love it means that she loves herself. Before she can love her neighbor...her husband...her child...she must love herself. She doesn't become a servant to her children...she doesn't become child-like...she isn't conceited...egotistical...nor vain. She's pleased to be a woman...delights in her...instills in her family the truth that "life is good." Her happiness is contagious. She loves herself...therefore she loves her family...creates in her home an atmosphere for happiness...love...growth...increased independence.

One mother I know said... "I do nothing for my child that he can do for himself." You'd be surprised how strong that boy is at age 6. Another mother I know is so permissive that she lets her little daughter order her menu as though she were in a restaurant...praises her for everything whether worthy or not...still cuts the food for her boy...age 9...ties his shoe strings and puts on and pulls off his boots. It's little wonder the kids tease him. Another mother calls her daughter...now 19...at least four times before she can get her out of bed and off to work each morning. Would you believe that a mother would still be holding on to her son and daughter now in their own homes...with daily phone calls...and gifts...and every one with a string on it?

Come on mother...separate. If separation isn't taking place...look into your own heart...maybe you're holding on because love for yourself is missing.

Quincy Area Clergy To Help Plan Black Evangelist's Boston Crusade

Nearly a dozen Quincy-South Shore area clergy have been invited to a Feb. 23 luncheon program in Boston, to help in planning the Greater Boston Crusade featuring the Rev. Dr. Howard O. Jones of Cleveland, Ohio, Black evangelist and member of the Billy Graham Evangelistic team.

The luncheon program will be held at Tremont Temple Baptist Church, next door to the Parker House in downtown Boston, at 11:45 o'clock. Dr. Jones will fly from Cleveland to speak to the group of more than one hundred Greater Boston clergy of all denominations who have been invited to participate in the Crusade.

The Rev. Dr. A. Paterson Lee, pastor of the church, will preside, and introduce several prominent clergy who will be guests. The eight-day Crusade, sponsored by the Temple with the cooperation of many Greater Boston churches, will open April 18.

Among the Quincy-South Shore area clergy invited are:

Rev. Albert D. Stiefel, Wollaston; Rev. W. Arthur Rice, Highland Congregational, Marshfield; Rev. Dr. Llewelyn Hamer, South Weymouth; Rev. Stephen W. Brown, First Presbyterian, Rev. George Douglas, and Rev. Frank J. Bauer, Quincy; Rev. K. E. Sullivan, Wollaston; Rev. Donald L. Young, Eastern Nazarene College; Rev. Frank MacKerron, Central Baptist Church, Quincy; Rev. Ralph Barnes, Dorchester United Parish, of Squantum Street, North Quincy.

My Snowflakes name is Sammy. He was the first snowflake of winter. On his way down from the sky, he saw some black smoke coming out of a big jet, so he tried to go faster, but, the jet blew him across the ocean. He landed in Germany. Then an old man picked him up with a shovel. He put me in a pile with some other snowflakes. We lived there for the rest of the winter. Then when the next winter came he was ice that winter. And he liked living on the ground.

Driving The Enterprises

I was finally old enough to start training so that I could drive a dragster. I started my training on June 14, 1975. The time was 9:00 A.M. I was going to learn about the parts of a car for two years. We first learned about the motor. We studied for about two weeks and then our trainer gave us a test on the motor. I passed the test with an 85 mark. After many tests I didn't pass two of them. My grades were in the 5+ range. I was third in my class.

Throughout that year I learned about brakes, motor, engines, wheels, gear and a lot of other automotive things. Then came my second year. I was going to learn how to drive a car! We were taken to a racing area. I was first to try out a car. I had somebody in the car to help me. I was not good at first but then I got better.

After 8 weeks I started with a small car we had to wear a helmet and a fire proof suit. It was easy to drive. I got into a car once and it caught on fire when I scraped a wall. I got out OK. After a while I got to bigger cars. I was doing good before the year was almost over. I had to do better. We had the final test. It was a very hard test, I got passed. The next day the school year would be over. The next day I found out I passed the year. That summer I drove many cars. Then, after four years, I was chosen to drive the "Enterprises", a very fast car. I had to do a lot of training. I would drive it in a big race. The winner would get $100,000 dollars. The big race was a week off. I was very excited. If I could win, I would get the money. The big race had finally come. My car was took out to the starting gate. I was a little afraid but I was ready. The race had started, I put my car into high gear. I had the lead for two laps till my back tire blew out. My car flipped over and went into the stands and caught on fire. I tried to get out but my leg was caught. Somebody came and pulled me out just as I got out the car blew up, a part of the car hit me in the back. I was taken to a hospital and treated for burns, brokening leg, and a cut back. That ended me for driving another car.

We'd walk the parks and see things real.

If I were a shoe, what would I do?

I'd like to be polished, I'd like to be new,

I'd like a color, the color is blue,

I'd want to be happy and joyful, too.

If I were a shoe, what would I do?

If you were mean to me, I wouldn't like you.

Don't scuff me, don't lose a part of me

Or you would see how mean I can be.

If I were a shoe, what would I do?

When I got old you would fix me like new,

Because if you didn't, I'd tramp on you.

I am what I am, I'm only a shoe.

Snowflake

Snow flake is an elf who flies on a rain drop and who does magic. He lives in a key hole. He knows just what is going to happen all the time. He some times goes to the North Pole and goes to his friends house. He likes to go to the place in the North Pole. When he goes their and uses his good magic, he usually has a party when he comes back he lives in a good place. Snow flake says "Home sweet home"

Atlantic Junior High Plans Guidance Evening Feb. 9

A guidance evening Feb. 9 is planned for parents of eighth grade students at Atlantic Junior High School.

Stephen J. Del Rosso, head counselor at Atlantic, and Peter N. Fitch, head counselor at North Quincy High School, are making arrangements to inform parents about the courses of study and changes at North Quincy High School during 1971-1972.

Department heads at North will discuss the selection of courses and their content, and there will be an opportunity for questions.

There will also be an opportunity for parents to meet Richard K. Chrystal, new principal at Atlantic. Mr. Chrystal, a former assistant principal and teacher at Atlantic, returns after several years as principal of Central Junior High School.

The Feb. 9 program is one of a series planned by the Guidance Department of Quincy schools to inform students and their parents of opportunities at North Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

Previous programs were by Richard Haines, head counselor at Quincy Voc-Tech, and program coordinators who presented an informational assembly program to which parents were invited.

On Tuesday of this week, parents and students toured the vocational school.

Previously Mr. Fitch met with Atlantic's eighth grade to introduce courses open to them in grade nine.

Following this, Mrs. Lucy Medaglia, head of the Foreign Language Department at North, and a group of high school students, presented a program to assist students to decide if they wished to study a foreign language in grade 9, and which language they preferred to study.

On Tuesday, Mrs. Mary E. Conlin, head of the Business Education Department at North, described courses offered in that field.

Musical opportunities at North will be featured Feb. 8 when Carl Leone, Musical instructor, will present a variety of high school choral and instrumental groups to encourage Atlantic students to seek memberships in the musical organizations as ninth graders.

"The series of programs is planned to assist students and their parents to secure information so that they can make wise choices of subjects for grade nine, the first time in a child's school life when he must choose between curriculum offerings," says Miss Louise B. Forsyth, coordinator of guidance services for the Quincy Public Schools.

Fagerlund New Assessor Chairman

Mayor Keeping 'Official Family' Intact

Mayor James R. McIntyre apparently plans to keep his "official family" intact for 1971.

The city's chief executive made 50 appointments this week—most of them re-appointed department heads and board members.

No department heads "rolled" nor was there any sign that any of the others still awaiting re-appointment would be ousted.

Elmer K. Fagerlund of 27 Grogan Ave., West Quincy, was appointed Chairman of the Board of Assessors, to succeed retired chairman William J. Callahan, but a vacancy exists on the board.

Department heads re-appointed are:

Public Works Commissioner, John M. Browne of 94 Kemper St., Wollaston.

Treasurer-Tax Collector, David R. Houston of 33 Puntan Drive, Quincy Center.

Director of Libraries, Warren E. Watson of 7 Dorchester St., Squantum.

Director of Planning, Programming and Development, Geoffrey A. Davidson of 12 Endicott St., South Quincy.

Purchasing Agent, George R. Riley of 109 Faxon Lane, Quincy Center.

City Solicitor, Harry Pavan of 40 Crabtree Rd., Squantum.

Assistant City Solicitor, John W. Sharry of 19 Victoria Rd., Merrymount.

Civil Defense Director, Edward H. Roberts of 59 Atlantic St., North Quincy.

Executive Director Quincy Council on Aging, Donald H. Strong of Hingham.

City Historian, William C. Edwards of 87 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn was re-appointed keeper of the lockup.

Various board and other appointments include:

Park-Recreation Board

Francis J. Dever Named To City Planning Board

Francis J. Dever of 407 Highland Ave., Wollaston, was appointed to the Quincy Planning Board today by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

Dever succeeds former City Council President William C. Ellis who has moved to Florida.

Dever is director of state planning at Boston College, former professor of law at Suffolk University and was formerly with the Internal Revenue Service.

Joseph N. Gildea of 45 Division St., William J. Mitchell of 3 Clement Terrace, both North Quincy; James F. McCormick, Sr. of 100 Reservoir Rd and Miss Katherine G. McCoy of 149 Wilson Ave., both Wollaston.

Boston Garden Dirty Words At North

Boston Garden are two dirty words in North Quincy.

Raider Coach Bob Nolan has taken four of his five North teams into the Tech Tourney at the Garden but has never survived the first round.

Last week North faced Medford at the Garden in a preliminary to the Celtics' game and suffered a disappointing 58-52 loss, which dealt a big blow to its hopes for another trip to the Tech.

The loss gave the Raiders a 6-3 Greater Boston League record, tying them with Medford and Revere, for second place, and a 7-3 overall mark. They can lose two more games and make the Tech but it could take some doing with Somerville, Quincy, Weymouth North and Brookline still coming up.

Tuesday North played at Chelsea, Friday goes to Everett and then Tuesday undefeated Somerville invades the North gym, which will be bulging at the seams that night.

"We were as cold as the weather," a dejected Nolan said after the loss to Medford. "We had probably the worst shooting night since I took over at North. Can you imagine us shooting 15 for 67 from the floor? We fell behind at the start, 11-0, but we've fallen behind early before and rallied to win. We made a good bid in this game, too."

North pulled to within two, 50-48, in the last period and had the ball out of bounds. But the Raiders missed and Medford pulled away.

"We were four for 34 in the first half, five for 17 in the third period and six for 16 in the final period," Nolan went on. "You can't expect to win with a shooting night like that. We out-rebounded them, 39-24, outshot them from the line, 22-16, but missed far too many layups and shots in close."

Although Nolan refused to mention it, a big reason for the North loss was the absence of 6-8 Tom Cairns. It is pretty tough for any team to win when it is missing its top scorer and rebounder.

"Dan Zink did a fine job and had one of his better games with 11 points and 14 rebounds. Dave Mahoney with 10 points was the only other Raider in double figures."

Earlier in the week North won a big one, 62-57, over a tough Revere team, which has lost just three games, to North and one to Somerville, all close games.

North trailed, 48-43, after three periods but the aggressive Raiders forced the Patriots into three quick mistakes in the final 90 minutes to secure the important win.

"The difference was in the turnovers we forced," Nolan admitted. "They had 21 to our 12. This was the kind of game where it is impossible to point to one or two players and say he or they made the difference. I used eight players in that different combinations and that did it. The bench strength helps us wear them down."

Cairns led North in scoring with 19 points and rebounds with 14. Dave Nelson and Mahoney had 10 points apiece. Brian Donahue and Zink also played excellent games.

Joe Amorosino's North junior varsity won, 52-44, to make its record 7-2. Pete Quinn scored 10 points, Jamie Doherty and Jimmy Driscoll nine each, Peter Bellotti and Ken Masters eight apiece.

Quincy, North In Met Track Finale

The Met Track League will end its season Saturday at the Fargo Building in South Boston with Quincy facing North Quincy in one of the meets beginning at 10 a.m.

North, which last year had a 4-3 record, is winless this year [0-5], while Quincy, winless a year ago, is 2-4, losing four in a row following two wins. North had a scheduled meeting with Milton cancelled.

Quincy's Bobby Ciano will be trying to wind up an undefeated season in the mile, while North's

John Panarelli will be doing likewise in the shot put.

In last week's state championship meet at Boston Garden Panarelli placed fourth in the shot put with a toss of 49 feet, 7 inches, a new school record, and Kevin Henry placed fifth in the two-mile with a fine 10:10 clocking, also a school record. They accounted for the Raiders' three points in Class B.

Quincy failed to score in Class A with Ciano just failing in the mile, finishing sixth.

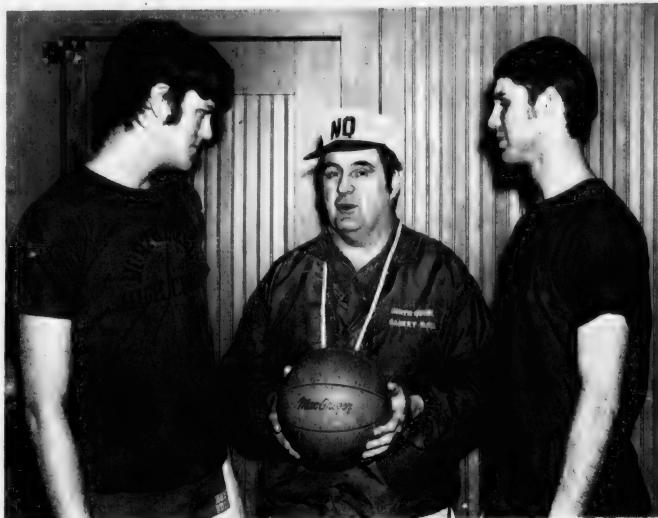

Lane, Meyer Receive Letters

Joe Lane and Don Meyer of North Quincy, both sophomores, were among 34 varsity football players at Lafayette College who recently were awarded their letters.

Both Meyer and Lane, the only Massachusetts players to receive letters, sparked for the Lafayette team last fall with Meyer in particular having a spectacular sophomore season.

One week he was named the team's "bad cat" for overall aggressiveness and the following week was selected the "headhunter" for making the most tackles.

Junior Varsity Hockey Doing Well At Quincy, North

Junior varsity hockey at Quincy and North Quincy, started on a formal basis only last season, is thriving with Quincy starting off with two wins to extend its unbeaten streak [the Presidents were undefeated in its first season a year ago] and North dropping its first two games but showing considerable promise.

Both teams return to action Saturday at Boston Arena, where all their Greater Boston League games are played. North Quincy meets Malden at 7:15 p.m. and Quincy follows against Everett at 8:15.

Led by Co-Captains Paul Campbell and Pat Dempsey, Quincy's jayvees, again coached by Jack Scanlan, who also serves as Bob Sylvia's assistant with the varsity, defeated Chelsea, 6-1, and Malden, 2-1.

"This year we have been victims of very irregular practice times and a confusing game schedule," Scanlan said. "I think we'll pull together even more this month when things get a bit smoother. Our lines have been forming and working together well and we hope for a stronger game against Everett than we had with Malden."

"The junior varsity, in its year and a half existence, has already proved its importance. It not only helps establish the basic hockey fundamentals, but starts the foundation for the varsity groups."

"Team attitude also begins with the jayvees. There is the shaping of team discipline, respect and brotherhood. I've always felt the team spirit is the best defense against a poor or an 'off' night out on the ice. In the end, a good 'one for all, all for one' attitude will make up for any skating deficiencies. Closeness is truly a vital part of our game plan and the jayvees plant the seeds for future varsity togetherness."

Quincy has a fine first line of Jim Starkey, Jack Black and Campbell and the MNN line of Peter McNally, Ed Mitchell and Austin Norton, which averages about 110 pounds, has played outstanding hockey. A third line consists of Joe Filibette, Mike Golcino and Steve Lewis, while Renato Tronca and Bill Carullo also alternate on the lines.

Dempsey and Dennis McCarthy are outstanding goalies and defensemen include Mike Doolin, Russ Corner, Colin Kearny, Jaima Crowley, Mike Cavanaugh and Steve DeCristofaro.

North Quincy Coach Ralph Younie feels his Raiders will come along and improve as the season progresses. They dropped a 9-4 decision to Somerville and a 5-2 verdict to Everett.

"The boys have showed steady improvement and I think we will do well the rest of the season," Younie said. "There is a lot of spirit and the boys are skating better all the time."

The usual starting team includes Dick Messotta in goal, Chris DeLappe and Jon Sturgis on defense, Paul DeCristofaro and Gerry McEneaney wings and John Lynch center.

Other goalies are Paul Fantocchio, Woody Hall, Jim Fatscas and Lenny Kyle.

Defensemen include Mike O'Hanley and Jack Grady, and other linemen are Joe Lannon, Glen Mosseso and John Murphy.

"Sturgis and Messotta in particular have looked good," Younie stated.

Following Saturday's games the teams have four games remaining. The Quincy-North game will be played at the Arena at 1:15 on Feb. 16.

A Herculean Task

Quincy Must Win All For Tourney Bid

Quincy's basketball team must win every one of its remaining six games to qualify for the Tech Tourney, but don't bet the Presidents won't perform this Herculean task.

After dropping a heartbreaker to undefeated Somerville at Somerville, Marty Finnegan's Presidents whopped Everett, 93-74, last Friday, to make its Greater Boston League record 5-4 and overall mark 6-5.

Quincy hosted Malden Tuesday night and Friday will be home to powerful Medford, which upset North Quincy last week. Next Tuesday the Presidents play at strong Revere. Medford, North and Revere were tied for second place in the league going into Tuesday's games.

Quincy started slowly against Everett and trailed, 12-10, after a period. However, the Presidents roared back in the second period with 33 points and led at halftime, 43-18.

In an unusually high scoring third quarter Quincy had a 31-25 edge and, with the Quincy subs playing, Everett bounced back to outscore the winners, 31-19, in the finale.

The second and third period outbursts were triggered by an effective fast break keyed by Bob Pike and Bobby McDermott. The defense also put it all together and played an incredible second period, holding Everett to six points and not allowing a point until the final minute.

Pike had another spectacular night with 28 points, to keep his game average near 30 points, and also had 18 rebounds and played a fine defensive game. Mike Donoghue scored 15 points as did McDermott, while 6-5 Bill Burie, playing most of the second half, his longest stint of the year since breaking his ankle, scored 10 points.

"I was pleased with our fast break," Finnegan said. "It was the first time we've really been able to work it well. Burke is getting back into shape and he should help us greatly in our drive to make the Tech. It is going to be a tough job with the likes of Medford, Revere and North Quincy coming up, but these kids are fired up and think they can do it."

leaders from the floor but lost it at the foul line, 63-57. Somerville hit on 17 of 19 foul shots while Quincy had nine for 13.

"We beat them from the floor and off the boards but not at the line," Finnegan said. "The trouble was we were too much of a one-man offense. We got the ball to Bobby Pike [33 points for one of his best nights] but our guards weren't getting through to do the scoring."

Somerville, 9-0 in the league and 11-0 overall, got away to a fast start, taking a 15-4 lead and led after a period, 20-9. The Presidents tried to come back but fell short.

"Our defense tightened up in the third period and we began to close it up but six straight turnovers killed us. "Bill Maver gave us a good game and Burke did a good job for the time he was in there."

Mike Greenlaw's Quincy junior varsity also lost at the foul line, 57-53.

PRESIDENTS' basketball Coach Marty Finnegan and Capt. Bob Pike, who has his shooting eye this season, share a light moment during practice session.

Rick Reyenger Big Plus For ENC

One of the big happenings for the Eastern Nazarene College basketball team this year was the addition of 6-7 Rick Reyenger, a freshman from Quincy.

Rick, who sparked Quincy High into the Tech Tourney a few years back, enrolled at ENC at midseason when he was discharged from the service. The Crusaders have surged since his addition.

ENC last night sought its sixth straight win and 10th in its last 11 games when it met strong Suffolk at Cambridge YMCA and Friday night travels to Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y., to face King's College in a Seaboard Conference game.

Going into last night's Suffolk game FNC had a fine 12-4 record, following a 107-81 win over U. of Maine [Portland Division] last Saturday.

Reyenger had his best night since joining the Crusaders as he scored 16 points and had a lot of them by beating Maine's press.

"Rick has done a wonderful job for us and has given us a big boost," Coach Jim Smith said. "He has good speed and maneuvers well for a big man."

Don Eads, the best driver on the team, scored 35 points and Ron Bradley, the high scorer on the squad, had 21. Don Constantine had 13 and Clark Adams 10. Bradley and Reyenger had 15 rebounds each, Constantine 10 and Eads, a guard, had nine.

North Drops Heartbreaker

Quincy Icemen Hot

Quincy's hockey team, which has progressed by leaps and bounds, is unbeaten in its last seven games (six wins and a tie), is tied for the Greater Boston League lead and has an excellent chance to cop its first GBL title.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents capped their great comeback Monday night with a 2-0 win over league-leading Medford at Weymouth Skating Club to move into a top tie with the Mustangs.

Saturday night at 9 at Weymouth, Quincy seeks its third win in a row over cross-town rival North Quincy and Monday at 7:50, also at Weymouth, takes on Everett. North Quincy faces Chelsea in the 7:30 opener Monday.

The outstanding performer for the Presidents Monday was goalie Artie Boyle, who was superb with 27 saves including many spectacular ones.

"Artie was amazing and was stopping them from all sides," Sylvia said. "I told him before the game it was up to him and he really rose to the occasion as he always does. He is a great competitor and always meets the big challenge."

"Our boys kept their cool, didn't lose their heads and made Medford play their type of game which meant a lot. When we took a 1-0 lead in the second period, we frustrated them and they began to press and missed a lot of passes. These kids have been doing a terrific job and are determined to win the championship."

Steve Cedrone scored the winning goal late in the second period from a faceoff to the right of the Medford goal.

With four minutes left in the exciting game played before a large crowd, John Prescott took a pass from Dom Burke to score the insurance goal.

This is Sylvia's fifth year as Quincy coach and he appears certain of taking his team into the Eastern Mass. tourney for the fourth straight year. Although Bob and his players are hoping for another tourney berth, they also want that league title.

"I felt this game with Medford was a lot like our game with Arlington in last year's tourney [Quincy won for one of the biggest upsets in tourney history]," Sylvia said. "They put the pressure on us right away but couldn't make our kids lose their cool."

Ron Erikson's North Quincy team, which has been playing excellent hockey, dropped a 4-3 heartbreaker to third place Malden. The Raiders, 0-18 a year ago, have three wins and three ties this year under their new coach.

Last week the Presidents set the stage for the showdown with Medford with an impressive 4-2 win over strong Revere at the Boston Arena.

Quincy's second line finally came into its own as four players scored the goals in a balanced attack which was combined with another tight defense.

"This was one of our better games and we should be in good shape for Medford," Sylvia said. "We are as ready as we will ever be."

Following a scoreless first period, Quincy scored twice in the second period. Jim Cattaneo converted passes from Burke and Bob Cattaneo to put the Presidents ahead and later in the period Bob Cattaneo turned passes from Jimmy and Burke to score the second goal.

The actual game winner was scored by Cedrone late in the final period with Ed Weidemann assisting. Following Revere's first goal, Weidemann scored the insurance marker with Steve Kleimola getting an assist.

Four goals were scored in the final two hectic minutes of the final session.

North Quincy came up with its third win as it topped Somerville, 4-1, with a fine two-way performance.

Neil Cronin sparked the Raider win with two picture goals. In the second period he picked up a loose puck in a scramble in front of the North net, skated the length of the ice, faked the goalie out and slid the puck behind him. Cronin repeated the same play in the final period.

Steve MacKay had an assist on his first one and goalie Bobby Guerriero, who was brilliant in the North goal, was credited with an assist on his second.

North's other goals were scored by MacKay in the opening period with an assist for Steve Leofanti and by Ken Graham in the second period with Tom O'Malley and Keith Losordo having assists.

Sox To Open Spring Training Feb. 15

The Red Sox will open their sixth spring training season at Winter Haven, Fla., Feb. 15, the day after a 14-player vanguard is scheduled to arrive at Chaim O'Lakes Park.

Early arrivals will include the three top pitchers of 1970, Ray Culp, Sonny Siebert and Gary Peters, and infielder Rico Petrocelli, who will get an early start on his move from shortstop to third base and will have the benefit of special tutoring from Red Sox all-time third baseman Frank Malzone.

Other players in the early group include pitchers Mike Garman, Cal Koonce, Bill Lee, Jim Lonborg and Sparky Lyle, and catchers Bob Montgomery, Don Pavletich and Tom Satriano.

The camp will actually be opened next Wednesday, Feb. 10, by equipment managers Don Fitzpatrick and Vince Orlando and trainer Buddy LeRoux. Manager Eddie Kasko and coaches Eddie Popowski, Don Lenhardt, Harvey Haddix and Doug Camilli, along with special instructors "Bots" Nekola and Malzone, will hold a pre-training meeting on Monday, Feb. 15.

Slated to arrive on the 18th to start workouts on the 19th are pitchers Bob Bolin, Ken Brett, Jack Curtis, Lyn McGlothen, Dick Mills of Weymouth, Rogelio Moret, Vicente Romo, Jose Santiago, Ken Tatum and rookie Terry Williams, catchers Carlton Fisk and Tom Maggard, infielder Doug Griffin and outstanding utility man George Thomas.

The rest of the squad, including newcomer Luis Aparicio, one of the major league's greatest shortstops, Phil Gagliano and Jarvis Tatum, is due to arrive on Feb. 23 with the first full squad workout set for the next day.

Among those who will assist during the spring training season is special scout Sam Mele of Quincy.

Provost, Sullivan Win Top Awards

Halfback John Provost and Quarterback Steve Sullivan received the top awards at the 16th annual banquet of the Quincy Father's Club at the Quincy Vocational Technical School cafeteria.

The school's undefeated football team which compiled the school's first perfect record and captured its first undisputed Greater Boston League championship was honored.

Provost received the Primavera Award as the Presidents' Most Valuable Player and Sullivan the Jack Granville Memorial Award as the outstanding Quincy player in the North Quincy game.

Winners of the other special awards were:

Bill Maver, the Kennedy Award, outstanding offensive lineman.

Rich Menchi, President Trophy, outstanding defensive lineman.

Wayne Richards, Moscardelli Memorial Award, outstanding offensive back.

Joe Russo, George Underwood Memorial Award, most improved player.

Bob Sylva, Paul Grasso Memorial Award, unsung hero.

The George Underwood award, given in memory of a former Quincy player killed in Vietnam, was presented by his parents.

The Paul Grasso award, honoring a member of the 1965 team who also was killed in the service of his country, was presented by his mother, assisted by Mike Jordan, Holy Cross star and a teammate of Paul, and other members of that team. This trophy is given by the members of the class of 1965.

The senior players were presented special championship rings, the juniors were given jackets and the sophomores received trophies. Special awards were presented by Coach Linda Brown and the cheerleaders, an award went to the Thanksgiving Queen, the Father's Club presented the championship trophy to the school and Harold McCarthy of the club presented a scrapbook, with clippings tracing the championship season, to Coach Hank Conroy.

Conroy presented certificates to Greater Boston League all-stars Maver, Sylva, Sullivan, Menchi, Provost, Richards and Dennis Waters.

Game footballs were given to Bob Gallo, Dave Omar, Bob Tarbox, Frank Pellegrino, Mike Craig, Waters, Bob Conti, Jim Buccinari and Joe Goguen.

Special awards went to club members McCarthy and Victor Craig for their hard work.

Club President Buddy Page was the toastmaster.

The principal speaker was Holy Cross Football Coach Bill Whitton, who praised the Presidents for their outstanding year.

"After the season we had [0-9 record], I can't come here and tell you how we did it," he said. "Instead, I should ask you how you did it."

"Rumors of the death of Holy Cross football are grossly exaggerated. The administration has assured me we are going ahead with a strong football program and I feel we are on our way back."

"We had a young team last fall. We actually had two sophomore groups because the juniors played only two games in 1969 when our schedule was wiped out by the hepatitis epidemic. We had very few seniors and will have most of our players back next year."

"I hate very much to lose Mike Jordan, of whom you can be very proud. He was our co-captain last fall and is a boy of great self-motivation, fine character and a lot of desire. He was an outstanding player for us and it was a shame he missed the 1969 season. He was selected Holy Cross' outstanding defensive back as a sophomore the year before I arrived."

"We will come back. We have survived a lot of problems and will continue to survive. I feel Holy Cross will return to the top of the football ladder where it used to be."

Making brief remarks were Mayor James McIntyre, Rep. and Council President Arthur Tobin, Supt. of Schools Larry Creedon, Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone, Principal Lloyd Creighton and Conroy.

Conroy praised his players and coaches and thanked the Father's Club for its efforts. He introduced his assistant coaches and junior high coaches.

Lum's Colonial Rolls High 1,760

In Men's Candlepin Tourney

Lum's Colonial, defending champs, bowled high for the day in Sunday's round of the 18th annual greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney at Merrymount Alleys where 14 teams remain in competition.

Lum's Colonial ousted Braintree Church League 1760-1616. Weymouth Landing Recreation walloped Islamic Center 1666-1508. Sawyer-Campbell toppled Squantum Men 1647-1523; Montclair Men's Club defeated Pneumatic Scale 1615-1582; St. John's topped Helen's Restaurant 1583-1552; the Socialites beat Wollaston Men 1553-1532; and Dedham Manor edged Blessed Sacrament 1567-1559.

Lum's Colonial started with an easy 63 pin first string lead, were outscored 590-586 by Braintree Church in the second string, but fired a 617 high team single for the day in the third string to notch another tourney win.

Scoring for Lum's was led by Dick Ewell's 386, Lou Pagnani, 352; Steve Hill 350; Buster Loud 339 and Bob Kaukola 333. Alan Sward bowled a 347 for Braintree Church, while Al Walton hit a 332.

Weymouth Landing Recreation took all three strings from Islamic Center. The five Weymouth bowlers hit over 300, with Bill O'Malley's 377 on top followed by Don Doroni's 331. Len Lennon and Moe Allie tied at 317 each to lead Islamic.

Sawyer-Campbell threw a 584 in the first string, tied Squantum men with 494 each in the second, but regained their form to win by 98 pins in the third and the match by 124 pins. Dick Peterson's 351 was high for Sawyer-Campbell followed by Joe Kenney's 347 and Gary Smith's 331. Jack Morrison with 317 was high for Squantum.

Montclair Men's Club entry won its three strings to eliminate Pneumatic Scale. Jim Mezzetti had 332, Mark Smith 356 and Jim Broadbent 322 for the Montclair five. For Pneumatic Scale, Jim Hurley rolled 341; John Broadford 325 and Earl

St. John's outscored Helen's Restaurant, with the help of Dick Guerriero's 338, while Dick DiRamio posted a 319. Bill Reardon hit a 347 for Helen's Restaurant, and Jack Anderson had 324.

In a surprise upset the Socialites defeated Wollaston Men, led by Mario Ricci with 335, Ed McCallum with 315, while for Wollaston Men, Bill Zaks' 335 was high and Don Buckle's 325 second.

Dedham Manor, outgiving Blessed Sacrament, was led by Paul Joyce with 339 and Jack Brady 325. Bowling high for Blessed Sacrament were David McDonald with 329; Joe Pacetti 324 and Tom McDonald, 324.

The tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy as part of its winter recreation program, will continue Sunday at 1 p.m. with 12 of the original 26 teams competing.

The Quincy Merchants with a 1792 team high in the opening rounds will draw a bye into the Feb. 14 matches.

Senior Citizens To See Ice Follies On Feb. 17

Quincy's Senior Citizens will have an opportunity to view an Ice Follies matinee at Boston Garden Feb. 17.

A limited number of reserved seats will be issued on a first come, first served basis starting Feb. 4 at 2 p.m. at the Recreation Office in the Health Center. No telephone reservations can be accepted.

Free bus transportation will be provided from the regular eight locations for all who purchase a reduced price ticket at $3.50. Charles L. Alongi, Jr., assistant Recreation Director, is coordinating ticket sales and transportation.

The trip has been arranged by the Quincy Park and Recreation Board through William F. Ryan, Director of Recreation.

Capital Improvements Committee Busy Reviewing Budget Requests

Major capital budget requests of city departments for the period 1971-1975 amounting thus far to some $3.5 million have been reviewed by the Quincy Capital Improvements Program Committee in the past three months.

The 18-member unpaid committee appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre is headed by Theodore Gerber, principal planner for the Quincy Planning Department, who is responsible for technical work on the project.

The committee has been holding regular sessions since Oct. 20, 1970 in the interests of refining the City's capital budgeting procedures.

During the past month, the committee has been devoting two nights each week in an effort to complete its task. This should be done within the next few weeks, and its recommendations will be forwarded to the Mayor and City Council.

Committee members and the civic groups they represent include: Taylor Ahern, Beechwood Knoll Association; William S. Grindlay, Quincy Citizens Association; Clayton L. Rice, Germantown Community Council; David Lavender, Germantown Shores Improvement Association; John B. Powers, Houghs Neck Community Council; Mrs. David Burns, League of Women Voters. John M. Chief Robert Tonello Presented Bronze Star For Vietnam Action

Chief Electrician's Mate Robert Tonello, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tonello of 83 Plymouth St., South Quincy, has been presented the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service while serving in Vietnam.

Chief Tonello, now aboard the Submarine Skylark off Bermuda, was attached to the US Naval Support Activity, Da Nang, and was cited for his meritorious service between Sept. 1969 and Sept. 1970 while engaged in conflict against the North Vietnamese and Vietnam Communists.

His citation reads in part:

"While serving with River Division Five Two One and as an advisor to Vietnamese River Patrol Group Six Zero, Chief Tonello participated in 240 combat patrols and engaged the enemy on 10 occasions.

"During those patrols, he boarded and searched numerous junks and sampans, interdicted cross river traffic, enforced curfew, inserted and extracted friendly troops in hostile territory and provided fire support for besieged units and outposts. In addition, he conducted psychological warfare operations and civic action programs.

"During engagements against the enemy he directed the use of his weapons and returned the enemy attacks with highly accurate machine gun fire. His technical knowledge and long arduous hours of work were directly responsible for the constant state of readiness of his river patrol boat."

Tonello attended St. John's Parochial School, and enlisted in the Navy following his 1959 graduation from Quincy High School.

Tonello has also earned three good conduct medals, national defense award, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal, Naval Unit Commendation Medal and the Naval Expeditionary Medal.

His parents and brother Paul, a Marine Corps veteran, attended the ceremonies at New London when the Bronze Star Medal was presented by Commander W. F. Sullivan of the Submarine Division, and Lt. Commander Albert J. Smith, commanding officer of Skylark.

Congressman Bray To Be Keynote Speaker At Wabash Christening

Congressman William G. Bray, 6th Indiana District, and husband of the sponsor, will be the principal speaker at the christening of the Navy supply ship, WABASH, Feb. 6 at the Quincy Shipbuilding Division of General Dynamics.

A graduate of Indiana and the University's School of Law, Congressman Bray began the practice of law in Martinsville, Indiana where he still lives.

During World War II he spent four years in the Asiatic-Pacific theater commanding a tank company, tank battalion and armored group receiving the Silver Star for gallantry in action and attaining the rank of Colonel.

After V-J Day, he served in Korea with the Allied Military Government. For the past 16 years, he has been a member of the House Armed Services Committee dealing with Reserve Affairs, Real Estate and Construction and Military Airlift. He is also on the CIA Subcommittee.

A long-time student of Russian Communism, Congressman Bray is the author of the book "Russian Frontiers: from Muscovy to Khrushchev". The book received a citation award from the Assembly of Captive European Nations, and he was given the Freedom Crusader Award of the Ukrainian National Youth Federation of America.

The Congressman is past commander of the Martinsville American Legion and is active in many business, patriotic and civic affairs organizations.

Congressman and Mrs. Bray reside in Martinsville, Indiana.

Mayor Says Sargent 'Erroneous' In Blaming Cities, Towns

Mayor James R. McIntyre claims Gov. Sargent is "most erroneous" in asserting that cities and towns have brought on a financial crisis by overspending at the local level.

McIntyre's criticism was in reply to remarks made last week by Gov. Sargent at the Boston Citizens Seminar at Boston College.

Quincy's chief executive declared:

"In generally criticizing the cities and towns of Massachusetts, Governor Sargent has been unfair to municipal officials and unfortunately seems to lack a basic comprehension of the relationship between state and municipal government.

"The chief executives and legislative bodies of the cities and towns of this Commonwealth have control over approximately 15 per cent of their budget.

"The rest of the budget is basically mandated to the cities and towns by state government, either directly or indirectly.

"It is incredible to me that His Excellency the Governor could come to the most erroneous conclusion that the cities and towns, through overspending on the local level, are to blame for the financial crisis in our state and municipalities.

"The answer to the Governor's searching rhetorical questions asked at Boston College is right in the state budget - the departmental request for over $900 million for welfare.

"The fiscal crisis for both the cities and towns and the state began as a result of the state maladministration of the runaway welfare system."

"The sales tax was hailed as the savior of the local property tax, but actually all it has done is help pay for the mushrooming welfare costs - and left the cities and towns waiting in the long line for fiscal assistance.

"The blame should not be placed on the officials of local government, many of whom work with little or no pay and who merely carry out the dictates of state government on the local level, since cities and towns, under our laws, are wards of the state.

"Governor Sargent's whole approach at Boston College of seeking a scapegoat in cities and towns for the fiscal problems of state government does not appear, in my estimation, to be a responsible position for the chief executive, considering the momentous problems of both state and municipal government."

Barry's Deli Doubles Size, Service At New Location

There's twice as much of everything at Barry's Deli, opening today in its new location at 21-23 Beale St., Wollaston.

"We have doubled our space - 42 seats now," says Dan Barry, proprietor. "Doubled the kitchen space; doubled refrigeration."

Barry's Deli, for 15 years at 661 Hancock St., has moved to a spot near the center of the "action" in Wollaston - across from the new Hancock Bank, and in an area where other new development is planned.

The new delicatessen will continue under John MacPherson, eight years in charge of Barry's kitchen, to provide a complete selection of homemade salads, roast beef, baked hams, corned beef, all prepared in their own new kitchen. An added feature is an automatic bread slicer.

Everything is new, Barry says. Including new furniture, new paneling, completely new service cafeteria, bright new menus, all ready for both old and new customers.

Dist. Atty. Burke Seeks Coordinated Drugs Fight

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke of Norfolk County is urging an all-out effort to pass legislation calling for coordination of drug prevention programs.

The bill is scheduled for a hearing March 11 at 10 a.m. before the Committee on Social Welfare, in Room 480 of the State House.

Burke stressed that there is a great duplication of present drug prevention programs due to the lack of a coordinating agency. This results in needless effort, work, and the expenditure of money which, in the long run, is wasted, he said.

A coordinated drug agency would bring together under one roof and with one director the various programs now scattered throughout the Commonwealth.

Burke's drug unit has studied the concept of a state coordinating agency for the past three years. The result has been House Bill No. 2493 calling for establishment of an agency appointed by the Governor and

Attorney General.

Purpose of the coordinating agency would be to:

*Determine services rendered presently by all private and public groups within the Commonwealth.

*Establish a communication center and clearing house for all wishing to use it.

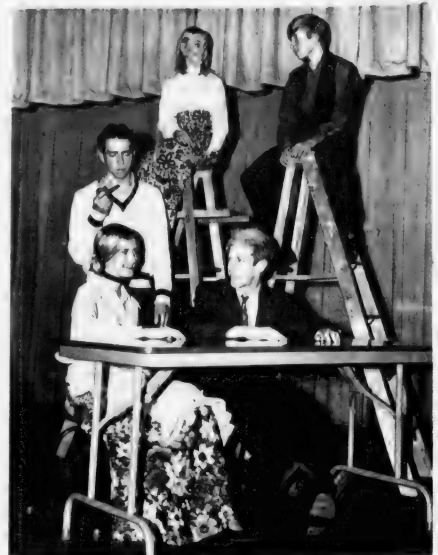

*Study the drug problem in depth in the State.

*Publish all valuable information gained through public and private research.

*Cooperate with the news media in bringing to the public a greater awareness of the drug problem and methods of dealing with it.

*Develop model drug programs for local communities using practical and workable ideas incorporated from present federal, state and local programs. These plans are to be reviewed regularly to keep them current.

"This bill," said Burke, "is the beginning of the needed unity that is strived for by most persons now involved in the field of drug prevention, education and rehabilitation."

Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. I work as a cook and I was employed by many different restaurants in 1970. Each employer issued a W-2 and I was wondering if I should attach them all to my return or add them up and give you the totals.

A. You should attach Copy B of each Form W-2 to your return although only the totals need be entered on the tax form. If you fail to include Copy B of each Form W-2, the processing of your return will be delayed.

Q. Where may I obtain the necessary Federal tax forms?

A. If you do not receive the necessary forms in the mail, they may be at any Internal Revenue Service office and at many banks and post offices.

Q. Where do I file my return?

A. File with the Internal Revenue Service Center for your region. For taxpayers filing in Massachusetts, all returns, whether they involve refunds or tax due, should be mailed to:

Internal Revenue Service Center
310 Lowell Street
Andover, Massachusetts 01812

If you receive tax forms in the mail a pre-addressed envelope will be attached to your package of forms. [Many times people have overlooked the envelope attached to their tax package.]

Q. How should I assemble my return?

- A. 1. Attach Forms W-2, if any, to back of Form 1040
2. Attach required schedules in alphabetical order.
3. Attach required forms in numerical order.

Q. Will the tax surcharge be computed any differently in 1970 than it was computed in 1969?

A. The tax surcharge, which was 10% last year, was reduced to 5% for the first half of 1970 and eliminated altogether for the last half of the year. This means the surcharge is computed at the average rate of 2.5% for the whole of 1970. If your regular tax is less than $2,020.00, refer to the 1970 Tax Surcharge Tables in the instruction booklet. If your regular tax is $2,020.00 or more, multiply it by 2.5% to determine your surcharge. Then add the surcharge to your regular tax to determine the total combined tax.

Q. Who must file a return?

A. A. Single persons having gross income of $1,700 or more, if under 65, and $2,300 or more if 65 or over.

B. Married persons having a combined gross income of $2,300 or more [$2,900 or more if one spouse is 65 or older; $3,500 or more if both are 65 or older] and they are eligible to file a joint return.

The filing requirement for each spouse is $600 if:

1. They file separate returns; or
2. They do not have the same household at the end of the year; or
3. Someone else is entitled to claim an exemption for either spouse.

C. Regardless of marital status, if you had uncollected Social Security tax on tip income.

D. Regardless of marital status, if you are self-employed and had net earnings of $400 or more from self-employment, even if the gross income was less than the above amounts.

A reminder also, that you should file a return for refund of any income tax withheld, even though the amount of your gross income would not require you to file.

Q. What are the major changes in this year's Form 1040?

A. IRS has retained the basic one page form concept with supplemental schedules to accommodate the more involved tax situations of some taxpayers. We have no plans to return to the old 1040A. Among the most significant changes in the new Form 1040 are these:

1. The basic 1040 tax package has been trimmed from 32 to 24 pages, consisting of the tax return, schedules for itemized deductions and dividend and interest income, instructions, tax tables, and tax rate schedules.

2. This year's instructions are not printed on the backs of schedules but rather are numbered and indexed for easy reference and are located in the center of the tax package.

3. The listing and totaling of adjustments has been moved to Schedule B thereby avoiding the confusion that arose when this item was on the face of the 1040.

4. The use of a separate schedule for tax computation has been discontinued and space has been provided for the computation in Part IV on the back of the 1040.

5. The former Schedules A, Itemized Deductions, and Schedule B, Dividend and Interest Income, have been combined into Schedules A & B, and similar arrangements have been used for the former Schedule E, Supplemental and Miscellaneous Income, and Schedule R, Retirement Income Credit.

6. The most noticeable change on the front page on the Form 1040 is that more space has been provided so that the form will not confuse those filers who are not concerned with certain entries.

This year's 1040 package represents an extensive effort to come up with a format most useful to the American public.

Q. Can I round off the figures on my return?

A. Yes. The money items on your return and schedules may be shown in whole dollars. To do this, eliminate any amount less than 50 cents and increase any amount from 50 cents through 99 cents to the next higher dollar.

Guidance Counselors Available Evenings At Three High Schools

Guidance counselors are now available at night for the remainder of the school year to give educational and vocational advice to parents and students at the three high schools, announces School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

The new program follows the trend of many other institutions and industries that have realized that their services should be more readily available in the evenings, Dr. Creedon said.

"We hope we are not saying that this program is just for students and parents, but for any Quincy resident who feels that our professional vocational and guidance staffs can be of some assistance to them", said Dr. Creedon.

Under the program the Quincy and Vocational-Technical high school guidance offices will be open each Tuesday from 6 to 9 p.m. throughout the next two months.

The schedule at the schools follows. Quincy High School, Feb. 2, with counselor Helen Kelly; March 9, Sylvia Stern; March 16, Edward Nankin; March 23, Donald Fowke; and March 30 Helen Kelly.

At the Vocational-Technical High School, counselors Gerald Gheradi will be available Feb. 9; Richard Haines, Feb. 23; and Mark Hyman, March 2.

At North Quincy High School counselors will be available each Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Their schedule will be: Feb. 10, Marjorie Rogers; Feb. 24, Richard Meyer; March 3, Gail Westernman; March 10, Peter Fitch; March 17, John Murphy; March 24, Marjorie Rogers; and March 31, Richard Meyer.

Jaycees Join Quinn In Consumer Education

A special eight-week pilot consumer education project has been launched in Quincy and 22 other southeastern Massachusetts cities and towns by local Jaycees chapter and Attorney General Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division.

William J. Griffin, Quincy Jaycees president, has announced that in February and March, Jaycees will distribute bundles of consumer cartoon leaflets to merchants in this area. Participating merchants will pass the information leaflets out to their customers or package the liers with purchases.

Local radio stations and newspapers will cooperate to publicize the Massachusetts consumer law that is featured each week.

Coupons on the leaflets will enable consumers to send for additional consumer information or for complaint forms to return to the Consumer Protection Division.

"If free individuals are to effectively demand their due in the marketplace, they must understand what that due is," said Atty. General Quinn.

The first leaflet is being distributed this week.

Guitar Course At YMCA

An Instructional Guitar Course for youth and adults will begin Tuesday, Feb. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Quincy YMCA.

The 10-week course is planned for the beginner, and two classes, each one hour in length, will be formed.

Registration is necessary in advance and enrollment is limited. Further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 479-8500 and contacting Paul Harvey.

To Run Whether McIntyre Does Or Not

McCormick's Hat In Mayoralty Ring

School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., today formally announced his candidacy for mayor in this fall's city election.

In doing so, he livens the local political scene by:

•Becoming a major challenger to Mayor James R. McIntyre if the latter decides to seek a fourth term.

•Creating an open seat on the School Committee as he would have been up for re-election this year.

He vowed a "vigorous campaign that will deal with the issues."

McCormick said he is running for mayor because "it becomes more and more apparent that the people of Quincy can no longer afford the luxury of dual representation at the executive level and need the services of a full-time mayor."

McIntyre is also a state senator, representing Quincy, Braintree and Holbrook on Beacon Hill.

McCormick, who is 57, said he came to a decision at "a recent meeting with concerned citizens of Quincy."

He did not identify the citizens but it was learned the meeting was held at his home, 100 Reservoir Rd., Wollaston, Monday night.

His announcement came as somewhat of a surprise because last October he said he would run for mayor if McIntyre did not.

Today he sailed his hat into the ring as a candidate regardless of whether McIntyre seeks re-election or not.

McCormick has been a member of the School Committee since February, 1959 when he was appointed to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Paul Duffy.

He is now vice-chairman and served in that capacity in 1966-1967.

As a vote-getter, McCormick has what is known in political circles as a good "track record". He topped the school committee field in the three city elections in which he has run: 1959, 1963 and 1967.

He was also the top vote getter in the city in the 1959 and 1963 elections.

McCormick has been chairman of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board the past four years and is chairman of the Mayor's Youth Committee.

He is now with H. C. Wainwright & Co., a brokerage firm that is a member of the New York stock exchange. His office is on Hancock St. in Quincy Sq.

McCormick's full statement follows:

"At a recent meeting with concerned citizens of Quincy, I announced my candidacy for mayor and made the following statement:

"As we enter the critical period of the 70's it becomes more and more apparent that the people of Quincy can no longer afford the luxury of dual representation at the executive level, and need the services of a full-time mayor.

"I plan a vigorous campaign that will deal with the issues and problems facing us."

McCormick not only is the first candidate to formally announce for mayor but the first to announce for any office in this fall's election.

Atty. Richard W. Barry, former City Councillor and assistant district attorney, has told friends he will run for mayor this year. But he has made no official declaration.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin is among potential candidates but he would not run if McIntyre seeks re-election.

City Saves Over $150,000 On N-S Artery Widening

Quincy will save at least $150,000—perhaps considerably more—in construction of the new North-South Arterial Route.

Mayor James R. McIntyre said he has been informed by DPW Commissioner Edward J. Ribbs that the state will pay for the widening of Upland Rd., from Adams to Dimmock Sts.

The state will finance the cost of that section under TOPICS—the federal highway improvements program.

"There is also a good chance," McIntyre declared, "that the remainder of the highway from that point to Capens Bridge in Braintree will be similarly paid for."

He said it appears "virtually certain".

Widening of Upland Rd. between Adams and Dimmock St., about five-eighths of a mile—will cost more than $150,000, McIntyre said.

Upland Rd. is being widened to 60-feet including 12-foot wide sidewalks.

The Mayor declined to estimate how much it will cost to finish the highway to Capens Bridge.

The new highway, running from near the North Quincy MBTA station, will relieve traffic along presently congested Hancock St. by providing a through route.

Three Firefighters Commended, Two Cited For Heroic Rescues

Chief Edward F. Barry has commended three members of the Quincy Fire Department for recent heroic rescue action.

Fire Lt. Lawrence J. Perette and Firefighter Edward W. Nardone were commended for "excellent work" in the Jan. 2 rescue of Aurio Doane from the icy waters of Black's Creek.

Perette and Nardone crawled out over a ladder to reach

Doane, lifted him successfully out and while returning to shore, the ice broke and the three men plunged into the water. They were able to continue to assist Doane to shore aided by other men in the company. All were hospitalized.

Recognition was given to Firefighters Ansel Frazier and Paul Jacobs for their efforts at the rescue scene.

Also commended was Firefighter Edward A. Pettinelli for his Jan. 26 rescue of Mrs. Marjorie Osol from a fire at her home at 38 Bell St., Houghs Neck. Pettinelli climbed a ladder to the second floor window, found Mrs. Osol unconscious in a bedroom, carried her to safety and saved her life in this fire.

Lt. Perette and Nardone were each given one day off; Pettinelli, received two days off.

A Working Gal, Too She Dances Happily On 73rd Birthday

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Mrs. Josephine A. Donlan laughed, reminisced and—danced—at her 73rd birthday party Saturday night.

On Monday, she hurried off to her job as a salesgirl at Raymond's in Boston.

"It was the best," she exclaimed when asked about the party given in her honor by her family at Elks Hall, Milton.

Hardly looking her age, she lives at 116 Sagamore St., North Quincy.

She has eight children, 63 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

And goes to work every day at Raymond's. "She's missed only two days this winter," says Mrs. Malvina Hughes, her sister, who lives with her.

The party was a very much enlarged variation of the annual celebration given Mrs. Donlan by her children. It wasn't quite a surprise.

"We always went out to dinner at a hotel or restaurant to eat, together," Mrs. Donlan says. "But it was a surprise of a certain extent."

Seven of Mrs. Donlan's eight children attended.

There was a representative group of 24 from her 63 grandchildren; five members of her immediate family. Her brother, Edward Couture of Weymouth, was master of ceremonies.

"He made the party!" Mrs. Donlan said. "And there were cousins I hadn't seen for years!"

"It was the best! It was great having them all together like that. It isn't very often you can get them all together. There was an orchestra for dancing, and we had a catered meal, buffet style."

Mrs. Donlan's children include Mrs. Mary Daniels of Kingston, Mrs. Margaret Gnoza of Danvers, Mrs. Genevieve McCoolle of Rockland, John Donlan of Quincy, Robert Donlan of Abington, Mrs. Geraldine Robbins of Weymouth, Martin Donlan of South Boston and, unable to attend, Mrs. Helen Galligan of Connecticut.

The six great-grandchildren were too young to make the scene.

With such a party this year, Mrs. Donlan can hardly wait for next year's birthday celebration.

Survey Shows Many Teachers Spend Summer Going To School

A survey recently completed by the Quincy Education Association reveals that a number of teachers are involved in summer study.

Questions for a "capsule" survey were drawn up by Charles V. Hickey, a science teacher at Broad Meadows Junior High School, and produced replies from approximately 400 teachers.

Of these, some 75 or more were taking advanced courses during the summer, 61% at their own expense and 39% through grants which included working with student teachers, or required no fees.

According to Hickey, the courses taken by the teachers were valued at close to $20,000 - or $330.50 per teacher. The survey revealed also that courses paid for by the teachers themselves averaged $278.60 per teacher. Seven traveled for credit at a cost of $6,540.

Results of the survey, said Hickey, "show that teachers do spend their time in furthering their education in order to keep up with changing times, and naturally, to pass along their knowledge to the student body."

Hickey, who holds a master's degree and has been a Quincy teacher for 12 years, has served the QEA as program chairman, membership chairman and a member of the Constitutional Revision committee.

A Weymouth resident, he was chairman of the building committee of the William Seach Elementary School which opened in September. He is the father of four boys and a girl.

Shipyard PR Director To Speak At Ward 2 Civic Assn. Meeting

Samuel B. Winram, director of public relations for General Dynamics Corporation, will speak at the Feb. 16 meeting at 8 p.m. of the Ward 2 Civic Association at Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd.

Winram will speak on future plans, updating of U.S. shipbuilding, and prospects for the Quincy Yard.

The meeting is open to the public and refreshments will be served.

Ecology Young GOP Subject

"Ecology is Everyone's Business!" is the topic to be discussed by Jens Thornton, Quincy conservationist, at the Quincy Young Republican Club meeting Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St.

Thornton will describe conservation activities in Quincy, where he is particularly interested in saving marshes. Thornton has been a candidate for City Council and for State representative in Wards 4, 5 and 6.

Les Molyneux, treasurer, will be host for the meeting.

Kathy Roberts, club president, will conduct a short business meeting at 7:15 p.m. preceding the program.

The meeting is open to all interested, and particularly area Republicans and Independents between the ages of 18 and 40 years.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Don't go rushing in an application for the job of legislative aide to Sen. James R. McIntyre. It's gone.

McIntyre has picked Peter Lucarelli who knows his way around the State House.

He was an aide to former Senate President Maurice Donahue and the late Atty. Gen. George Fingold.

Lucarelli, incidentally, was formerly an MDC police officer assigned to the Blue Hills Division.

He succeeds Henry J. Bertolon who this week assumed his new duties as a city assessor.

THE SPECULATION CORPS thinks former Councillor Francis McCauley might make a political comeback bid this year in an attempt to regain his old Ward 1 council seat.

DID YOU KNOW? You no longer have to be able to write your name to vote in Massachusetts. That's Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn's ruling on the 1970 Federal Voting Rights Act.

But [whew!] a person must be able to read and write to hold public office. [Things are bad enough as it is.]

CITY HALL insiders wouldn't be too surprised to see a new face soon in Mayor McIntyre's "official family". They think one head could roll.

APPARENTLY people destined to become famous don't always make an early impression on you.

During World War II I was on the destroyer Cogswell in the South Pacific. Was aboard from August, 1943 to January, 1946.

Now, destroyers aren't very big. And so usually you get to know everybody.

Noticed in one of the papers the other day an interview with the wife of a man now pretty well known.

She recalled that her husband, apparently as a new Naval ensign, was assigned to the USS Cogswell in 1945.

But I can't recall him aboard ship. He must have come aboard after the war when I was getting ready to get off. And besides, who remembers young ensigns, anyway.

His name: Alan B. Shepherd.

GOOD NEWS DEPT: City Clerk John Gillis is well on his way to recovery at Quincy City Hospital. He's going to be fine.

John is one of the most popular municipal figures--and nicest guys--ever to come along. City Hall looks bare without his presence--he's been that much of a fixture there.

Incidentally, the city switchboard was lit up like a Christmas tree with telephone calls to the city clerk's office asking: "How's John?"

MAYOR McIntyre, appearing Sunday on the TV program "For Kids Only" with a group of Everett youngsters, deftly fielded a question regarding his "two hats" -- mayor and senator.

"Yes, I get paid for both and there is a salary for both," McIntyre admitted, adding: "The Mayor's job in the city of Quincy is the lowest paid job of all the major cities in the Commonwealth and there are more than 200 people in the city who receive more than me. The Mayor's position in Quincy is not the highest paid position in the city."

Questions asked primarily related to the revenue-sharing idea advanced by President Nixon. The Mayor said he was interested in this on both a State and Local level because of his two positions.

THEY'RE still chuckling about the special "trophies" presented at the St. Joseph's CYO benefit basketball doubleheader at the Point Junior gym.

Fr. James McCarthy, voted most valuable player, was presented a teddy bear. Rev. Joseph J. Downey, pastor, "Most Improved Athlete", Rev. Mr. Charles Hogan, "Unsung Hero" and Frank Brillo "Fastest Human", each received a plastic scottie dog.

SPEAKING of basketball, the sons of two well known Quincy figures are doing well as members of Central Junior High School's seventh grade team. They're Walter Hannon, Jr., son of the city councillor-representative, and Jack Browne, Jr., son of the public works commissioner. At last look, Central was tied with Atlantic for first place.

WELL, the Hancock School can now boast it has walls painted by Michelangelo.

Parents who joined Principal Morrie Hibbard and teachers in painting walls in first and second grade classrooms last week in a spruce-up "Paint In" included Maurice Michelangelo.

Hearing Tonight On Lunch Issue

Quincy residents will have an opportunity to speak out on the hot lunch program proposed for Snug Harbor School tonight at a 7:30 p.m. public hearing in Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Quincy residents will have an opportunity to speak out on the controversial pilot hot lunch program proposed for Snug Harbor School Thursday at 7:30 p.m. public hearing in Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

The hearing has been called by City Council Finance Chairman J. Vincent Smyth who has invited all civic associations and other interested groups to attend.

It is being scheduled for the spacious Voc-Tech cafeteria rather than the City Council Chamber to accommodate an expected large turnout.

This will be a second hearing for many of those expected to attend.

The first was conducted last week by the Quincy Citizens Association at the Montclair Men's Club on Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

At that time a large majority of those present were recorded in opposition to the proposed program following remarks.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, who spoke at the OCA hearing, says he expects to be at Thursday's hearing.

"I am interested in this state-wide," Brett says.

He has filed a bill in the legislature which would return to local "home rule" the decision to provide lunch programs for the schools.

"This bill has not been formally admitted yet," Brett explains. "I filed it after the December deadline because it had not come to my attention until I read about the Snug Harbor situation."

"The House speaker, head of the rules committee, has advised me that he will allow it to be admitted for action. It will probably be referred to the committee on social welfare, and probably sometime in March there will be a public hearing and action will be taken then."

The original bill, Brett said, was passed during prorogation when legislators were working night and day to complete their work.

"Sometimes things can slip through then, and nobody knows about them," Brett explained. "Apparently this happened here."

Under the present bill, by Sept. 1973, every child in every public school in the Commonwealth [kindergarten through high school] must be provided with a lunch, according to Brett's interpretation of the new law.

In addition, every child in a needy area must be provided with a breakfast.

Those able to pay for their lunches will do so now. However, the price is to be reduced by five cents each year until "probably about 1975", the lunches would be free to everyone, he said.

"I don't mean to imply that some children should not be taken care of in cases of extreme need," Brett said. "But the first responsibility lies with the parents."

He added that the federal government will reimburse the city for 60% and the state for 30% of the cost of the food, but it will not participate in the cost of the labor involved.

School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr. and Committeeman Francis F. Anselmi, spoke in favor of the proposal, while Committeeman Paul C. Kelly repeated his objections. All are expected to attend Thursday's hearing.

Astronaut Recovery Destroyer

Navy Petty Officer First Class Russell Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis O. Smith of 127 Faxon Park Road, Quincy, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Hawkins, a unit of the Atlantic Fleet's Apollo 14 recovery force.

During last Sunday's launch the Norfolk, Va., based Hawkins was positioned about 565 miles east of Cape Kennedy to recover the astronauts and capsule in the event of a malfunction. It will continue as part of the secondary recovery force during the Apollo Mission.

WHAT IS MARIJUANA?

Marijuana is a drug found in the flowering tops and leaves of the Indian hemp plant, cannabis sativa. The plant grows in mild climates in countries around the world, especially in Mexico, Africa, India and the Middle East. The drug is known as pot, tea, grass, Mary Jane and by other names. It is usually smoked in cigarettes known as reefer or sticks.

The increase in its use by our younger population has been astronomical, despite its illegality of use.

Little is known about the drug because its active ingredient - tetrahydrocannabinol - was produced in pure form only relatively recently by a scientist in Israel. It is now being made available for the first time so that researchers can accurately measure the drug's effects and study its short and long term action on the mind and body.

'Pop' Josselyn, 86, Receives Special Boy Scout Award

Roland K. [Pop] Josselyn, 86, Houghs Neck historian and registered Boy Scout since 1939, was presented a trophy in recognition of his many years of service to Scouting on Sunday at a Blue and Gold dinner at Houghs Neck Congregational Church. "Pop" has retired as Boy Scout Troop 6 committee chairman, adding to previous "retirements" as cubmaster, scoutmaster, and institutional representative during his 32 years in the organization. He will remain as a troop committee member.

Robert Gordon, succeeding "pop" as troop committee chairman, made the presentation.

Other awards presented during the program by assistant scoutmaster Martin

Gordon included second class badges to Scouts William MacDonald, "Pop's" great-grandson, and Douglas Haskins. Tenderfoot pins went to James Buchan and Steven Bishop. John MacKenzie, Doug Haskins and Pete Giggey were named den chiefs.

Cubmaster Frank Haskins presented dinner's stripes to Brent Morris and Robert MacKenzie, while Paul Knudsen was made assistant denner.

Welcomed as bobcats were Robert Craig, Scott Drohan, Richard Nelson, Steven Shaw, Joseph Giggey and Dana Guidice. Wayne Batson and Dennis Ryan received wolf badges; Raymond Gosselin, bear badge. Gold and silver arrows were awarded Dennis Ryan, David Smith and Raymond Gosselin.

Robert Gardner, webelos leader, presented neckerchiefs to James Gillespie, James Witham, Raymond Gosselin, Timothy Bishop, Robert MacKenzie, Eliot Lincoln and David Smith.

Guests included Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea and Mrs. Corea, Frank Boudreau and John Boudreau of Troop 19, Order of the Arrow; Daniel O'Shea, assistant district executive of Boston Council Blue Granite District, and Mrs. O'Shea; John and Buell Fuller; Gerard Morrison and Steven Burns of Cub Packs 1920 and 19; and Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon of Houghs Neck Legion Post, and Mrs. Fitzgibbon.

'Paint In' At Hancock School

Bright orange, yellow and green on walls of the Lincoln School's first and second grades reflect the spirit of parents, friends and teachers involved in Saturday's "Paint-In".

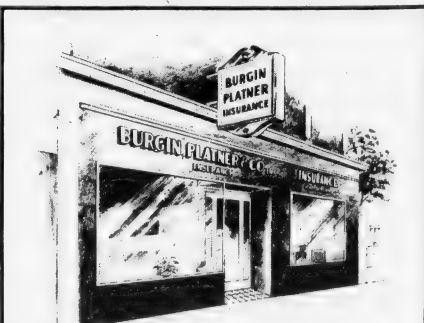

In an attempt to "revitalize the surroundings" of the school which is to be replaced by a new Lincoln-Hancock School, 32 members of staff and community combined in a work day.

Headed by Morrie Hibbard, principal, the staff included Janice Settana, Marion Sull van, Jennifer Fitzpatrick, Francine Bell, Catherine Roeder, Paula Eagles, Elayne Spacone, Henry Cramer and Susan Saluti.

Parents lending time and talent were Janet Valliere, Bruce Barrie, Rae Coughlin, Walter Steen, Alexander Campbell, Fred Prezioso, Lois Constantino,

Seeing You Again

How's it going? It seems long ago,
Of days gone by, I remember you know.
It's sort of strange we're no longer near,
And it even seems funny, just seeing you here.

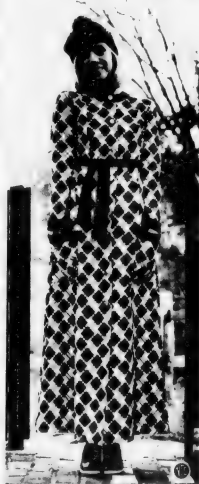

Do you still have that dog, afraid of the cat?
Sometimes I sit and just think of that.
What of the pets your brother once had?
And how he would tease, do you still get mad?

Yes, time has come, between you and me,
The summer just came and we had to be free.
And now here in winter, just seeing your face,
There are some things that time can't erase.

The time we skipped school and drove to the Cape,
I guess that is something my mind won't escape.
The prom, the parties, and all the good days,
Here we stand now, having gone our own ways.

But such is life, the way the wind blows,
One can't foresee, he just never knows.
Well I have to get going, so until then,
It's really been good, to see you again.

A Pink Tea Punch For Valentine's Day

If you're a romantic at heart, Valentine's Day provides a heaven-sent opportunity to give a sentimental party dedicated to the proposition that all the world loves a lover. This day of sweethearts and sentiment is the perfect time for an engagement party or a shower to honor a spring bride-to-be.

Refreshments for such a party need not be elaborate but should be in keeping with the hearts and flowers mood of the day. Rolled tea sandwiches and thin slices of pound cake are always appropriate. Plus a pretty pink punch. This one is a delightfully refreshing combination of fruit juices and tea. The cranberry juice contributes the rosy color; the tea gives it body and character without masking the flavors of the other ingredients.

Pink Tea Punch

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 quart of water | 2 (6 oz.) cans frozen concentrated limeade |
| ½ cup loose tea or 15 teabags | 2 cups cranberry juice cocktail |
| 1 quart cold water | 2 (28 oz.) bottles ginger ale |
| 2 (6 oz.) cans frozen concentrated lemonade | |

Bring 1 quart of water to a boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add tea. Cover and let stand 5 minutes. Stir, then strain into punch bowl containing 1 quart cold water. Stir in concentrates and cranberry juice. Place a block of ice or ice cubes in punch. Add ginger ale just before serving. Garnish with clove-studded lemon slices. Makes about 5 quarts or 40 punch cup servings. Note: If using instant tea, combine 4 rounded tablespoons of powder with 2 quarts cold water. Stir, add other ingredients.

A Hot Tip

Pamper Your Cookware

Quality cookware like any product can justify its higher price only if it's properly "serviced."

Here are some tips on cookware care from home economists at United States Stamping Co., a division of Lisk-Savory Corp., that will keep wear in service for years.

Save yourself much of the after-meal drudgery by choosing utensils that are easy to care for and won't mark up the sink.

Ceramic-on-steel ware with its smooth, non-porous surface makes it as easy to clean as glass and combines the durability of steel.

To further lighten your clean-up chores, fill your pots with warm water immediately after use and let them soak until you are ready to pop them in the dishwasher or soapy sink.

Good cooking practices will help you avoid many of the sticky cleaning problems.

However, even the most experienced homemakers sometimes have food burn or boil over. Here, soak the pan in a solution of two quarts of hot water to one tablespoon of baking soda. Then scour with a non-abrasive household cleanser.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Feb. 11 - 18

ARIES [Mar. 21 - Apr. 19] - Your conduct this week could hurt others and thwart some of your own ambitions. This is not the time to stir up scandal.

TAURUS [Apr. 20 - May 20] - Your suspicions may be warping your viewpoint. Look on the bright side and try to keep out of the action for awhile.

GEMINI [May 21 - June 21] - An alluring and enterprising promise made this week will not hold water. Let reason and good sense be your guide and hold off a while.

CANCER [June 22 - July 22] - Beware of false promises made in the disguise of love. Your usually good judgement can be undermined and you'll be sorry later.

LEO [July 23 - Aug. 22] - New acquaintances with an unconventional outlook could hold your attention this week. Much satisfaction gained from creative activity.

VIRGO [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22] - Someone you meet by accident could give your spirits an unexpected lift. Publishers, educators, or people from a distance keep you busy.

LIBRA [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22] - Your creative ability is put into motion by an unexpected event. From this you can derive many benefits if domestic scene kept peaceful.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21] - The chance to earn extra money is all around you but you seem to be spending it as fast as it comes in - try to save some for later.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21] - There is much to be gained by mental pursuits. Look for an unexpected wind-fall that comes from a unique source.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19] - This is the time to go over your wardrobe and make the necessary repairs and changes. Up-date yourself with a new look.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20 - Feb. 18] - Your thoughts take a unique turn and a little extra money can come in from an unexpected source. Assert yourself with confidence.

PISCES [Feb. 19 - Mar. 20] - Disappointments and domestic trouble still plaguing you. Turn your thoughts to distant places or literature to help bide the time.

Director, The Diet Workshop

Would you autograph your cookbook, please?

The first time I was asked to do this produced the biggest blank-out of all time. What to say to this reasonable, but unprecedented, for me, request. What to say to put the final [non-caloric] icing on the [non-caloric] cake?

I looked at the title and I looked at the hopeful expectant purchaser, and realized that there was something more I had to tell her, something which could richly describe the rewards which could be waiting for her if she followed the rules. Taking my cue from the title, which is the same as this column, I wrote...

It's fun to be "in" finally! If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

DIET WORKSHOP SHRIMP DIP

- 1 Medium Unpared Cucumber
- 6 ounces Cottage Cheese
- 2 Tablespoons Finely

- Chopped Onion
- 2 Teaspoons Vinegar
- ½ Teaspoon Horseradish
- 3 Ounces Cooked Chopped Shrimp [or Tuna]

Cut cucumber in half lengthwise; remove seeds and discard. Shred cucumber. In small mixer bowl, combine shredded cucumber, cottage cheese, onion, vinegar and horseradish. Beat smooth. Stir in shrimp [or tuna]. Use to stuff celery, as salad, or sandwich spread. Recipe contains the equivalent of 6 ounces of protein.

'Love Story'

We arranged for the children to stay with grandmother...they like her...she likes them...made reservations...packed our bags...and were off for a week-end in the snow-covered Pine Tree State of Maine. The sun was shining. I had left behind my patients and cares...and with the beautiful stereo music of WCOP...WBOS...WJIB...we rolled smoothly and happily between the walls of car-high snow banks of the Maine Turnpike. Everybody...yes everybody needs to get away from it all occasionally.

Husbands and wives have so little time just to be together at home. At your house...as at our house...there are dozens of daily phone calls...children's commitments...mail to open...neighborhood interests...and of course Television...the big set...the middle-size set...and the baby set. All these we'd left behind. As we drove...I held my wife's hand...she placed her hand on my leg...I put mine on hers...we talked...we laughed...we planned...we even stopped and bought ice cream cones. It was a fun trip...no deadlines...no commitments...just a little love trip.

In the restaurant that night...we sat together...not across from each other...that's a sure sign of a dull marriage. We were talking together and laughing...and as we looked around it was obvious that we weren't acting "married"...because the couples we observed year us with rings on their left fingers were sitting in silence...that's another sign of a dull marriage.

Leisurely we dined and wined ourselves...then we went to see "Love Story." Here was more of the same kind of thing between two people...playing...touching...talking...loving. Ours was real...this was on the screen.

From the movie...and our own week-end experience I am convinced all over again of three important factors needed in a happy marriage. The first...INTELLECTUAL SHARING. That's what we were doing as we drove...we talked...and planned. We talked of Betty Anne and John's imminent return from Okinawa...and how long Jeanie would continue to fly with TWA...and when she and her John would have the down payment for a new home...Paul and David's interest in ski-mobiles and wished they could have shared our Sunday morning ride...about college plans...less than two presidential elections away.

We talked about the Indo-China War...the economic recession...unemployment and people we know out of work. We listened to people boosting Muskie for president...we talked about what each of us would do if and when the other should die...and decided we had some early decisions to make...rather than have to make such decisions under stress of grief. We had a ball...driving...planning...talking. Don't go off on a week-end together if you can't even talk together. It's bad enough at home. We shared intellectually...and it was great...our "love story".

The second important factor in our week-end "Love Story"...EMOTIONAL SHARING. We shared deep emotional experiences of the past...times of loneliness...times of great joy...times of hurt...times of disappointment...goals that were dashed to pieces and new goals that we now shared together. We expressed feelings with both tears and laughter...some too personal to print...it was emotional sharing...it was real...it was beautiful...our "love story".

Then...PHYSICAL SHARING...sensual touching...kissing...feeling...little secret signals which have meaning only to us. Saturday night...in Maine...in our car...restaurant...and motel room...our "love story"...we were sharing physically. I don't believe in brother-sister marriages...I believe in romantic marriage. I don't believe that romance needs to die in a marriage. But it will die unless it is fed with "love story" food...and that means physical sharing...of each other's bodies. Touching means acceptance of each other.

A couple was lying together in bed talking. The wife was distressed because of a friend's death and expressed her puzzlement to the age-old question WHY? The husband reasoned in his mind..."I want to help her...is she feeling grief?...fear of death?...guilt for something she didn't do?" His wife whispered..."Just hold me, dear." Lying closely...face to face...he held her...gently rubbing her back...and she fell asleep in his arms. His intellectual treatise on the answer to her question WHY was wasted...all she wanted...all she needed was "just hold me, dear." Physical sharing...for it, there is no substitute...all the way...in every way...with no holding back...romance in marriage...a true "love story".

By the way...rates are fairly attractive right now for a "winter holiday for two." Could turn out to be another "love story".

Quincy Woman Cherishes Pretty Valentines Over 100 Years Old

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Mrs. Jessie Stewart, Senior Advisor at the Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center at 24 High School Ave., has some Valentines that are more than 100 years old.

There are only a few, but they are very precious to her as they were all "in the family".

Largest is a 9 by 12-inch beauty only slightly yellowed with age, lace trimmed, embossed and then printed - unsigned, as were most of those in a more sentimental age. Its only hand-written line is on the back: "Price 35 cents".

Its verse:

"Dearest, I know not and dark is the night,
Shadows are hiding each step of the way,
Naught but thy smile can awaken the light.

Making of life one glad summer day.

Och, let me dream as I dreamt once before,
Close in thy heart Love has raised him a shrine
So that e'en now.

As in those days of yore,
Love is the lord, dear, of thy life and mine."

Of even more sentiment is that penned by hand in script little more than an eighth of an inch high, sent to "Miss Louise Taylor", Mrs. Stewart's mother, by her father before they were married in 1865.

"One year ago there came to me

A Valentine I think from thee

I now this trifle to you send

And wish you still to be my friend."

Result of this extremely restrained declaration of love was marriage and four children.

Mrs. Stewart, still on the receiving end of Valentines herself, was a kind of Valentine from the Council on Aging to older residents whose fun headquarters is the Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center at 24 High School Ave., Quincy.

A 50-year Quincy resident who lived formerly in Adams Shore, Mrs. Stewart now has a one-room apartment at 1050 Hancock St. In good weather, she walks the more than a mile distance to the Senior Citizens Center where she originally started as a "hostess" for the Commonwealth Service Corps.

"I'm one of them," she says of her friends at the center.

Last year she counted 12,928 personal visits from her friends, who came to the center for one of its many parties, to dance, to play cards, to eat, or just to talk.

From accompanying groups to the Dawes Home on Wollaston Beach in the summer, Mrs. Stewart expanded her duties to where she now prepares a noon meal at the center each week for from 40 to 60 of her friends - price 30 cents. Each meal is partially subsidized by the state, and Mrs. Stewart displays a sheaf of bills showing how she accounts for every penny.

Mother of two and grandmother of eight, independent Mrs. Stewart says, philosophically, "I live one day at a time".

She finds it fun, too. She has just joined the Senior Citizens' Nite Owls Club - and you can count on seeing her at the Seniors' Valentine Dance Feb. 12 at Fore River Clubhouse - helping with refreshments - and dancing!

Snowflakes

It all began when I was a tiny raindrop. It became very, very cold and on my way down I turned into a beautiful, lacy snowflake. I dropped to the ground but since it was very windy I didn't stay there for too long. I went whirling along in the icy blast with a lot of other snowflakes. A few of the neighborhood children tried to catch me with their tongues. But I turned around and just skinned their red cheeks. After this happened a few times I was turned around laughing at one of the startled children. As I turned around I landed on an icy lip. Luckily a small wind was passing so it blew me off quickly.

After that, the wind stopped and I fluttered gaily to the ground. I had just touched the ground when a little boy came along and scooped me up along with some other snow flakes, packed us in good and hard, then away we flew. We landed in the face of a young pretty girl with orange curls. Then SLURP! we were gone!

The neighbor's horse
Is a friendly one.
We ride him everyday.
Until one day
He ran away
From the house
And frightened a mouse
From under the house.
Then he saw a ghost
And started to boast.
That wonderful neighbor's horse.

Knocked Around Puck

Being a hockey puck is no easy thing. Just as you're getting comfortable some great hockey star comes flying by and hits you with a slapshot. This sends you flying into the backboards. The thing I hate most is being tied up. Nobody catches what they're doing. I get stepped on, jumped on, and squeezed in between the goalie's pads. But, when my favorite team, the Boston Bruins send me flying into the net, I bounce around for joy. My owner is Bobby Orr. He doesn't play a single hockey game without me. Plenty of times I crack or chip from being hit too hard. It's painful, but it's all in the game. Sometimes I wish I weren't a puck, but after winning games, and helping to get the Stanley Cup, well, I wouldn't want to be anything else!

The Lost

Snow Man

One day some kids were making a snowman. They started with a little snow ball. Then it got bigger and bigger and bigger. At last it was finished. We used a carrot for the nose and a hat for his head and a scarf for his thick neck. A couple of days later, the sun shone and melted the bottom of the snowman. He started to walk. His eyes opened, and his arms began to move! Off he ran down the street. The kids didn't know that he was gone. The sun was hot and bright. As the snowman walked, he got weaker and weaker because the sun was melting him. He was lost, and didn't know where to go. He was now twice as small as before. The kids noticed that he was gone, but they thought he melted into water. Soon the snowman had to stop because his legs couldn't carry him anymore. He turned into water, so big of a puddle that it froze and the same kids were able to skate on the ice! That was the story of the lost snowman.

A Snowflake

I'm a snow flake that just fell. For awhile I just layed there. All of a sudden a great, big, cold, wind came and blew me away. I didn't know where I was for a minute. When I looked up it was strange and everything looked funny. Some people were talking but I couldn't understand them. I knew I was far away. I didn't like where I was. But then during the night another big wind came up and blew me home to my favorite backyard and lived happily ever after.

After the face off the puck went to the corner. I went after it. I knew someone was behind me. I didn't know who it was. I was getting closer to the puck when I was checked into the boards. The coach said I was out cold for ten minutes. The only thing I remember was going after the puck and getting checked. Now, I can't even remember the score or anything. The coach wouldn't let me play because I might get hurt badly. The only thing I wanted was to find out who checked me!

When I Was

A Snowflake

One dark cloudy day I was walking around the streets looking up into the murky sky and not watching were I was going. I tripped over a stone and knocked myself out. I started to dream. I dreamed I was a snowflake way up in the sky floating up high and then dropping, swirling around and around with lots of little snowflakes. Some of them were fighting to see who was the strongest I was only a small snowflake. It wasn't easy moving around being pushed and shoved. But then I fell down, down, down! I went falling, twirling around and around. I could see other snowflakes starting to fall. When I looked down, the ground was coming closer and closer every second. Just before I hit I woke up and snow was all around me. I'm really glad I really wasn't a snowflake.

The Day

I Was Little

One day I was walking through the woods and old, tumble-down log cabin there. I entered because I was very cold, and I was lost. As I entered I saw an old, wrinkled-face lady. I didn't know it then but was soon to find out that she was a wrinkled, old witch. She turned me into a little person the snow was over my head. I ask the witch if she would turn me back but she said the spell would last for two days. I left the witch. I went into the deep snow. The snow was at least 4 inc deep because it was up to my neck. I foud a cave I went into the cave and saw a squirrel. It attacked me, but I got. Then I went farther into the cave. The squirrel was gone. I went to sleep. In the morning I woke up. I knew the spell would wear off at the end of night. I was very hungry but I was too small to catch a animal. I did not leave the cave because if I did I might be eaten alive. I waited until midnight. I saw a caterpillar. It almost ate me up. It was about two minutes before midnight. I changed back to myself, but I had a problem. How will I get home I just remembered the path I followed it out of the woods all the way home.

Snowy The

Snowflake

I was a very little, white, snowflake. My name was Snowy. I was going up and down getting bigger and bigger. Soon I was a big snowflake. I stopped going up and down. Now I was blowing in the wind not going too fast, but fast enough to see some of the places in the world and some of the places where the snow had fallen. I saw a little stream, all icy and cold with some fir trees all around it. I saw some children playing in the snow. I had fun looking down at all the things in the world. But then, I thought, I'm a snowflake and sometime I'm going to fall down on the ground. But why let that spoil my fun. I was having so much fun! Suddenly I was on the ground. The wind blew me away. I was having fun again. I was having more fun than ever. Then I got hot and started to melt. It was awful. I melted and was gone, but ever since that day I came back in the snow.

$8 Million Estimated CostPublic Hearing Feb. 25 On Quincy-Braintree MBTA Line

The MBTA announces a public hearing will be held at Braintree Town Hall Feb. 25 at 8 p.m. on its application for an estimated $5.5 million in federal assistance to construct the South Quincy-North Braintree rapid transit station and an access road to South Braintree Station.

Total construction costs are estimated at about $8 million.

The Authority has arranged with Braintree town officials for the use of Town Hall all day, starting at 9 a.m., to allow everyone interested in any of the proposals to view maps and charts and talk with MBTA officials and planners.

The Feb. 25 hearing date was selected because officials of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, Department of Transportation, have advised the Authority that its final application for two-thirds federal funds must be submitted by March 1, instead of by April 1.

The MBTA had sought to hold a joint hearing with the State DPW on the South Quincy-North Braintree segment. But this is not now possible because of UMTA's timetable change, the MBTA noted. The Authority is required to give at least 14 days' notice of a public hearing whereas the MDPW is required to give 45 days' notice.

The 1970 Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act requires a public hearing on projects proposed for federal aid "to give all parties with significant social, economic or environmental interests an opportunity to publicly present their views."

Bloodmobile To Visit Quincy Legion Post

A public appeal for support for a Feb. 26 Red Cross Bloodmobile visit is being made by Commander James M. Hewitt of Quincy Legion Post 95.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Post Memorial Home, Revere Rd. and Mechanic St., from 12:15 noon to 6 p.m., adjacent to the Hancock Parking area.

This is the first sponsorship by Quincy Legion Post of a Bloodmobile visit, and arrangements are being completed by Past Commander Philip Angellis, Post Blood Donor chairman. Mrs. John Wilson, volunteer blood chairman for the Greater Quincy Chapter of the Red Cross, will be in charge.

Requirements are for a donor to be 18 to 65 years of age in good health, minimum weight 110 pounds. Parental consent is not required for those 18 to 21 years according to a recent law change.

However, Vietnam veterans returning from overseas duty are not eligible to donate for a period of two years.

Persons not affiliated with the American Legion may donate in the name of the organization, as well as members and relatives.

Robert Leo Eng, Department vice commander and a past commander of Quincy Legion Post, adds his appeal for blood donors.

Eng, now State Community Service chairman serving on the donor committee, cites the problem faced by many of the older veterans of World War I who face surgery and are unable to replace needed blood.

He notes also that any donor

Quincy Doctors Elected To Carney Staff

Two Quincy doctors are among officers elected to the medical staff of Carney Hospital in Dorchester at the staff's annual dinner meeting held recently.

Austin T. Norton, M.D. of 66 Greenleaf St. has been elected vice-president, to serve with Francis V. Creeden, M.D. of Roxbury, new president.

William P. Ridder of 1261 Furnace Brook Parkway was elected to Carney's Medical Executive Committee.

Sgts. Lyons, Mulligan Complete Course

Quincy Police Sergeants Daniel J. Lyons and John F. Mulligan, Jr. have completed a three-week session of the Command Training Institute for police officers, at Babson College.

They are among 27 registrants from Massachusetts, Connecticut and Vermont attending the institute sponsored by the New England Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc.

John T. Howland, former superintendent of the Boston Police Department, is director of the institute.

16 From Nazarene College Named In 'Who's Who Among Students'

Sixteen students at Eastern Nazarene College have been named in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" for the current year.

Each year an equal number of students and faculty members select those seniors who qualify for membership on the basis of scholarship, leadership, participation in academic and extra-curricular activities, service to the school and promise of success and usefulness to society.

From the list of nominees, committee members elect by ballot those students who are recommended to the National Committee.

The sixteen named are:

Stephen W. Bosquette of Brockton, a social studies major, director of the Audio-visual Center.

Robert Bradbury of Braintree, a psychology major and president of the Student Council and volunteer gym teacher at St. Coletta's Day

Larry Brooks of Minneapolis, Minn., a Religion major, Vice-president of the Student Council and student pastor at the First Baptist Church in Braintree.

James Coppel of Quincy, a history major, president of the Associated Men Students and Student Mobilization Leader for Campus Crusade for Christ on the general level.

Jack Davis of Auburn, New York, an elementary education major and Junior Class President.

David Gagnon of Pawtucket, R.I., a modern languages major and Delta Society President.

Joseph Gray of Boston, a psychology and anthropology major, champion debater and member of Phi Delta Lambda Honor Society.

Carol Kinder, of South Charleston, West Virginia, Chairman of the Judicial Board of the Associated Women Students.

Russell Long of New Philadelphia, Ohio, a religion major and coordinator for Students in Action.

Kendall R. Lord of Wollaston, a music education major and choir director at Wollaston Lutheran Church.

William Nielson of Mount Vernon, Ohio, a religion major and president of the Senior Class.

Shirley Nortz of Lowell, New York, a music education major and Dean's List student.

Mrs. Gillian Ann Parker of Norwell, a psychology major formerly from Nottingham, England.

Dale F. Parry of Salisbury, Md., a religion major and chaplain of Kappa Society.

Deborah Schubert of Pennington, N.J., a spanish major and vice-president of the senior class and Associated Women Students.

John Scott of Nashua, N.H., a religion major and president of the Evangelistic Association.

Edward T. Hannon Completes Management Institute

Edward T. Hannon, coordinator of adult education in Quincy Schools, has completed a two-week Management Institute.

The Institute, held in Danvers, was sponsored by the Massachusetts Division of Occupational Education and the United States Office of Education. It was conducted by Technology Management Incorporated.

Included in the curriculum were planning techniques and management methods necessary for use in occupational education and the man-power training program.

Practical Nursing Grads Pass State License Exam

Mrs. Madeline Papile, director of the practical nursing program at Quincy Vocational-Technical School, has been notified that all practical nurses graduating last Sept. 24, have successfully passed the license examination given by the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing.

The graduates are now licensed practical nurses and may use the letters "LPN" after their names.

This is the first class of practical nurses graduating from the 12-month experimental program approved by the Board. Previously the program required by state law was 15 months in length.

The entire curriculum was revised and planned so that knowledge, skills and attitudes essential for the beginning practical nurse may be achieved by students in 12 months.

North Takes On Everett

Quincy Hopes To Run Streak To 10

If the Quincy hockey team wins its first Greater Boston League championship this year, a lion's share of the glory must go to its sensational goalie, Artie Boyle.

Ten days ago he turned in one of his finest performances as he rolled back 27 Medford shots and blanked the Mustangs, 2-0, to move the Presidents into a first place tie with Medford.

Last Saturday he had another good night as Quincy topped North Quincy for the third time, 6-2, and Monday night was superb with 16 saves as Bob Sylvia's team blanked Everett, 4-0, to temporarily move ahead of Medford. The Mustangs played Somerville last night.

Friday night Quincy will attempt to run its unbeaten streak to 10 games (8 wins, 1 tie) when it meets vastly improved Chelsea in the second of four league games at Boston Arena. In the 6:30 opener North Quincy will meet Everett.

There appears to be little doubt that Sylvia will take his fourth straight Quincy team into the Eastern Mass. Tourney and the Presidents are good bets to wind up at least as GBL co-champions.

"These kids have been playing great hockey over the past several weeks, Sylvia said. "Boyle has been tremendous and the entire squad has been doing a real good job."

John Prescott gave Boyle all the offensive support he needed Monday at Weymouth Skating Club as he scored two goals. Quincy out-shot the Big Red of Everett, 31-16.

In the other game at Weymouth, North Quincy bowed to a greatly improved Chelsea team, 5-2. Capt. Jim Arsenault did it all for the Red Devils, who two weeks ago had surprised Revere by the same score, as he scored three goals and added two assists.

Saturday at Weymouth the Presidents, now 11-2-2 in the league, had only a 2-1 lead over Ron Erikson's North team midway in the second period but pulled away in the final period.

Al Colby put Quincy ahead

late in the opening period with Rick Patten and Steve Cedrone assisting, and two minutes later Steve Kleimola made it 2-0 as he converted passes from Cedrone, who had four assists, and Ed Weidemann.

Nick Struzik made it 2-1 early in the second period with Tom O'Malley assisting, but Colby got that one back late in the period with Cedrone again assisting.

In the finale Jim Cattaneo converted passes from Prescott and Dom Burke, Steve Leonanti scored North's second goal unassisted, Weidemann scored with Cedrone and Kleimola assisting, and Paul Campbell wrapped up the scoring as he converted Jim Starkey's pass.

"North Quincy played a hard game and its goalie [Jeff Sheehan] was outstanding," Sylvia said. "I was pleased that one of their captains [Bob Frizzell] came over and congratulated me and told me they would beat Medford for us. This was a real nice gesture on his part."

Quincy had 34 shots on Sheehan and he was especially outstanding in the first period when he stopped 16 of 18 shots.

"Pat Dempsey did a good job filling in for Boyle in the last period," the Quincy coach continued. "He is a fine young prospect. Everyone played a good game but the first line did it for us again. It is one of the best lines in the state and is our bread and butter line."

This line is made up of Cedrone, Kleimola and Weidemann, who accounted for eight points.

"Paul Campbell and Ken Keraney did a great job of killing penalties," Sylvia continued. "Campbell is just a sophomore but has been impressive in practice and in the games he has played."

JV Hockey Team In Win Streak, Too

Quincy's junior varsity hockey team, coached by Jack Scanlan, made its season's record 3-0 and ran its two-year unbeaten streak to 10 with a 3-1 victory last weekend over Everett at Boston Arena.

"I was apprehensive about this game as we hadn't played for nearly a month but the teamwork didn't seem to suffer from the layoff and the boys did a fine job," Scanlan said.

Scanlan praised all his players but had special words for Dennis McCarthy, Tom Hammill and Mike Doolin.

Quincy's junior high-freshman team, coached by Ken Hayes, who last year coached North junior high, has a 4-2 record.

Peckham Sizzles In Bowling Little Loop

Quincy Lodge of Elks with a 44-12 record continues to lead the Quincy Bowling Little Loop.

D. A. George G. Burke is in second place, 43-14, and Montclair Men's Club continues third with a 38-18 score.

Burke's team had the weekly high team three of 1271, while the high team single of 444 was rolled by Wollaston Lobster.

Paul Peckham, leading the league with a 100.24 average, had weekly high individual three of 325 and high individual single of 120.

ENC Breaking Scoring Records

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team is breaking all school scoring records as it enjoys its best season in eight years.

It will be tough keeping the Crusaders from the NAIA tourney.

Going into last Tuesday's game against Nasson, ENC had a fine 14-4 record. The Crusaders are home to Babson Friday at 8:15 p.m. at Quincy Voc-Tech gym and Tuesday hosts Curry College of Milton at North Quincy High, also at 8:15 p.m.

Coach Jim Smith's Crusaders broke the school's scoring record for the second time last week in bombing King's College of Briar Cliff, N.Y., 126-81, at North Quincy. Two weeks ago they had set a new school mark with 116 points against Gordon.

ENC has a brilliant one-two punch in North Quincy's Ron Bradley and Don Eads of Morrow, Ohio, both of whom have been scoring sensationally this winter.

In the romp over Kings, Eads just missed Bradley's individual scoring record of 46 points when he scored 41 and was lifted with four minutes to play. "I didn't realize Don was so close to the record," Smith admitted. "I just knew he had a pile of points and I didn't want to pile it on."

Bradley, All-New England NAIA guard, had 21 points, 15 assists and 13 rebounds.

In a 104-99 win over Suffolk earlier in the week Bradley, who averaged more than 30 points a game a year ago, broke the school's career scoring record with 39 points. These gave him 1,563 points, which broke the record of 1,551 set by Ray Baltz, who graduated in 1960. He boosted it to 1,584 against Kings and still has several games remaining. Against Suffolk Eads scored 35.

"Bradley and Eads give us one of the best One-two punches around," said Smith. "If one isn't hitting, and this doesn't happen often, then the other one is. Bradley is one of the best I've ever seen and, in his own way, Eads is as good. He is a real hustler, can hit from the outside and gets a lot of points on steals. He is also the toughest driver on the team."

Bradley, son of the former ENC coach, Carroll Bradley, played his high school ball at North Quincy. Carroll, incidentally, is back teaching in the Quincy school system.

Eads played at Mount Vernon Nazarene Junior College a year ago and played his high school ball at Little Miami High in Ohio.

Bradley is one of several local boys playing for the Crusaders. Rick Reyenger, former Quincy High star and a 6-7 guard, has given the team a decided boost since joining it at midseason after being discharged from the Army.

Don Constantine, one of the most consistent players, is another former North Quincy High standout; and Steve Shoff played at Manchester, Conn., High school but now lives in Quincy.

UCT Builds Lead In Pee Wee Hockey

United Commercial Travelers upped its lead by three wins over both Morrisette and Davis in the Quincy Youth Hockey League PeeWee Division at Weymouth.

UCT's record now stands at nine wins, one loss, while Morrisette and Davis each have a 6-2-2 standing.

Cox with a 6-1-5 record has edged Farina with 6-2-4, while Sweeney's stands at 5-3-4.

Cox defeated Davis 7-1, with four goals by Billy Speranzo and one each by Dave Noonan, Mark Frazier and James Cooney. Assists by Cox were credited to James Cooney, 4; Billy Speranzo, 2; Walter Conley, Dave Doonan and Bill Pitts, one each. Mike McCauley made the one goal for Davis unassisted.

Farina Kitchens came up with a 3 to 1 victory over Sweeney's. Mark Hurley accounted for 2 goals for Farina: Steve Pagherani, one, with assists by Paul Cattaneo, John Tronca, Joe Kelley, Mark Hurley and William Connolly. John Ahola ran up Sweeney's score, assisted by John Ryan.

In the PeeWees, Morrisette

Post scored 6-3 over Wollaston Theatre, Mark Kelly ran up three goals, with John Yaxter, Joe McConville and Paul Radzik accounting for one each. Assists were by Joe McConville and Paul Radzik, two each; Larry Laing and John Fair, Bob Fitzpatrick, Billy Doherty and John Kelly scored for Wollaston, with Kevin McGrath and Billy Doherty assisting.

Crestview Nursing Home defeated Maguire's Lounge 3-2. Dave Perdios scored two goals for Crestview, Steve Clinton, 1; assists were by Paul Hurley, 2; Dave Perdios, Paul Connolly and Steve Clinton, Mike Pitts and Frank Penzo scored for Maguire's.

Davis Insurance and Keohane Funeral Home tied 1-1. Ed Santry scored for Davis with assist by Dave Peters. Jackie McHugh ran up Keohane's score, assisted by Dan Donovan.

UCT defeated Hannon Tire 5-0, with three goals by Ricky Smith and two by John Mitchell. Assists were by John Butts, 3; Brian Jolley, 2; and Frank Robinson.

Southie Stops Quacks, 5-2

The Quincy Quacks street hockey team lost Sunday to South Boston 5-2.

Pete Skoler, a new bright spot for the Quacks, scored with a pass from Kevin Sullivan. Dave Stern also scored an assist on the play.

Although Quincy's defense was good, the Bulldogs scored in the middle of the period and again with 50 seconds remaining when a South Boston player slapped the ball from behind the net, hitting off goalie Dave Anastasi's leg and ricocheting into the net.

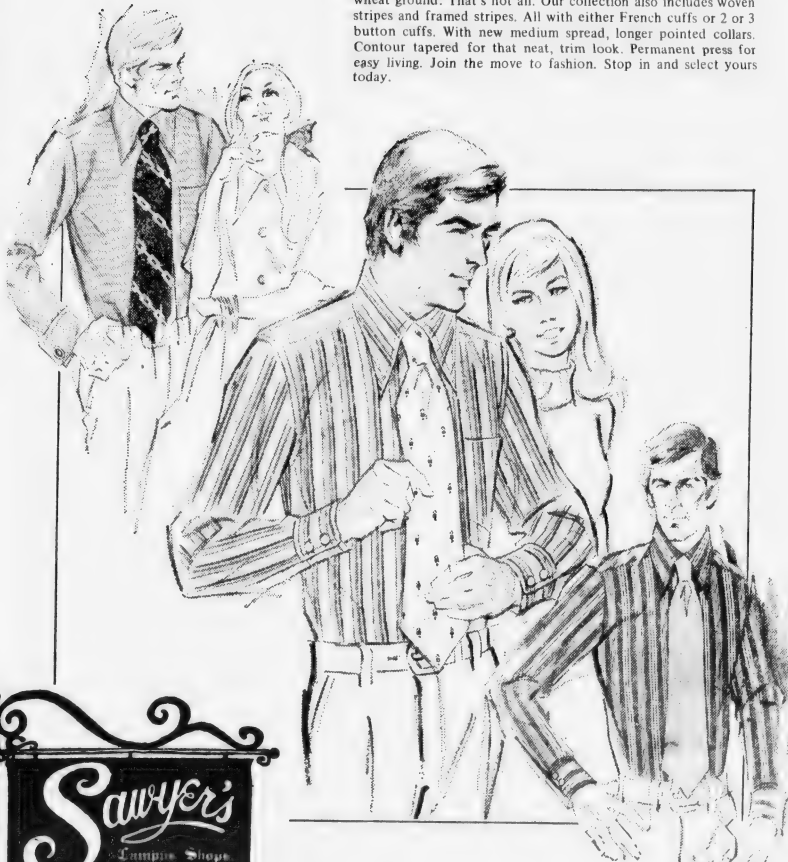

In the second period, Pete Skoler fed the puck to Kevin Sullivan, who drove it home making the score 2-2. However, Southie scored again to make the score 3-2.

The Quacks were scored upon twice in the final period as they let their defensive play dissolve while playing an offensive game full of scoring chances.

The Quacks announced their three representatives for the Greater Boston Street Hockey League All-Star game Feb. 15 in Lynn at 1:30 p.m. will be Dave Stern, right wing; Mark Fedlman, center and Pete Skoler, left wing.

Quincy, North Tech Tourney Hopes Dim

• Quincy •

Faced with the unenviable task of winning its final seven games to qualify for its first Tech Tourney berth in several years, the Quincy basketball team won three of them, including a big one over powerful Medford last week, but faced another Greater Boston League toughie Tuesday night at Revere.

If the Presidents were able to win that one [they lost by 13 points at Quincy], they face what should be a breather Friday night at Chelsea. Then they are idle until Feb. 19 when they host cross-town rival North Quincy, which they upset at North. The season's finale will be at new Weymouth South Feb. 26.

"The boys faced a very tough job but the way they have been playing, don't bet against them," a happy Coach Marty Finnegan said following last Friday's big 78-71 win over Medford. Medford had upset North Quincy and lost to unbeaten Somerville by only four points in its previous two games.

The Presidents several times had leads of up to 11 points but the Mustangs came back with a rush and moved ahead, 69-68, in the final period.

Trailing by that one point with three minutes remaining, playmaker John Reggianini sank two foul shots to regain the lead for Quincy, and hit on two more in the closing moments which, with Bobby McDermott's vital basket, gave the Presidents revenge for an overtime loss at Medford.

Quincy's depth played a big part in the important win. When Joe Goguen entered the game he had to cover high scoring Tom Ryser and did an excellent job of it. When Reggianini, the brilliant little sophomore, ran into foul trouble in the first half Bill Pilalas replaced him and also did a fine job.

"It was a great team victory," Finnegan said. "Mike Donaghue had only four points but they were two key baskets. Bob Pike, our captain, played one of his best games and did everything."

Pike, averaging better than 25 points a game, scored 25, brought down 31 rebounds, and had 10 assists. Bill Maver grabbed off 20 rebounds as well as scoring 13 points as Quincy had a huge 63-33 edge on the boards. McDermott had 14 points and Reggianini 10.

Quincy also shot well with better than 40 percent from the floor and 14 for 19 from the line.

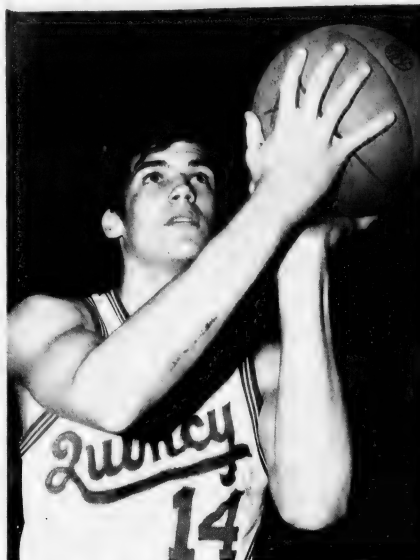

Earlier in the week the Presidents exploded after an ice cold first period and dumped Malden, 75-58.

After falling behind, 14-13, in the opening period, Quincy exploded for 28 points in the second period and took a 41-26 lead. It increased the margin to 61-36 after three periods and the subs took over midway in the period and went the rest of the way.

Ten Quincy players scored as Finnegan used all 14 of his players. Reggianini led with 18 points, followed by Pike with 15, Maver and McDermott with 12 apiece. Pike again sparkled off the boards.

"I was quite pleased with the overall team effort," Finnegan said. "The big lead gave us a chance to use some of our younger boys and we'll need the depth over the next few games."

The Quincy junior varsity rolled to an easy win to make its record 8-4.

• North •

Earlier in the season it appeared North Quincy's basketball team looked like a good bet to make the Tech Tourney for the fifth time in the last six years.

However, Bob Nolan's Raiders fell on some hard times during the past two weeks and two close losses, the latest a 63-61 Greater Boston League shocker to weak Everett last Friday, have made their chances much slimmer. It looks now like they will lose out.

Tuesday night North hosted undefeated Somerville, which last week made the Tech for the 30th time, and a loss in that game would mean the Raiders must win their final four games to qualify. And three of those four games are against powerhouses.

North should win Friday at home against Malden but then must play at Quincy the following Friday [Quincy pulled a shocker by winning on the North floor], then take on two potent non-league rivals, Weymouth North and Brookline of the Suburban League.

North lost it from the foul line at Everett, missing no less than six one-and-one situations in the final period which could have pulled it safely away.

North also had the ball out of bounds with three seconds left but was unable to put the ball in play before the final buzzer.

"This was a costly win, that's for sure, and makes our job much harder, but we have ourselves to blame," Nolan said. "We hit on only 15 of 27 foul shots and those missed one-and-one situations late in the game really killed us."

Another factor in the loss was an injury to 6-7 Tom Cairns, which kept him on the bench for nearly a half and he was unable to jump because of an infected foot.

Dave Nelson, Bob McKay and Dan Zink picked up the slack on the boards, but Cairns, the top rebounder on the squad, was sorely missed.

Although the Raiders out-rebounded Everett, 35-28, they turned the ball over 12 times, another factor in the defeat.

Nelson had 18 points and Zink 10, the only Raiders to hit double figures.

Joe Amoroso's North junior varsity breezed, 73-42, to make its record 9-2, as Pete Bellotti scored 13 points, Ken Marsters and Pete Quinn 10 apiece.

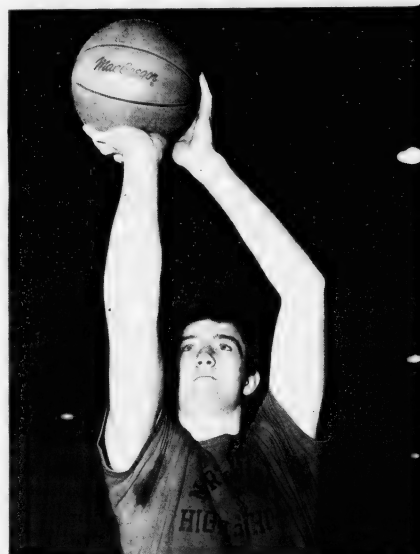

Earlier last week the Raiders rolled to one of their easiest wins of the year, 83-50, at Chelsea.

"I would have to say this was one of the strongest games we have played this year," a pleased Nolan said. "It is pretty hard to single out a particular player in a game like this. After the kind of luck we have been having, it really felt good to win this one."

North outclassed the Red Devils from the start, leading, 22-13, after a period, 39-24 at the half and had a whopping 68-36 advantage going into the final period.

Eleven of North's 12 players scored with Dave Nelson having 19 points, his high output for the year, Cairns scoring 12 and Dave Mahoney 12.

The North junior varsity won its eighth in 10 games, 68-56, as Jamey Dougherty and Marsters scored 15 each.

Lum's Continues To Set Pace

Defending champs Lum's Colonial continued in top place in Sunday's round of the 18th annual greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney at Merrymount Alleys.

Lum's rolled a one-sided victory over South Shore Businessmen of Weymouth Landing, 1767-1595.

In other matches Federal Auto Body defeated the Koch Club of Quincy 1692-1673; Quincy Church League edged the Socialites 1674-1671; O.S.M. ousted Dedham Manor 1652-1543; Sawyer-Campbell beat out Louis' 1607-1695; and St. John's Holy Name Society outlasted Montclair Men's Club 1564-1555.

Lum's gained a bye into the tourney quarterfinals on Feb. 21 with their high pinfall for the day. Lum's took two of the three strings, running high with a 646 third string led by Dick Ewell's 159, Lou Pagnani's 133 and Buster Loud's 135. High for the day for Lums was Ewell 393; Loud 366; Pagnani 352; Bob Kaukola 340 and Steve Hill 316.

Frank Farren's 348 topped the South Shore Businessmen, followed by Joe Manning's 327.

In a see-saw battle Federal Auto Body took two of three strings from Koch Club, bowling 615 in the third string to Koch's 580, Larry Bryan showed the way for Federal with 373, while Vic Tricomi had 345, Gary Collins 339 and Ray Snell 322. Al Mancuso with 366 was high for the Koch Club, followed by Tom Hayes 355, Joe Derringer 320 and Fred Bettuchi 318.

The Quincy Church League made one of the greatest comebacks in tourney history. After losing the first string to the Socialites by 79 pins, the Church League trailed by 71 pins going into the last string. In the third string Dick Collins fired an eight-pin spare in the last two boxes to clinch the win. Dick Collins led the Quincy Churchmen with a 347, followed by Dave Bates 341, Henry Johnson 335, Steve Miller 326 and Bill Collins 325. For the Socialites Louis Firella's 375 was high while Budsy Pettinelli had 340; Mario Ricci 330 and Ed McCallum 329.

O.S.M. spotted Dedham Manor 6 pins at the end of the first string, then won the last two strings, with all five O.S.M. keggers hitting over the 300 mark: Arnie Martinson 343, Tom Yerkes 336, Vic Craig 329, Bill Landry 326 and Peter Mastroianni 318. Jack Brady with 319 was top for Dedham, while Tom Moriarty's 312 was next.

Sawyer-Campbell took Louis' with a 11-pin lead with Gary Smith bowling high with 341 for Sawyer-Campbell; Bob Farrell next with 335 and Joe Kenney 331. Ed Roberts' 338 led Louis' followed by Jim Murray with 332 and Ken White with 327.

North Trackmen In Cherished 44-42 Win Over Presidents

The North Quincy track team won only one meet this season in the Met League but it was a cherished 44-42 squeaker over Quincy in the final set of meets last week at the Fargo Building.

"It was a frustrating season, but this was a great way to end it and it made up a little for the other losses," Coach Bob Gentry said. "It was a fine effort by our relay team that won it for us and we won without our fine two-miler, Kevin Henry, who was ill."

North finished with a 1-5 record [one meet with Milton was cancelled], while Gene Macomber's Quincy squad, winless a year ago, ended with a disappointing 2-5 mark after winning its first two meets.

Last week's meets may have been the last for the Met League, depending upon the building of the proposed MDC track facility which has been in the talking stages for years but has never materialized.

The latest proposal is for construction of the much-needed site in Neponset where the Patriots' stadium had earlier been proposed, but most officials don't feel the prospects are bright.

Even if it goes through, thanks to another appropriations bill to be introduced by Rep. Joseph Brett of Quincy, it wouldn't be finished in time for the next winter track season.

However, in this case, the league would operate for the 23rd season, using various college tracks and the Navy's Fargo building again. The Navy came through this year and allowed the final two sets of meets at Fargo just when it appeared they might have to be cancelled. MIT and Northeastern allowed the use of their facilities this year but Harvard refused the use of the Briggs Cage.

However, if the latest proposal is turned down, it will mean the end of the Met League, according to Director Mickey McGuire, and 24 schools will be left out in the cold.

In last week's North win over Quincy, the Presidents led, 42-39, going into the final event, the relay. Jack Reynolds started off for North and kept pace with Pete Daley until he fell and second man Joe Marini found himself 50 yards behind. He cut the gap to 30 yards and Jeff Strungis pulled to within 10 as Ken Baker and Quincy ace speedster Bobby Ciano started the anchor leg.

Baker displayed a fine burst of speed, moved ahead of Ciano and held off the Presidents' flash to give the Raiders their big win.

North's John Panarelli finished an unbeaten season in the shot put and broke the school record again with an excellent toss of 51 feet, 3 inches.

Quincy's Ciano also wound up undefeated but moved from the mile, which he had run in all other meets, to the two-mile, which he won in 10:48.

Other North winners were Bob McCormack in the mile, and Baker in the 300.

Quincy's other winners were Mike Orlando, 1000; Joe Goguen, 600; Kevin Egersheim, high jump; Bobby McDermott, hurdles, and Ray Lawyer, dash.

Second places for Quincy were taken by Brian Feeney, mile; Daley, 300; and Paul Volpe, dash.

North actually won the meet with a rash of second places, Strungis in the 1000, Dan Coughlin, 600; Matt Clancy, two-mile; Jeff Leet, shot put; Tim Flynn, high jump, and Reynolds, hurdles.

North's third place finishers were Paul Bonoli, mile; Jim Hurley, 600; Marini, 300; Dick Malloy, two-mile; George McCall, hurdles and Greg King, dash.

Taking thirds for Quincy were Sal Venturelli, 1000; Jim Buchianeri, shot put and John Johnson, high jump.

North's depth paid off, as evidenced by the many seconds and thirds it took.

"Despite our poor record, I feel the winter season will help our spring program tremendously," Gentry said. The Raiders were unbeaten in the Greater Boston League last spring.

Tom Hall, Quincy's winter assistant and head spring coach, also felt Quincy's spring team will benefit from this winter's team. Quincy's only loss last spring was to North.

And everyone who sees this marvelous notion picture endorses it with complimentary accolades... Said President NIXON after viewing "STORY" at his Camp David retreat; "I recommend it"... Character actor DON GORDON makes the jump to leading actor in "THE FIRST OF JANUARY"... His co-star is GERALDINE CHAPLIN... The much talked about MG-4-20th Century merger never materialized...

"THE GODFATHER" search is over. MARLON BRANDO has been inked for the title role... HENRY FONDA has a solid contender on his hands with his ABC-TV vehicles, "THE SMITH FAMILY"... The many fans of "MISSION IMPOSSIBLE" could be in for a fall disappointment. The Paramount television showstopper may not return to the airwaves next season... And it has nothing to do with the ratings... they're right up there... Seems that Paramount needs the money, and they feel that they can recoup some of their motion picture losses by syndicating "MISSION IMPOSSIBLE"... A television program isn't generally syndicated while still running as a prime time vehicle, which is why the executives at Paramount are seriously considering placing "MISSION" in the "possible" position of not being renewed next season... And in the children's category, "LASSIE" will not be with us next season as well... And for the same reason, "LASSIE" is being syndicated... The Jan. 17th airing of the SUPER BOWL garnered the highest rating ever for a sporting event... An estimated 24 million homes were tuned in...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: anti-pornography crusader CHARLES KEATING commenting on the latest X-stink, "BEYOND THE VALLEY OF THE DOLLS"; "Zanuck and Russ Meyer ought to be arrested and jailed for making 'Beyond the Valley of the Dolls'... He has my vote... How can the BEATLES be in such financial hot water with a yearly estimated gross of $10 million?... Ever hear of singer BERYL MIDDLETOWN? Her single, "TWO LITTLE BOYS" was voted the number one disc of 1970 in Washington, D.C.... Not a bad feat, considering Miss MIDDLETOWN topped such competition as the CARPENTERS, SIMON and GARFUNKEL and ENGBERT HUMPERDINCK... German motion buffs named "THE LOVE BUG" and "EASY RIDER" the two most popular foreign motion pictures of 1970... "A MAN CALLED HORSE" was third... As if it really matters, "MIDNIGHT COWBOY" was rated from X to R by the Code and Ratings Board... LAURENCE HARVEY is doing the London stage bit in "CHILD'S PLAY"... ROD STEIGER may add "GALILEO" to his biographical portrayals... Anti-clerical features, "THE MARRIED PRIEST" and "THE PRIEST WIFE" are earning their weight in editorial anger from the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano...

"MEN AT LAW" is a realistic improvement over its' kid-sic predecessor "STOREFRONT LAWYERS"... "LAUGH-IN" may be on the way out if its' ratings continue to slip... Those taken back by the "saucy" language in "LOVE STORE", should be reminded that people "really do" talk like that... Filmdoms desire to produce historical epics never seems to wane as evidenced by MARCELLO MASTROIANNI's accepting the starring role in "SCIPIO THE AFRICAN"... BARRY SULLIVAN deserves Emmy recognition after his "THE PRICE" performance... If talent followed in the footsteps of a famous last name, CHRIS MITCHELL would have been a big star years ago... After zeroing at the box-office, BARBARA PARKINS could be ready for another television series go-around... Director FRANK CAPRA will be coming out of retirement shortly to make another film... Whatever became of actor VICTOR MATURE? No films, no television appearances-why not even an inside biography depicting the wild times in yesteryear Hollywood...

The filming of "A SEASON IN HELL" could be just that for the cast and crew involved. The Italian motion picture is being shot on location in Eritrea, the region in Ethiopia overrun by rebel armies who are trying to overthrow the government of HAILE SELASSIE... "MOTHER DEAR" was judged the best film of the year at the Philippines first Quezon Festival... No-I never heard of the film either... STAN JACOBSON has bowed out as producer of "THE JOHNNY CASH SHOW"... JOHN CAMERON SWAYZE will return to newscasting in a half-hour weekly world news program titled, "THIRTY MINUTES"... Sex expert [?] DR. DAVID REUBEN has been tapped for a talk show series. The producers of the vehicle feel REUBEN is a "hot personality" due to the impetus of his best-seller, "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex"...

International Day At Central Junior

Today [Thursday] is International Day at Central Junior High School.

Before handprinted foreign backgrounds, some 180 students of the Foreign Language Department at 1 p.m. will present a program of skits and songs in the four languages they study: French, Latin, Spanish and German.

Their audience of eighth grade students will have a preview of the languages they may wish to study in ninth grade, and learn the advantages of selecting a particular language.

At 2:30 p.m. a social for all ninth graders will feature student-prepared refreshments typical of the four countries.

Taking part are students of Miss Dorothy Gilbride, French teacher; Miss Marjorie Greene, Latin; Miss Margaret Crowley, Spanish; and Mrs. Elizabeth Yacubian, German.

$400,000 Seawall Program Approved

Construction of new seawalls costing an estimated $400,000 has been given a green-light by the state Department of Public Works.

Mayor James R. McIntyre reports he was informed of the go-ahead at a meeting with John King, in charge of the Division of Waterways.

Cost will be borne on a 50-50 basis by the state and city.

Engineering plans are now underway and actual construction of most of the seawalls is expected to start this year, McIntyre said.

Construction of one in Germantown is expected to begin as early as March 1.

McIntyre said the new seawalls would help protect homes from flooding and other damage during hurricanes and other severe storms.

The seawalls, with two exceptions, are in Ward 1. Exceptions are Avalon Beach, Quincy Point and East Squantum St.

"I don't think this will complete the seawall work in the city," comments Ward 1 Councillor Edward S. Graham.

"We will have to work for another appropriation in the near future. Between the time we submit the request, and we get around to building the seawalls, like everything else, the cost has gone up. Commissioner Browne and the Mayor will decide the priorities, after consulting with the councillors."

Finance Committee To Tackle Record Budget Feb. 22

The City Council's Finance Committee will begin pruning of Mayor James R. McIntyre's proposed $43.9 million 1971 budget beginning the week of Feb. 21.

Committee Chairman J. Vincent Smyth told the Quincy Sun.

"The Mayor has slashed the original requests so I don't know how much more we can cut."

"But we will give it a close look and cut wherever we can without hurting essential services."

"Whatever cuts we do make will be honest ones. We're not going to cut to make it look good and then have the departments come back later looking for the money."

McIntyre slashed $3.5 million from the original department requests, representing approximately $15 on the tax rate.

The $43.9 million budget he will present to the City Council Feb. 16 is $4 million higher than last year's $39.9 million.

"Hopefully, we will start our budget sessions the night of Feb. 22," Smyth said.

"But most of the sessions will be on Saturdays because the bigger departments—public works, hospital, police, fire, etc.—require a full day's work."

Smyth said the council will make its budget cuts judiciously and without anticipation of any revenue windfalls which possibly might come to the city.

Traffic Signal Study

The state Department of Public Works will reinvestigate the question of a pedestrian-actuated traffic control signal at Presidents Plaza on Quincy Ave.

Asks School Committee To Reconsider Pilot Program

Smyth Urges Hot Lunch Delay

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth today said he hopes the School Committee will reconsider or delay the controversial proposed hot school lunch program.

"My personal feeling is that the School Committee would reconsider this for 1971 and would postpone implementation of the program until such time as the legislature itself could reconsider the law," Smyth declared.

Smyth, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said the committee "will come to a decision within a week" over a $30,000 appropriation order connected with implementing a pilot lunch program at the Snug Harbor elementary school.

The Finance Committee held a somewhat stormy public hearing last week attended by some 250 persons at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School cafeteria.

Opponents and proponents spoke out or recorded their sentiments with opponents in the majority.

One proponent labeled the issue itself "a political football". Another called the program a "necessity".

Opponents argued it was not an "education program" and that Quincy was being deprived of "home rule" by a state law.

The hearing was punctuated by noise, shouts and verbal clash between School Committee member Frank Anselmo and Rep. Joseph E. Brett over the word "communist".

Smyth, elaborating on his hope the School Committee will reconsider the program, today declared:

"If Quincy goes ahead and begins the hot lunch program in schools in September and then the legislature changes the law, Quincy could be caught in the middle of a program that would have to be revised by 1973."

"In other words, I would like to see the City postpone this whole thing."

Record $45 Million

Finance Committee To Take 'Close Look' At Budget

The City Council's Finance Committee will "take a close look" next week at Mayor James R. McIntyre's 1971 recommended $45,003,895.52 municipal budget.

The proposed budget--$3,007,204.53 higher than last year's--was submitted to the council Tuesday night.

McIntyre slashed $3.5 million from the original department requests--representing $15 on the tax rate--before submitting the budget to the council.

The Mayor said he hoped the council would study the budget closely and make further cuts "where it is deemed to be in the best interest of the city."

Major increases in the proposed budget are in the School Department and Quincy City Hospital.

The School Department's autonomous budget is $17,215,220. The hospital budget is $10,137,615.

Finance Committee Chairman J. Vincent Smyth said: "We will give the budget a good close look and will make judicious cuts wherever possible without hindering essential services."

He said the first sessions will be held sometime next week, possibly Monday night.

Most of the sessions, he said, will be held Saturdays in the council chamber as the larger departments require a full day of study.

McIntyre's budget message to the City Council follows:

"The budget for 1971 as I am submitting it to you on this date totals $45,003,895.52. This is an increase of $3,007,204.53 over the total appropriations to be raised by taxation last year."

"The major increases in this budget are in two areas: the School Department whose budget request is $17,215,220.00 which, as you know, has fiscal autonomy, and the City Hospital whose budget request is $10,137,615.48 which, I am informed, will be offset by anticipated receipts to meet this increased figure."

"The total budget as submitted to me by the various Department Heads has been reduced by $3,574,671.56 in my effort to hold any tax rate increase to a minimum."

"It is my sincere hope that the City Council will study these figures very closely, question the department heads, and where it is deemed to be in the best interest of the City and where possible, cut the budget keeping in mind the present financial condition of the City."

"I pledge my cooperation and that of my department heads in your analysis of this Budget."

$41,200 Wiring In City During January

Some 111 permits representing wiring costing an estimated $41,200 were issued during January, reports City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts.

Fees collected for the permits totalled $520.

During the month, 185 inspections were made by his department and 11 defects noted, Pitts said.

Major wiring project for the month was a new five-unit apartment building at 60 Thoreau Rd.

467 More Elms To Be Cut Down

Quincy's Forestry and Park Department personnel have begun the removal of 467 disease-ravaged elm trees, announces Richard J. Koch, executive secretary.

Quincy for 10 years has led the State in diseased Elms.

In 1970 Quincy with 467 diseased Elms topped Springfield which was second with 405.

Quincy has led all other cities and towns from 1941 to 1970 in the survey and detection of 4,323 diseased trees.

During the yearly survey in November and December, forestry personnel checked more than 1,000 suspected elm trees on city and private property. Some 669 samples were sent to Dr. Malcolm A. McKenzie, director of the Shade Tree Laboratories at the University of Massachusetts.

Of these, 467 were analyzed as infected, and the remaining 202 samples were free of the dreaded Dutch Elm disease.

In his January, 1971 report, Dr. McKenzie said that 7,810 elm trees in Massachusetts were analyzed as having Dutch Elm.

To date in the United States, approximately 10 million elm trees have lost with the disease, and no cure has been discovered, notes Koch sadly.

Dan Cupid In Slow Motion Here On Valentine's Day

Dan Cupid was a bit in slow motion this Valentine's Day.

Only 5,000 Valentines were dropped into the special collection box for delivery at the Quincy Post Office, according to Assistant Supt. Vincent Noe.

This is the first time a special collection box was set up so there are no figures to compare with 1970.

The figure does not include Valentines deposited in mail boxes throughout the city, either.

But the total messages of love handled by the Quincy Post Office, quite apparently, were considerably fewer than the estimated 100,000 Valentines it has processed in other years.

Meanwhile, at City Clerk John M. Gillis' office, it was "slow business" in the love and marriage department.

"A very few marriage intentions--no more than 10--were filed," noted staffer Mrs. Josephine Carnali. "It wasn't like it used to be."

Mary Newman To Speak At LWV Public Meeting

Former Rep. Mary B. Newman will discuss the Massachusetts legislature at a public meeting of the Quincy League of Women Voters Feb. 24 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Alan Anderson of 39 Knollwood Rd., Squantum.

Mrs. Newman will discuss the legislature's strengths and weaknesses. Mrs. Newman is former vice president of the Massachusetts LWV and an original editor of the League's book on Massachusetts State Government.

Because of the recent report of the Citizens Committee on State Legislatures, placing Massachusetts in 29th position, the topic has been chosen for open discussion. The public is urged to attend and to call Mrs.

Anderson for directions to her home.

The Massachusetts LWV has studied the legislature and taken positions supporting:

● A smaller membership, ideally a reduction of at least one-third.

● Single member districts.

● A salary level high enough to attract and keep qualified legislators.

● The Legislative Research Bureau.

● The principle of free petition.

The League opposes any constitutional or statutory limit on the length of the session and also opposes a filing fee.

Mrs. Paul Gossard of 83 Elm Ave., Wollaston, is Legislative Chairman for the Quincy LWV.

Central Junior In

'Project Pride'

"Project Pride" is the most recent civic project undertaken by Central Junior High School students.

In a program planned to promote "respect for their surroundings," turquoise trash barrels are being placed about the school to encourage the proper disposal of trash and discourage the accumulation of litter.

Ninth grade officers heading up the project are John Flynn, president; David Minton, vice president; Michael White, secretary; and Kevin Hagan, treasurer.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Some political observers are beginning to think 1971 could produce two or three new faces in the City Council.

Speculation is that one, two, or possible three incumbents might not run this fall.

Names being mentioned as "still thinking it over" are Ward 5 Councillor Walter Hannon, Ward 3's John F. Koegler and Councillor at-large George B. McDonald.

But incumbents always like "to keep 'em guessing." And, maybe Messrs. Hannon, Koegler and McDonald are only doing that.

★★★

AND, speaking of the coming city election, Dean Paul Nicastro is expected to toss his hat into the School Committee ring.

Nicastro, who earned his A.B. degree from Harvard College with highest honors, is now a full-time faculty member at Boston College High School.

While a candidate for his Doctor of Law degree at Harvard Law School, he served as research and legal assistant to Mayor James McIntyre.

★★★

STILL stirring the political pot: Fred J. Prezioso of 34 Roberts St., South Quincy, reportedly warming up for a run for the Ward 3 City Council seat. An assistant supervisor at Instron Corp., Canton, he would be making his second bid.

★★★

GOOD NEWS DEPT: City Clerk John M. Gillis is expected to be released from Quincy City Hospital the end of this week or early next week. He's doing FINE.

THE LONG HAIR fad [or is it here to stay?] is killing the barber business. Eddie Scolamiero, the West Quincy tonsorial artist, sadly notes that 450 Massachusetts barber shops went out of business in the two-year period from July 1, 1968 to July 1, 1970.

And the shops now are closing their doors at the rate of three to five a week. They're hurtin' because:

Many wives and girl friends want their man to look like TV stars. So the guys are going to hair stylists. Young boys don't want their hair cut, period. Older boys apparently don't mind looking like girls. And the average guy who used to get his hair cut every week or 10 days is now four to five weeks between t-rim to the barbershop, because "no one will notice I need a hair cut anyway."

BUT, Vincent Contrino, the South Quincy barber, sees a slight ray of hope. The other day he got five crew-cut customers in a row. But he agrees things are bad for the barber business.

"Some kids I don't see for months at a time," he notes. "Regular customers don't come in as often as they used to. And women are telling their husbands or boy friends to wear their hair long because it makes them look more masculine."

★★★

SPEAKING of hair, Quincy Atty. Melvin Thorner looks quite distinguished in his Ernest Hemingway-like white beard.

★★★

FASHION NOTE: The girls in Mayor James McIntyre's office are now wearing pant suits. Looking quite stylish: Mrs. Louise Brabazon and Mrs. Jean Ayer.

★★★

LOOK ALIKES: Laura Merchant, the cashier at Jason's Luggage & Music Shop and Joan Bennett.

★★★

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "The reason some people don't recognize opportunity is because it usually comes disguised as hard work."

★★★

OOPS DEPT: That was the Lincoln—not the Hancock School—where parents and teachers recently held a paint-in to spruce up first and second grade classrooms.

Which means the Lincoln School—and not the Hancock School—can boast it has walls painted by Michelangelo [Maurice Michelangelo]. Sorry about that, Maurice.

★★★

Proponents, Opponents Have Say On Lunch Issue

In other words, home rule may be written in to give us time to see what we want to do.

"We don't need this in 22 elementary schools. Let's be honest with ourselves. No one is denying the deserving children of needy families a hot meal. This is not the intent of anyone, but it is the over-all program that is very badly out of line. I feel this is very definitely a matter for home rule."

"I feel that the people who spoke at this meeting are a good barometer of public opinion. There were people from every section of the city."

Hot spot of the evening was the verbal clash between School Committeeman Anselmo, who favored the program, and Rep. Brett, who spoke in opposition.

Anselmo, referring to telephone calls to him with "sickening slander and low blows," said that at a previous hearing [before the Quincy Citizens Association] he had been called a "Communist" for his views.

When asked who had made the charge, Anselmo said it was Brett.

Brett immediately denied that he had called Anselmo a "Communist," but said he had called the school lunch program "socialistic." In this he was upheld by others who had attended the QCA meeting.

Persons who spoke in favor of the program and excerpts of what they said:

Mrs. John Kane, representing the Quincy League of Women Voters:

The program is already a law in this area, she said, adding that the League is speaking only for the lunch program at Snug Harbor. "We have no position on other parts of the city."

Stating that the issue has become a "political football," she added that unwarranted conclusions had been drawn. "No where is the school lunch program considered a welfare program," she said. Proper nutrition is preventive medicine — probably one of the wisest expenditures we can make."

School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., defending the 6-1 vote of the School Committee for the hot lunch program in Snug Harbor School, and noting he had received harrassing calls for his favorable vote:

"I wouldn't change my vote now if I had to. If 25-cents is too much to invest in the lunch program for Snug Harbor, I think we are sick people." He was referring to the estimated increase in the tax rate for the program.

Pasquale DiStefano, representing the newly-organized Quincy Institute for Better Government, cited a poll taken by the new group of 92 Germantown residents. He said that after this poll, "we are very much in favor of the program."

Earl MacLeod, representing the Community Action Organization at South-West Quincy:

"We feel it is a necessity, there is a need for a hot lunch program. There is no point in picking a $30,000 item out of a $3 million budget."

Others speaking in favor of the program were Rosemary Wahlberg, Norfolk County Extension nutritionist working with Germantown mothers; Charles Duffey, vice president of the Germantown Community Association; Patricia Plummer and Patricia Pierce, nutritionists; Patricia Grohen, chairman of the Quincy Headstart Program; Thelma Rogers, Germantown mother.

Speaking in opposition to the school lunch program were:

Dr. B. Lawrence Shalit, a director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association:

"It takes away from children a period of relaxation," he said. He referred to the high crime rate attributed to a breakdown of the family unit, to which lunch away from home would contribute. "How far is the state going in taking over the duties of a parent?" he asked.

School Committeeman Paul Kelly:

"Primarily, my objection to this program is that it is not involved with education. This is not a function of education. We are not giving the teachers the 'nuts and bolts' for education — not enough 'tools' to teach the children. It takes approximately $125,000 to start this program That isn't 'hay.'"

Harold Crowley, representing 30 teachers at the Snug Harbor School: "As professional educators we have access to the medical records kept on each child which include the results of doctor's examinations. These records do not indicate even one case of malnutrition."

Crowley outlined the proposed lunch set-up in the school gymnasium with 50 children to one matron ratio, 375 eating at one time. "The picture is a frightening one, to say the least. ... It has been suggested by one of our governmental officials that children need a bill of rights. Shouldn't that bill of rights guarantee them the right to eat their lunch in peace? A chance to get adequate fresh air and exercise? a right to release their pent-up energy? a right to parental love and care? a right to a full educational opportunity?"

Laurence Curtin, president of the Quincy Citizens Association: "The executive board of the Quincy Citizens Association by unanimous vote on Feb. 3, we wish to be recorded at the Feb. 11th hearing as opposing this school lunch program for Snug Harbor and opposed to the appropriation of $30,000 the school committee has requested for this purpose."

"Paul Kelly was 100 per cent right in his assessment of this matter. This legislation has been ill-advised, and it is not therefore good legislation — it is bad legislation — it is dangerous legislation."

Atty. L. Paul Marini, former 10-year member of the School Committee:

"I am glad to see that at last the school teachers have got the backbone to get together and say what they believe. Listen to the experts!"

Rep. Brett: noting, that he saw no mothers from Germantown at the hearing who seemed to suffer from malnutrition: "Are they more concerned about the children, or more concerned about not having to get a lunch?"

"It is not an educational program. Social welfare takes care of this problem, or public health, or public welfare — certainly not an educational program."

Robert F. Denvir, Jr., president of Houghs Neck Community Council, read a letter opposing program, and declared: "Three of these people's names will be on the ballot in November," he said of those officials favoring the program.

John P. Comer of 45 Lancaster St., a city assessor, recommended a bag lunch system for children of working mothers now in effect at Daniel Webster School. Calling for home rule on the program, he said, "Delete it [the appropriation] from the budget."

PROPOSER—Mrs. John Kane, representing Quincy League of Women Voters, in favor of pilot lunch program at Snug Harbor school, said it could not be considered a welfare program. She said the issue has become a "political football". City councillors shown are Albert R. Barilaro, Clifford Marshall, John F. Koegler.

OPPOSER—Atty. L. Paul Marini, former school committee member, uses pointed finger to punctuate his opposition to school lunch program. He noted teachers oppose the program.

[Photo by Gunter]

It then becomes a matter of law. Let the School Committee take us to court."

Others opposing and speaking were:

Harold Coose, president of the St. Moritz Association; Ray

Dunn of Quincy Point; Joseph McConville of 29 Chickatabo Rd., former candidate for School Committee; Mrs. Betty Swanton of Merrymount; James Donahue of 25 Riverbank Rd., father of 11 and Germantown resident;

John Tagheri and Thomas Mullaney of Standish Ave.

Mrs. Martha Robinson, manager of the Sterling High School Cafeteria, defended food dishes served in school cafeterias.

Oxygen Aids Memory

If decreased oxygen supply to the brain leads to loss of memory and reasoning power in older people, then increased oxygen should bring about an improvement. With this rationale, a team of clinicians at the VA hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., administered oxygen therapy to 13 institutionalized senile men, all of whom had hardening of the brain arteries.

Therapy lasted for 90 minutes, twice a day, for fifteen days. Oxygen was administered through a face mask in a pressure chamber which enhanced the intake. Twenty five hours after therapy was discontinued, the men took a standard memory test. Scores for the men who received oxygen jumped 25 percent, while there was no change for another group of men who breathed ordinary air. When the 2nd group switched to oxygen, their retention scores also jumped.

How long do the effects of oxygen last? No one knows for certain, but the Buffalo researchers intend to find out.

Super Cottons For '71

BOLDLY ETCHED — The costume dress looks fresh and new this spring in fashion-endorsed cotton checks. A belted jacket and matching scarf give added dash to this design by The Sidneys.

FRINGE BENEFITS — An understated overplaid, deftly touched with fringe, accents the lithe good looks of this navy and white cotton. A classic for all seasons, it's a Rembrandt creation.

PLAID-GRAPHIC — Top billing in spring's gallery of fashion classics goes to the cotton tweed coat. Artfully proportioned for town and travel, the Zelinka Matlick design is plaided in orange-flecked brown, beige, and white.

Poet's Corner

What Does It Take?

By Margaret DeAngelo

What does it take to make a Spring?
The first sweet robin on the wing.
A bursting bud on a barren tree,
A blossom fighting to be free.

What does it take to make a June?
A soft, warm sun and a crescent moon.
A climbing rose and an Ivy vine,
The rainbow look of a columbine.

What does it take to make a Fall?
A sheet of frost on a garden wall.
A tree with leaves all turned to brown
And a chill in the air when the sun goes down.

What does it take for Winter's bliss?
A first snow flake with its tender kiss.
A fire on the hearth and a cup of tea,
And the early dusk stealing quietly.

What does it take to make a year?
A little sorrow and a lot of cheer.
Busy nights and days with much to do,
In a land where tondest dreams come true.

French Raspberry Souffles

Anyone who is fond of refrigerator desserts will be delighted to discover the deliciously light raspberry filled cookies imported from France and known as Paille d'Or aux Framboises, (Raspberry Straws). These are marvelous eaten right from the box with tea or coffee, ice cream or fruit, but they also can be used as an ingredient in many desserts. Here we have used these French cookies in a Frozen Raspberry Souffle prepared and served in little ramekins. The filling is sweetened whipped cream and frozen raspberries. The sauce is made with the juice drained from the berries and a little French grenadine syrup.

Frozen Raspberry Souffle

(Makes 6 servings)

- | | |
|---|--|
| 30 raspberry straws (Paille d'Or aux Framboises) | 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen raspberries, thawed |
| 2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream, whipped | $\frac{1}{4}$ cup French grenadine syrup |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ cup confectioners' sugar | 1 tablespoon cornstarch |

Additional sweetened whipped cream and fresh or frozen raspberries

Cut raspberry straws into halves crosswise. Put 9 halves around the outer edge of individual ramekins ($\frac{2}{3}$ cup capacity). Put one-half piece on the bottom of each ramekin. Whip cream with sugar. Drain raspberries and reserve $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of the syrup. Fold in raspberries. Spoon filling into lined ramekins. Freeze until firm. Add grenadine to reserved raspberry syrup. Stir mixture into cornstarch. Cook over low heat stirring constantly until mixture bubbles and thickens. Cool and then chill. Serve sauce with raspberry souffle. Garnish each souffle with a rosette of whipped cream and a raspberry.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Feb. 18 - 25

ARIES [Mar. 21 - Apr. 19] - The love bug is out to get you, so make sure the alliance is what you want, and not just an illusion caused by romantic notions.

TAURUS [Apr. 20 - May 20] - By acting discreetly, you can improve your social and domestic affairs. Next week is time enough to express your opinions.

GEMINI [May 21 - June 21] - Events happening now may not be to your liking so you'll need a philosophical attitude in order to keep striving forward.

CANCER [June 22 - July 22] - Domestic difficulties put a strain on the budget. It may be difficult for you to understand the feelings of others this month.

LEO [July 23 - Aug. 22] - A new feeling of self-assurance brings some success your way but don't spoil it by speaking out of turn. Aries message applies VIRGO [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22] - Care should be taken to avoid accidents. Put your energy to work making new social contacts, especially with the opposite sex.

LIBRA [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22] - Your restlessness could send you off in too many different directions. Concentrated action helps accomplish what you desire.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21] - Expressing your views now could defeat the very thing you are trying to accomplish. Your unsettled feeling makes you prone to mistakes.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21] - You have the opportunity to make the most of your abilities so don't spoil it by temper outbursts or too impulsive action.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19] - Ties of a lasting nature are made and friendships renewed and strengthened. Much of your activity is still in the background.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20 - Feb. 18] - New ventures requiring independent action would go well so turn your thoughts in this direction. Travel or change beneficial.

PISCES [Feb. 19 - Mar. 20] - New responsibilities increase your desire and ability to cope with ordinary duties. Some good fortune can be expected through superiors.

It's In To Be Thin

By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

What's the most exciting thing which has happened to you since you lost your weight?

This was the question which was posed to me last week by a skilled interviewer from Rochester, New York. Obvious as it is, no one had ever thought to ask me, who has changed her entire mien from over-weight matron to a thin, well, reasonably-sized, person this question. I had to stop to think.

My answer came in about fifteen seconds—it was the process of living itself.

No longer is it an effort to drag myself out of bed in the mornings—I hit the floor running, eager to see what each day has to offer me. I am actually thrilled to participate in life instead of being one of the bystanders.

What more of a reward could anyone ask?

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Pineapple Upside Down Dessert

1 20-Ounce Can Sliced Pineapple, [packed in its own juice]

- 1 Package Dietetic Lemon Gelatine
- 2 Cups Fresh or Frozen Rhubarb, Chopped
- $\frac{1}{2}$ Cup Water
- 5 Packages Sweet 'N Low
- 2 Teaspoons Lemon Juice
- 1 Package Dietetic Strawberry Gelatine

Add enough water to reserved pineapple syrup to make $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups liquid. Heat liquid to boiling. Stir in lemon gelatine until it is dissolved. Chill till partly set. Pour $\frac{1}{2}$ cup lemon gelatine in bottom of 6 cup ring mold. Arrange pineapple slices in layer over gelatine. [Optional—Place strawberry in center of each pineapple ring]. Pour remaining lemon gelatine over pineapple. Chill till almost set. In saucepan, combine rhubarb, sweetener, and water. Cover: cook about 7 minutes. Drain rhubarb reserving syrup. Add enough water to rhubarb syrup to make $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups liquid. Heat liquid to boiling. Stir in lemon juice and strawberry gelatine till dissolved. Chill till partially set. Fold in rhubarb. Pour over lemon gelatine in mold. Chill until firm. Recipe contains 3 fruit allowances.

Joseph D'Angelo Receives HNS 'Man Of The Month' Award

Joseph D'Angelo of 418 Sea St., Adams Shore, has received the South Shore District's Holy Name Societies' "Man of the Month" award for "outstanding service in community and church" over the years. D'Angelo, a member of St. Boniface Holy Name Society, is a former Germantown resident. He is married to the former Mary Sullivan, and they have four children and four grandchildren.

A former treasurer and president of St. Boniface Bowling League, he is an usher at the church, has directed whist parties for 15 years, and a worker at the annual field day programs.

An Army veteran of World

War I serving in Germany, D'Angelo is active in the George F. Bryan VFW Post. He is employed by First National Stores in Hingham as a produce manager.

The presentation was made at a recent meeting at St. Boniface Church by Rev. Leo V. Dwyer, South Shore District spiritual director.

Covenant Congregational Installs Mrs. Bruce Babcock Head Councilor

Mrs. Bruce Babcock of Braintree has been installed head councilor of the Naomi Society of Covenant Congregational Church Quincy in ceremonies conducted by Rev. Paul E. Sparrman.

Also installed were Mrs. Howard Bassett and Mrs. Carl Lundgren, councilors; Mrs. Carl Shelley, secretary; Mrs. Mildred Starck, assistant secretary; Mrs. Neil Rockwell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arvid Jacobson, treasurer; Mrs. Warren Hedin, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Lloyd Allen, missions treasurer.

A study committee was appointed to consider unification of the women's organizations of the church, with action in 1972.

"Surround Them With Your Love", a skit directed by Mrs. John Crawford, was presented Sunday at a public service conducted by Mrs. Babcock.

Other activities planned are bake sales, with Mrs. Gladys Bjelf in charge of reservation orders; 56th annual banquet on April 17; business men's luncheon, April 22; 50th anniversary of First District at Forest Hills on May 1; annual meeting of East Coast Conference in Lexington, May 15.

On May 8 a garage sale will be held on the church grounds, and on June 14 there will be an ingathering of "How Did Your Dollar Grow"? A mind-boutique is scheduled for November.

The church kitchen benefited at the last meeting from a "kitchen shower".

A film and talk by Robert J. Almqvist of Almqvist Flowerland, Inc., was the evening's program. Mrs. Lundgren and Mrs. Shelley were hostesses.

Minister Author Youth Week Speaker At Church Of Nazarene

Youth Week Observance at Wollaston Church of the Nazarene will be highlighted by talks beginning tonight by Rev. Millard Reed of Overland Park, Kansas.

Rev. Reed speaks tonight and Friday at 7 p.m.; on Sunday at 11 a.m. worship and at a 7 p.m. service.

The author of a recent book for teenagers, "Take Care, Man" Rev. Reed is a graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, Nazarene Theological Seminary, Eden Seminary and for two years pursued graduate study at the University of Chicago. He has had pastorates in St. Louis, Mo., Kenosha, Wisc., and Overland Park, Kansas.

Following each evening service during the observance which began Tuesday, the "Life House" [teen center] is open for activity. Folk-sings for tomorrow and Saturday nights will feature Scott Skiles and Steve Wienecke from Kansas City, Mo.

The program has been arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zink, teen directors; Charles Caldwell, NYPS president; and Merritt Neilson.

Ash Wednesday Trialog At Bethany Congregational

"Three Views of Lent" will be the subject of a trialog on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 24 at Bethany Congregational Church at 8 p.m. in the chapel.

Rev. John D. Banks, minister, and Rev. Arthur Curtis, assistant minister, with Miss Clarissa Pierce will take part in a discussion exploring the feelings toward Lent of the pietist, the intellectual Christian and the skeptical Christian.

A hymn-sing at 7:45 p.m. will precede the service.

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'I Don't Know'

As I was taking telephone calls on a recent radio show I was going along fine until suddenly a call came from a lady who asked me where she could get information on a specialized course of study. I was caught flat footed. I didn't know. I said, "I don't know."

Later that afternoon I was counseling with a patient who said he had heard the broadcast. Said he, "It was refreshing to hear a professional say... 'I don't know.' I felt better because I respect that man anyway...but I had chided myself that I didn't have a quick answer on the tip of my tongue."

I was thinking about this later and reached several conclusions about saying, "I don't know". The first is that there are fewer and fewer black and white answers. Almost before the ink is dry on new information, newer discoveries make the latter obsolete. Only the fool is cock sure any more.

In the counseling office there's the continual opportunity to tell people what they should do. For example, I see many men who are out of their homes...in relationship with a woman other than their wives and the question comes so often, "What do you think I should do?" The wise counselor tries to think through the dilemma with the man...to ask questions that may help him to see where he's going...his own guilt for hurt he has caused...how he misses his children...has he really done his part to make the marriage work with his wife?...what does love dictate?...help him to recognize that love has many sides. But the counselor can't tell a man what to do. He has to say, "I don't know."

The second conclusion I reached is that often it takes strength of character to say, "I don't know". The insecure person may feel so inadequate that he will try to evade and cover up the fact that he doesn't know. No one can know everything even in his own specialized field. Secure people can admit that they don't know everything.

Our finest mothers and fathers are finding that there are many times when they have to admit that they just don't know what's best for their children. How do you motivate a child who has no interest in school?...in sports?...in music?...in art?...in anything? There are no definite answers. There are probably as many answers as there are children with motivation problems. This we do know...parents who can say "I don't know" when they don't know will probably have more respect from their children than the parents who bluff.

Then...it has occurred to me that husbands and wives who share with each other an "I don't know"...have opportunity for deepening their relationship. Nothing delights a man's ego more than to tell his wife something she doesn't know...and this is one way in which wise wives enhance the relationship between themselves and their husbands...to listen. The same thing applies to the man who listens to his wife tell him something he doesn't know. It doesn't have to be profound knowledge...the daily human interest things that have happened while they are apart during the day give opportunity for sharing conversation. One couple I know refuse to install a dishwasher in the kitchen...instead he dries the dishes while she washes...this is their "talk time"...time when they tell each other "what they don't know."

In this connection...I am amazed at how little some women know about the husband's work...how little some men know about the family budget...how little some men know about how the children are doing in school...how little some husbands and wives know about the feelings and thoughts of each other. Unless there is some kind of hanky-panky going on, these are matters which may better be shared.

If you don't know...why don't you know? Why don't you find out? Aren't these things your business to know? One way of evading responsibility in the marriage relationship is to fall back on, "I don't know."

Quincy May Have New Emergency Phone Number 9-1-1 By August

Telephone number 9-1-1, universal emergency number, may be installed in Quincy by August, the New England Telephone Company has informed Mayor James R. McIntyre.

This number, easily remembered by both adults and children, when in use will reach a central answering point within the city where a trained operator will connect the call to the proper department.

The 9-1-1 will not replace the present police or fire telephone numbers at this point, Mayor McIntyre pointed out, but will augment present methods of calling for aid.

When 9-1-1 comes into being, emergency aid by various city departments will be provided in the same efficient manner as is being done presently, he says.

The Emergency Telephone 9-1-1 committee includes, with the Mayor, John E. Schmock, superintendent of fire alarm and general city coordinator of 9-1-1, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Lt. Frank Vallier and Lt. Paul Nestor of the Quincy Police Department.

Gale Harrison To Direct N.E. Music Festival Chorus

Gale Harrison, choral director at Quincy High School, as vice president and chorus manager of the New England Music Festival Association will direct the chorus at the March 25-27 festival at Nashua, N.H.

The chorus consists of 240 students chosen from some 50 New England High Schools who will present public concerts March 27 at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Included in the chorus are 12 Quincy High School students, and nine from North Quincy, along with about eight instrumentalists from each school who will perform in band or orchestra.

Mrs. Harrison, a Quincy native and graduate of Quincy High School, received her degree from Boston University and taught in its School of Education for 10 years before becoming music teacher and choral director at Quincy High School.

Mrs. Harrison is also Massachusetts Chairman of the American Choral Directors Association and will attend a March 4-6 national convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Active in the Massachusetts Music Educators Association, she has been an adjudicator for all-state competitions here as well as in New Hampshire.

Mrs. Harrison is organist-director at First Parish Church, Unitarian-Universalist, in Quincy, and accompanist for Masterworks Choral, formerly the Lexington Choral Society.

Theodore DeCristofaro Named To Park-Recreation Board

Theodore P. DeCristofaro of 17 Murdock Ave., Quincy Point, has been appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre to a one-year term as a member of the Park and Recreation Board.

He fills the unexpired term of J. Ernest Collins who died Jan. 25.

A lifelong Quincy resident and 1941 graduate of Quincy High School, DeCristofaro served in the Navy during World War II. He is a past president and chairman of the board of directors of the Ward 2 Civic Association, past president of the Quincy High School Boosters Club.

Active in Farm League Baseball in Quincy, he is assistant athletic director of Quincy Point Congregational Church and coach of the basketball team.

DeCristofaro is married to the former Ruth E. Petzoldt of Quincy and father of four children, Theodore, Jr., 22 years; Ruth, 20 years; Richard 18 and Donald, 10. He is a maintenance man for the U. S. Department of the Interior, National Park Service, at the Adams National Historic Site in Quincy.

Inquire About SS

"Don't wait until you retire to inquire about your social security and the proofs you will need."

This is the advice of Frank Cuklin, district manager of the Quincy Social Security Office, has for local residents.

Persons filing for monthly social security benefits must submit proof of their age. If this is not readily available, processing of a claim may be delayed.

A birth certificate or a baptismal certificate issued at or near the time of birth is best proof.

However, if this is not available, one of the sources for individuals born in this country is a school record.

The type of proof available to a person will vary depending upon where and when he was born. The Quincy office has a list of possible proofs which can be used and which may help. Information may be secured from the Social Security Administration, 1431 Hancock St., Quincy.

Don't Let This Happen To Our Town!

THE FUTURE LOOKS PRETTY GRIM, DOESN'T IT? CERTAINLY AIR POLLUTION IS ALREADY A PART OF OUR LIVES AND AS TIME GOES ON, WILL BE INCREASING RATHER THAN DECREASING. THIS DOESN'T NECESSARILY MEAN THAT WE HAVE NO CHOICE BUT TO FOLD OUR ARMS AND WAIT FOR THE END TO COME. ON THE CONTRARY, NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT, TO PREVENT SUCH A TRAGEDY FROM OCCURRING.

LET'S TAKE A GOOD LOOK AT WHAT'S HAPPENING TO OUR ENVIRONMENT AND FIND OUT HOW WE AS INDIVIDUALS OR AS GROUPS CAN HELP TO PUT THE BRAKES ON - BY TAKING POSITIVE ACTION TOWARDS RESTORING THE BALANCE BETWEEN TECHNOLOGY AND NATURE. Raiders Must Get By Quincy For Tech

Despite a tough overtime loss to undefeated Somerville last week while playing probably its finest game of the year, North Quincy's basketball team still has a chance to make the Tech Tourney for the fifth time in the past six years.

However, the Raiders' hopes could be ended Friday night when they travel south to Quincy for their second meeting with the Presidents. Quincy, which lost its chance to make the Tech last week, upset the Raiders on the North court and would like nothing better than to knock them out of the Tech.

North, idle last Tuesday, faces two more tarts following Quincy. It hosts Weymouth North Tuesday and goes to Brookline on the 26th. Both are Suburban League powers.

When Somerville's powerhouse edged North, 69-64, in a thrilling overtime game, it meant the Raiders had to win its last four games to make Tech.

They won the first of these last week, a 60-41 breeze over Malden.

"I look for our seniors to carry us by Quincy and even the score with them," Coach Bob Nolan said. "They have carried us so far this year."

Nolan felt that, despite the approaching pressure-packed game at Quincy, his players were not looking past Malden.

"We worked hard in practice the day before the game and they were ready to play Malden," he said. "I'm impressed with the way they attacked them. Malden has a hot and cold team which can hurt you with good shooting. They lost to Somerville by only three points, so can be tough."

North took a 12-6 first period lead as 6-7 Tom Cairns scored six points. It increased its margin to 19-8 in the second period with Dave Nelson leading an effective full-court press. Playing the last three periods, Nelson scored 19 points, high for the night, and North led by a 29-16 score at the half.

Nolan used every one and 10 players joined in the scoring. Cairns finished with 13 points and rebounded well.

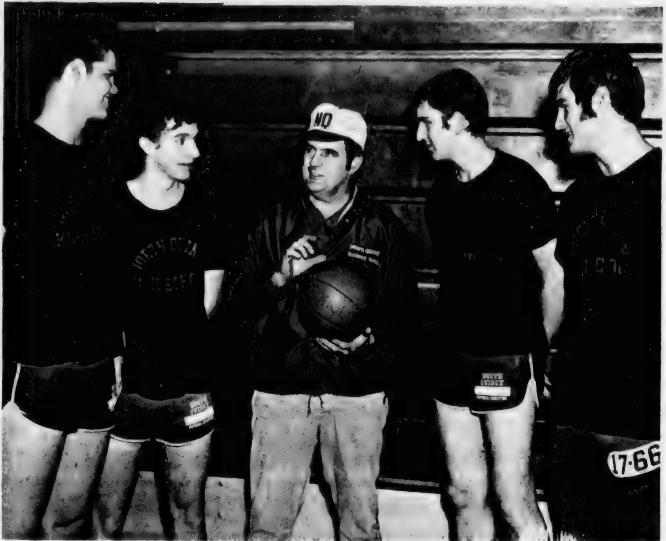

"We had only six turnovers while Malden had 24 and that certainly made a big difference," Nolan went on. "Dan Zink had a couple of important hoops for us, while Brian Donahue did a great job on defense. Bob Flaherty also defended well."

Joe Amorosino's North junior varsity breezed, 74-33, to make its record 10-3. Ken Marsters had 14 points, Pete Bellotti 13 and Jamie Doherty 11.

The Somerville game was one of the best of the season with the unbeaten Highlanders, who have qualified for Tech for the 30th time, leading most of the way but never by much.

Zink sent the North fans into a frenzy when he hit from the side with just four seconds left to tie the game at 59-59 and send it into overtime.

North was beaten by little Mike Fahey, one of the finest ball-handlers and scorers in schoolboy ball. He played a dazzling game throughout and was brilliant in the extra period. He scored 34 points, 12 from the foul line as the only way the North players could get the ball away from him was to foul him.

NORTH QUINCY basketball coach Bob Nolan talks things over with four of his Raiders, Jim Driscoll, Chet Walker, Jeff Sheehan and Leo Papile.

"Our boys played such an exceptional game. I'm very proud of every one of them," Nolan said. "Those two quick baskets by Somerville in overtime [Fahey and Frank DiLiegro, who had 21 points], killed us.

The Raiders hustled throughout the game, continually stealing the ball and blocking Somerville shots and it was a real toughie to lose.

Cairns, despite close coverage all night long, scored 19 points, followed by Donahue with 13. Ken Baker with 11 and Nelson with 10.

The North Jayvees also lost to their undefeated Somerville counterparts, 64-57. At one time the Raiders trailed by 17 points. Bellotti had 16 points and Marsters 13.

Presidents Hope To Veto North's Bid

Quincy High's basketball team lost out in its bid for a Tech Tourney berth in the most heartbreaking fashion last week and Friday night the Presidents can knock cross-town rival North Quincy out of the tourney when the teams collide at the Quincy gym.

The Presidents, who were idle Tuesday, are also off next Tuesday and their last remaining game will be at Weymouth South Feb. 26.

Quincy, which had to win its last seven games to qualify for the Tech for the first time in several years, won three of them but dropped an 82-81 squeaker last week to Revere to end its hopes.

Marty Finnegan's Presidents bounced back to jolt Chelsea, 91-71, as nine of the 13 players scored.

"It was evident that the team was down after that tough Revere loss and we didn't play well in the first period," Finnegan said. "But they began to click in the second period and did a good job the rest of the way."

The Quincy starters ran into early foul trouble but the reserves came off the bench to keep the team ahead of the Red Devils.

John Reggiannini, little sophomore playmaker, scored 22 points and Bobby McDermott had 19. Joe Goguen contributed 13 points. Although held to nine points, well below his season's average, Bob Pike set up many baskets and starred off the boards.

"Although we lost out on the Tech, we still want to finish with a good record after three losing seasons in a row," Finnegan said. "Wins in our last two games will give us an 11-6 record and we are gunning for that."

At Revere, which incidentally later in the week qualified for the Tech for the first time since 1954, the Presidents made a strong comeback after a slow start and lost the big game at the foul line in the final period.

Quincy fell behind, 22-14, in the first period but fought back and took a 65-63 lead in the final period. The game was see-saw the rest of the way with the Patriots winning by hitting on six of seven foul shots while the Presidents were only three for eight.

"We are very proud of these boys," Finnegan said. "They gave everything they had but we had too many turnovers early in the game and had to play catchup."

Pike had another good night with 25 points, his average for the year, and rebounded well again as he grabbed 26, while Bill Mayer took down 23 rebounds. McDermott led the fast break and scored 18 points, while Rick Raymond and Reggiannini played fine games as did Mike Donoghue when he came off the bench. Reggiannini had 12 points and Donoghue 10.

St. John's Boys Baseball Registration On Feb. 28

Registration for St. John's Boys Baseball League will be held in the Parish Hall Feb. 28 and March 7 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. All boys who plan to play in the league this year must register on either of those days.

All boys living in the parish who are between the ages of 8 and 12 are eligible to join the league. Each boy signing up to play must pay a registration fee of $2.

Registrants for the CYO Cadet team will also sign up on the same days during the same hours. Candidates for the Cadet team must be under 14 years of age as of Jan. 1 of this year.

Last year almost 300 boys of the parish participated in the league. There were 10 teams comprising the American and National divisions, four teams in the Farm League and 20 boys on the Cadet team. The CYO league rules restrict cadet teams to 20 players.

There is an urgent need for coaches, assistants, managers, umpires, men to assist in transporting the Cadet team to away games, and others to assist in this youth project. Any interested young adult or men of the parish are invited to sign up on the dates of registration.

Quincy, North Girls Playing Pretty Ball

Girls' basketball is still pretty much in the formative stage at Quincy and North Quincy High schools, but the teams have been improving and have played exciting ball.

Quincy, in its third year of the sport, finished up last week with a 4-5 record, as it lost its finale to strong Hingham, 52-44. Two of the wins were over arch rival North Quincy, the latest a 35-19 romp two weeks ago before a good crowd at the North gym. The other wins were over Medford and Chelsea.

"The girls played good ball and most of the teams they faced have had teams longer than Quincy," Coach Gale Palmer said. "One of our losses was by only two points to Chelsea and Medford beat us by nine."

Quincy's varsity squad was headed by Co-captains Karen Fruzzetti and Donna Guidici, both seniors. Other varsity players are Seniors Lois MacLean, who scored 16 points against North, Doreen Goguen and Gail Carella, Juniors Nancy Cappadonna and Kathy Glennon and Sophomores Debbie Spilane and Debbie Congdon. Miss Fruzzetti scored 23 points against Hingham, the second year in a row she scored 23 in her final game.

Senior Debbie Brow and Sophomore Jean Mocchi were co-captains of the junior varsity squad, which had a 5-4 record, also defeating North twice.

Others are senior Sheena Giggey and sophomores Cathy Ilacqua, Barbara Glennon, Sue Tosches, Betsey Witt and Sara Kane.

Although Marge Bollen's North Quincy girls, in only their second season, are winless against schoolgirl competition [they defeated a local church team], she is not too unhappy.

"We have a real young team and these kids are the nicest any coach could ask for," she said. "We'll have a winning team here before too long. The sport is new and the teams we face are much more experienced. We still have a real space problem here and don't get too much chance to practice."

North has one game remaining, playing at Thayer Academy on Feb. 26.

North JV Hoop Team Enjoying Banner Year

The North Quincy junior varsity basketball team is enjoying another banner year under Coach Joe Amoroso, who has piloted the Raiders to a 10-3 record with only two losses to undefeated Somerville and a one-point decision to Medford.

With the exception of Jim Driscoll, a 6-5 junior, all the jayvee players are sophomores. "Driscoll supplies the team with needed rebound strength due to our lack of overall team size," Amoroso said.

Pete Bellotti and Ken Marsters, 5-9 guards, have developed into steady performers, both averaging in double figures and they have been the key in making the defenses work.

Jamie Doherty, 6-1 forward, is also averaging in double figures and has a game high of 27 points.

Peter Quinn, a strong 6-1 center, has been a work horse both on defense and offense and has scored some timely baskets.

John Stevens, 5-11, is the other starting forward, has been very steady and has done an outstanding rebounding job on the offensive board.

Dave Barry has been the team's swingman at 5-9, playing both forward and guard.

Bill Bradley has improved steadily through the season and has given the club added strength in the back court.

Other players include Don Small, 5-9, who has done a more than adequate job at forward; Bill Shea, a real hustler at guard; Gordie Wetmore, a fine backup center, who will be heard from in the future; Bernie Holleran, forward; Mike Conroy, forward, and John Orlando, guard.

"These boys exemplify the true meaning of dedication to a sport," the successful coach said. "As a team they have given away size all season to their opponents and have made it up with 100 percent desire and hustle."

North Meets Medford

Quincy Icemen Clinch Tourney Berth

Quincy's hockey team, undefeated in its last 11 games, is in the Eastern Mass. Tourney for the fourth time in the past five years and its objective now is its first Greater Boston League championship.

The Presidents, leading the league by one point over Medford, has two tough opponents remaining. They face Malden at 12:30 p.m. Friday afternoon at Boston Arena and wind up against Revere at 7:50 p.m. Monday night at the Weymouth Skating Club. These teams are tied for third place.

North Quincy meets Medford in the second game Friday at the Arena and finishes up against Somerville at 7:30 Monday at Weymouth.

Quincy clinched its tourney berth Monday night with a 5-3 win over Somerville as Ed Weidemann scored three goals.

"This was one of our objectives and now we want to win this league," Coach Bob Sylvia said. "We have two real tough teams coming up but the way our boys have been playing, I think we can do it."

The Presidents exploded for four second period goals but Somerville cut the gap to 4-3 in the final session before Steve Cedrone scored an insurance goal.

Weidemann put Quincy in front with his first goal in the middle period as Cedrone and Al Colby had assists. Bobby Cattaneo scored unassisted, Weidemann scored his second and then added his third which proved to be the winner as Cedrone and Steve Kleimola assisted on both.

Cedrone capped a fine night's work with his third period goal with Kleimola assisting.

Ron Erikson's North Quincy team, which has been playing in tough luck, dropped a 4-1 decision to Revere. Bobby Golden saved the Raiders from a shutout with an unassisted goal in the third period.

Last week Quincy broke a first place tie and moved into the top spot with a 7-1 breeze over Chelsea while Medford was being held to a 2-2 tie by Revere.

Seven different players scored for the Presidents. In the first period it was John Prescott with assists for Bobby Cattaneo and Paul Campbell and Cattaneo with an assist by Colby.

In the second period Jim Cattaneo scored with an assist by Kleimola, Weidemann made it 4-1 with Kleimola assisting, and Campbell scored with Prescott assisting.

In the finale Colby scored with Bobby Cattaneo assisting and Dom Burke finished up the scoring with Steve Bergonzi having an assist.

"This was a good workout for us and it proved our fine balance," Sylvia said. "Everyone was skating well and Artie Boyle, as usual, was outstanding in goal."

North dropped a 5-3 decision to Everett and Erikson blamed the Raiders' mistakes.

"We made some bad passes and some really bad mistakes that gave them an early lead," he said. "We had our chances but just couldn't put the puck in the net. We could have won it but Everett just wanted the game more and it showed."

Everett jumped to a 4-1 first period lead and North never could catch up. Steve MacKay scored for the Raiders in the first period with Steve Leofanti assisting. In the second period MacKay again scored on passes from Leofanti and Vin Cameron, and Nick Struzik scored the final goal with Tom O'Malley setting it up.

UCT Paces Pee-Wees

Davis Upsets Farina In Bantam Hockey

Quincy Youth Hockey at Weymouth found the Bantam's low team, Davis Insurance, defeating champion Farina Kitchens 5-2, while United Commercial Travelers solidified its top standing in the Pee Wees with a 7-1 victory over Keohane.

Goals for Davis were by Mike McAuley, 3; Frankie Guest and Paul Jackmauth, with assists by Rick Avery, Paul Jackmauth, 2, Billy Donovan and Joe Peters. Tom Cattaneo and Steve Paglierani scored for Farina.

Sweeney's Funeral and Cox Rambler had a tie score of two each. Sweeney's goals were by Rob Henderson, unassisted, and John Ahola with assists by John Ryan and Rob Henderson. Walter Conley and James Kennedy scored for Cox; James Cooney and Nick Cyr were credited with assists.

U.C.T.'s seven goals were run up by Paul Messina, 3; John Butts, Brian Jolley, John Norton and John Mitchell, with assists by Paul Messina and John Mitchell, 2 each; John Butts, John Norton, Bobby Hayes and Rick Carnali. John Chivorali scored for Kane, with an assist by Jack McHugh.

Maguire's Lounge and Wollaston Theatre had a tie score of 1 each, with Frank McGinnis, assisted by Jim Maibach, scoring for Maguire's.

Rich Meehan accounted for Wollaston's score.

Also tied with two goals each were Crestview and Morrisette. Jim Mossesso and Paul Connolly, with assists by Dave Perdius and Steve Clinton, scored for Crestview. Joe McConville, and Paul Higgins, unassisted, scored for Morrisette; Paul Radzik had an assist.

Davis defeated Hannon 4-1. Goals for Davis were by Paul Lindenfelzer, 2; Ed Santry and David Mitchell, assisted by Dave Peters, Frank Lapierre and Rich Lapierre. Stevie Cronin scored for Hannon, with assists by Gerry Cronin and Brian Bertoni.

Breaking Club Records

ENC Enroute To NAIA Tourney Bid

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team—especially Ron Bradley—continues to set all school scoring records, and proceeding toward a hoped-for NAIA Tourney invitation.

Tuesday the Crusaders sought their 10th straight win and 17th in 21 games with and Curry. Saturday ENC hosts King's at North Quincy at 8:15 and Tuesday will play Southeastern Mass. U. at New Bedford, at 8 p.m.

When the Crusaders topped Babson, 119-105, last week, Bradley broke the school's scoring record for the third time as he exploded for his career high, 47 points. He had previously scored 45 and 46 points for new school marks.

"Ron hasn't been getting enough praise from me," Coach Jim Smith admitted. "He has put together some fantastic games for us. He is still the man who controls the game for us and the team pretty much centers around him. I don't really know what we'd do without him because I don't dare take him out. And he is a pretty good defensive player."

Trailing Bradley, a former North Quincy High ace, against Babson was Freshman Clarke Adams with 31 points. Don Eads, right behind Bradley in club scoring, had 19 and North Quincy's Steve Shoff 11.

ENC had only a 56-54 edge at the half but outscored Babson, a real tough team with plenty of muscle, according to Smith, 63-51, in the second half.

Babson had won six of its seven previous games.

In addition to his 47 points, which included 20 of 28 from the floor and seven from nine from the foul line, Bradley had 12 rebounds and six assists.

Earlier in the week Eastern Nazarene had defeated Nassau, 105-92, as Bradley scored 23 points and again rebounded well. Eads and Adams led the scoring with 29 apiece and Shoff, improving every game, added 10.

Another former North Quincy High star, Don Constantine, has been one of the Crusaders' most consistent performers and greatest hustlers and has started every game.

Don, at 6-2 and 170 pounds is averaging only 10 points a game but because of his constant hustle he is starting while bigger men with more impressive scoring figures sit on the bench.

"He is starting because he is a real hustler," Smith said. "We like to press on defense and he does a good job pressing and we like to run on offense and he's got real good speed."

According to the coach, his biggest asset is his unselfishness. "He works hard in practice and in the games and he works on things which help the team, not things that necessarily help him," Smith added. "At first I worried about him not being a shooter, but we have three good outside shooters in Bradley, Eads and Adams so Don doesn't really need an outside shot. He has good moves underneath and drives and gets his shot away underneath as well as anybody on the team and he also jumps well. He's also the best tap-in man we have and seems to get one or two key tap-ins every game."

Don is playing the same role he played for Bob Nolan at North Quincy High. He started for two years and was co-captain of the Raiders in his senior year two years ago. He was never a big scorer for North but was a valuable man.

"Don was an exceptional high school player and I knew he would make the grade in college," Nolan said. "I never had a boy who hustled more all the time."

O.S.M. Rolls 1,672 Pin High In Men's Tourney

In the quarter-finals of the 18th annual Greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney at Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Sunday, O.S.M. bowled high for the day in defeating St. John's Holy Name 1672-1496.

Sawyer-Campbell ousted Quincy Church League 1668-1650, and Quincy Merchants edged Federal Auto Body 1622-1621.

O.S.M. took all three strings in their 176 pin lopsided victory over St. John's Holy Name, with all five of the O.S.M. team topping the 300 mark. Tom Yerkes led with 354, followed by Pete Mastroianni 344, Bill Landry 331, Arne Martinson 327 and Vic Craig 316. Dick Diramio with 318 was high for St. John's.

Sawyer-Campbell took the first two strings from Quincy Church League, leading by 97 pins. Church League in the third string rolled 596 high team single for the day to Sawyer-Campbell's 517, but still lacked 18 pins for a win.

Sawyer-Campbell's Bob Farrell led the way with a 353, including an opening 140 that proved high for the afternoon; John Gardner had 345; Dick Peterson 342; Gary Smith 315 and Joe Kenney 313. Quincy Church was led by Dick Collins' 355; Henry Johnson 344; Steve Miller 321; Dick Bates, 320 and Bill Collins 310.

In one of the closest finishes in Tourney history, Quincy Merchants won by one pin over Federal Auto Body. Leo Depolo's 364 led the Merchants, followed by Bob Hurst 349. Frank Anderson's 340 was high for Federal Auto Body followed by Gary Collins 336, Larry Bryan 334 and Vic Tricomi 327.

The Tourney, sponsored annually by the Koch Club as part of its winter athletic program, enters the semi-finals Sunday at 1 p.m. at Merrymount Daylight Alleys with four of the original 26 teams remaining.

Qualifying for the championship match Feb. 28 are defending champions Lums Colonial, Quincy Merchants, O.S.M. and Sawyer-Campbell.

On Feb. 28 Richard J. Koch, Tourney director, will present a check for $100 and a team trophy to the championship team.

Golf, Yoga Classes Added At Quincy YMCA

Two new golf instruction classes and a new yoga course, each to run for eight weeks, are being added to the Quincy YMCA program.

The golf courses, taught by James Gaffney, begin Feb. 23 from 1 to 2 p.m., and Feb. 24 from 7 to 8 p.m. Classes are limited.

Yoga classes begin March 3 at 9:30 to 10:30 and 10:45 to 11:45 a.m., with Mrs. Berta Noto as instructor.

Nursery service is available and classes are limited.

Further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 479-8500.

John Baiorunos Wins Ted Lyons Trophy

Boston College High School's John Baiorunos, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Baiorunos of 69 Andrews Rd., Wollaston, will receive the Ted Lyons Memorial Trophy Saturday at Tallino's Restaurant, Chestnut Hill.

The trophy is emblematic of the "lineman of the year" in the Boston Conference. Baiorunos was selected by the Boston Coaches Association. A Boston College High School student coached by Jim Cotter he is the 14th recipient of the award.

Hayes Paces Team To Top In Koch Club's Bowling Loop

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League has finished the first half of its season with Tom Hayes leading his first place team with a 108.7 average.

Hayes, who is captain, was assisted in victory by Fred Bettuchi, Jim Jordan, Rich Bolster and Joe Marcin.

Al Mancuso leads the League with a 112.5 average, followed by Hayes 108.7; Joe Derringer

108.7, Bettuchi 107.6, John O'Malley 106.9, Bob MacDougall 106.1, Jim Moody 106, Don Prescott 105.2, Bert Christina 104.7 and Norm Greenfield 104.3.

Mancuso holds the high three string total of 407, and Dick Koch has high single to date with 168.

Ed Zukowski's team with 1,604 hold high team three, while Mancuso's squad with 597 has high team single.

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League, one of the oldest activities of the Club, is in its 21st season. Formed in 1950 with 30 bowlers, the League today has 50.

The Koch Club this year has 11 bowling leagues with 700 bowlers.

Women's Candlepin Tourney Opens Sunday

The 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney begins Sunday at 1 p.m. at Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy.

Sunday's teams in competition include the defending champion Queen Pins, Pin Ups, Women's Merchants, Hi Nooners, Union Cong, Parkettes, Class Lassies, Coffee Royals, Rag Dolls, Keglerettes, Bowling Bugs and the host Koch Club

Women.

Remaining entries will bowl Feb. 28.

The championship team will receive a $50 cash prize. Individual trophies will be presented to the winning team, and for high tourney average, high three string total and high single.

NEW CHRISTIAN - Mrs. Joseph Shea with daughter, Amy Elizabeth, at new rite of Baptism held for the first time at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

CELEBRATION OF THE SACRAMENT - Godparents join parents at altar as Rev. John J. McMahon blesses the water to be used at the baptism and requests that parents renounce sin and profess their faith.

(Quincy Sun Photos by Don Newell)

PARENTS LISTEN to readings from the Scripture and a homily for better understanding of the sacrament of Baptism and the obligations which parents have in Christian education of their children. From left are: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Verrochi and daughter, Michele, of 24 Grogan Ave.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shea and daughter, Amy Elizabeth, of 95 White St.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard McNeil and son, Todd Carl, of 145 Willard St.; and Mr. and Mrs. David Gardner and son, David Dennis, of 44 Grossman St. Children, named by their parents, are welcomed into the Community of the Church.

ANOINTING BEFORE BAPTISM - Mrs. Robert Verrochi observes daughter Michele anointed with oil by Rev. John J. McMahon, as a sign of strength, with Rev. Ronald J. Gariboldi looking on.

READING OF GOD'S WORD - Rev. Joseph F. Beaudoin, Rev. John J. Gariboldi and Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor, assist in reading of the Scriptures, attended by choir boys.

COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION - Since the children are received into the Christian Community, relatives, friends and interested parishioners are invited to the ceremony.

THE RECESSIONAL - To the accompaniment of a hymn of thanksgiving, led by altar boys and priest, families and friends of the newly baptized children leave the church.

'Buddy' System To Help Orient Sixth Graders

The Army's "Buddy System" will be a part of this year's new orientation plans at Atlantic Junior High School to acquaint sixth grade pupils with their seventh grade program.

For more than 10 years, Atlantic has participated in the annual visiting day sponsored by the Quincy schools' guidance department when every sixth grade pupil in Quincy on one day in May visited the junior high he would attend as a seventh grader.

This year each sixth grade pupil will be paired with a seventh grade "buddy" for a full day at the junior high school. Together they will follow the regular daily seventh grade schedule, with the sixth grade "recruit" being an observer and a participant, when possible.

At the end of the day, the entire sixth grade regiment will meet informally with commanding officer Richard K. Chrystal, Atlantic's principal; Stephen J. Del Rosso, head counselor, and with a group of seventh grade students to provide opportunities for questions and answers.

Before the close of schools in June, 14 groups of sixth graders from six elementary schools in the Atlantic area will be scheduled for indoctrination.

Preliminary to the visit, Miss Louise B. Forsyth, headquarters guidance staff member, will visit each elementary school to present a program for sixth graders. "What is a Junior High School?"

Working with Mr. Chrystal, Mr. Del Rosso and Miss Forsyth in the 1971 changeover are elementary school principals: Miss Doris Cummings, Francis W. Parker School; Frank D'Andrea, Myles Standish School; Leon Gould, Montclair School; Miss Ruth Haggerty, Squantum School; Mrs. Isabelle Mann, Quincy School; and Miss Merle Sawyer, Massachusetts Fields School.

Councillor at 85 Sea St., Steve will take eight weeks of basic training at Fort Dix, N.J., and then go to one of the many Army Security Agency schools at Fort Devens, Mass.

Zakrewski Enlists In Army

Stephen J. Zakrewski, son of Mrs. Stephani Zakrewski of 26 Ruthven St., North Quincy, has enlisted in the Army for the Army Security Agency.

200 Volunteers Expected For Bloodmobile

Some 200 volunteers are expected to contribute to the Red Cross Bloodmobile Friday when it visits the Quincy Legion Post Home from 12:15 noon to 6 p.m., adjacent to Hancock Parking area.

Post Blood Donor chairman Philip Angelis is in charge of completing arrangements for the visit, the first sponsored by the Post.

Persons in good health, from 18 to 65 years of age, may donate whether or not they are affiliated with the American Legion.

Richard Meade Appointed To Rink Committee

Richard H. Meade of 31 Greene St., Wollaston, has been appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre to serve on the Ice Skating Rink Investigating Committee.

Carl Leone, Jr. director of Quincy School athletics is chairman.

The committee, after rejection of the Merrymount Park site by the Faxon family, is continuing its inquiries into the possibility and location of an ice skating rink to be operated by the City of Quincy on a self-amortizing basis.

Couples Club

To Hold Calumet Rally

A Camp Calumet Rally for members and friends of Salem Lutheran Church will take place Friday at 8 p.m. sponsored by the Couples Club.

Don Johnson, Camp Director, and several camp counsellors will present a program. There will be open discussion on future plans for Calumet.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Some 1,400 Quincy families are gambling daily with tragedy or financial loss. And, probably don't realize it.

City Wire Inspector William Pitts estimates there are 1,400 homes inadequately wired for the proper use of modern electrical appliances.

Each year his department whittles away at the number. Last year there were 2,000 such homes.

But 1,400 are still inviting a fire.

TRIBUTE: The town of Randolph pays a nice little tribute to Sen. James McIntyre by dedicating its 1970 town report to him. McIntyre represented Randolph on Beacon Hill [along with Quincy and Braintree] until redistricting put Randolph in another area and replaced it with Holbrook.

The dedication message, says in part, that McIntyre "was always available for counsel and advice and represented the citizens of the town with devotion, integrity and ability."

★★★

MELE-314: Sounds like Sam Mele's batting average when he was playing for the Red Sox. But it's not. The 314 belongs to pretty wife, Connie, her three-string total of the High Nooners defeated the Women Merchants in the opening round of the South Shore Women's Candlepin Tourney.

WENT to see "Gone With The Wind" the other night at the Wollaston Theatre. And it wasn't long before I realized that I'm a lot older than when I first saw it in 1939.

As Clark Gable made his first appearance on camera at the foot of the stairway, looking handsome and dashing, a murmur of instant recognition and nostalgia swept through the audience. But a couple rows back, a teen-age girl asked out loud: "Who's that?"

★★★

SPEAKING of movies, ever listen to the way some people eat popcorn? Sounds like they haven't had a meal in days. Wonder how many former movie fans are former because of having popcorn chewed behind their ear?

★★★

HERE'S ONE: Atlantic United Methodist Church puts it on the line in this reminder to parishioners about collections. Called, "Our Church Needs No Money", it follows:

"We have discovered a way for a church to function without money. Will you cooperate?"

"Each member will come to church during the week with a broom and mop to keep his part of the building presentable. Then a paid janitor will not be necessary.

"Each member will take his turn playing the organ and directing the choir. No organist or choir director will be needed.

"Each member will bring materials and tools to repair and remodel the building. Here we can really save money.

"Each one must agree to spend at least a year as a missionary at his own expense on some foreign field. This will dispense with missionary offerings.

"Each member will go to school for the required years and fulfill all the qualifications to become a pastor. Then he will take his turn preaching, leading the service, conducting the funerals, performing marriages, calling on members and prospects, visiting the sick, and guiding the administration of the church. This will save the expense of a pastor.

"Each member will spend some time working in the church office. And, of course, each member will bring his own hymn book and a candle to light the building for the evening meetings.

"Isn't it a great idea? A new day is dawning for our church! Would you really want it this way?"

If not, give God 10 per cent of your income, and the church can operate in the scriptural manner.

But actually - your church needs no money! You are the one who uses the heat, light, water, and music; you are the one who calls on the pastor when you are in need; you enjoy the services of the janitor and the office staff. You are the one commanded to go to the ends of the world to bring the gospel to every creature. Your missionaries go for you.

"So, which will it be? The weekly candles and mops, or the weekly envelope containing the tithe?"

★★★

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "The future is that time when you'll wish you'd done what you aren't doing now."

★★★

MODERN TIMES: A young fellow and a girl strolling along Hancock St. in the downtown area. She had a paper bag and pulled out a wig to show him.

"It's really nice," he said. "It's just perfect. I can wear it, too."

The $2.4 million Rev. Victor V. Sawyer Towers at 95 Martensen St., state-aided housing facility for the elderly will be dedicated Sunday at 3 p.m. Quincy's first state-aided high rise apartment building for senior citizens has 150 units in its 10 stories. All units are already occupied.

The Quincy Housing Authority has its offices in four rooms on the first floor. There is a community room, and a community kitchen where a city-wide lunch program for the elderly conducted under the Quincy Council on Aging will get underway shortly.

Rev. Peter V. Corea, Quincy Housing Authority chairman, will be master of ceremonies for the dedication. Taking part will be Mayor James R. Mc-Intyre, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Leon Chalkoudian, Commissioner of the Department of Community Affairs; William Richardson, Deputy Commissioner in charge of housing, and Clement A. O'Brien executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority.

Applications for housing for the elderly continue to pile up at the rate of about 10 a week, Mr. O'Brien told the Quincy Sun.

"It is a continuing thing," he said. "I don't know that we will ever reach the millennium where we can take care of everyone, but if we have our projected programs carried out - one in Wollaston, North Quincy and West Quincy, we can take care of most deserving cases and the most deserving hardship cases."

Head Counting Time

City Census Begins On Monday

The City Census begins in Quincy March 1.

Every home in the city will be visited by census takers according to the office of City Clerk John M. Gillis.

Every resident 17 years of age and older must be listed, including those persons not actually living on the premises, such as students and military personnel.

In addition, each census taker will request the names of all residents of every age in the household. This information is for the State census and is required by law this year.

Census takers, both male and female, will carry proper identification.

The only information required is the name, age and occupation of each resident, and the previous address of any new resident.

In the event there is no one at home, the census taker will leave blank cards that must be filled out and returned to the Election Department at City Hall.

This census is required by law.

Survival Information Night

At Furnace Brook School

Survival Information Night will be held at Furnace Brook School tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m.

All women's groups in the Quincy area have been invited by Survival Inc. directors to attend. All interested citizens are welcome.

A progress report of Survival's activities in drug rehabilitation to date and a preview of the future will be given by Dr. Charles Djerf, President of Survival Inc.; Dr. Ronald Rosso, coordinator; and Joseph Whiteman, chairman of the finance committee.

NOTICE

to residents of the City of Quincy

THE ANNUAL LISTING OF ALL RESIDENTS OF THE CITY, SEVENTEEN YEARS OF AGE AND OVER WILL BE TAKEN STARTING MARCH 1, 1971.

AT THE SAME TIME A LISTING OF ALL RESIDENTS, REGARDLESS OF AGE, WILL BE TAKEN FOR THE STATE CENSUS.

CENSUS TAKERS WILL CARRY PROPER IDENTIFICATION.

THIS CENSUS IS REQUIRED BY LAW.

Two From Quincy In DAV Tribute

"DAV In Congress: A Tribute to Quiet Courage" will be noted March 3 by Congress during the group's observance of its 50th anniversary.

The tribute will be given during the mid-winter conference of Disabled American Veterans to be held Sunday through March 4.

Joseph R. Harold of Quincy, State Adjutant, and George McHugh, DAV member from Quincy, are among the main group of DAV members leaving Sunday by Eastern Airlines for the conference.

NEWSBOYS WANTED

Here's a chance to earn extra money by building a Quincy Sun home delivery route. Telephone: 471-3100

ENGAGEMENT—The engagement of Miss Regina Brennan of 43 Faxon Rd., North Quincy, to Daniel E. Griffin is announced. He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Griffin of 134 Hobart St., Wollaston, and the late Daniel Griffin. Miss Brennan graduated from North Quincy High School and Bridgewater State College, Magna Cum Laude, and is completing her master's program at Boston College. She is a sixth grade teacher at Willard School. Mr. Griffin, a graduate of Christopher Columbus High School, Boston University and Boston State College, is completing his master's program at Bridgewater State College. He is a junior high school English teacher in Weymouth. An April 17 wedding is planned.

Quincy Gamma Tau Chapter Cultural Program March 9

The Quincy Gamma Tau Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will meet March 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ann Griska of 62 Cranch St., Quincy Center.

A cultural program on the history of the sorority will be presented by Mrs. Shirley Newman, president, for the benefit of new pledges.

Plans will be discussed for an April 30 Founder's Day celebration.

Beta Sigma Phi, founded in 1931 by Walter W. Ross, is now an international organization of more than 200,000 women.

Through its cultural programs, members enjoy exhibitions and demonstrations of fine arts. It also sponsors social and fund-raising activities. Membership is composed of women invited and accepted by the chapter and the international office.

Quincy officers serving with Mrs. Newman are Mrs. Barbara Pinio, vice president; Mrs. Fran DeSalvo, recording secretary; Mrs. Carol Bopp, treasurer; and Mrs. Evelyn Jennings, corresponding secretary.

Eagles Auxiliary To Hold Ham, Bean Supper Saturday

A ham and bean supper will be held by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the Eagles Hall, Massachusetts Ave., Quincy Point. Mrs. Phyllis Jacobucci, president, will be in charge.

Plans have been made also for a covered dish supper March 16 with Mrs. Vera DeCarlo, vice president, as chairman.

The 37th annual banquet at Montello's on April 17 will be combined with a testimonial to Miss Margaret Malone, State president and a past president of the Quincy Auxiliary.

The group will meet next on March 2.

SELF HELP DRUG CURE

"Once an addict, always an addict" is simply untrue. Many treatment procedures are available for the heroin user. Taking the addict off heroin is not too difficult - but keeping him off is.

One of the increasingly accepted methods of helping addicts throughout the country are small groups or therapeutic communities run largely by former addicts, like California's Synanon or New York's Horizon House which uses both ex-addicts and professionals.

These groups first detoxify [dry-out], then attempt to rehabilitate the drug user by restructuring his ego and life pattern. They accept only those who have proven their determination to kick the habit. The program is low-[18-36 months] and many of those who successfully complete the program stay on to help others through the ordeal of rehabilitation.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

An Understanding Heart

Lord we pray for an understanding heart,
To reach the heights of human dignity,
To see beyond the confused, unsure days,
Where faith has promised final victory.

Lord, we seek wisdom through the ways of truth,
To follow bravely where the roadway leads,
Through unknown spheres, prepared to meet the risk,
To serve a world made desperate in its needs.

Lord, we seek love, to inflame human hearts
That mercy and compassion may abound.
Unlock treasures of the Spirit where
The gift of understanding shall be found.

The Beauty Of Love And Ugliness Of War

Ware is ugly and takes lives away

Love is beautiful and brings more life each day
Undeclared wars are the worst kind

All kinds of love do neat things to the mind,

War can be blackmail for preside, 's to be elected

There no blackmail in love for its perfected,

War is like evil, blackmail, death and sorrow

In love you can always look forward for tomorrow

The Jewel

A priceless jewel
Was found unearthed,
By me one night,
Not knowing its worth.

I kept the gem,
And its glittering glow,
Its sparkling shine,
I loved it so.

It became widely known,
Or so it seemed,
With its flickering ray,
The way it beamed.

It seemed to live,
This jewel of mine,
Its valuable merit
Would never decline.

I thought it good,
To have around,
Until it went,
I reluctantly found.

To exhibit was wrong,
Its role of display,
I had no right,
So it went away.

THE KNICKER KICK—Sauntering into spring is the jauntiest look of them all: newsmaking knickers... here suited out in black and white printed cotton. By Addenda.

THE BARE FACTS—The knees are covered, but the midriff's bared for spring. Interpreting the trend in cotton terry with a seersucker look, White Stag does a midriff-baring top as companion piece to a whimsical flounced beach skirt.

HEM INSURANCE—For mini-lovers with nagging doubts, here's a happy solution to the hemline hagggle. This striped cotton knit mini skirt boasts a five-inch hem in case you're in for a let-down. By Miss Ingenue. It's teamed with a matching man-tailored top.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Feb. 25 - Mar. 4

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Listening to secrets or gossip may be interesting but it's not your cup of tea. Turn attention to correspondence instead.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - This would be a good time to travel especially if friends or a group is involved. A change of scenery stimulates outlook.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - There is a delaying action and you may have to change your plans accordingly. Getting up tight doesn't help the situation.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - You can afford to relax a little now and enjoy yourself. Some of your hopes and wishes are highlighted and could come true.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Pressures at home base have eased off so step out and meet a few new people. Watch correspondence and be careful what you write.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 23] - Worrying over responsibilities doesn't help - step back and take a clearer view, then do something constructive about it.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - The drain on your budget is about over so you can relax a bit. A friend is leaving you this week and this causes emotional upset.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Some of you will travel now, others will make a change for the better. Interviews requiring diplomacy will go in your favor.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - This is a week of making mistakes and then worrying about them. Not a good time for dealing with agents or documents.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Legal or business problems this week. Don't make any promises and don't put too much faith in other people's promises.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Funnel all that restless energy into one direction and gain some needed benefits. New friends could add spice to life.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - You can consolidate your plans now, meet with necessary agents and talk things over but don't take action for another 2 weeks.

As you may know, the above caption is also the title of my new book, which has just been published by Prentice-Hall.

As a new proud author, I couldn't wait to see my book among the stacks at Doubleday's in New York, and I walked in there expectantly a few weeks ago searching out shelves, but found no book.

Could they be sold out? Unlikely. I finally sought out the manager who told me that yes, they did have the book, and that it was in the Psychology Department.

Mystified I looked, and sure enough it was featured there. What to do. Gathering courage in my newly slim hands I shakily informed the manager that my book was not a psychology book, but a cookbook. He assured me that he was aware of this fact but that he found it did very well in the Psychology Department.

Nite Owls Square Dance Classes On Fridays

Quincy's Nite Owls, a senior citizens group composed primarily of partly or fully employed persons, will add square dance classes to their activities.

Classes will be held Friday nights of each week to avoid conflict with the Thursday night socials held monthly by the day group at the Senior Citizens Drop-In-Center at 24 High School Ave.

The Nite Owls will meet next March 4 at 8 p.m. at the Drop-In-Center with Ted Johnson presiding at a short business meeting. A square dance class will follow.

Plans are being made for a St. Patrick's dance and social for Saturday evening, March 13, this also to be held at the Drop-In-Center.

For Singles Only' Program Friday

"For Singles Only" is the requirement of a catered dinner and program at First Presbyterian Church, Franklin St., Friday at 7 p.m.

This is an effort of five or six area churches to provide fellowship for "singles", aged 20 through 45 years.

Investments Optimistic McCormick Tells Nu Chapter

The role of the stock market in investing today was the theme of a talk by James F. McCormick, Sr., at a recent meeting of Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma.

Mr. McCormick, manager of the H. C. Wainwright Company office in Quincy and vice-chairman of the Quincy School Committee, advised his audience that association with a knowledgeable broker and the use of common sense were the chief ingredients for sound investment.

An optimistic trend in the future of investments is becoming evident in the recent activities of the stock market, according to Mr. McCormick.

The meeting of Nu Chapter was held in the Four Seasons Restaurant at the Quincy Vocational Technical School. Miss Maud Wheeler, president, conducted the business meeting.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by Miss Florabel Stevens, member of the Quincy Public Schools Guidance Staff, and Mrs. Margaret King, of the Quincy High School Staff.

Five South-West Quincy Churches Combine In Series Of Lenten Services

Five South-West Quincy churches are combining in a series of Thursday evening services at 7:30 p.m. during the six weeks of Lent. "Christ Speaks and Man Responds" is the theme.

The March 4 service will be at First Presbyterian Church, Franklin St., with Rev. Bertil Hult, pastor of Salem Lutheran Church, speaking on "I am the Bread of Life".

On March 11 at Quincy Centre Methodist Church, Rev.

Paul Sparman of Covenant Congregational Church will have as his subject, "I am the Light of the World".

At Salem Lutheran Church, March 18, Rev. Stephen Brown of First Presbyterian Church will discuss the topic, "I am the Good Shepherd".

On March 25 at Salvation Army headquarters, Rev. Riley Shirley of Quincy Centre Methodist Church, will speak on "I am the Resurrection and the Life".

At Covenant Congregational Church, April 1, Capt. William Bessant of the Salvation Army, will have as his topic, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life".

On Maundy Thursday, April 8, there will be Holy Communion at Salem Lutheran Church, with the topic "I Am Come to Serve". On Good Friday April 9, there will be Tenebrae at Salem.

The Union Good Friday Union service will be at First Presbyterian Church from noon to 3 p.m.

Dr. Woolf Opens Lenten Series For Five North Quincy Churches

Dr. William J. Woolf will be keynote speaker Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, introducing a series of Lenten studies by the five churches of the North Quincy Inter-Church Council, on Consultation on Church Union's Plan of Union.

Dr. Woolf, professor of theology at Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, is a delegate from the Episcopal Church to the Consultation on Church Union and one of the authors of the "Plan of Union."

Dr. Woolf is also the author of other books, notably "The Almost Chosen People", a study of Abraham Lincoln's religion, and "No Cross-No Crown".

Rev. William D. Underhill, rector, and Rev. Ernest H. Hayhow, minister of First Church of Squantum and chairman of the Inter-Church Council, will take part in the service.

Five weekly meetings on Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. are scheduled. The March 3 meeting will be at First Church Squantum; March 10, Union Congregational Church, Wollaston; March 17, Memorial Congregational Church, Atlantic; March 24, Atlantic United Methodist Church; and March 31, St. Chrysostom's.

Other groups, led by lay persons with ministers of the five churches taking part as resource people, will meet Monday nights from 7:30-9 p.m.; Tuesday from 10-11:30 a.m.; and Sunday afternoons from 2-3:30 p.m., as needed.

Salvation Army Commander Keynote Speaker At World Day Of Prayer

Capt. William A. Bessant of The Salvation Army will speak on the theme "New Life Awaits" at the annual World Day of Prayer of Church Women United in Quincy March 5 at 2 p.m. at Bethany Congregational Church.

Capt. Bessant, stationed in Quincy since September, is a native of Toronto, Canada, where he was educated and graduated from The Salvation Army's officers training school. With Mrs. Bessant, also from Canada, he has served in the United States for 11 years, mostly in western New York State.

Mrs. Capt. Bessant is Quincy chairman of World Day of Prayer, now in its 84th year with church women in 25,000 communities in the United States uniting their prayers with women in 155 countries on six continents.

Assisting in the service will be Mrs. Gunnard Skoog of Adams Shore United Methodist Church; Miss Irma Johnson of Church of the Good Shepherd; Mrs. Munroe D. MacLean of Bethany Congregational Church and Mrs. George Stephen. Mrs. H. Winslow Bettinson from Bethany will be soloist.

Mrs. H. Wallace Sylvester, CWU president, will welcome those attending and accept the offering, to be used in projects of evangelism and service in intercontinental mission.

Come. Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'Getting What I Don't Have'

I have observed that practically all my patients are seeing me for one purpose...help in "getting what I don't have." For instance...here's the man who has been successful in business...has a nice home...swimming pool...summer home at the Cape...money in the bank for college educations for his three children...dresses in newest styles and drives a 1971 car. On first appearance this man "has everything."

So I listen..."Why is he here?" I'm asking myself. Then it comes out..."but with all this I'm restless"...he says..."I just can't seem to feel close to my wife." Now I know why he's here...help to get what he doesn't have...CLOSENESS to his wife. My job now is to find out why he doesn't have what he wants...and to help him...and her to a higher level of happiness. After all...without HAPPINESS nothing else means much.

Here's the woman who tells me of her courtship...marriage...working so her husband could finish school...cheap apartment...the first baby...his graduation...they struggle...but they're happy. Then he gets into his profession...works hard...out much...more babies...more success...new home...his preoccupation with work...less and less communication...more and more living as strangers...fear of another pregnancy...less sex...more quarrels. Now...she's discovered accidentally from a motel ticket on his bureau [left carelessly or deliberately] that there's "another woman". I see what she wants...to get her man back. Hopefully it isn't too late.

Two common type adults trying to get what they want...the "spoiled brat"...and the "mama's boy." One woman complains..."My husband isn't a man"...yet she has done everything to emasculate him...humiliate and psychologically castrate him. Now the final indignity, she says..."He isn't a man." She grew up...allowed to manipulate her weak father and indulging mother...never learning to respect nor trust men. She can't "get what she wants" until she frees herself of the "spoiled little girl" conditioning of her past.

The "mama's boy" was indulged and overpraised...got whatever he wanted whenever he wanted it...all the way from toys to automobiles. Now he wants his wife to be his "indulgent mother"...lacks a sense of manly responsibility...wears a facade of masculinity...but is really miserable and still lacking in self-discipline. "All I want"...he says..."is peace of mind." What he's really saying is..."I don't want the pressures adult life put upon me...I still want to be the care-free little boy." So he can't get what he wants until he dis-avows his "little boy" conditioning of his past.

Our needs differ because of differing strengths and weaknesses...our needs change from time to time with changing situations. I remember reading what a former prisoner of war wrote..."When we were starving and freezing [one bowl of soup per day for over a month], we talked and dreamed only of food; when rations were increased to the point where hunger pangs were less severe, we talked about women; when the food situation improved still more, we became more concerned for our safety; and when on two occasions we were privileged to eat all we wanted [Christmas 1944 and May 1945] we got ambitious and philosophical and began to talk about our stations in life and those to which we aspired." As situations change our needs and drives change.

I hear so often..."When we were struggling to get ahead we were so close and happy. Now we're finally on easy street and we're having trouble." As humans we seem always to need a problem to solve. We recognize a life need...set about to get our need met...no sooner is it met than we discover that our situation has changed...probably because we have changed...or the environment around us. So a new known need now motivates us. This is the "insatiable process" of the human soul.

So...if you're not getting affection from your husband...you may not be satisfied until you do. If you're never praised...your life need may be for praise...and you won't be satisfied until you are. If your wife is cold...nothing will satisfy your need until you have a woman's warmth. If your job is beneath your ability you won't be satisfied until you have a vocational challenge. To be blind to our normal basic human needs shows a neurotic lack of love for oneself...and lack of understanding of the actions of others. But the truth is...when each of our known needs are met new needs will arise...the continual process of human life.

Yes...most of us are out there trying to "get what I don't have." But you see...that's just what makes the world go around.

First Baptist Church Votes $45,845 Budget At 100th Annual Meeting

A "must" budget of $45,845 for 1971 current expenses was adopted by First Baptist Church of Wollaston at its 100th annual meeting. An additional $8,275 was allocated for Mission work.

Rev. Charles I. McEachern, pastor, was authorized, with advice and consent of the deacons, to secure a minister for visitation. The salary will be $4,200.

W. David Chase, chairman, reported plans for the 100th anniversary observance scheduled for the fall.

J. Henry Johnson was re-elected church moderator, with Mrs. Albert E. Rendle, church clerk; Mrs. Clarence Churchill, financial secretary; Robert L. Smith, Church School superintendent; and Mrs. Albert S. Nickerson, assistant superintendent.

Frederick H. Black was elected new treasurer; Miss Arlene Wilson, assistant treasurer; and Charles S. Plummer, auditor.

Elected to terms ending in 1974 were Mrs. Anasa H. Grossenor, Miss Ruth A. Hiltz and Mrs. W. David Chase, board of deaconesses; Mrs. Ralph J. Lacey and Mrs. Robert V. Morgan, board of Christian education; Mrs. Lorimer E. Pratt and Mrs. David MacDougall, chairman, board of Christian missions; George H. Billard and Mrs. Russell W. Clark, board of music; Mrs. H. Robert Huke is curriculum secretary.

Mrs. M. Boyce Bailey and Mrs. Walter E. Cobb, flower committee; Harry E. Culbertson, David E. MacDougall and Lorimer E. Pratt, board of trustees; Raymond P. Gilchrist, Vernon C. Saunders and George A. Wilkins, board of deacons.

Delegates elected were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce D. Randall, to permanent Council of Ordination; Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. MacKenzie, to Quincy Council of Churches; and Mr. and Mrs. Lillian H. Wells, to Massachusetts Baptist Convention.

Special chairmen are Mrs. Bruce D. Randall, social action committee; Miss Ethel M. Hiltz, parish zone committee; and W. David Chase, 100th Anniversary Committee.

Fr. David T. McGowan Honored At Reception

Rev. David T. McGowan, curate at St. Boniface Church, Germantown, was honored Sunday afternoon at a reception in the church hall.

Fr. McGowan, assigned to St. Agnes Parish in Reading, began his new duties there on Tuesday.

Rev. Robert H. Mooney, a former chaplain in the Air Force stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, will be the new curate.

Mrs. John Flynn, president of St. Boniface's Catholic Women's Club, and a committee of members arranged for the three-hour reception during which adult parishioners, altar boys and teenagers filled the church hall.

Entertainment was arranged by Charles McGarry and included musical selections by younger members of the parish and an Irish song by Fr. McGowan.

Evangelist Meetings At Glad Tidings

Don Evans, evangelist, will conduct a series of meetings at Glad Tidings Church Feb. 28 through March 7.

Gospel singing and Gospel messages will be features of the week-long crusade.

Meetings on Sundays will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. On Tuesday through Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. William F. McPherson is pastor.

Novena Of Grace March 4 At Blessed Sacrament

A Novena of Grace at Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, begins March 4 and continues through March 12.

Rev. John Hummel, a Vincentian Father, will conduct the Novena in conjunction with the daily 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. masses.

Bishop Of Puerto Rico To Confirm 13 At St. Chrysostom's

Right Rev. Francisco Reus-Eroylan, Bishop of Puerto Rico, visiting in the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, will officiate at a confirmation service at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, Sunday a 10 a.m.

A class of 13 will be presented for confirmation by Rector William D. Underhill.

A reception for Bishop Reus and the new confirmands and their families will follow in the church crypt.

Novena Of Grace Begins At St. Mary's Church March 4

A Novena of Grace opens March 4 at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, and will continue through March 12.

Rev. Columba Sullivan of the Jesuit Fathers will be the preacher.

Services will consist of Mass, Holy and Novena prayers.

Mass and Novena prayers will take place each day at 9 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., except March 6 and March 7.

On March 6 there will be a Mass at 9 a.m. and prayers at the 5 and 7 p.m. masses. Novena prayers will be said at the regular masses on Sunday.

'Facing The Cross' Sunday Theme At Salem Lutheran

"Facing The Cross" is the theme for Sunday morning Lenten services at 9 and 11 a.m. at Salem Lutheran Church.

Rev. Bertil Hult, pastor, will have as his subjects: "Judas Iscariot", Feb. 28; "Capharnaum", March 7; "Peter", March 14;

"Pontius Pilate", March 21; and "Barabbas", March 28.

On Palm Sunday, April 4, there will be a Cantata by the choir at the 9 a.m. service and Holy Communion at the 11 a.m. service.

Garbage and rubbish are terrible things.
All rats and bugs it always brings.
It pollutes all land, water and air.
And people just pollute without a care.

What should we do about pollution?
It even blocks the ever-shining sun.
Are we fit for all this smog?
Not us! Not even a log!

Even volcanoes, the lava reaches all the way down to your toes!
We can't even see, the way down to our knees.
What should we do about pollution?

It's Tough To Be A Snowflake

I'm a snowflake and every time it snows I get into trouble. For instance just the other day I was minding my own business. Suddenly a boy picked me up and the next thing I know bang I broke and landed all over the ground. Another wind came along and I landed right where some children were building a snowman. One little girl put me on the snowman. I was there all day and then I melted away. Another time I landed in the middle of the street with cars rushing by on both sides. Then I saw a plow come and it pushed me up on top of a big snow bank. I thought I was safe. I was, at least until morning. It was time for the children to go to school, and I was stepped all over and packed into the other snowflakes. Soon it was warm and I melted. That was the end of that winter.

One day somebody bought a whole lot of hockey pucks. I got picked I went for a long ride and went into a basket when I got to a place named Boston Garden. That night a lot of people came to watch a team named the Boston Bruins play the Montreal Canadiens. They had a face-off. The puck flew over the glass into the crowd. I got picked and they had the face-off again. I got hit hard into a goal by a man named Bobby Orr. A man named Johnny McKenzie shot me over the glass and a man caught me and brought me to his house and framed me!

When I Was A Snowflake

One day I was lying on a snow drift. I was there for an hour or so. That night the wind started blowing me around. I was getting tired. All of the sudden, I dropped just like that right on a snow plow. I met a girl her name was Serena. She was so fluffy, too. We were stuck to the truck the next day. She started to cry because she missed her boy friend. Suddenly we weren't stuck. We were on our way. She had forgotten about her boy friend. We had fun together. She had to leave. I said good-bye. All of a sudden, I jumped out of bed and found out it was a dream.

Kingdom Of No Return

I was walking home from school with my friend Helen and we walked and went in the wrong path. The more we walk the more it got dark. Then we found out that it was the Kingdom of No Return we were scared. We saw a hole with two witches in it. They were cooking with a big black pot. The place was all red dark red too. Helen and I saw a castle the King and Queen lived there. Soon we were at the castle I knocked on the door No one answered. Helen and I went in. We saw the King and Queen. We asked if we could have permission to go home. "No it is the Kingdom of No Return said the King. "Oh please pretty please "No, No" You two may sleep in the hut down the road. There is a old lady to cook for you. By tomorrow I will tell you if you can go home. Soon we were there. Helen and I went to bed. Soon we fell asleep. In the morning we had breakfast. After that. Helen and I went to the castle. We knocked on the door. The King answered. "Come in," said the King. "Have you made up your mind?" The King said, "yes, you may go home, but you have to have a punishment. You must have to clean all the rooms in this castle. OK we said. There are a hundred rooms in the castle. Clean the rooms good. "OK yes we will. We clean all the rooms. It was hard, very hard. But we got to go home. We were very happy. We said good by to everyone. And then we went. And Helen went home too. My Mother was a little worried. But I told her the story.

My Life As A Turtle

My life as a turtle is a very hard one. Every day these big things come and look at me. Sometimes they even come and pick me up. The thing I hate the most is when the big things put me on a sheet and make me race. My friend and I are very tired, but they still make us race. Everything is so big! Why can't they put us with us the way we are? Why don't the big things put us in a place where we are not so small? One time one of them put me in a fish tank and I almost drowned! Just about every day they come and pick us up to look at us. Another time was when they picked me up and put me in the water on my back. There are good ones too. Once a boy saw that I was drowning and turned me over. The past weeks they have been nice. It is still a mystery about the food falling from the skies and the big waterfall that turns into a river. We get our water from that great river. So it is still a mystery about the giant world we live in!

Adams Shore Juvenile Library Presents Valentine Program

The Adams Shore Juvenile department presented a Valentine program for children, parents and grandparents during the school holiday.

Following several songs by the Sing-a-long group, two plays were presented: "A Valentine for Mary" starred Mary Duross as a kitten, the costume made by her mother, while Susan Bouffard took the part of "Mary".

In "The Thumpity Bumpity Box", Robert Fanning, junior library assistant, played the part of Marcello, the magician. Other roles were taken by Susan Kimberly and Katherine Bouffard, Marianne and Patricia Murray, Robert Lavigne, Jacqueline Pearson and Laurie Darrow.

Linda Clayworth, junior assistant, directed the Sing-a-long group; and Mrs. Blanche Eckert, children's librarian, the drama group. Mrs. Frances Hines, children's supervisor of the Juvenile department at Thomas Crane Public Library, was an honored guest.

Undefeated In Final 13 Games

Quincy Icemen Win First GBL Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football squad last fall won its first undisputed Greater Boston League championship with a perfect record.

That great team now must move over and make room for the hockey team which this week won its first GBL title and was unbeaten in its final 13 games to wind up with a 14-2-4 record.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents, who tune up for next week's Eastern Mass. Tournament by playing the league all-stars tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 at Boston Arena, clinched the title Monday night when it tied Revere, 2-2, at Weymouth Skating Club. Even if it had lost its finale, Quincy would have been champion, as runner-up Medford lost to Malden, 2-1, earlier at Boston Arena.

As a result of Malden's win and Revere's tie they join Quincy and Medford in the tournament. Few leagues have ever had that many teams qualify.

At press time it wasn't known who Quincy will play in its first tourney game. Forty teams qualified, and this is Sylvia's fourth team in five years to make the tourney.

Three Quincy players, goalie Artie Boyle, defenseman Bobby Cattaneo and forward Ed Weidemann, were named to the league all-star team but will play for the Presidents in tonight's game. Steve Kleimola received honorable mention.

North Quincy's Tom O'Malley was named to the 'star' club and Neil Cronin received honorable mention.

"Although I knew before our game with Revere that Medford had lost, I didn't tell the boys because I wanted to see how they would do under pressure," Sylvia said.

"Revere came on with a rush, knowing it needed at least a tie to make the tourney and outplayed us in the first period. But our boys, not knowing Medford had lost and thinking they also needed a tie to clinch the title, dominated play in the last two periods. We had plenty of shots but just couldn't put the puck in."

Revere took the lead after only a minute and 10 seconds of play but Rich Patten scored a short-handed goal in the second period to tie the score. Revere again took the lead, but Jackie Black, a sophomore moved up to the second line, scored the tying goal.

"Paul Campbell had been hurting and I took him off the second line to let him kill penalties with Kevin Kearney and they both did a good job," Sylvia said. "Jackie got his chance and really came through."

Quincy will enter the tourney without Dom Burke, a fine forward, who broke his arm in a recent Chelsea game.

"This has to be the biggest thrill of my life because it is my first championship either as a player or coach," Sylvia concluded. "After graduating 14 players last year, I never dreamed we could win or tie 18 of 20 games. I just hoped for a first division finish and another tourney spot."

Quincy's junior varsity has extended its two-year unbeaten streak to 14 games [5-0 this year] and the junior high-freshman team is 6-2.

North Quincy finished up its first season under Ron Erikson with a 1-1 tie against Somerville. The Raiders, 0-18 a year ago, had three wins and four ties this year, winding up 3-13-4.

"It has been a pretty good year," Ron said. "We wanted to be competitive and we were. We won only three but were in a lot of other games. We have some good looking freshmen coming up and next season should be a good one for us."

Ron himself was a standout player at North Quincy.

Last week Quincy lost a chance to clinch the title when it was tied by Malden 2-2, with just 11 seconds left in the game. The following night, in a makeup game, Medford was shocked by Revere, 2-1, to leave the Presidents two points up.

Malden tied Quincy when the goalie was pulled and, with a Quincy player in the penalty box, had a 6-4 edge in skaters. Steve Surette, who also scored the first goal, beat Boyle with just those 11 seconds remaining.

Quincy had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period with Jim Cattaneo and Ed Weidemann, the team's top scorers, scoring the goals. Surette scored his two goals in the final period.

"When you've been in as many hockey games as I have, you learn to expect things like this, but it doesn't make it any easier when it happens," said a disappointed Sylvia.

"We thought we could tie Malden out but we couldn't. You can't tell me they were playing on anything more than guts out there. They knew they had to win or tie to stay alive for the tournament and that is why they were so elated with the tie."

Sylvia was naturally delighted with Revere's win over Medford. "Now we are assured of no worse than the league co-championship and need only a tie to win the title all alone," he said.

North Quincy hoped to upset Medford and further enhance Quincy's title chances but, despite a great performance in goal by Bobby Guerriero, the Raiders bowed, 3-0.

Medford did not score until late in the second period when Paul Quinn's slap shot trickled off Guerriero's glove. He had turned aside 31 shots until that shot and had 44 saves for the night.

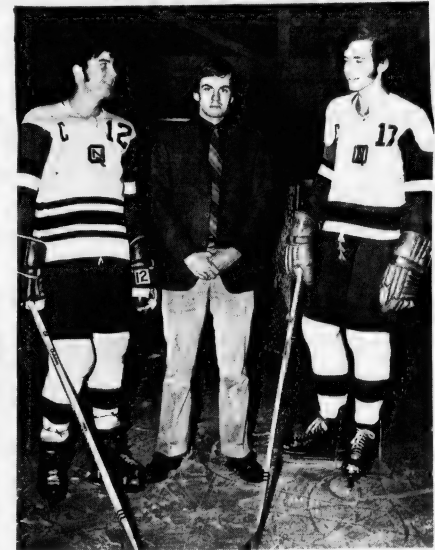

"We really wanted this game," Erikson said. "We had 10 seniors playing their final game at Boston Arena. I had a feeling we just might beat them and it looked like it wasn't their day the way Bobby was playing in the net. They just couldn't get the puck into the net."

"That's what makes this game so great and exciting compared to football and basketball. In those sports strength and height are hard to overcome but in hockey a team can get a few breaks and beat a team that is better."

Queen Pins Oust Rag Dolls In Women's Tourney

More than 300 bowlers and spectators were present at the opening round of the 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy Sunday at Merrymount Daylight Alley.

The first 12 teams competing represented the best 60 of more than 400 keggers.

The defending champion Queen Pins ousted the Rag Dolls 1509-1554, the Keglerettes defeated the host Koch Club Women 1505-1428, the Hi Nooners walloped the Women Merchants 1493-1384, the Classic Lassies downed the Bowling Bugs 1481-1426, the Parkettes topped the Coffee Royals 1473-1467 and Union Congregational edged the Pin Ups 1459-1456.

The Queen Pins took the first two strings, and lost by 32 pins to the Rag Dolls in the final string. Although the Rag Dolls lost, their total was second high of the day, with the Queen Pins tops.

Bev Putnam led the Queen Pins with 352, followed by Betty Gagne 319, Mal Adams 315, Mary Powell 309 and Dot Connolly 304.

The Rag Dolls top scorer was Mary Walsh with 331; Gail Dillon 323; Marlene Brigitte 317 and Pat Lowe 300.

The Keglerettes bowled over 500 in each string to oust the Koch Women by 77 pins. Pat Chiavaroli bowled 312 for the Keglerettes; Elaine Brodie 305. Dot Cappola and Bonnie Damore 302 each, and Ann Casanova 284. Gladys Spacco was high for Koch Club with 311, and Claire Reynolds followed with 301.

The High Nooners won their three strings for a 107 pin win over the Women Merchants. Jean Hannon led the High Nooners with 327, and Connie Mele bowled 314. Elaine Rezanski with 291 was top for Women Merchants.

The Classic Lassies took two of three strings, led by Peg Mahoney's 308, Cynthia Baker 303, Jen Magnarelli 310, and Lil Gustafson 300. Celeste Maloney with 313 was top for the defeated Bowling Bugs.

The Parkettes, dropping their first two strings to the Coffee Royals, bounced back with a 50-pin win in the third string to win the match by six pins. Edna Walker with 322 and Evie Dubois 321 led the Parkettes, while Taffy Serroni posted 320 and Margie Walsh 306 for the Coffee Royals.

Union Congregational won only their first string, but managed to hold onto a 3-pin lead to defeat the Pin-Ups. Union Cong's Mary Lou Case led with 317 followed by Ruth Moore 310 and Isabelle Seymore 306. Eleanor Iacobucci with 308 was high for the Pin Ups, while Jeanne Coughlin had 301 and Helen Mahoney 300.

Finnegan Lauds Greenlaw For 'Great Job' With JV

Mike Greenlaw, former North Quincy High school and Colgate University basketball star, took over as Quincy's junior varsity coach this year and has done a fine job, according to Varsity Coach Marty Finnegan.

"Mike is doing a great job, the kids respect him and he really knows his stuff," Finnegan said.

Marty gave Mike much credit for the Presidents' big win recently at North Quincy. Mike scouted the Raiders and his javees used their offense and defense in practice against the varsity.

Bill Kiggen, a 6-3 1/2 sophomore is playing basketball for the first time and, according to Greenlaw, is starting to gain savvy. "He is an excellent defensive rebounder and has exceptional timing," Mike said.

The javees' team leader is 5-8 junior Willy Bertrand, a holler guy who is very quick, is an outstanding driver and defensive player and has a fine left-handed shot.

Mark MacLeod, 5-10 sophomore, is extremely fast and a good offensive rebounder.

"One of our standouts is Ken Furfari, a 6-1 sophomore," Greenlaw said. "He does everything well and has started to put everything together. He plays both center and forward."

Mike Marville, another 6-1 sophomore is a good rebounder with a lot of savvy but, according to his coach, he doesn't shoot enough.

Still another 6-1 soph is Ray Papile, big and strong who made the switch from junior high center to forward.

Mike Kelly, a 5-8 sophomore guard is quick, an excellent ball handler, good 'quarterback', drives well and is strong on defense.

Dennis Marville, a 6-foot junior forward, "is always diving for the ball and gives the team good humor," Greenlaw said. "You always need someone like Dennis, especially when the season drags at times such as in practice, etc."

Phil Iovanna, 6-1 sophomore center, is coming on strong, is a good offensive rebounder and fills in for Kiggen.

Marty O'Toole, 5-8 soph guard, has a good two-handed set shot, is a fine ball handler and hard worker.

Jim McKinnon, 6-foot sophomore forward, will get much taller in Greenlaw's opinion and just needs some experience to blossom.

Greg Paluchio, 5-9 sophomore guard, plays second defense and has a fine jump shot. "He is very coachable and does a good job running the second unit," Greenlaw said.

Mike Long, 5-11 sophomore forward, is a southpaw who is "hard-nosed, plays solid defense but doesn't shoot enough," in his coach's words.

Dennis Sullivan, 5-9

sophomore guard, is a good shot but needs more time to develop savvy.

George Sisti, 5-8 junior guard, is the favorite of the crowd and has a good long one-handed set shot.

Donald Connelly, 5-10 soph forward, is a hustler and a good offensive rebounder.

"This is a fine group of boys and they are always hustling," the popular coach said. "I think a lot of them will be ready to help the varsity squad next year. They are very coachable and a pleasure to work with."

Loses Tourney Bid But--

ENC Seeks 18th Win Friday

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, disappointed at being overlooked for a berth in the NAIA tournament, will continue on towards its finest year Friday night when it hosts Barrington College in an 8:15 game at North Quincy High school.

Saturday night the Crusaders will play Gordon at Beverly Farms and next Thursday will open its quest for the King's College tourney title at Briarcliff Manor, N.Y.

Despite its 17-4 record and the setting of all sorts of team and individual records, ENC missed out on its hoped-for tourney bid.

Selected for Southern Division play in the NAIA District 32 tourney were top-seeded Rhode Island, Boston State, Bentley and Western New England College of Springfield. Eastern Nazarene has a better record than any of the selections except Rhode Island.

"We are very disappointed at not receiving an invitation," Coach Jim Smith said. "But we won't let up any and will try to win our remaining games and give the school its best record. We have been playing great ball and hope to continue to play great ball."

Last week the Crusaders rolled over Curry College, 106-58, in a game which prompted Curry Coach Joe Donovan to accuse Smith of piling up the score, a charge the ENC coach denied.

This was no contest from the start as ENC led, 42-13, late in the first half before the Colonels spurred to close the gap to 46-27 at halftime. ENC surged in the second half to pull ahead by a huge 79-38 margin.

"This was our best rebounding game of the year," Smith said. Quincy's 6-7 Rick Reyenger and freshman Clark Adams had 18 rebounds each. Ron Bradley had 14 and Dan Constantine grabbed 12.

Bradley again led all the scorers with 31 points. Don Eads had 23, Adams 22 and Constantine 16. Constantine, who has the best shooting average on the team, hit on six of eight attempts from the floor.

The game marked the eighth in a row in which ENC scored over 100 points as it rolled to its 10th straight win.

This has been a banner year for Quincy and North Quincy players for the Crusaders. Bradley leads the team with an average of 24.5 points a game and 13 rebounds. Constantine, 6-2 sophomore, is averaging 10 points and seven rebounds, and Reyenger is averaging nine points and 12 rebounds.

Constantine is hitting on 59.4 per cent of his floor shots and 66.6 per cent from the foul line.

Another North Quincy player, Steve Shoff, 5-9 sophomore, is not scoring much with a six point average, but is rated by Smith as one of the Crusaders' most valuable players.

"We have some good scorers and Steve doesn't have to score," the ENC coach said. "He is a great hustler, is always stealing the ball and plays a great game on defense. He steals won one game for us and has set up many other baskets. He is a very valuable player."

Merchants, Lum's Clash Sunday For Candlepin Title

Quincy Merchants and Lum's Colonial remain the only two teams in the greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney after semi-finals at Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Sunday. They will clash in the championship match on Sunday.

Quincy Merchants bowled high for the day to oust O.S.M. 1785-1561, while Lum's Colonial defeated Sawyer-Campbell 1731-1604.

Quincy Merchants fired a 611 first string to gain a 92-pin lead, adding 65 and 67 in the remaining strings to gain their 224 pin victory. Leo Depolo led the Merchants with 380 including a 157 first string. Ron Gibson followed with 365; Ken Wagner 348, Ron Johnston 347 and Bob Hurst 345.

All five of the O.S.M. team hit over 300, led by Tom Yerkes' 321.

Lum's Colonial took the first and third strings from Sawyer-Campbell, with a 616 high team single for the day in the third, and a 127 pin third tourney win.

Lum's bowlers were led by Steve Hill with 366, followed by Buster Lend's 354, Dick Fwell 350, Bob Kankola 346 and Lou Pagnani 315. Robert Farrell with 360 led Sawyer-Campbell, while the other four hit the 300 mark. It was not enough.

The winning team next Sunday will receive a team trophy and $100 cash prize from the Koch Club of Quincy, tourney sponsor for the past 18 years.

Quincy Merchants have a 1792 high team three string total while Lum's Colonial 646 high team single shows joint honors.

Ray Snell's 415 is high individual three string total to date. Dick Fwell with 159 has the tourney high single.

Presidents Knock Raiders Out In Upset

No Quincy Entry In Tech Tourney

Quincy, Braintree Squirts Skate To 4-4 Deadlock

Quincy and Braintree Youth Hockey Squirts tied 4-4 in action at Ulin Rink, Milton, giving Quincy a 6-1-1 record.

Quincy, after a three-week layoff due to lack of ice time, deadlocked a well-schooled Braintree team coached by Bob McGrath.

Braintree passers scored the first goal within minutes of the opening whistle. Fine stick handling by Billy Altano put Braintree on the board. John Kelley of Quincy intercepted a Braintree pass in their zone and put a shot in the goal to make it an even game.

In the see-saw scoring, Braintree led 3-2 in the first period with goals by Billy Alfano, Barry Paylor and John Sughrug, and assists by Jimmy Fisher, Barry Paylor, Mike Torney, Eddie Kelley and Bob McKenny. John Kelley and Bob Hayes accounted for Quincy's goals, with John Kelley also assisting.

David Lewis, with an assist by Mike Furey, scored in the second period, bringing the game to a tie. In the third period, Barry Paylor, unassisted scored for Braintree, and Brian Bertoni, with an assist by Jim Triglia, scored for Quincy.

Quincy goal tenders were Dean Prescott and Jim McHugh, with Jerry Cooney and Mike Furey coaching.

The city of Quincy will not be represented in the Eastern Mass. [Tech] basketball tourney for the first time in several years.

Quincy made sure of this last week when it upset North Quincy for the second time, 65-60, at the Quincy gym to eliminate the Raiders. The Presidents had previously been eliminated by a heart-breaking 82-81 loss to Revere.

Quincy probably will miss its first Tech berth in several years by that one-point margin. Marty Finnegan's club will be solid favorite to defeat Weymouth South Friday night at Weymouth in its finale. Weymouth is a Suburban League entry. The Presidents finished 9-5 in the Greater Boston League and is 10-6 overall.

North, if it had beaten Quincy, had two tarts still on its schedule. Bob Nolan's Raiders, who finished 8-6 in the league and is 9-6 overall, had a chance to knock strong Weymouth North, coached by Bob's brother-in-law, Bill Kearns, out of the Tech Tuesday night and goes to Brookline for its finale Friday. Both Weymouth and Brookline are Suburban League powers.

Quincy had to come from behind to top North, which started fast and had a 21-11 first period edge.

"We were playing good defense and I told them in the huddle not to panic," Finnegan said. "I told them North couldn't continue shooting like they were."

The tide turned in the second quarter and it was see-saw all the way after little John Reggiannini raced down the lane to score and cut the gap to 21-20. At half time it was tied up at 29-all.

Mike Donoghue, burly guard, came to the Presidents' rescue with a big three-pointer to break a 58-58 tie with 55 seconds left in the game.

"Mike's effort was a good example of how the kids have come off the bench to help us," Finnegan said. "It has been that way all season. These kids naturally were heartbroken to lose out on their great bid for the Tech but were a determined group tonight, wanting to beat North for the second time. I started Donoghue tonight because we put in a new one-three-one offense and Bill Maver spent most of the week at the University of Maryland.

Ken Furfari fouled out late in the game and I put Mike in at forward. He is a good rebounder and shooter and doesn't play bad defense."

Sophomore Furfari had 12 rebounds and seven points and Donoghue had six points. It was Furfari's first full-time test after being promoted from Mike Greenlaw's junior varsity.

Capt. Bob Pike continued to sparkle with 21 points and 18 rebounds. Bob McDermott had 15 points and Reggiannini, sophomore floor general, had eight points and directed the sure-handed offense which committed only 13 turnovers.

"Cairns [Tom] and Nelson [Dave] played great games for North and it was a typical Quincy-North game, hard and clean. Both teams can be proud," Finnegan said. "I'm happy to have picked up the win but it is too bad the city won't have a team in the Tech."

It was a hard one for Nolan to accept. Early in the year it appeared the Raiders were going to make the Tech for the fifth time in Bob's six years as coach. Then they lost a series of tough games. However, he made no excuses and hailed his club for the fourth period comeback after falling behind, 48-39, after three periods.

"They gave me everything they had and it was anybody's game until the final minutes," he said. "Quincy shot very well and were tighter than they were as we had a lot more to gain."

"Cairns had an outstanding game and our pressing unit of Dan Zink, Bob McKay, Dave Nelson, Cairns and Tony Kelly did a good job at the end."

Cairns, 6-7 center, had 24 points and a bundle of rebounds, scoring 12 points in the final quarter. Nelson scored 20.

It was a happy night all around for Quincy as the Jayvees, coached by Greenlaw, a former North star, avenged an earlier 20-point defeat by edging Joe Amoroso's North Jayvees, 60-59, in double overtime.

Rotarians Behind WJDA Microphones

Quincy Rotarians will take over operation of Radio Station WJDA from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, announces Russell C. Scammell, Quincy Rotary Club president.

This is the major fund-raising program of the Quincy Rotary Club to finance its civic contributions and scholarship awards.

Club members, who conduct the entire radio programming, sell all of the advertising, with all proceeds benefitting the Rotary Club's charitable fund.

Featured will be Dr. William Ralder, sometimes referred to as "Quincy's Finest Disc Jockey"; Dr. Charles Dierl, newscaster; Larry Antonelli, presenting the commercial story of the sponsors; Robert Quinn, program director; with Les Briery, at the organ.

Joseph Pinel is in charge of nourishment while the Rotarians are at work.

Dr. Amelia Leiss To Speak At UN Meeting

"The United Nations - Still There - Still Needed" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Amelia Leiss at meeting of the United Nations Council of the South Shore March 11 at 7:30 p.m. at First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

Dr. Leiss, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Center for International Studies, has worked for the World Peace Foundation in Boston and for the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in New York.

In 1970 she co-authored a book on "Controlling Small Wars" and directed a study on arms transfers to less developed countries. Miss Leiss has also been actively involved with the International Peace Academy and with M.I.T.'s program to train young government analysts.

The lecture is free but there is a charge for the catered dinner preceding it at 6:30 p.m. Dinner reservations should be made before March 8 with Miss Lena Foster of 17 Overlook Rd. or Miss Muriel Goudey of 24 Edgemere Rd.

Paul M. Sisti On Dean's List At Graham

Paul M. Sisti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Sisti of 215 Liberty St., South Quincy, is on the Dean's List at Graham Junior College. He will be among those honored tonight [Thursday] at the Honors Convocation at New England Life Hall.

Paul, who graduates in June, is attending the college on scholarship and has been on the Dean's List since entering the school of accounting.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Life Of Howard Hughes Soon To Be Filmed

Cinema 71 has purchased the screen rights of ALBERT B. GILBERT'S "Bashful Billionaire", and will soon be involved in filming the life story of HOWARD HUGHES, a bashful billionaire if there ever was one... Songstress and former actress PEGGY LEE has a legitimate anti-motion picture gripe. Her first film was "PETE KILLY'S BLUES" for which she was nominated for Best Supporting Actress in 1955. Since then Miss LEE has never been offered another film script... Hard to believe, but oh so true... ROCK HUDSON has accepted an invitation to attend the Dallas Film Festival, March 8-14, as part of a tribute to director GEORGE STEVENS... DIANE CILENTO was a last minute cast addition to "THE FIRST OF JANUARY"... Watch for JANE FONDA to be tub-thumping the merits of legalized prostitution as her latest cause. The probable reason for her prosti' advocacy would have to do with her portraying one in her soon-to-be-released, "KLUTE"... Co-star DON SUTHLAND will not be chanting any cause except a steady path to the bank...

As if filmdom doesn't have enough talented Jills, it gets two others in the guise of former models JILL MUIR and JILL KELLY... And whatever became of that loveliest of JILLS, Miss ST. JOHN?

Comedian DICK GREGORY is receiving maximum mileage for his activist chants anti-establishmenting the lucrative College Circuit to a very establishment $500,000 per year. It's one thing to find the system disenchanting, but making a profit on society's ills doesn't seem quite Kosh... GEORGE C. SCOTT made it three in a Best Actor row with his capture of a Golden Globe Award. And yes, this column predicts that Scott will run away with the biggest one of all-the OSCAR... He was head and shoulders above all performing actors for the 1970 season... QUOTE. UNQUOTE: Director ARTHUR PENN questioning the validity of the "10 best film list": "They certainly can't come up with 10 great films a year and we are lucky if we get one a season". PENN went on to deflate publicists by saying, "But it is the duty of the Hollywood press agents to inflate mediocrity, and so the 10 best lists"... No truer words were spoken...

The next James Bond special, "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER" may co-star RAQUEL WELCH provided the producers come up with an appropriate BOND. So far there are still several contenders in the running for CONNERY'S [SEAN] vacated throne... Somehow I can't picture the gentlemanly JAMES MASON and the fiery GINA LORIBRIGIDA appearing as stars in a spaghetti-western. But they're doing it in "BADMAN'S RIVER" along with the king of Italian actors, LEE VAN CLEEVE... A possible prophecy of doom? "THIRD WORLD, THIRD WORLD WAR", now playing before SRO packed houses in Paris, was filmed on location in war torn Vietnam. Realism is one thing, but did they have to go that far?... GEORGE SANDERS is job hunting for a meaty role worthy of his talents... Off of his last performance in "THE KREMLIN LETTER" he deserves a friendly nudge into retirement. LUCHINO VISCONTI'S "DEATH IN VENICE", being hailed by some as his best yet, was the first picture accepted for the Cannes competition in May... Actor JACK LEMMON is having a hard time finding a suitable role in the filming of director JACK LEMMON'S "KOTCH"...

ANDY WILLIAMS will host the 13th annual Grammy Award ceremony which will be carried live on ABC from the Hollywood Palladium March 16... Could be an evening of blissful viewing, provided they keep the tempo sharp and crisp... ROY THINNES has another loser on his hands. "THE PSYCHIATRIST" is artless, pointless, morbid, boring, and a hangover from NBC-TV's earlier contest with relevance. By comparison, this tasteless vehicle makes the "ELEVENTH HOUR" seem like the Golden Era of shrink melodrama... Won't GEORGE [I'll try anything once] PLIMPTON ever give up? Messrs. PLIMPTON recently broke in his new act at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas to multi yawns. Oh, and his comedy. The perennial amateur decided to give being a standup comedian a whirl... Aren't WBZ-TV's PAT COLLINS film reviews exasperatingly crusty?... No matter how hard the BEATLES don't try, they continue to be pacesetters. The latest Rock bag is to split the groupies and go it alone as a single...

"WILD, WILD WEST" and "GILLIGAN'S ISLAND" are the top two syndicated programs on television... Those who missed out on "LAWRENCE OF ARABIA" in 1961, can catch it at the Astor theatre in Boston in a few months... 20th-Century Fox is "casting" for a new president... "GIMME SHELTER" can best be summed up as an obituary for the WOODSTOCK Nation, if not Rock itself...

Hearing Tonight On MBTA Quincy-Braintree Station

The MBTA will hold a public hearing tonight [Thursday] at 8 p.m. at Braintree Town Hall on its plans to construct a controversial rapid transit station at South Quincy-North Braintree.

The hearing will also cover plans to purchase electronic fare collection equipment for the five stations on the South Shore rapid transit line, and construct an access road to the South Braintree Station from Braintree Highlands.

The MBTA is seeking $6,360,200 in federal assistance, or two-thirds of the $9,540,300 estimated costs of these three elements of the South Shore Extension project. The local one-third share, $3,180,100, is available from the $225 million bond issue authorized by the Legislature in 1964.

The planned South Quincy-North Braintree Station at the Quincy-Braintree boundary in the vicinity of Capen's Bridge is being located and designed in coordination with highway improvements being proposed by the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, according to the MBTA.

The transit project and the related highway improvements will provide park-ride facilities at the intersection of Route 128 and the Southeast Expressway [Route 3] and direct access for motorists approaching the station via Routes 24, 28, 128 and the expressway, according to the MBTA plans.

"The ultimate success of the South Shore Extension is directly dependent on the ability of the line to attract automobile commuters," Robert G. Davidson, director of planning and construction, said.

"We are convinced that a large number of automobile users will be attracted to the South Quincy-North Braintree Station and will mean a large gain in revenue that will help produce a favorable financial condition for the entire South Shore Extension.

"Such a favorable financial condition will enhance the future potential for extending rapid transit service beyond the South Braintree Station to Weymouth or, as an alternative, to Holbrook."

Earlier this week, Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Quincy Planning Board, suggested the municipal boundary between Quincy and Braintree could be moved several hundred feet so the Capen's Bridge MBTA station will be located in Quincy.

"This would solve the vexing problem of MBTA assessments on this South Quincy-North Braintree station" Rev. Baharian said.

He noted that Braintree residents and officials were concerned because the station is "expressway-oriented", making it unfair for Braintree to underwrite the MBTA assessment at that location.

"In order to relieve any concern about assessment costs I suggest that the municipal boundary be moved to locate the station within the confines of Quincy.

The Quincy - South Shore Chamber of Commerce through its executive vice-president William A. O'Connell is urging members to attend the public hearing to record themselves in favor of the MBTA's applications for a North Braintree station.

The Chamber, according to O'Connell, after careful study recently passed a resolution which "endorses unequivocally the future extension of the MBTA to the South Shore."

It was further resolved:

- That the South Shore Extension to the MBTA be completed to Weymouth and Holbrook by the earliest possible date.

- That the MBTA co-operate with the towns of Braintree, Weymouth and Holbrook to facilitate the movement of traffic and improve road systems to all stations.

- That the construction of the North Braintree Station [Expressway Station?] be undertaken as part of the concept for the entire South Shore Extension.

- That the different Braintree sections of the MBTA line go into operation at approximately the same time.

- That the towns of Braintree, Weymouth and Holbrook appoint Technical Committees on Transportation with whom the MBTA can confer.

- That the MBTA continue to act to promote the economic, social, and environmental climate of the area.

Special Assistance At Quincy IRS Office During March

Acting District Director Elmer H. Klinsman announces a special schedule of dates on which taxpayer assistance will be given during the month of March in the Quincy office, at 1 Cliveden St.

The dates are Wednesdays, March 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31, and Fridays March 5, 12, 19 and 26.

On the dates indicated, Internal Revenue Service personnel will be available from 8:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. to give assistance in the preparation of Federal Income tax returns.

Klinsman urged all taxpayers in need of assistance to complete as much of their return as possible before calling at the office.

Taxpayers desiring telephone assistance may call 472-9032 or 479-5028 any time from 8:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. on the dates indicated.

Opening dates for the month of April will be announced at a later date.

Koegler Cites Need For Ward 3 Branch Library

The need for a South Quincy branch library is "greater now than ever before," according to Ward 3 Councilor John F. Koegler.

In a letter to Francis D. Hackett, chairman of the Thomas Crane Public Library trustees, Koegler wrote:

"In the Fall of 1969, I appeared before the Library Board requesting that they initiate a study in regard to the needs and a site location for a branch library for Ward 3, South Quincy. At that time, the Board agreed to do so. To this date, and to my knowledge, I have heard nothing in regard to this matter.

"The need is greater now than ever before. Inasmuch as the bookmobile is totally inoperable, Ward 3 is without library services. I hope that the Board will now step up their activities for a branch library for Ward 3. I have discussed this matter recently with Mr. Warren Watson."

Immediate action on the request is asked by Koegler.

Sgts. Buckley, Murphy At Institute

Quincy Police Sergeants Francis S. Buckley and William F. Murphy, Jr. are among 34 registrants attending the 36th session of the Command Training Institute for police officers sponsored by the New England Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc.

Classes will continue until March 12 at Babson College, Wellesley. A total of 1,085 New England police officers have attended the sessions at Babson since 1967.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Insiders are betting that Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre will not seek-or accept- the near $40,000 Senate Counsel post, he reportedly can have.

The way they see it for a man as politically active and ambitious as McIntyre, the counsel job would be dullsville.

McIntyre enjoys the political limelight, is well thought of in political circles, and at age 40 may still have a long way to go-politically UP.

The Senate counsel job, or a judgeship, insiders believe is something he might be interested in 10 or 15 years from now. But not now.

BUT at age 40 and with his political sights trained high McIntyre would be "lost" in the senate counsel job. He'd become a forgotten man.

Well, for example, can you name the present senate counsel?

★★★

SPECULATION around City Hall is that you might see a bit of "Musical Chairs" in the next few weeks or months.

A department head is believed to be in line to fill the vacancy when Rudolph Lofgren, assistant superintendent in charge of school maintenance, retires in April.

The job reportedly will be placed under civil service and the title changed from assistant superintendent to supervisor of maintenance or something like that.

It's a better paying job and will have more security than the post the department head now holds.

And, a top City Hall figure is being mentioned as the man to succeed that department head o: another department head.

QUINCY Republican City Committee has a new chairman. Thomas H. Blacklock of 37 Campbell St., West Quincy, was elected to succeed Roy Lawson at a special meeting at The Hollow the other night.

Blacklock is also chairman of the Ward 4 Republican Committee. Lawson who had been chairman of the Republican City Committee for five years, resigned because of business reasons.

Two other coattenders for the chairmanship were Atty. John Jorcoran and Atty. James Shannon.

★★★

HE INDICATES he's not interested, but friends of Robert Denver, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council, think he might just run for: School Committee this fall. Denver is a vigorous opponent of the proposed free hot lunch program for schools.

★★★

FAMILY AFFAIR: North Quincy basketball Coach Bob Nolan had mixed emotions when his team eliminated Weymouth North from the Tech Tourney. Nolan and Weymouth Coach Bill Kearns are brothers-in-law.

★★★

SMALL WORLD: Gil Crofts, former executive director of the Quincy YMCA, pulled into a Caribbean island on his boat recently.

He got to talking to a fellow and they discovered they had virtually been neighbors. Crofts a Quincy resident and his new acquaintance, Rapzard Hassel, a Randolph resident.

And also discovered both had a mutual friend, City Auditor Alexander Smith.

★★★

SOMEDAY soon there may be another Mele hitting the left field wall at Fenway Park. Steve Mele, 15-year-old son of Sam Mele, will be playing for Archbishop Willams' baseball team this spring. Plays both infield and outfield. Stands 6 feet now and if he can hit like Pop, he might be up in the majors someday.

But right now, Steve is more interested in the Tech Tourney. He's a guard on the Bishops basketball team.

★★★

BREATH: James [Pete] Ricciuti, executive secretary to Mayor James McIntyre, and wife, Doris, winding up a brief vacation in Hollywood, Fla. Will be home this weekend.

★★★

FASHION DEPT: A couple columns back we noted how nice the girls in Mayor James McIntyre's office look in their pant suits. We mentioned Mrs. Louise Brabazon and Mrs. Jean Ayer. But, just like a man, overlooked Janet Nascarella, Sheila Tobin, Helen Steriti and Anne Minukas. And they really do look cute. [Now I should be able to get back into the Mayor's office]

★★★

Finance Committee Cuts $102,900

Smyth Sees Possible $10-To-$15 Tax Increase

SUNDAES FOR SURVIVAL — Dr. Charles Djerf, president of Survival, Inc., accepts $125. check for drug rehabilitation program, proceeds from an ice cream sundae benefit held by Houghs Neck Congregational Church Junior High Fellowship. A Cool Smorgasbord

Polish Off 16 Gallons Of Ice Cream To Aid Survival

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Some 250 persons - mostly youngsters - consumed 128 pints of ice cream for Survival, Inc., at an "all-you-can-eat" ice cream sundae smorgasbord held by the Junior High Fellowship at Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Proceeds of $125 will benefit Survival, Inc.'s drug rehabilitation program. A check for this amount was presented Monday to Dr. Charles Djerf, Survival's president, at Broad Meadows Junior High School, which most of the Fellowship members attend.

"One kid ate 6 sundaes - you wouldn't believe it!" said Sandy Rounseville, advisor to the group. "Along with the ice cream, we had butterscotch topping, hot fudge, pineapple and strawberry, with whipped cream and nuts."

"We didn't think it would be successful, but it shows that the kids are really interested in this problem, and maybe some more of the adults should start thinking about it!"

Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, member of the board of Survival, Inc., was on hand to answer questions, but because of the unexpected size of the group attending, her talk will be postponed until a future date can be arranged.

Junior High Fellowship members working on the project were Karen Christie of Central Junior High in Weymouth; Janet Cossette, treasurer; Kim MacLeod, secretary; Joanne Baxendale, Barbara Rudolph, Cheryl Haskins, Adrienne Blowers, Sharon Halwix and Claire Sullivan, all from Broad Meadows; and Janis Blowers from Central Junior High in Quincy.

Assisting were Pilgrim Fellowship members Yvette Shaw, Richard Trubiano, Robert Trubiano and Bob Christie.

Finance Committee Chairman J. Vincent Smyth sees a possible $10 to $15 hike in the 1971 Quincy tax rate.

Present rate is $132.20.

The Finance Committee, comprising all nine city councilors, has cut $102,900 from Mayor James R. McIntyre's proposed $45,003,895 budget.

The sum is the total cut to date from budget requests of 12 departments.

On Saturday, the committee will tackle requests of several other departments in an all-day session.

Smyth expects his committee to finish up its pruning of the budget by March 27 for final council passage April 5.

Smyth tempered his forecast of a possible $10 to $15 tax hike with caution.

"It could be between a $10 and $15 hike," he said. "However, you have to amend this statement by saying that there are many variable factors to be taken into consideration before the final tax increase is effected."

These include:

- "We won't know how much state aid we will receive.
- "We don't know what the 'cherry sheets' will reveal.
- "We don't know what the legislature will do on the Governor's tax proposal.
- "We don't even know what the federal government is going to do with revenue sharing.

• "This hike would be based on the budget submitted to members of the City Council and on the review by the City Council members."

On Saturday the Finance Committee will consider budgets of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Park, Forestry and Recreation, Fire and Police Departments.

Sessions starting about 9:30 a.m. will be held in the Council Chamber and are open to the public.

"We are urging citizens to attend these budget sessions so that they can see first hand how the Finance Committee works at these expenditures," Smyth says.

Not many have attended so far.

The Finance Committee had cut $102,900 from the budgets by mid-week.

Approximately $210,000 equals about $1. on the tax rate, Smyth said. "We still have a few more big departments to review yet."

"We certainly hope to be able to cut more," he said. "As we look at the budget thus far, it is a very tight budget, and the Mayor has already, as you know, chopped off over $3 million."

"It is a very tight budget. We certainly hope to cut more. We are scrutinizing the budget very closely this year in view of the condition of the City economically."

Population 90,000?

City Census To Be Completed Next Week

The City Census which got underway on Monday is expected to be completed by the end of next week.

Some 80 census takers are fanning through the city knocking on doors to list all residents of the city who are 17 years of age and over.

At the same time, they are listing all occupants of all residences for the state census.

The last state census showed 87,158 residents in Quincy.

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke thinks the population now could be "around 90,000."

The 17-year-olds are being listed in preparation for registering as voters. Residents may now register at age 18 and may vote or run for municipal office at age 19.

Mayor Names 13 Commanders To Veterans' Services Board

Commanders of 13 Quincy veterans organizations have been appointed by Mayor James R. McIntyre as members of the Veterans' Services Advisory Board for the City of Quincy.

The appointments are effective immediately and will continue through the first Monday in February, 1972.

Members are:

Commander J. Irving Fletcher, Veterans of World War I of USA, Inc.; Commander

S/Sgt. James Laskey of William R. Caddy Detachment, Marine Corps League; Commander George Swartz of Jewish War Veterans Post No. 22; Commander Roger Whitcomb of Quincy Memorial Post No. 7 AMVETS; Commander William Stadig of Charles J. Cavanaugh Chapter No. 79 DAV.

Nickerson Post No. 382; Commander Ambrose Powers of Cyril P. Morrisette Post No. 294; Commander James M. Hewitt of Quincy Post No. 95, American Legions Posts; and Commander Roy Miller of Quincy Veterans Council.

Republican chairman.

Active in community affairs, he has worked for the United Fund and Heart Fund campaigns.

No Decision On School Lunch

The Quincy City Council's Finance Committee has not as yet made a decision on the school lunch program, according to J. Vincent Smyth, chairman.

"We will probably discuss the school lunch program when we discuss the school budget," Smyth says.

"The school budget will be one of the last departments to be heard," he comments. "We haven't actually scheduled it definitely yet."

PET THERAPY FOR OLDSTERS

Pets are good therapy for lonely, old people say psychologists. It has been proven that animal companions help such people overcome feelings of being unwanted and useless. For the old person, the pet is often a love object and dependent on him. By taking care of his pet's needs, the older person pays more attention to his own needs.

Affection for a dog, for example, spurs an ailing person to carry on his daily chores despite his liabilities. Walking his dog forces him into physical activity that benefits his own health. When he buys food for his pet, he may also think of some foods that would stimulate his own diminishing appetite. A fringe benefit of dog walking is that it provides occasions for meeting other people.

For the bed-ridden person, an acquisition of pet life. Fish require minimum care and watching them can provide hours of amusement.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. Just For One Day

I know I am dreaming it's torture to say

If you could return to us just for one day,

The tiny boy's you left have grown into men

The little dainty girl's are lovely women,

The house is the same and the soil you loved too

As if you'd cast a magic spell the way the plants grew.

Some neighbors have passed on, there are a few that are new

The old ones remember the kind things you would do.

If you came back I wonder if you would say,

What has happened since I went away?

The mini skirt, the long hair, the attitude,

Does anyone care?

We will have to let it be

You can't return to our world you see

What God has willed and whoever he has called, shall be so

For it is our consolation, that into your world,

We, one day must go.

Nightfall's Harmony

Still is the sea while its shore it shaves,

Surrounded by night, the sea's silent waves.

Installed in the dark my thoughts are viewed,

An array of doubt, still misconstrued.

Yet, it's peaceful here, my mind's at ease

Though the wobbly dock rocks in the breeze.

With feet immersed, again I attempt,

To see my life, and do what I've dreamt.

But not just yet, for I will savor,

Night's tranquility, it's tasteful flavor.

And this I'll do, before dawn breaks,

To relish the night, and the peace it creates.

PEASANT APPROACH TO SPRING—Dots and denim create a dashing young dress with the look of a two-piece outfit. The blue and white skirt with rickrack-trimmed suspenders is attached to a dotted red bodice with ruffles at the neck and sleeves. In all-cotton, it's by Lois Ann Petites of Dallas.

Some Like It Hot... Some Like It Cold...

For a hearty mid-winter supper how about grilled knockwurst and sauerkraut in toasted bread shells, with hot potato salad and a crunchy celery salad? It's a menu that makes a marvelous Saturday night supper and one that is sure to make a hit with the teenagers as a change from their regular party fare of hamburgers or pizza.

With this hearty meal serve mugs of hot or iced tea. If you serve it hot, be sure to make it strong and hearty, remembering to use one teaspoon of tea or one teabag per serving. If you serve it cold (and more and more families are serving iced tea all year round), remember to use 50 percent more tea to allow for melting ice. Here's an easy way to make a big pitcherful, enough for 10 servings:

- Bring 1 quart freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
- Remove from the heat and immediately add 15 teabags or ½ measuring cup loose tea.
- Stir, cover and let stand 5 minutes.
- Stir and strain into a pitcher holding another quart of cold water.
- When ready to serve, pour into ice-filled glasses.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Mar. 4 - 11

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Shouldering extra responsibility improves your standing, especially if old people or a large business enterprise is part of it.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - The burdens thrust upon you cause an emotional upset and put a strain on the budget but an older person comes to your rescue.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - This is a poor time for dealing with the Government or large organizations - you may feel confident but others not sharing this viewpoint.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - If you have a trip in mind, take it now because you may be either too busy later or you will run into some opposition.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Many things can upset you this week and could cause unforeseen expenditures. Take an objective look at your true state of affairs.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - You can expect an "eye opener" revealing situations not to your liking. The action you take could cause disputes or separations.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Your social, domestic and financial affairs are now rapidly improving and this should put you in a much happier frame of mind.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - The plans you are putting in motion could cause trouble with loved ones. Being secretive will only add fuel to the fire.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Vague worries or being too aggressive could spoil what should be a beautiful experience. Relax and enjoy the friendship offered.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Don't delay in contacting serious-minded people since they could help to improve your position. Interviews go well.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Mystery and secrecy prevail. Your hopes, wishes, and dreams are being highlighted now and will soon begin coming true.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Don't let your own impulsiveness push you into anything that will further entangle your affairs. Double check before acting.

It's In To Be Thin

By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

Fat Is Where It's At...

That is a phrase which appears on the back of a new book which lauds the praises of staying the way you are. The one thought that kept running through my head when I read that line was, yes, fat's where it's at...that's where heart attacks are at, that's where diabetes is at...ulcers, gallstones, arthritis, etcetera.

If you decide that you would rather be fat, rather than harness your energies and diet your way to better health and better looks, well then, that's a personal decision, and within your right. I do think, however, that it is unethical in the face of all scientific evidence to advise others to follow your lead.

Based on all we know medically, and certainly what we are aware of socially, it is still, and I dare to say, will ever be, in to be thin.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

Mr., Mrs. Andrew Ruggiano Honored On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ruggiano of 271 Water St., South Quincy were honored at a surprise dinner dance in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary held at Torre De Passeri Social Hall. An Open house followed at the couple's home.

Hosts were their three children, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kabilian [Toni], Andrew Ruggiano and John Ruggiano, all of Quincy.

The couple were married at St. John's Church, Feb. 24, 1946. Mrs. Ruggiano is the former Frances Mignosa.

More than 100 friends and relatives, including guests from Cape Cod and New York, attended the event. Members of the original wedding party present were Joseph Ruggiano, best man and brother of Andrew Ruggiano, and Mrs. Kay Staffieri, maid of honor and sister of Mrs. Ruggiano.

Mr. Ruggiano, a Quincy barber, has owned and operated his shop for more than 20 years. The couple are lifelong residents of Quincy and Cape Cod.

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'What's Strangling You?'

"I just feel awful"...the young wife was saying..."I'm so nervous...tense...depressed so much of the time...I just feel like I'm being strangled."

We had to find who/what was strangling her...who/what was preventing her from feeling like the full...free woman she wanted to be...then to get rid of the strangler.

Strangling her was an awful guilt and feeling of shame which enveloped her whole life. It wasn't even anything she had done. It seems that as a 10-year-old child she had been sexually molested by her step-father. He threatened her if she told anyone. Hence...she feared to tell her mother. All these years having never told anyone she had lived with this feeling of guilt. Now she's 33...had become shy...withdrawn...feeling she had to hide this "awful thing". She was married but not happily. She couldn't give herself in trust...because every time her husband touched her she felt the hands of her step-father. So...she was just doing her "duty"...but not enjoying the sexual relationship as a woman should. Of course neither she nor her husband benefited much from this sort of arrangement. He was unhappy with her...yet he loved her. She was depressed with the situation...but until now had done nothing about it. She really felt strangled.

Many people are their own strangler...some because they are carrying resentments and hurts from the past...they've been misused...hurt by an older brother while still at home...or a former husband...or former wife...and these persons still carrying along the grudge are strangled by the old feelings of hurt.

Some men feel strangled by their wives...the wife who is so possessive that the man can't be 15 minutes late home from work without running into a buzz saw the moment he steps into the kitchen. This fellow feels strangled.

I know a very lovely wife who feels strangled by having to care for four children of an alcoholic husband who sits there in the evening half-in-the-bag...giving no stability...no companionship...no conversation...really not being a HUSBAND...because he's a sick man who isn't facing his sickness...nor doing anything about it. She's starved for affection and longs for the warm companionship of a man. In her situation she feels strangled.

Many a teen-ager feels strangled because he/she lives with such immature unfeeling parents who do not understand feelings...who try to control their children by badgering...unnecessary restrictions...out-moded ideas that the young person can't possibly accept. In the heart of the young person is the conflict of eager desire to please parents...yet to be himself/herself. So...here again is the feeling of being strangled.

There are all kinds of strangling forces which we don't recognize...like failing to "leave father and mother and cleave to wife/husband" or remaining a "spoiled brat"...like being slave to a fetish about health...food...cleanliness. [I had a classmate who had a compulsion of changing his shirt as much as six times daily.] I know a woman who submits to a strangling situation because of an unwise promise to her mother on her deathbed. Others are strangled by devotion to religious ideas which even their church has now repudiated...but which they still hold to.

I suspect that the problem of many is that they are afraid...yes I said AFRAID to accept their true feelings and recognize that they will continue to feel strangled as long as they do nothing about their situations. Far too many "join the sick situation" rather than courageously reaching out for help from some source...either improve it...or get out of it. Cancer doesn't usually "get better" without treatment. Neither do many cancerous emotional problems. Your feeling of being strangled may be a good sign that there is still healthy life in you. Don't continue to disregard the signs too long...it could get to be too late. I have the deepest respect for that wife who yearned for real life...who just would not settle for a deep-seated psychological thing she'd carried in her heart for so long. She came to have new love for herself...came out of her withdrawn...hiding...depressed...unhappiness. Her outward appearance changed...the way she dressed...the smile...the self-assured and positive way she went about her life duties. She changed outwardly because she had changed inwardly. Her soul was freed.

What's strangling you? If nothing at all...good. Don't allow anything or anyone to strangle you. If you feel strangled determine what it is...or who it is...and be sure you're not your own strangler. Then do something about it. Living with the feeling of being strangled just isn't a very acceptable way of life.

'What's Right With America?'Many Of Our Serious Problems Are Growing Pains

[Editor's note: Marlene Fantucchio of 241 Water St., South Quincy, a ninth grade student at Central Junior, won a $50 third prize in the recent essay contest sponsored by the South Shore Auto Dealer's Association.

Subject of the contest, entered by 391 South Shore students, was a refreshing one: "What's Right With America?" Her prize-winning essay follows. Essays of other Quincy Public School winners will also appear in the Quincy Sun.]

By MARLENE FANTUCCHIO
Central Junior High,
Ninth Grade

In both the United States and abroad, there is presently a trend for pessimistic and fatalistic evaluation of the situation in this country.

The majority of people are only too quick to moan tragically over the poverty, pollution, prejudice, and the over-all faults of our nation. While a certain percentage of their concern is wholly justified, we must consider also, the many merits of this nation which they either innocently or purposely disregard, or of which they are unfortunately unaware.

It is, in my opinion, which is far from that of an expert, impossible for one to compile a study of a nation's political and moral assets without also realizing an equal number of liabilities. This is true because for every issue and topic of concern, there are corresponding vices and qualities.

Therefore, in examining "what's right" with the United States, I find that my results are far more accurate if I point out also, the faults, in view of the fact that much of what's right evolves as a result of the resolution or the combatting of our problems. A major asset of the United States is its age. Our 194 years of independence is comparatively small, in consideration of the fact that many anciently originated nations and societies are still far from perfection.

In view of this, many of our seemingly serious problems are in essence, growing pains. In other words, we are still laying the foundation for our descendants, and are faced with the task of correcting the errors of the inexperience of our pioneering ancestors. We can by no means undo in our short life span what has been done in centuries past.

However, the task before us is not futile, and must not be abandoned. If we refuse to begin the work, no one else will begin it.

One of the primary concerns of the United States and the world, is the attainment of peace. The United States' involvement in the Vietnam conflict has been referred to as foolish, unnecessary, and belligerent. Many people claim we are involved because the United States government "just can't mind its own business". This common remark immediately brands its user of a complete ignorance of the reasons for our involvement.

On July 20, 1954 at the Geneva Conference, a proposal was made that an election take place to elect a single leader for both North and South Vietnam. The United States and South Vietnam alone, disagreed to this proposal. The reasons for this were simple. Having such an election, a Communist would most certainly be forced into office, spreading Communist ideologies to the south, and eventually other areas.

Therefore, when fighting broke out, the United States resolved not to allow the South Vietnamese to fall under Communist control for lack of U.S. support. War was never declared because in doing so, we would be declaring war also on the USSR and Red China, which breeds the danger of nuclear war, and on France and England, heretofore Allies.

The above nations were all signers of the election treaty, thereby becoming opposition of the United States and South Vietnam, who were not. By its actions in the Vietnam situation, the United States is simultaneously avoiding nuclear war, preventing the oppression of an underprivileged people, and defending our ideological premise for democracy and freedom. That's what's right with our country!!!

Another current plight is that of the generation gap. This is not a new problem, in fact I am doubtful as to whether or not it is a problem. Nevertheless, it stems from the fact that Americans are strong in their convictions and rarely hesitate to stand up for their beliefs. Naturally, conflicting opinions are aired, yet the holders of these opinions do not falter; they maintain their footing and dare to be different if they honestly believe in themselves. That's what's right with our country!!!

MARLENE FANTUCCHIO

The United States has numerous volunteer programs: VISTA, the Peace Corps, project HOPE, and the American Red Cross, inclusive. These volunteers are often over-worked, not paid, and help not only at home, but abroad. What more can be said?

It is incorrectly felt that religion is dead in the United States. Yet more churches are being built daily, and are rarely empty. That's what's right with our country!!!

Poverty is still another complaint of many. Yet it is proportionally on the decline, and by percentage is uncommon. The United States remains as the world's wealthiest nation, and has one of the highest per capita incomes for a nation of its tremendous size. Our problems of poverty barely warrant attention when compared with those of other nations. While we may not have 100% affluence, we do have a goal to strive for.

Many flag-waving fanatics preach against the racism and other prejudices of this nation. However, the past ten years has brought more Civil Rights legislation than any other comparable period. And segregation is rapidly being abolished in hopes of the subsequent abolition of prejudice. That's what's right with this country!!!

The United States also has excellent educational opportunities, vast and available. As a result of our superlative educational standards, the United States has become far enough advanced to reach the moon, explore the sea, and revolutionize architectural design, in anticipation of the inevitable over-crowding of the earth's land surface. In this respect, the U.S. is trying to solve a problem before it arises.

In addition to technological advancements, our nation has made many medical advancements. Much research is presently being conducted, and much has already been rewarded by the success of cures and discovery. Also in this field is the recent fund-raising telethon for muscular dystrophy which raised a record-breaking total of over $5 million dollars in contributions as a result of the work of many unselfish individuals. Occurrences such as these are not uncommon in this country. That's what's right with our country!!!

Industry is another area in which the United States is a forerunner. The automobile output of the U.S. is over half of the world's total. And there are over 312,000 manufacturing establishments in operation.

American farms are presently over-producing our needs, making the U.S. an agricultural leader. Much of this surplus food is sent to less fortunate nations. The United States is also a leader in mining, forestry and fishing.

Drugs, although a serious problem, are definitely recognized by all as a problem. Therefore many rehabilitation, self-help, and prevention programs have been established, utilizing funds donated by concerned individuals, and time given by volunteers who ask nothing for their services. Numerous anti-narcotic campaigns have been launched, and are effectively instrumental in educating and warning the young and old against drugs.

Crime? It's not a new problem, but more publicized by anti-American propagandists who "tell it like it is" only when it suits their blood-thirsty and slanderous needs. Crime is not a problem unique to the United States alone. But while crime is present, we also have scores of dedicated public servants, intent on curbing the crime rate. These people are cognizant of their task, and disregard their own welfare in the face of danger. That's what's right with our country!!!

Protest is also common, but is it really a problem? Some sort of protest is necessary to bring about any type of change or improvement. I'm not advocating rock throwing, burning, assassination, or bombing; I'm merely calling to mind the fact that this country was founded, built, and won independence through protest.

Still another liability that contains within it some good, is pollution. Life is not possible without some pollution. The very successes we have achieved are pollutants. Industry, technology, and modern conveniences are all pollutants. Because of our affluence and accomplishments, we are called upon for payment through the ecological structure of the nation. However, in the midst of our pollution plague, there has also been a tide of anti-pollution devices developed, volunteer work for cleaning up the polluted waterways and land, and research begun for remedial action.

This illustrates once again that Americans do care, they aren't blind to their own vices, and they aren't afraid of getting their hands dirty for the betterment of themselves and their fellow man.

While I have outlined a portion of the major merits of the United States, I did not completely disregard our inadequacies. In doing so, I would have been as much at fault as the melodramatic fatalists who fail to recognize anything but disaster. Sidestepping problems is cowardly, which is precisely the reason I did not even consider portraying the United States as 100% perfect.

In spite of my cognizance of our inadequacies, the good still outweighs the bad, not only in my opinion, but in reality. The facts speak for themselves.

The one recommendation for improvement of what we now possess, is awareness. A person cannot be anything but apathetic towards that which he knows nothing about. Instead of name-calling and ostracism directed at those who are uninformed, we must collectively take on the job of informing them.

Very rarely does a person feel concern for something that does not effect his state of being. In order to arouse interest, it must be pointed out to these individuals, their importance to the survival of the American people as a whole. When the involvement, awareness, and concern of literally everyone is attained, then, and only then, will we be capable of focussing our attention on perfection.

Until that time, what we, the people of the United States of America have, is far nearer Utopia than any civilization has ever dared hope to be.

Quincy GOP Delegation To Attend Regional Meeting Tonight

A Quincy delegation will attend the second in a series of regional meetings on rebuilding the Republican party tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. at Hotel 128, Dedham.

The Quincy group will include:

Rep. Walter J. Hannon, Thomas Blacklock of 37

Campbell St., new chairman of the Quincy Republican City Committee; Roy A. Lawson, 40 Sherman St., former chairman; Mrs. Anita Ashby, 98 Fenno St.; Walter C. Fuller, 9 Oakridge Rd. and Mrs. Thomas Andrew, 30 Delano Ave.

Lt. Gov. Donald R. Dwight has arranged the meeting in order to discuss at length with local party leaders their ideas and plans for strengthening the Massachusetts GOP.

A total of eight regional meetings will be held. Herbert Waite, new chairman of the Republican State Committee, will also participate in the meeting.

Snug Harbor School To Benefit From England Science Convention

Ideas and innovations from a science convention in Great Britain are now benefiting Snug Harbor School students, according to Harold S. Crowley, Jr., a member of the Quincy Education Association.

"The whole experience at the convention of the Association of Science Education of the United Kingdom held in Brighton, England, was a most rewarding and enlightening one for me," said Crowley.

"I brought back many ideas which I am presently incorporating in my class room teaching."

He described the convention as having a large display of scientific apparatus, many familiar and others with features he had not seen in the United States.

"Like us, the British are faced with very similar problems,"

Crowley said. "They also stress the scientific process and are laboratory centered."

Crowley, who has served on the QEA's Scholarship Committee and in other positions, is a graduate of Northeastern University with a master's degree in education. In addition to working with Boy Scouts, he teaches also at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston.

St. Boniface Club Pantsuit Fashion Show March 10

St. Boniface Catholic Women's Club will hold a pantsuit fashions show March 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the parish hall on Palmer St., Germantown.

Modeling fashions by Forever Young, Lady Carroll and Cos Cob will be club members Mrs.

Bruno Lotti, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Frank Myett and Mrs. Mary Burke.

Three pantsuits will be awarded as prizes.

Mrs. John Flynn is chairman for the event, open to all women of the parish.

Three From Voc-Tech Attend Workshop

Frank Mullen, guidance counselor for Adult Basic Education at Quincy Vocational-Technical School, and teachers Dana Smith and Eugene Ronayne were chosen to attend a two-day workshop in counselor orientation and teacher awareness held recently at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

The workshop was funded by the Massachusetts Department of Education in cooperation with the University of Texas.

Red Cross Urgently Needs Emergency Disaster Funds

Emergency disaster funds are needed urgently, says Irving J. Boyes, Chapter Chairman for the Greater Quincy Red Cross, in an appeal to the public.

Tornadoes, blizzards and flood conditions across the country have sent Red Cross disaster specialists into Mississippi, Louisiana, Illinois, Nebraska and Texas, to aid victims.

In Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, it is estimated that more than 750 homes were destroyed, 125 farm buildings demolished and about 125 small businesses either destroyed or suffered major damage.

Contributions to aid the stricken disaster victims may be sent to Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter, 57 Revere Rd., Quincy, 02169.

Arthur Ciampa Re-Elected Council On Aging Chairman

Arthur Ciampa has been re-elected chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging; Charles McGarry, vice chairman; and Mrs. Ann Caffey, secretary.

Other Council members are Clarence L. Edwards, Charles

Edgerly, Theodore Johnson, Mrs. Percy MacLean, Mrs. Joseph A. MacRitchie, Rabbi Jacob Mann, Clarence Metcalf, Alf Nelson, Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney, William F. Ryan and Mrs. William Wolf.

Discuss Voc-Tech's Programs For Students With Needs

Quincy Vocational-Technical High School's programs for students with special needs was discussed recently with Member of Marlborough-Westborough Mental Health Board and two supervisors with the State's special education division.

The group is securing background information for a proposed regional vocational school in Assabet Valley.

The visitors met with Asst. Supt. Maurice J. Daly, in charge of Vocational Education; Wilfred Nolan, coordinator of elementary schools; Frieda Dirks, coordinator of special education; and Gerald Ridge, teacher in the special needs program.

Chorus, Cast Members Sought For St. Mary's Minstrel Show

Additional chorus and cast members are needed for a minstrel and variety show now under production by St. Mary's parish, to be presented next month.

Performances at Sterling Junior High School are scheduled for April 25 at 2 p.m., April 26 and 27 at 8 p.m.

Rehearsals are Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Hall.

Bar Association To Elect Officers

The Quincy Bar Association will hold an election of officers at the March 11 dinner meeting at Sherry's, 579 Southern Artery, Quincy. George M. Tull will preside.

Dinner is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. with a 6 to 7:30 p.m. cocktail hour preceding.

Those planning to attend should make reservations with Atty. Benjamin Rudner, Harold Carter or John Newton.

'What Is A Junior High?' To Be Presented At Atlantic March 10

A program, "What is a Junior High School?" will be presented in the auditorium of Atlantic Junior High School March 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Parents whose children will be entering Atlantic as seventh grade pupils next September are especially invited to attend along with those whose children are presently in grades seven or eight.

Featured will be a visual presentation. "What is a Junior High School?" to be given by Miss Louise B. Forsyth, Coordinator of Guidance Services, Quincy Public Schools.

Miss Forsyth has been meeting with each sixth grade class to present the program as a preliminary activity for later orientation experiences. The program gives a general view of junior high schools and encourages questioning about what is ahead.

Principal Richard K. Chrystal and Assistant Principal Louis R. DiMartino, will join with a panel of seventh grade students to give information about Atlantic and to answer any questions raised by the audience.

Seventh grade panelists include Donna Gigante, Mary Gallagher, Richard Mahoney, Vernon Montoya, Richard Stohlberg and Lisa Thompson.

ENC, Olivet Establishing Nursing Transfer Program

A transfer program leading to a Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing after four years of study will be established between Eastern Nazarene College and Olivet Nazarene College of Kankakee, Ill.

Announcement was made jointly by Dean Donald L. Young of ENC and Academic Vice-President Willis E. Snobarger of ONC.

Students wishing to transfer to Olivet in Nursing will take a prescribed course of study for two years at ENC which will allow them to complete the nursing courses at Olivet after two additional years and receive the B.S. degree in Nursing.

Cooperating in establishing and articulating this Nursing Education program with highly qualified Christian teachers of nursing was Mrs. M. R. Sealye, Director of the Nursing Education Program, and a department of five teachers of nursing at ONC.

Details of these arrangements, which are pending final faculty action at both colleges, will be available from Dean Young's office in March.

HN Legion Post Distributes

3,000 Copies Of POW Prayer

The Houghs Neck Legion Post, Auxiliary and Squadron in the first cooperative effort, have distributed some 3,000 copies of "An American Legion Prayer for our Prisoners of War."

The distribution was concentrated during The American Legion Religious Emphasis Week in February at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church and Most Blessed Sacrament Church.

A second printing of 2,000 copies is nearing completion and will be distributed in Germantown through St. Boniface Church.

Heading the organizations are Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon, Houghs Neck Post; Mrs. Mary Timcoe, president, Auxiliary; and Commander Thomas Timcoe, Squadron.

Sylvia: 'My Biggest Thrill'

Many Helped Bring Quincy Hockey Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's hockey team, Greater Boston League champion for the first time, opened its quest for Eastern Mass. Tourney honors last night against the Eastern Mass. and state champion the last two years, Needham.

When the teams squared off at Boston Arena, Quincy fans were remembering last year's tourney in which the Presidents pulled off one of the greatest upsets of all time, shocking second-seeded Arlington.

Although Quincy was eliminated in the next round by Boston Tech, the win over Arlington gained a lot of respect for Quincy hockey.

Needham, which romped to the state crown in 1969 and 1970 behind the sensational Bobby Forek, backed into the tourney this year, failing to reach the 75 percent qualifying figure, but automatically qualified by finishing second to undefeated Norwood in the Bay State League.

"This is a good Needham team despite its record [12-5-1]," Quincy Coach Bob Sylvia said. "We are going to have to meet them sooner or later so it might as well be right off the bat. They didn't have as good a regular season as they did a year ago and they'll want to make up for it in the tournament. I expect a real tough game."

If the Presidents got by Needham, they will face the winner of yesterday's Matignon-Hull game Monday at 3:20 at the Arena. Then it will be to the Boston Garden for the quarterfinals, semifinals and finals.

"If anyone had told me at the start of the season we would win or tie 18 of our 20 games [Quincy finished 14-2-4], I would have laughed at them," Sylvia said. "We graduated 14 seniors last year and only a few of our players saw more than a smattering of varsity action a year ago. This was a group of kids who basically won the junior varsity title last year, and by hard work and never giving up, went on to win the varsity crown this year."

"Even our co-captains, Bobby Cattaneo and Alan Colby, saw limited varsity action. Our goalie, Artie Boyle, whom I rate the best in the Greater Boston League, was only a sophomore and moved into the starting position at mid-season. He proved himself and was in the nets for our great 5-2 upset over Arlington in the tourney."

Bob admits he had some early season problems but developed a fine second line, the boys began to work better together and soon rolled on high. The Presidents were undefeated in their final 13 games of the season.

Quincy's first line of Ed Wiedemann, Steve Cedrone and Steve Kleimola, was one of the finest in the league and Wiedemann was the Presidents' top scorer.

Other forwards, including mostly underclassmen, are Jack Black, Don Burke, Paul Campbell, Jim Cattaneo, Russ Connors, Ken Kearney, Pete McNally, Ed Mitchell, Austin Norton, John Prescott and Jim Starkey. Burke will miss the tourney because of an injury.

Black, a sophomore, scored the tying goal against Revere in the season's finale, a 2-2 tie with Revere. He moved into the second line when Sylvia removed Campbell, who was hurting, and had him killing penalties with Kearney.

On defense the Quincy coach, who is taking his fourth team in five years into the tourney, has alternated Bob Cattaneo, Colby and Rick Patten as starters and others who have done their jobs are Steve Bergonzi, Mike Doolin, Colin Kearney, Ken's twin brother, and Steve Lewis.

Spelling junior Boyle in goal has been sophomore Pat Dempsey, who shows great promise, while Dennis McCarthy is another capable goalie.

"Winning the championship has to be the biggest thrill of my life," Sylvia said. "In all my years as a high school and college player and coach I had never won a title. We just missed a few years ago in the Met League. I feel we won this championship for all the people of Quincy."

"I must thank a lot of people, including my assistant and junior varsity coach, Jack Scanlan, and four volunteer aides, Bill Hanson, Phil Mormino, Jim Sylvia and Jack Raymer. Also, my fine managers, Frank Hendry and Steve Rizzi, and my junior high coach, Ken Hayes, who is doing an excellent job."

"And there are several people connected with youth hockey in the city who have done much for the boys on this team and boys coming up. They include Bob Hayes, who runs the Quincy Youth program, and Ed Hanson, who operates the hockey program at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, which produced Wiedemann, Boyle and Black among others."

"Then there is Russ Erickson, who founded the Friends of Quincy Hockey, a group which now includes about 200 people. Art Boyle, Artie's father, is president this year."

Sylvia went on to cite a number of his former players for setting a fine example for the boys. Several were present at the season's final game against Revere including Jack Crowley and Buzzy Gillis, the captains of his first two teams; Chuck Condos, Chuck Peterson and Pete Erickson, whom he rates as one of his two finest goalies. Boyle is the other.

When Sylvia finished thanking everyone else for the help in bringing the title to Quincy, Scanlan, whose jayvees are unbeaten through 15 games going back to last year, said, "The one guy who's most responsible for all this is Bob Sylvia. He took a bunch of kids who had much potential and he molded them into a winning team. Only his particular type of leadership and coaching could have done it."

"When the season started I was just hoping for a first division finish and another tourney berth," Sylvia went on. "Now that we have surpassed all my expectations and won the title, I'd love to see the boys make the Garden. It will be a real battle but the way they have been going, they could do it."

Whereas Quincy graduated 14 seniors a year ago, it will lose only eight players from this year's team. Four are key starters, Bob Cattaneo, Colby, Wiedemann and Kleimola. The others are the Kearney twins, Doolin and Lewis.

Quincy tuned up for the tourney by playing the GBL all-stars last week at the Arena. The Presidents lost, 3-1, with Cedrone scoring the Quincy goal and North Quincy's Tom O'Malley scoring the winning goal for the 'stars'. The final all-star goal was scored into the open Quincy net as Sylvia pulled his goalie in an effort to tie the game.

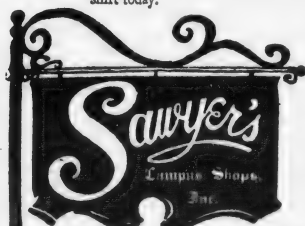

Quincy's Boyle, Wiedemann and Bob Cattaneo were named to the all-star squad in addition to North's O'Malley, but played with the Presidents in the game.

Conroy Coach For Agganis All-Star Game

Hank Conroy who led Quincy's football team to its first perfect season and the Greater Boston League title last fall, has been named one of four coaches for the South team in the 10th annual Harry Agganis All-Star football game on Aug. 7 at Lynn's Manning Bowl.

It is expected Hank will have some of his own Quincy players and probably some North Quincy players on the squad.

The combined record of the fourth South coaches last fall was 35-1. Armond Colombo's Brockton team, Conroy's Quincy club and Ed Beck's Braintree team were 9-0 and Carmen Scarpa's East Boston team finished 8-1.

ENC Girls Have Good Season

The Eastern Nazarene College girls' basketball team has finished up the season with an impressive 8-4 record.

Coach Nancy Detwiler's team also made an outstanding showing in the annual Women's Christian Intercollegiate Tournament at Barrington, R.I., taking second place.

The ENC women defeated Fitchburg State, 46-42; Boston College, 43-41; Nyack, 57-30; Gordon, 67-30; Barrington, 46-21; Gordon, 81-12; Brandeis, 64-47; and Wellesley, 57-48. They lost to Salem State, 43-36; Kings, 42-36; Barrington, 39-35; and Emmanuel, 39-28.

They made an outstanding showing in the Tourney at Barrington, R.I., placing second. They lost to Kings College of Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 44-36, in the finals after defeating Barrington, 42-32; Messiah, Pa., 46-34, and Philadelphia, 43-41.

"We have had our troubles keeping players this year," Mrs. Detwiler said. "That is part of dealing with women, I guess. Elaine Stahl of Braintree joined us at mid-term and has been a big help on the boards. Sue Calhoun of North Quincy is one of our veterans. She has a deadly outside set shot and is one of the keys to our fast break.

"Judy Pearsall of Quincy is our manager and serves as my right arm at times. We went to some games very shorthanded, which didn't help at all. Some of these losses reflect the loss of last year's scoring ace, Jan Brooks. The scoring is well-divided. The girls are a bunch of hustlers and we like to play a running game."

Other players are Anne Alverson, Linda Campbell, Marilyn Chessa, Kathy Miller, JoAnne Reed, Hazel Rook, Phyllis Vicionne and Barbara Warr. Sharon Freed is the team's timer.

N. Quincy Boosters Club Sports Night March 13

North Quincy Boosters Club will hold a Sports Night March 13 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at North Quincy High School gymnasium, headlined by Mr. America of 1969.

Proceeds will benefit the scholarship fund and provide for awards in all sports.

George Kottis, weightlifting coach at Eastern Nazarene College, will be master of ceremonies.

Jim DeCoste from Weymouth, holder of 11 NEAAU weight-lifting records, will demonstrate weight-lifting.

Don Mallet of North Quincy, former heavy weight champion; Paul Olsen, Hingham High School Senior and 198-lb Massachusetts champion, will also demonstrate weight-lifting.

Also demonstrating his prowess will be eight-year old Richard Panarelli, a third grader at Francis Parker School in North Quincy.

Other demonstrations will be in karate by boys from the Mattsen Academy of Karate; arm wrestling by North Quincy High School students; muscle control by Ed Jubinville from Holyoke, one of the greatest in the country.

John DeCola of Framingham, named 1969 "Mr. America" by Intercontinental Federation of Body Builders, will pose.

Adults' and students' tickets will be sold at the door.

Nicholas Panarelli is Sports Night chairman, with a committee including Jack Hemphill, Douglas Morrill, Paul Mahoney and Bill Bell.

Rollerettes Defeat Socialites

Rollerettes bowled high for the day to defeat the Socialites 1544-1311 in the second series of rounds in the 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney at Merrymount Daylight Alleys where eight teams remained in competition.

Lucky Strikes defeated the 19th Holers of the South Shore Country Club 1469-1428, the Alley Kats ousted Islamic Center 1436-1358, and the Eight O'Clock Rollers eliminated the Merrymount Women 1433-1402.

Rollerettes piled up a 233-pin lead over the Socialites, with Evie Lorusso's 345 leading the Rollerettes followed by Tina Lungari with 327. Helen Pomerica's 224 was high for the Socialites.

The Lucky Strikes took all three strings to defeat the 19th Holers. Hallie Parziple led the Lucky Strikes with 333, followed by Sally McCusker's 312 and Jodi Mitchell 305. Marge Haussmann with 318 was high for the losers.

The Alley Kats with a 76-pin lead defeated the Islamic Center team. Janice Hutchins with 294 led the Alley Kats, Sarah Cobban's 292 was second, while Joan Prezioso and Marie Ford had 289 each. Pat Roberts' 285 was high for the losers.

The Eight O'Clock Rollers with a 40-pin lead in the first two strings, lost the third to Merrymount Women, but still gained the victory. Betty DeCristofaro led 8 O'Clock with 306, with Ann Crespi adding 301. Mimi Altenback's 301 was top for Merrymount.

After One Snub ENC In King's Tourney Action

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, which last week completed its most successful season in history, is still disappointed at being snubbed for a NAIA Tourney invitation, but now is shooting for a berth in the National Christian College Tourney next week in Tennessee.

The Crusaders, who last Saturday exploded for 71 points in the second half to romp over Gordon, 113-80, finished up with a 21-4 record and won its last 14 games.

Tonight they open in the King's Invitational Tourney at Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y., and the winner of this event will be invited to the tournament in Tennessee.

"It is nice to have a tourney of some sort to look forward to, but we still would have loved an NAIA bid," Coach Jim Smith said. "They tell us it took the NAIA selection committee more than an hour to decide between us and Bentley for the fourth spot in the Southern District play. I imagine the fact we had lost early in the season to Bentley was one reason for their selection."

ENC had a better record than three of the four Southern District teams selected. Only top-seeded Rhode Island College had a better mark.

Another factor which makes the Crusaders feel they deserved an invitation was their win last Friday over Barrington. Barrington had won easily over St. Francis of Maine, the top-seeded team in the Northern District NAIA play.

ENC led by only seven points, 42-35, at the half last Saturday as Gordon dedicated its spanking new gym. But the Crusader's fast break killed the home club in the second half, as they outscored Gordon, 71-45.

Don Eads finished up a great season with 42 points and eight rebounds. Ron Bradley, again the team's top scorer, finished with another good night as he scored 25 points including 21 of the 71 second half points. Ron, who sat out most of the first half with an injury, also had nine rebounds and eight assists. Clark Adams scored 22.

Last Friday the Crusaders topped Barrington, 101-86, as 1700 fans jammed the North Quincy High gym and really let loose.

Braintree White Sox Plan Third Reunion April 10

The third annual reunion of the Braintree White Sox will be held April 10 at the Sons of Italy Hall, South Braintree.

The White Sox baseball team, oldest semi-pro organization in Massachusetts had been operating from the early 1900's until 1947 and was always rated at the top or close to being the best in the State during those years. The team played frequently in Quincy.

Last year, 140 players, fans and wives attended the reunion. Attendance goal this year is to hit the 200 mark.

The program will start with a 6-7 p.m. cocktail hour followed

Coast Guard Course Begins

The first of an eight-lesson Public Education Course began last night at J. F. Kennedy Health Center, conducted by Flotilla 1-1202 of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The course, free to the public with nominal charge of $2.00 for materials, continues Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. Included in the course are

"That crowd is my best recruiter," Smith said. "There were several players there whom I hope will come to Eastern Nazarene. They come to a game, watch that crowd go wild, and they are hooked."

Rick Reyenger, who has been outstanding since joining ENC, was one of those players hooked by the crowds.

"Our fans are the greatest," said the 6-7 freshman from Quincy. "They get yelling and the band starts playing and I'm ready for action. When the band plays that religious song, 'Faith, Hope and Charity', I really get turned on."

Rick was matched against 6-11 Les Stiles but turned in his best game of the year as he scored 10 points and had 14 rebounds, while holding Stiles to three field goals and eight points.

"This had to be his best game," said Smith. "He completely canceled out Stiles. The last time we played at Barrington back in December they beat us, 88-83, but we didn't have Rick then and Stiles had a field day."

ENC had a 49-40 half time lead and outscored the Warriors, who will join the local club in this weekend's tourney at King's, 52-46, in the second half.

Bradley had another gala night with 37 points. Eads scored 23, Don Constantine 11, Reyenger 10 and Steve Shoff 10.

"Despite the win we didn't play well," Smith stated. "We hit on only 37 percent of our shots in the first half. Eads and Adams were off and, despite his 37 points, Bradley didn't have a good game. But I still can't say enough about him. He is our ball club."

Earlier in the week ENC defeated Southeastern Mass. University, 98-83, at New Bedford as Eads and Bradley combined for 63 points. Eads scored 32 and Bradley 31.

ENC jumped out to an 8-0 lead and built up a 54-41 half time edge. SMU played the winners on nearly even terms in the second half.

Adams added 18 points for the Crusaders. Bradley and Eads were extremely accurate from the floor as Eads hit on 15 of 23 shots and Bradley on 12 of 17.

In its previous game ENC had gone to Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., and topped Kings, 95-81.

Quincy Merchants Win Men's Candlepin Tourney

Quincy Merchants captured the 18th annual greater Quincy Men's Candlepin Bowling Tourney championship Sunday, defeating the defending champs Lum's Colonial 1744-1729 at Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

The Merchants, topping the 26 teams that entered the competition, received a $100 cash prize and a team championship trophy from Richard J. Koch, tourney director, representing the sponsoring Koch Club of Quincy.

Lum's jumped to a 21-pin lead at the end of the first string, led by Buster Loud's 133, but Leo DePolio and Ken Johnston kept the Quincy Merchants in contention with 121 each. Lum's continued to increase their lead in the second string and tried to sew it up in the last box as Dick Ewell fired a triple strike for Lum's. But DePolio countered with a double strike with nine-pin drop for the Merchants. Lum's entered the third string with a 32-pin lead.

The Quincy Merchants had picked up 22 pins at the end of the eighth box when DePolio and Johnston hit a series of marks to win a strong upset victory over their opponents.

DePolio led the Merchants with 379 followed by Johnston's 369, Bob Hurst 355, Ron Gibson 339 and Ken Wagner 302. Ewell was high for Lum's with 373; Lou Pagnani had 351, Buster Loud 347, Bob Kaukolia and Steve Hill 322.

Quincy Merchants held high three string total for the tourney with 1792. Lum's 646 was high team single.

Individual honors were shared by Ray Snell with 417; Dick Ewell with 159, high single.

LWV To Begin Study Of State Welfare System

The Quincy League of Women Voters, having completed its study of welfare as a national problem, begins a study of the state welfare system at open meetings next week.

Mrs. David Coletti, president, announces that on March 10 at 1 p.m. a meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Louis Steinberg of 69 Unity St., West Quincy.

On March 11 at 8 p.m. the same welfare topic will be discussed at the home of Mrs. Helen Hall of 261 Highland Ave., Wollaston.

As a result of the study of welfare as a national problem, the LWV of the United States has announced that its members will support efforts to reform the welfare system.

League members, said Mrs. Coletti, believe the federal government should bear the major responsibility for an income assistance program which meets the basic needs of persons unable to work, whose earnings are inadequate, or for whom jobs are not available.

Work incentives are an integral part of the League position, she said, but the organization opposes mandatory work requirements. It underscores the importance of establishing adequate financial incentives and opportunities for realistic job training and counseling.

In announcing the League's position, Lucy Wilson Benson of Amherst, national president, outlined basic conclusions in four areas:

- Benefits: Income assistance should be sufficient to provide decent, adequate standards for food, clothing and shelter.

- Coverage. All persons in need should be eligible for assistance.

- Individual rights of welfare participants should be protected.

- A punitive relationship between income assistance and job programs should be avoided.

In addition to income assistance, the League's position calls for provision of child care, counseling, family planning, health and legal services, with the federal government setting eligibility and quality standards. It advocates that service centers be as close to program recipients as possible.

"Our present welfare system is an admitted mess," Mrs. Benson said, "which all too often puts down the very people it is supposed to be helping. It's time for changes - changes based on the real needs of low income people. It's time to have assistance programs which encourage choice and movement instead of locking people on to a treadmill that goes nowhere!"

Cardinal Cushing Assembly Holds Family Communion Supper March 6

Richard Cardinal Cushing General Assembly Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus will hold a Family Communion Supper March 6 at Father O'Brien Council Hall, 90 Lovell

St., North Weymouth.

Mass will be celebrated at 6 p.m. by Rev. John J. O'Connor, Faithful Friar for the Assembly, who will be speaker for the evening. Fr. O'Connor is now chaplain for the Women's Reformatory in Sherborn.

Following mass, members of Fr. O'Brien Council will serve a family dinner.

Reservations close Monday for the dinner.

Fitzgibbon County VFW 'Commander Of Month'

Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon of the Houghs Neck Legion Post was named "Commander of the Month" for February Post activities by Norfolk County Commander George McCarthy of Weymouth.

Noted as "outstanding accomplishments" were the mailing of 2,000 letters to Hanoi regarding prisoners of war, and the circulation of 1,500 letters to the Astronautical Association.

The letter defends the reading of the Bible by astronauts during the recent moon landing.

"Commander of the Month" is a recent innovation adopted by Commander McCarthy to recognize and encourage accomplishments of the various individual American Legion Posts in the County.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Times Change, Even For Burtons

ABC sports commentator HOWARD COSSELL really gets around. On March 12 he will address the Harvard Law School Forum and the student division of the American Bar Assn. in Cincinnati... In case you were not aware of the fact, COSSELL is also a lawyer... Pro-peace advocate VANESSA REDGRAVE is financing an underground GI newspaper being published by an American serviceman stationed at Mildenhall Naval Air Facility in England... And you guessed it, the title of the paper is "PEACE"... JANE FONDA, PETER BOYLE, DON SUTHERLAND and DICK GREGORY plan to tour over 20 military bases in the U.S. in a "new action show" which will emphasize peace, love and opposition to the Vietnam war. The tour is also being planned as an alternative to the BOB HOPE tour, which Miss FONDA says are "superhawkish and out of touch with today's soldier"...

Quote, Unquote: WALTER CRONKITE commenting on the elevation of SATCHEL PAIGE to the Baseball Hall of Fame; "The only real change is that baseball has turned PAIGE from a second-class citizen into the second class immortal"... CRONKITE made the comment on his Feb. 18th TV night spot in reference to the "new wing" of the Hall of Fame... Probably the reason why CRONKITE has been around so long is the fact that he isn't afraid to speak his mind on any and all topics... The broadcasting industry needs more like him... RICHARD BURTON and ELIZABETH TAYLOR best typify what is happening to the slump-ridden film industry. A few years back the BURTON pair commanded million dollar fees just for signing on the dotted line... In their latest outing, "HAMMERSMITH IS OUT", they are each working for expenses against large-percentage deferral pay. As a result the picture is being shot for a reputed maximum budget of only $1.5 million... If the film hits paydirt, the BURTONS will make out quite well for themselves; if it is a flop, the producer would have saved himself the expense of an additional $2 million...

DYAN CANNON will portray a stripper in "THE HEIST". The HENRI VERNAU film is slated to be shot on location in Greece... Black actor WOODY STRODE [remember "SPARTACUS"] is about a big star in Italy as CLINT EASTWOOD. You can catch him doing his thing in the soon-to-be released, "THE LAST REBEL"... In this one STRODE does all his own stunts such as grabbing the lead horses on a racing, runaway stagecoach, and taking steep slopes on horseback with his hands tied behind his back... But the brawny six foot four former UCLA football player is more than just a cowboy actor. He had a co-starring role in the historical epic "SCPIO" and played the lead opposite MARCELLO MASTROIANI... That film, which will be released within six months, could place the versatile STRODE in the star category. He certainly deserves the recognition as he has been demonstrating his skills for almost 15 years now...

Old time German silent screen actress ELSA WAGNER celebrated her 90th birthday a few editions back... PETER STRAUSS has been tapped for the title role in "SERGEANT KLEMS", an adventure tale with a 1933 Moroccan setting... As of Jan. 1st the number of German TV set owners numbered 16,674,742... In her upcoming situation comedy series, SHIRLEY McLAINE plays a photographer who roams the world on her assignments. The ABC-TV sitcom as yet unnamed, may not be in the September lineup, but may be held back as a midseason January entry. The reason for the delay is Miss McLAINE is currently shooting a motion picture in New York City, and the film may not be completed in time for her to start filming her series which is scheduled to go before the cameras in March...

Remember LEX BARKER, the screen Tarzan of the early fifties? You'll get a chance to see him in guest roles in upcoming appearances on the "F.B.I." and "DAN AUGUST"... And he hasn't aged a bit... RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN did a complete zero-take in "THE MUSIC LOVERS". He wasn't entirely to blame for this let-down, as co-star GLENDA JACKSON added her two cens' worth of mediocrity... TOM SMOTHERS makes his film bow in "GET TO KNOW YOUR RABBIT". For his debut, SMOTHERS enacts the life of a tap-dancing magician... The credit card craze has now hit Broadway. The League of N.Y. Theatres recently appointed a three-man committee to explore the possibilities of establishing a system whereby individuals can purchase a theatre ticket by showing their credit card.

RITA HAYWORTH is being mentioned as a possible "APPLAUSE" replacement once LAUREN BACALL withdraws this summer... ALAN ARKIN's direction of "LITTLE MURDERS" is near perfection, and makes one appreciate the brillance of this man who is surely destined to be one of the great movie-makers of our time. "MURDERS" is apocalyptically chilling, devastatingly humorous, a motion picture that absorbs one with its comic horror... And oh yes, the star ELLIOTT GOULD scores an acting bulls eye...

Do-It-Yourself $700 Refund Sought225 All Settled In New Squantum School Wing

ALL 225 Squantum elementary school students are now in their classrooms in the new $1.3 million dollar addition.

And thanks to an anticipated self-help project, not only does the school addition have bookcases and cabinets for reference materials, but the Quincy School Department is looking for a $700 reimbursement.

When the two truckloads of furniture arrived from Maine and there was no help available to unload them, the drivers threatened to take the entire order back to Maine.

Rounding up manpower quickly, Dennis A. Carini, assistant principal, enlisted the services of Frank Buckley of East Squantum St., Squantum PTA president; Wilfred Nolan, coordinator of elementary education; two visiting professors from the University of Massachusetts, and a task force of sixth graders to work along with the school custodian.

Miss Ruth Haggerty, principal, supervised the unloading of 40 bookcases and cabinets for reference library materials — and all are now filled and in use.

Because the furniture was to be, as part of the agreement, delivered and unloaded as well, the Quincy School Department is looking for a reimbursement of $700.

The move into the new addition began two weeks ago when some 25 Squantum elementary school students began moving from classrooms at Star of the Sea Church, marking the wing's informal opening.

The new addition is about 23,000 square feet, or approximately six times the square footage of the portable building once located on the site.

The school's gymnasium was converted a year and a half ago to simultaneously house four separate classes, comprising about 100 students, but without separating the classes by partitions or walls.

Carpeting and acoustical tiles were installed in the gym along with fluorescent fixtures for better lighting.

After all the classes presently located in the gymnasium are shifted to the new addition the area will then be converted to a gymnasium. School officials were forced to convert the gymnasium area when a series of portable classrooms, then located on the site of the present addition, became unfit for classes about 18 months ago.

Since then, the overflow of students from the portable building have been taking classes in either the converted gymnasium or in the rectory hall of the Star of the Sea Church.

The church's rectory hall has been on loan to the Squantum School free-of-charge under the pastorships of the late Rev. Father Edward Sullivan, and the Rev. Msgr. Mark Keohane.

In addition, the church provided heat and light for the student occupied area at no cost, along with air conditioning during the summer months.

The new addition has no immovable walls, or fixed partitions, separating classes. Instead, sliding walls, some of which double as blackboards, may be used to isolate one part of the wing from another if the needs of the students or the teachers require that, Dennis Carini, assistant principal at the school, said.

None of the traditional desks, with a chair attached to them, will be found in the new wing. Desk furniture comes in three shapes: trapezoidal, circular and square. Gliders, attached to the undersides of the desks, will permit students to push them from one part of the wing to another with a minimum of effort or noise.

Planning Dept.'s Applications Total $3.5 Million For 1970

Quincy's Department of Planning, Programming and Development submitted applications for $3.5 million in federal funds in 1970, according to Director Geoffrey Davidson.

The largest single application was $2.2 million for the proposed Quincy Point Neighborhood Improvement Program. When approved, this will provide funds for public improvements, home loans and grants throughout Quincy Point, similar to those now available in the North Quincy Improvement Program.

Preliminary approval was given for a $515,000 grant to improve traffic flow and safety along Washington St., Southern Artery and Sea St. to Quincy Shore Drive. The Department of Transportation and the State Department of Public Works cooperated in developing this program.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development approved $71,000 for Urban Beautification, and an $85,000 grant under the Parks-in-Cities program to acquire and develop a playground and beach in Germantown.

In addition, the Planning

Board and City Council authorized an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development to assist in the purchase of 17 acres of salt water marshland in the Rock Island Cove section of Houghs Neck.

Approval was received also for a $150,000 Emergency Employment Program which starts this month. This program, a cooperative effort between the City of Quincy and neighboring towns and non-profit agencies to put some 50 unemployed persons to work with funds obtained from the U. S. Department of Labor.

The Department of Planning, Programming and Development was instrumental also in making available to Quincy residents through their own insurance agents a special low-cost rate flood insurance. This was made available through the Federal Flood Insurance Administration of the Department of Housing and Urban Renewal.

In addition to these activities, Quincy's Workable Program was again approved. This program is a prerequisite for a variety of housing and improvement programs as a community guide to self-improvement.

Several major planning activities were completed in 1970:

* A review of city-wide rezoning, with recommendations made to the City Council in March, 1970.

* A Capital Improvement Study, in cooperation with representatives of 18 neighborhood and civic organizations - the results to be published later this month.

* Analysis of Quincy's Central business district in cooperation with Harvard Graduate School of Business. Results prompted Mayor James R. McIntyre to appoint a Downtown Steering Committee to develop a Downtown Improvement Program.

* A analysis and recommendations for air pollution controls in municipal facilities to alleviate air pollution problems.

Major attention, according to Davidson, focused on obtaining needed federal funds to help offset local expenditures, and preparing planning studies such as zoning, capital improvements, central business district and air pollution.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The 80 census takers now counting heads in Quincy are finding it a worthwhile job while it lasts.

For the city census, they are listing all residents 17 years of age and over. And, for each, receive 10 cents.

For the state census, they are listing all residents-regardless of age.

And, for each household, receive 20 cents.

★★★

WITH all the moves being speculated about if Mayor James R. McIntyre does not seek re-election or accepts another post, political wags have renamed City Hall "Checkerboard Sq."

★★★

LATEST name being mentioned for the presiding justice vacancy at Quincy District Court is Weymouth Town Counsel Francis L. Kelly.

Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan is still considered in contention. And, did someone say that maybe the job might go to-guess who-James R. McIntyre? Well, he's being mentioned for just about everything else these days.

Lay Groundwork Saturday For Environmental Study

Groundwork for a March 13-29 street environmental survey will be laid at an orientation meeting Saturday from 8:30 to 11 a.m. at Central Junior High School.

Bernard C. Moore, a member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, executive secretary of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Blue Granite Boy Scout District [Milton and Quincy], is urging all Scoutmasters, Senior Patrol Leaders and Patrol Leaders of Quincy and Milton Boy Scout troops to attend and learn about the District Conservation project.

Scouts working for Star, Life and Eagle Ranks are also invited to attend and participate in the Neighborhood Environmental Surveys as part of their conservation project requirements.

Quincy and Milton students concerned about the environment, such as Project SCORE from Central Junior High, are also expected to attend and participate in one of many spring conservation projects planned for the April school vacation.

The orientation meeting will include a slide program on the National Boy Scout Project SOAR [Save Our American Resources], an explanation of the environmental survey and how it is to be conducted, and descriptions and slide program of environmental problems in the Quincy-Milton area by the Conservation Commission and Project SCORE.

Officials from Quincy and Milton are also invited to attend.

After the program, neighborhood blocks in Quincy and Milton will be assigned to specific troops and patrols for the street survey to be conducted through March 29.

Survey results will be turned over to the respective Conservation Commissions of Quincy and Milton, and analyzed. A small planning committee in each community will then recommend specific conservation projects or environmental problems to be corrected by Scout troops, students or other interested people.

It is hoped that an extensive group of conservation projects will be undertaken during April 18-24, school vacation week.

Blacklock To Speak March 16 At Young GOP Club Meeting

Thomas Blacklock newly elected chairman of the Quincy Republican City Committee will be guest speaker at the Quincy Young Republican Club meeting, March 16 at 7:30 P.M. at the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St.

Blacklock, who has been active in community affairs, including the United Fund and the Heart Fund campaigns, has served as vice-chairman of the City Committee, and is Ward Four Republican Chairman.

Linda Sullivan, secretary of the Quincy Young Republican Club, will be hostess at the meeting. The club extends an invitation to attend the meeting to all who are interested and would also like to know more about what the Quincy young republicans are doing.

Preceding Blacklock's talk, Kathy Roberts, president, will conduct a short business meeting at 7:15 p.m. for members and interested area Republicans and Independents between the ages of 18 to 40.

'What's Right With America?'

Young Vietnamese Finds America 'A Wonderful Place To Live'

[Editor's Note: Thomas Tasney, 16, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Tasney of 121 Taffrail Rd., Germantown, and a ninth grade student at Broad Meadows Junior High School won a $25 prize in the recent essay contest sponsored by South Shore Auto Dealers Association.

Thomas, adopted by Mr. Tasney as an "eligible orphan" is the nephew of his wife, a Vietnamese, whom he married while serving in Vietnam. The young man lived in the Mai Kong Delta, and his father was killed while serving in the Vietnamese Army.

"What's Right With America?" was the refreshing essay subject. Essays of Quincy Public School winners are being printed by the Quincy Sun.]

By THOMAS TASNEY
Broad Meadows Junior High
Ninth Grade

Because I lived in a less fortunate country, Viet Nam, I am sure there are many right things right about this country.

To begin, we have free school for all, the rich and poor through high school and often junior college in some States; there are also more roads and highways that have been built by the government each year here.

Because America is a free country, it has attracted many people from all over the world. They came here to get a better job, good pay, better education, and some have come here to get away from the Communists, where they can have a better life.

America is helping other countries by sending troops and weapons and training them so they will be strong enough to protect themselves. I know because I used to live there. Many Americans have lost their lives to protect my country.

In this country we have a right to vote for the man that we think can do good for our country. In some other country the government is decided, who they think will be their leader. The people cannot vote. In some places they just have one candidate and the people have no choice.

We have a nice climate in New England where it is cold in winter and hot in summer. Where I came from we didn't have any snow. I remember when I first saw snow I was out there playing all day long. Cape Cod is a nice place to visit during summer where the beach is sandy and the weather is cool. All around United States people have many kinds of weather.

To improve this country first I think we should put more police on the street at night so it will be safer for the people from crime. Many breaks happen in their houses. We must try to do something with the drug problem we have today because more and more people have been taking drugs, even though they know that it is dangerous.

We should volunteer to help by cleaning the rivers and streams. Today many rivers have been polluted. Everywhere I look, the air shows pollution, the water, too. The beach where I used to swim during the summer, is polluted. I can't go clam digging because the water is polluted.

I think we should keep America clean for it is a wonderful place to live. I've lived here only three years.

Despite a maze of obstacles besetting Survival, Inc., Dr. Charles Djerf is both determined and optimistic his group will establish a full treatment-rehabilitation drugs program here.

"I am not discouraged with the obstacles," he told the Quincy Sun.

"We will continue to fight for our existence. We expect in Quincy to have a full treatment program. And hell and high water can't stop it."

He indicated that Survival, Inc. itself could survive without its present controversial South St. facility if it had to.

But, he said, his group will continue to fight for the right to use the South St. former residence if they lose the present legal battle in Quincy District Court.

Meanwhile Dr. Djerf and other representatives of Survival, Inc. have requested permission to appear before the City Council Monday night.

"We want to present our program to the City Council and ask their help," Dr. Djerf explained.

"We need more help from the city and the council and everyone else involved. We want to continue to get help from them."

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin said he will ask council colleagues to suspend procedure rules to allow the Survival representatives to speak at the regular council meeting.

In addition to Dr. Djerf, Dr. Ronald Rosso and Joseph Whiteman, and possibly other board members of Survival, Inc. are expected to address the council.

"We have got the best program in the country if we get it going," Dr. Djerf said. "We have half of the program working right now."

A $250,000 fund-raising project is being readied for kick-off, under the leadership of Whiteman.

Meanwhile a ruling is awaited this week from Quincy District Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan on a complaint against Survival, Inc. sought by residents of South St.

The hearing before Ryan concerned alleged violations of city and state laws noted by Building Inspector Allan F. MacDonald and Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall.

Atty. William Delahunt is police counsel. Atty. Edward Joyce is attorney for Survival, Inc.

Residents charge that Survival, Inc. does not have a building occupancy permit or a change of occupancy permit, as required by the building inspector.

Marshall contends that Survival, Inc. has not received a State Mental Health license to operate a drug treatment center at the South St. site.

Ryan said he will act on the complaint application after hearing final arguments by Attys. Joyce and Delahunt. He "hopes they will present final arguments this week."

While Ryan was hearing initial arguments, 41 persons arrested locally on drug charges were being arraigned in Quincy District Court.

Other recent setbacks to the program included:

• Loss of three Survival, Inc. staff members at the Faxon Ave. "hot-line" center. The staff members, all former addicts, left when it was found they had gone back on drugs.

• Resignation of Police Chief Francis X. Finn as a director of Survival, Inc., who said he felt it would be in conflict of interest to continue.

Finn, who has said he feels the best method of helping addicts is through rehabilitation, was one of the original board members forming the Survival, Inc. group with Dr. Djerf.

Lt. Frank Vallier will represent the police department.

Previously, Germantown residents had caused Survival, Inc. to withdraw its offer for a nursing home in that area which was to be converted into a rehabilitation center.

Now being operated by Survival, Inc. are the Faxon Ave. center, a redirection center on Granite St., and the South St. facility.

Health Department Sets Glaucoma, Hearing Clinics

Glaucoma and hearing clinics are being scheduled by the Quincy Health Department, announces Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney, Health Commissioner.

Glaucoma screening clinics, in cooperation with the Quincy Lions, will be held April 14, May 12 and June 16 with Dr. Daniel Shea the ophthalmologist in attendance. Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. Dorothy Ayer at the Quincy Health Center, 773-1380, Extension 220.

Depending upon attendance at these clinics, Dr. Mahoney hopes to have them on a continuing basis.

Starting March 15, Monday through Friday for a two-week period, a mobile unit of the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing will provide professional examination of Quincy citizens for a hearing screening test.

Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 12:30 and from 1:30 to 4 p.m., with the exception of March 25, when hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.

No appointments are necessary. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Ayer.

1,000 Expected At Tobin Dinner

An estimated 1,000 persons are expected to attend tonight's [Thursday] $25 per plate friendship testimonial dinner for City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

The event will be held at Caesar's Monticello, Rte. 9, Framingham. The entertainment portion of the program will be headed by singer Robert Goulet.

Mayor James R. McIntyre is honorary chairman and Quincy District Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan, general chairman. Coordinator is Atty. Thomas F.

Brownell.

Tobin's eight City Council colleagues are members of the committee along with School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly.

Muriel D. Chandler is committee secretary and Anna Straughn, treasurer.

S. Quincy Library Branch Is Under Consideration

A library branch at South Quincy is under consideration by trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library, chairman Francis D. Hackett has informed Ward 3 Councillor John F. Koegler.

Koegler recently renewed his 1969 request for a South Quincy branch library, citing the need is "greater now than ever before" with loss of bookmobile service.

Library trustees are asking Director of Libraries Warren E. Watson, to prepare a "complete report on all the factors which govern the location of a full-service branch library," Hackett wrote Koegler.

"Mr. Watson and his associates have, since your earlier request in 1969, toured South Quincy on three occasions in an attempt to develop some pertinent facts. The proper location is not yet apparent but that doesn't mean one does not exist," Hackett wrote.

102 Permits For $58,175

Wiring Issued In February

City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts, reports 102 permits, representing wiring costing an estimated $58,175., were issued in Quincy during February.

Major wiring projects were a new office building for Donald McLean at 15 Columbia St., South Quincy, and a new 16-apartment building at 26 Field St., Quincy Center.

A total of 168 inspections were made, and nine defects noted.

GERMAN MEASLES DANGER

Women who contract German measles while pregnant - especially during the first three months - run a high risk of suffering miscarriages or giving birth to children with heart defects, blindness, deafness, bone abnormalities, brain damage or other serious problems. The last epidemic of German measles occurred in 1964. It caused about 50,000 expectant mothers to suffer miscarriages or give birth to babies afflicted with a variety of severe physical and mental defects.

The most common carriers of German measles are children between the ages of one and 12 and especially those in kindergarten through the fourth grade. In children, German measles is a common and relatively mild disease characterized by fever, a runny nose and a rash lasting two or three days.

Measle [rubella] and German measles [rubella] are two separate diseases and immunization for one does not offer protection against the other.

Boys No Longer 'Just Seen'

Christ Church Choirs Really Like To Sing

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

There has always been a Boys' Choir at Christ Church. It's a tradition.

But the present group is unlike most of the others, notes Rev. Chester A. Porteus, rector.

The difference is that this one really likes to sing.

Rev. Porteus credits organist-choir director Carl Tucker with inspiring a real interest in singing.

"There has always been the nucleus of a boys' singing group, but it has taken a good many years to give them the idea of singing instead of just being seen," muses Mr. Tucker.

There are eight boys in the choir, aged from 9 to 14 years, singing in two-part harmony. Along with the Adult Choir, they take part in the 11 a.m. worship on Sunday, and on special occasions join both Adult and Girls Choirs.

The Girls' Choir, with 25 members from seventh through the 12th grade, singing at 9:15 a.m. services, last year presented Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore", and this year are rehearsing for "The Mikado".

"The girls are very enthusiastic," Mr. Tucker says, "and they like the idea of earning some money for the Church - they feel it helps the Church to meet bills during the summer slump."

Mr. Tucker began his career in church music at the age of 12, playing piano for Sunday School some 30 years ago.

"There are very few Sundays since I haven't been in harness," he says.

Organist and choir-director at Christ Church for the past seven years, Mr. Tucker's previous posts were at St. John's Church in Winthrop, St. Marks at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., St. Andrews at Northford. He attended Ohio Northern University, and Boston University School of Theology, "with a music course on the side," he says, and received his degree in music.

Along with Sundays and rehearsal nights at Christ Church, Mr. Tucker puts in full time days as an insurance claims supervisor.

Rev. Mr. Porteus credits his organist-choir director for the enthusiasm now evident among the entire choir group.

"There were 36 out of 39 members present on a bad [weatherwise] Sunday," Rev. Porteus recalls.

The "regulars" taking part in the Boys Choir are: Leonard Hinthorne, William Hinthorne, Darryl Hinthorne, Dana Hinthorne, Kristopher Furtney, Kenneth Furtney, Donald Bocash and George Englemann.

In the Girls' Choir are: Meredith Corey, Elizabeth Engelmann, Karen Fink, Donna Giudici, Annette Grondin, Bonnie Sullivan, Carol Williams, Cheryl Messinger, Lynn Johnson, Jean Kilam, Juliette Kilam, Janet Lander, Linda Lee, Mara Veneziano, Darlene Bocash, Jayne Collins, Grace Parlee, Charlotte Parmenter, Diane Parmenter, Joan Phillips, Cheryl Smith, Gayle Wardrop, Susan Shepherd, Kellie Carter and Wendy Wilkinson.

Adult Choir members include Mrs. Edwin Swanson, Miss Sarah Couch, Mrs. Edward Corey, Mrs. Robert Parry, Mrs. Norman MacLeod, Jr., Miss Clara Schulze, Mrs. LeRoy Dunn, Mrs. Julius Fink, Alex Engelman, George Kilam and Donald Faulkner.

'Thailand' March 17 Theme For Women's Christian Society

"Thailand" will be the theme for the March 17 meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service, 8 p.m. at Adams Shore United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Betty Hilstrom, who lived for several years in Thailand while her husband was stationed there with U. S. Forces, will speak and show slides.

There will be a display by members of articles brought from Thailand and also from European countries, arranged by Mrs. Kenneth Morris and Mrs. Henning Halvorsen.

Mrs. Edith Sylva will preside at the business meeting, with devotions led by Mrs. C. W. Black.

'Peanuts' Basis For Trinity Meditations

"The Parables of Peanuts", a book on the Schultz cartoons by Robert L. Short, is the basis for mid-week meditations at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Three films, along with Peanuts skits by Lutheran Youth Fellowship members of Salem Lutheran and Trinity Lutheran Churches, will attempt to bring new understanding and relevance to old truths, says Rev. James Kimmell, pastor, who is directing the services.

The March 17 service at 7:30 p.m. is titled, "It's About This Carpenter"; on March 24, "Neighbors"; March 31, "You Shall GOD Your Neighbor as Yourself"; April 7, "The Three of Death"; and April 8, "Just Who is in charge Here", with a service of Holy Communion.

The April 9 Tenebrae Service will have as its theme "The Passion According to St. John" and at the 10 a.m. worship on Easter Sunday, April 11, "The Joy of Easter" will be the topic.

Area Choirs Featured In Bethany Vesper Services

Choirs of the Quincy-Boston area are being featured in a series of Sunday 5 p.m. Vesper Services at Bethany Congregational Church during Lent.

On March 14, the Choir of the Greek Orthodox Cathedral in Boston will be directed by Theodore Mekelatos in some of the ancient liturgy of the Eastern churches. Father John Zanetos will be commentator.

On March 21, young musicians of St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church in Quincy will present selections of the folk mass. Rev. Lawrence Pratt will explain the settings.

The A Cappella Choir of Eastern Nazarene College will present a full hour of sacred music, ranging from 16th to 20th century compositions. On March 28, Greg Larkin is the director.

"The Music and Mood of the Seder" will be given April 4 by children of the Quincy Hebrew School, accompanied by Cantor Morris Semigan and Rabbi David Jacobs of Temple Beth El. The first two programs of the Vesper series were by the choir of the People's Baptist Church of Roxbury directed by Maurice Small, and the choir of men and boys from All Saints Episcopal Church in Ashmont, directed by Herbert Peterson, with Rev. F. Albert Frost, rector.

William Barcus New Assistant At St. Chrysostom's Church

William H. Barcus, a student at Episcopal Theological Seminary, is a new assistant to Rev. William D. Underhill, rector at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston.

Mr. Barcus enrolled in the seminary after 15 years in the business world. He was an assistant to the president of Trans World Airlines in New York.

He will be at the church on Sundays assisting in the worship services, pastoral visiting, and with the Beehive youth group.

Dedham Rector March 17 Christ Church Speaker

Rev. Rudolph Roell, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Dedham, will be guest speaker March 17 at Christ Church at the 7:45 p.m. service.

A friendship hour will follow with St. Margaret's Guild as hostesses.

Quincy Red Cross Seeking Volunteer Registered Nurses

The Greater Quincy Red Cross needs volunteer registered nurses to take medical histories at bloodmobiles, announces Alice O. Gray, chairman of Nursing Activities. A short training course is offered.

Any registered nurse, young, middle aged, or retired, if interested, is asked to call Red Cross Headquarters, 57 Revere Rd. Quincy, 472-2700.

"BROTHERHOOD" - Participants at Beth Israel Synagogue Brotherhood Sunday observance included, from left, Jack Klaver, Synagogue president; Rabbi Jacob Mann; Hyman Asnes, Brotherhood president; City Council president Arthur H. Tobin, Councilor-Rep. Walter Hannon; and Harry Pavan, City Solicitor.

Lenten Thought, 1971

Through jeering crowds along the road,
A cross was borne long years ago,
Christ ... alone

Loving He came into the world
That sins of men against God's Word might be atoned

Now each time justice is denied,
And evil practices abide,
Christ falls anew.

Each time a helpless, unborn child
Is victim of man's feticide,
Christ dies anew.

To Danielle

It wasn't at the very start
That you won my elusive, distant heart.

Was it when you smiled your sweetest smile
And was I so busy all the while, not to see?

Or was it when you looked,
with eyes aglow
As if to say, "I know, I know
My Nana, My Nana, you love me so." could that be?

My Inspiring Star

Each night before I tuck in bed,
I walk to the bedroom window
To talk to my star above, Describing how I spent the day.

If I obey Mom and Dad
And TRY to please everyone
By being good, kind and honest

My star will twinkle merrily
But if I've been naughty, unkind and dishonest
My star wouldn't blink half so bright,
Because you see, he's very sad.

And ... that's why ...
Each day I try to live
The best way I know how,
So that at night, when
I gaze at the star-cloud
He'll smile on me 'cause
I've been good.

Oh! Heavenly little guide star!
May you, forever, twinkle in the sky
To inspire me to LISTEN
For the WAYS of God, my parents and teachers
Again ... while I lay asleep
In my pillow - world of

FASHION A-TWIRL
—Shirred cotton voile, gently rippled to a new length, makes for a romantic-looking dance dress. By The Sidneys, it's embellished with swirling stripes on the ruffled capelet and flounced hem.

COLORFUL—Stylized flowers bloom in a medley of garden tints on this cotton party dress with a peasant flavor. For late day or dancing, it's by Chester Now, a division of Chester Weinberg.

How Good Is Salmon?

Convenient canned salmon is a nutritionally good food. It is a complete protein, relatively low in calories, an excellent source of calcium and a good source of phosphorus, Vitamin D and the B Vitamins. To top these qualities canned salmon by Del Monte is economical and easily dressed to fit a King's table.

Company Salmon Roll is an elegant dish that calls for staples that you are likely to have on hand. Simply open a few cans and packages for a delicious, attractive main dish that costs approximately 35¢ a serving. It's reassuring to know that what is economical and good tasting is also good for you.

Company Salmon Roll

1/2 cup chopped celery	1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed
1/2 cup chopped green pepper	cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup minced onion	1/2 teaspoon dill weed
2 tablespoons margarine or butter	2 cups sifted flour
1 can (2 1/4 oz.) sliced ripe olives, drained	1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can (16 oz.) Del Monte Salmon	1/2 cup water
	1 egg
	1 tablespoon water

Saute celery, green pepper and onion in margarine until tender. Add olives. Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Add salmon with 1/4 cup soup and dill weed to vegetables; set aside. Combine flour and salt; cut in shortening until mixture resembles small peas. Stir in water until flour is dampened and forms into a ball. Roll on floured surface. Cut into 12x9-inch rectangle; set aside. Trimings. Spread salmon mixture on dough; fold sides up lengthwise, overlapping 1-inch. Place on baking sheet, seam side down. Combine egg and water; glaze roll. Decorate with reserved dough trimmings. Brush with egg. Bake at 400°F., 25 minutes or until golden brown. Serve hot with Chicken-Lemon Sauce, if desired.

Chicken-Lemon Sauce: Add milk to reserved salmon liquid to make 1/2 cup. Combine with remaining soup and 1 tablespoon lemon juice in small saucepan; heat. Serve over Company Salmon Roll. 6 servings.

"BUT FIRST A WORD FROM MY SPONSOR..."

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Mar. 11 - 18

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Think things out before you speak or act, what you say or do this week could come back later and haunt you. Don't sign anything.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Others may push you into a bold action that is contrary to your nature. Think carefully, an error in judgement causes trouble now.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - There is a chance now to improve your social and financial standing. Watch that overindulgence doesn't undermine your health.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - There is an element of deceit at work so be careful wherever writings or promises are involved - these could bring trouble.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - A separation this week unsettles your mind. If you can channel all that mental energy and put it to use, worries will ease up.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Some of the action at home base eases off now and you can concentrate on the business deal you've been preparing. Mid April time to act.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - Don't count on attending the party to which you've been invited - trouble or responsibilities at home keep you hopping.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Other people are not seeing things your way at all. Your feelings are going to be hurt and you may have occasion to be jealous.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - You can relax a bit as Mars leaves your sign - a good week to enjoy seeing old friends. Accept the invitation for a party.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Mars enters your sign now, adding its energy and stimulating you into action. It is going to be a busy, troubled month.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - You may feel like replacing a worn out or dated wardrobe but the money won't stretch that far yet. Plan now and shop next month.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - A little extra money this week can come as a surprise. Because you're sympathetic and kind-hearted, a friend may impose upon you.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

EAT MORE!

I bet you never thought that you would be seeing those words in this column. And I mean them too! As a battle-scarred [stretch marks count] veteran of many diets, I can assure you that skipping meals or items on your diet isn't the answer to fast weight reduction.

I don't understand the reason, but I do know that giving up my bread, or sacrificing a fruit doesn't tilt the scales in my favor any more rapidly than if I eat the full program. What's more, you don't feel deprived—either psychologically or physiologically when you eat the full plan, so don't penalize yourself.

As with your body weight, so it is with food...every ounce counts.

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, New York.

DIET WORKSHOP APPLE COOKIES

1 Medium Hard Apple, Peeled, Grated
1/4 Teaspoon Cinnamon
2 Packages Sweet 'N Low
1/4 Teaspoon Vanilla Extract
1/2 Teaspoon Cherry or Coconut Extract
2/3 Cup Alba Skim Milk
Powder

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Drop by teaspoons full on cookie sheet. Use teflon cookie sheet or dust cookie sheet with Alby milk powder. Bake in 350 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Recipe makes 12 cookies. Recipe contains 1 fruit allowance and 2 milk allowances.

Readers are invited to submit poems for publication in The Poet's Corner. They should be typewritten or hand printed. Send to: Quincy Sun, 1601 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02169

Four From Quincy Elected Officers At Wentworth

Four Quincy students at Wentworth Institute in Boston were elected section class officers for 1971 academic year, announces Dr. H. Russell Beatty, Wentworth president.

They are Paul Haberstroh of 30 Dunbarton Rd., Wollaston; John O'Brien of 151 Monroe

Rd., Quincy Center; John McDonough of 32 Parkhurst St. and Thomas McCann of 19 Hawthorne St., both of Houghs Neck.

To be elected a class section officers, a student must have a cumulative average of 2.0 or above. STAMP

Great Books Council To Sponsor Leader Training Course In April

The Metropolitan Great Books Council, local chapter of The Great Books Foundation - largest non-profit adult education organization in the country - is sponsoring a Leader Training Course in April, in Quincy.

The Great Books are books that everyone has meant to read, books that have exercised a profound influence on civilization. The readings are exciting and challenging. They deal with everyone's concerns.

The Leader Training Course consists of four sessions in which the basic leading techniques are taught by qualified instructors to prospective Great Books Leaders.

The Discussion Group Leaders are not teachers, but moderators. The actual teacher are the books themselves.

This is an opportunity to become a Great Books Leader, Adult or Junior, by taking the Training Course. There is no tuition, just the minimal expense of the materials used.

Anyone interested in serious readings and in lively discussions about them, is invited to take part in the Course or join one of the 50 local suburban groups.

They may contact Mrs. Jane Mudge, co-ordinator, Metropolitan Boston Great Books Council, 264 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy, 02169, or call 773-3625.

Dinner Planned For McCormick

Plans are underway for a testimonial dinner honoring School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr.

The dinner will be held late in the spring.

A committee was formed at a meeting of citizens held at the home of Robert F. Rice, 11

Haviland St., Wollaston.

The dinner will honor McCormick for his years of service to the city as a member and vice-chairman of the School Committee and chairman of the Park-Recreation Board.

McCormick has announced his candidacy for mayor in this year's city election and will step down as a member of the School Committee.

Hurley Insurance Agency Acquires Two Firms

Paul E. Hurley, president of Hurley Insurance Agency, Inc., 1247 Hancock St., Quincy Center, announces the acquisition of two South Shore insurance agencies.

The Giberti Insurance Agency of Whitman, operated for more than 40 years by Amedeo A. Giberti, was acquired before the first of the year.

The Payzant Agency of Wollaston, operated by Mrs. Ruth D. Payzant, joined forces with the Hurley Agency early this year.

Both transactions resulted from the semi-retirement of the former owners.

All files of these two companies have been incorporated in the Hurley Agency and will be serviced from the Hurley office.

The Hurley Agency, founded by Mr. Hurley prior to World War II, has been in Quincy for more than 30 years. It was located in the South Shore National Bank Building until 1968 when it moved to its present larger quarters.

The acquisition of the two agencies allows for expanded service throughout the South Shore. With the resulting increase in volume, the Hurley Agency is strengthened and can

Ed Sullivan May Be Dropped

RED BUTTONS has been signed to star in "WHO KILLED MARY WHAT'S HER NAME?" which rolls in New York, March 29. The Cannon Films production milestones the first motion picture BUTTONS has done in eight years... According to a recent National Nielsen survey, "THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES" is the highest rated Game Show in television. The NBC-TV morning show is channeled into an estimated six million homes each day... FRANK SINATRA and ORSON WELLES were voted to receive honorary awards by the board of governors of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The awards will be presented on OSCAR night, April 15...

The French film industry answer to "LOVE STORY" is ANDRE CAYETTE's latest picture "MOURIR D'AIMER" [DIE OF LOVE]. The motion picture has the premise of a doomed love affair, and is doing capacity box office business in Paris... STEVE McQUEEN's newest release, "THE 24 HOURS OF LEMANS" has been selected to premier at the prestigious CANNES FILM FESTIVAL. The racing epic will hit American shores later on in the spring... New York City's WCBS-TV celebrated the 20th anniversary of its "The Late Show" a few editions ago. The late nite series opened on Feb. 27, 1951 with "THE ADVENTURES OF CASSANOVA". As far as this column can ascertain, WCBS was one of the first television stations to pioneer the late show concept...

GEORGE SCHLATTER of "LAUGH-IN" and NBC-TV are formulating plans for a new variety musical series for the 1971-72 season. The title of the vehicle is "IT'S A WACKY WORLD" and will be shot on location throughout the world. SCHLATTER has in mind "a TV musical on a vast scale, with an emphasis on new talent and forms"... The PASTOR BROTHERS are getting the big time celeb build-up as the best of the new c.mbos. You can judge for yourself when you see them on the April 10th PEARL BAILEY TV Special... BURT LANCASTER returns to the big action western scene in "VALDEZ IS COMING", a gory spaghetti oater if ever there was one... PATRICIA QUINN screen debuts as Belle Starr in "ZACHARIAH". The film offers little in the form of worthwhile entertainment...

Now that GEORGE C. SCOTT has verbally withdrawn from the Best Actor Oscar race, what is he going to do for an encore if voted best actor of the year by his peers?... SIDNEY POITIER is currently directing his first film, "BUCK AND THE PREACHER" in the warm climes of Durango, Mexico. Both he and HARRY BELAFONTE have starring roles... WALLY COX, HARRY MORGAN and JOE FLYNN supply a belly-full of laughs in WALT DISNEY's new release, "THE BARREFOOT EXECUTIVE". This G-rated film stories around a tv-oriented chimp with an uncanny ability to select top-rated shows... BARBARA EDEN is fast developing into one of show business' most versatile and in demand stars. Her "THE FEMINIST AND THE FUZZ" was the highest rated movie in the history of ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week". Miss EDEN's "I DREAM OF JEANNIE" tv series is now syndicated in 54 countries around the world. And now this extraordinary combination of glamourpot and lady is wowing them in a nightclub act that can only be described as sensational... Local fans can catch her when she makes the MONTICELLO's scene...

The SMOTHERS BROTHERS are ready to call it quits as a team... QUOTE, UNQUOTE: Women's Lib high priestess BETTY FRIEDAN sounding off on the "merits" of "HUSBANDS": "The film unmasks the festering rage pent up in the Good Housekeeping seal-of-approval American Dreamhouse"... DINA SHORE's syndicated Talk Show is one of the brighter surprises of the season... After seeing "YUMA" I can only wish for CLINT WALKER's speedy television return. Too bad he ever left the media. In motion pictures he never got the right scripts at the right time, which all adds up to Box Office zero. The mood of the viewer is right for a return to westerns in the "YUMA" vein... The ED SULLIVAN SHOW may not be with us next season. The ratings are dipping faster than the stock market... Plans are under way to star AVA GARDNER and LEE MARVIN in the picture "PRIME CUT".

When GLORIA SWANSON comes out of retirement, she goes all the way. First her stage success, "BUTTERFLIES ARE FREE", and now she is penning her memoirs. Another sizzler on the wires?... What is BEAH RICHARDS doing these days? Last we saw of her was in "GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER". Since 1967 she hasn't been seen on either the big or little screen. This comes as a surprise considering she was good enough to pick up a best supporting actress nomination for "DINNER"...

Mulcahy Awarded 'Sales Dynamics' Certificate

Richard Mulcahy, a 20-year employee of Dudley Furniture Co. of North Quincy, has received a certificate of "Sales Dynamics" for completing a two-day intensive educational program designed to help him better understand the needs and desires of his customers.

The program, created for professional retail salesmen, was sponsored by Kroehler Mfg. Co. and directed by Frank Northcutt, author and educator of sales training. It was held at Holiday Inn at Dedham.

"Sales Dynamics" stresses the need for greater emphasis on product knowledge, communications with the customer, psychology of selling, creation of a personalized environment for the customer, and the basic elements of interior decorating. New learning techniques and audio-visual aids were utilized in the smaller groups.

Follow-up facts, marketing trends and additional educational information for one year following completion of the seminar will be sent to delegates attending. Along with his certificate of completion, Mr. Mulcahy received a 200-page comprehensive manual recapping the seminar.

Quincy Ousted From Tourney

Sylvia: 'I'm Very Proud Of Them'

Quincy High's most successful hockey season in Coach Bob Sylvia's five-year tenure came to a disappointing end last week in the opening round of the Eastern Mass. Tourney but Sylvia had much praise for his team and is looking forward to next year with high hopes.

The Presidents won their first Greater Boston League championship and were unbeaten in their last 13 games but found the defense of defending state champ Needham too much in the tourney as they bowed out, 3-0, at Boston Arena.

Quincy's offense which has come along well during the year and wound up with 66 goals, high for the league, couldn't click against a strong Needham defense which held the Presidents to just 10 shots, only five of which were "testers," the others coming from the vicinity of the blue line.

The final Needham goal was a fluke. Sylvia pulled goalie Artie Boyle, who had 18 saves, in the final seconds. Jimmy Cattaneo of the Presidents won a faceoff but Needham's Ron Godfrey got his stick on the puck and it trickled on its edge the length of the ice and into the open net.

"I told the kids this was indicative of how the night went," Sylvia said. "It just wasn't our night. We just couldn't penetrate and their defense gave their goalie (Bob Raeder) superb protection.

"We felt we could beat them and it wasn't a question of nerves. We just didn't play good hockey in the first period. We played better after that when we realized we could skate with them.

"We had a lot of opportunities in the third period but good discipline on Needham's part hurt us, and we just couldn't get through their defense or their goalie."

Coming in for special praise was defenseman Bobby Cattaneo.

"Bobby played the whole game except for one shift and our second line of John Prescott, Jimmy Cattaneo and Jack Black or Paul Campbell was out there against their first line quite a bit and did a respectable job for kids getting their first taste of tournament play," said the Quincy coach.

Sylvia said again that winning the league crown was the biggest thrill of his hockey career. It marked his first title as a high school and college player and coach.

"We walked out of the Arena disappointed but a very proud group," Sylvia continued. "I told the boys the other coaches and I were very proud of them. It was the most rewarding season ever for all our coaches. I hope the pride factor enters into it and that we'll be better for it.

"Next year's outlook is bright. Whereas we graduated 14 seniors a year ago, we lose only eight this year and of those only four were key starters."

Those four are Steve Kleimola, Ed Wiedemann, the top scorer, Alan Colby and Bob Cattaneo.

Others who will graduate are Steve Lewis, the Kearney twins, Ken and Colin, Bobby Cattaneo and Mike Doolin.

Coming back will be Boyle, rated by Sylvia the top goalie in the league; his backup man, Pat Dempsey, forwards Jim Cattaneo, Steve Cedrone, Bomber Burke, Black, Campbell, Russ Corners, Jim Starkey, Prescott, Ed Mitchell, Austin Norton and Peter McNally and defensemen Steve Bergonzi and Rick Patten.

"Our main problem will again be offense," Sylvia said. "This year our attack was weak until I found a good second line, then it came along well. Our first line of Wiedemann, Cedrone and Kleimola did a terrific job and the second line also performed well.

"Some good looking boys are coming up from Ken Hayes' freshman team and from Jack Scanlan's junior varsity team, so things are looking pretty good for us."

Women's Candlepin Tourney

Rollerettes Defeat Lucky Strikes

The Rollerettes bowled high Sunday to qualify for the semi-finals of the 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney at Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

Rollerettes defeated the Lucky Strikes 1513-1494 in the top scoring match of the day.

In other matches, 8 O'Clock Rollers ousted the Hi Nooners 1486-1455, the defending champion Queen Pins downed the Keglerettes 1479-1457, the Alley Kats edged the Classic Lassies 1440-1438, and the Parkettes won over Union Congregational 1413-1322.

The Rollerettes took only one of the three strings from the un-Lucky Strikes, who would have beaten any of the other teams with their score, second high for the day.

Rich Menchi Receives All-Star Grid Plaque

Rich Menchi, Quincy's all-scholastic end has received numerous honors during his schoolboy football career.

Last week he was still presented another—a plaque in Tina Lungar's 316 led the Rollerettes, followed by Evie Larusso 314, Rose Ferriss 296, Helen VanBuskirt 295 and Peg DeFazio 292. Jodi Mitchell was top for Lucky Strikes with 339; Flo Hutchins had 316 and Hallie Parziale 301.

The 8 O'Clock Rollers took two strings, losing the second to the Hi Nooners. Noreen Mastroianni bowled 324 for 8 O'Clock, followed by Ellen Piccini 306 and Betty DeCristofaro, 299.

The defending champion Queen Pins, by winning one string of the three, defeated the Keglerettes. Betty Gagne led the Queen Pins with 309, Bev Putnam had 308 and Mal Adams 297. Bonnie Damore topped the Keglerettes with 311 and Dot Cappola had 301.

The Alley Kats lost the first recognition of his being named to the All-American high school football team co-sponsored by Sunkist Growers and Coach & Athlete Magazine.

The presentation was made string to Classic Lassies by 30 pins, but gained 15 in the second and 17 in the third to win the two-pin squeaker. Janice Hutchins led the Alley Kats with 297, while Pat Nestor had 291. Cindy Baker's 306 was high for Classic Lassies, and Peg Mahoney bowled 305.

In the final match of the day the Parkettes took all three strings from Union Cong. Edna Walker led the Parkettes with 324, while Dot Welch had 293. Ruth Moore, Ida Doyle and Mary Lou Case tied with 269 each as tops for Union Cong.

The quarter finals of the tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy will continue Sunday at 1 p.m. with the Queen Pins, Alley Kats, 8 O'Clock Rollers and Parkettes in competition.

by George Winterble of Weymouth, a representative of Sunkist Growers. Quincy High Coach Hank Conroy was present for the event.

March Candlepin Winners Include Quincy Woman

March of Dimes Candlepin Bowling Tournament winners at Wonder Bowl, Southern Artery, Quincy, have been announced.

South Shore winners were Ben Fehan of Braintree, men's high single of 129; Catherine Bigger of Holbrook, women's high single of 112; E. Kimpton of North Scituate, men's high triple of 417; and Eleanor Johnson of 111 Hamden Circle, Wollaston, women's high triple of 402.

More than 20,000 bowlers took part in this first annual March of Dimes tournament sponsored by the Massachusetts Bowling Association. All proceeds aid its program of research and public and professional education in the fight against birth defects.

Quincy Junior Ice Team A Winner, Too

Ken Hayes, who last year coached the North Quincy Junior High-Freshman hockey team, took over at Quincy this year and has led the future Presidents to a fine season.

Quincy finished in second place in the Greater Boston Freshman League with a 7-3 record.

Quincy defeated Somerville twice, Medford twice, North Quincy, Revere and Everett and lost to Malden twice and Everett.

"The season started Dec. 1 with more than 120 boys turning out," said Hayes, a former North Quincy goalie standout. "The selecting of players for the team in two weeks is getting more and more difficult each year because of the improvement in their skating ability. The limited number of games played before and during the freshman year makes it necessary to concentrate on positional play.

"With only two hours of practice at Shea Rink and games on Saturday mornings at B. C. it is still too little ice time and keeps us behind other teams."

Quincy's players come from Central, Sterling, Point and Broad Meadows Junior High Schools.

Hayes' starting team comprises Glenn Prescott, Central ninth grade in goal; Tom Marshall, Sterling 8th grade, and Assistant Capt. Mike Norton, Central 9th, on defense; Capt. Pete James, Broad Meadows 9th, and Bill Speranzo, Sterling 9th, at wing, and Ted Weidemann, Broad Meadows 8th, center.

The second line has Peter Lindblom, Sterling 9th; Frank Guest, Broad Meadows 7th, and Peter Raymer, Central 8th. On the third line are Rick Avery, Central 8th; John Norton, Central 7th, and Ed MacDonald, Point 8th.

Spare forwards are Joe McConville, Central 7th; John Sweeney, Sterling 9th; Steve Neville, Sterling 8th; Pat MacAuliffe, Broad Meadows 8th, and Jerry Barry, Point 9th.

Other defensemen are John Ahola, Sterling 9th; Tom Laughlin, Broad Meadows 9th, and Bob Costello, Sterling 9th.

Spare goalies are Dennis Bertoni and Norman Leo, both Sterling 7th graders.

"Prescott has been playing in goal for three years and is considered the best in the league," Hayes said. "Bertoni has been vital as our back-up goalie. Although Mike Norton is only 110 pounds and five feet tall, he has been playing heads up hockey on defense. Each has a brother on the high school varsity and Bertoni's brother, Harry, was a varsity standout last year.

"Tom Marshall has been a real surprise for us on defense. Capt. Pete James started out with a broken wrist and has had a bout with the flu but has been outstanding and is an excellent varsity prospect.

"Speranzo, although not a scorer, has the desire to make those centering passes. Weidemann is our leading scorer and his brother Ed is also leading scorer for the varsity. Teddy is only an eighth grader but has the whole league talking from the spectators to the coaches and officials. He is big, positions himself, handles the puck with ease, skates well and has that real 'hockey sense' of knowing where to be at the right time."

Ken also had praise for the Guest-Lindblom-Raymer line and rates this line and the first line as the two best balanced in the league.

The Quincy coach extolled his 'mighty mite', John Norton, Mike's brother and center on the third line with Avery and MacDonald.

"When John steps on the ice the other team wonders what goes on," Hayes said with a smile. "He stands about 4-8 with skates and in full gear weighs about 80 pounds. His jersey goes all the way down to his knees but he doesn't step away from anyone. In fact, he likes the bigger ones because he can get underneath them easier."

Others hailed by their coach were McConville and Sweeney. "Our defense, although not the strongest, has shown steady improvement," Hayes said. "One vital element for the success of the squad is the relationship between the varsity and the freshmen with many varsity players giving their spare time to help out.

"Coach [Bob] Sylvia and I have worked closely to prepare the boys for varsity hockey. I would like to thank all the Quincy players, Quincy Friends and the bus driver who have made it possible for the boys to get ready so early in the morning." [The games each Saturday start at 6 a.m.].

Among those selected to the league all-star team were Quincy's Weidemann, Prescott and Mike Norton.

Quincy, Weymouth Squirts 3-3 Deadlock

Quincy Youth Hockey Squirts All Stars and the Weymouth Squirts All Stars battled to a 3-3 tie this week at Weymouth Skating Club.

Quincy's record is now 8-1-1.

John Kelley started the scoring for Quincy, but Weymouth's Mike King, assisted by Steve Bell, made it an even

1-1, until Mark Assad, with help from Mike Furey and Doug MacDonald, sank a well placed shot to make it 2-1.

Weymouth held Quincy scoreless in the second period, while Joe Fitzgerald and Bill Merlin added another goal for Weymouth.

In the third period Brian

Bertoni, with assist by John Norton, scored for Quincy, while Weymouth's Bill Merlin and Joe Fitzgerald tied it up 3-3.

Quincy goal tenders were Jim McHugh and Dean Prescott, while Mike Furey and Jerry Cooney were coaches. Bud Fraser coached the Weymouth team.

Basketball Officials 50th Anniversary

Nine Quincy men are members of the Basketball Officials of Eastern Massachusetts which celebrates its 50th anniversary on April 19 at Lombardo's in East Boston.

The Eastern Massachusetts District Board, serving Norfolk, Plymouth and Suffolk Counties, and much of Middlesex County, is one of the original five groups which formed the present world-wide organization.

Quincy members are Abe Abdallah of 48 Silver St., chairman of the judiciary committee; John Belcastro, Vicker DiGravio, Dave Houston, Gary Merrill, Walter O'Leary, John Olinto, George Roche and Joseph Salvati.

North Junior Hockey Team On Way Up

Not only has the North Quincy varsity hockey team a new coach this year, but the junior high-freshman club also has a new skipper who is doing a fine job.

Ed Grogan, who played his high school hockey at Quincy, took over for Ken Hayes, who moved over to North Quincy junior high-freshman team and the future Raiders finished fourth in the Greater Boston Freshman League with a 4-6-1 record.

North defeated Revere twice and Everett twice, tied Medford and lost to Malden twice, Medford, Somerville, Quincy and Revere.

"This team has improved greatly and North Quincy will be in good shape next year in hockey," Grogan said. "We have one of the finest goalies in the league in Dave Messina and our defense also is doing a good job."

"Bob Doten, one of our top scorers, is only an eighth grader while Bob Henderson has been doing a tremendous job at wing. Most of our ninth graders will be a great help to Ron Erikson, varsity coach, next year."

North draws its players from North, Atlantic and Central Junior high schools.

Ninth graders include Brian MacIsaac, Bob Henderson, Andy Collieran, Steve Tracey, Bob Morse, Dave Noonan, Dave Messina, Ron Frizzell, Mike O'Connell, Mark Hurley, Jim Mullaney and Ken Palma.

Eighth grade players are Brad Doten, Don Schafer, Paul O'Donnell, Walter Connelly and Dennis Lynch.

Grogan has four promising seventh graders, Paul Messina, Joe Butts, Paul Radzick and Glen Hanson.

The leading scorers are Doten, MacIsaac and Henderson. Grogan agrees with his rival coach, Hayes, on the lack of ice time.

"The other teams get more ice time than we do and we need more to successfully compete with them," he said.

"The cooperation of the parents and other fans is wonderful. We are coming along and I think the future looks bright for North Quincy hockey."

North's Henderson and Dave Messina were named to the league all-star team.

May Go To Chattanooga

ENC Wins Tourney

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team, enjoying its finest season in history, added to its list of accomplishments last week when it won the Kings College Invitational Tourney at Briar Cliff Manor, N.Y.

It is expected the Crusaders will be playing this weekend in the National Christian College Tourney in Chattanooga, Tenn. They became eligible for the invitation by winning the Kings event.

When ENC defeated Gordon, 97-92, Saturday in the Kings Tournament finals, it extended its winning streak to 17 games and hiked its record to 24-4.

Ron Bradley of North Quincy and Don Eads combined for 63 points in the championship win. Bradley, the team's top scorer for the second year in a row, scored 35 points and Eads added 28.

North Quincy's Steve Shoff scored 12 points and Freshman Clark Adams, 10.

Coach Jim Smith's Crusaders started fast and built up a big 52-35 halftime lead. It was just as well as they cooled off in the second half and were outscored, 57-45.

ENC froze the ball near the end, thanks to excellent ball handling by Bradley, Eads and Shoff, to preserve the lead and the big win.

Bradley, Eads and Adams were named to the all-tournament team.

In the semi-finals ENC blasted Nyack, N.Y., 97-65, and in the opening round had little trouble with Philadelphia College of the Bible, winning, 72-47, despite a slow start.

Philadelphia played a slow-type game throughout the first half but ENC still was able to forge ahead, 31-19, at the intermission.

The Crusaders' attack perked up a bit in the second half and they won going away.

Bradley scored 22 points, Eads and Adams 12 and North Quincy's Don Constantine 10.

Rick Reyenger, 6-7 guard from Quincy, was outstanding for ENC off the boards throughout the tourney.

Weymouth Police Play Clippers Tonight

Weymouth Police Department's undefeated basketball team will place their record in jeopardy tonight [Thursday] when they play the New England Clippers Wheelchair Basketball Team at Quincy Voc-Tech gym at 7:30 p.m.

The game is sponsored by Houghs Neck Squadron No. 380, Sons of the American Legion.

The team which last year defeated the Boston Patriots' team 65-64, will take to wheelchairs, and abide by all the regulations of the Clippers, except for dribbling, according to Officer Bob Dalrymple, team coach. Tickets priced for adults and children will be sold at the door.

Proceeds will benefit the Clippers' program to promote competitive sports for the handicapped, present the issue and problem of paraplegia, and will demonstrate that "ability-not disability-counts."

Weymouth's team includes Chet McNeil, Mike Mulligan, Eliot Gabriel, Pete Hamilton, Bill Coughlin, Bob Barry, Dick Cavanaugh, Joe Casna, Lloyd King, Ralph [Soupy] Campbell, Walter Bell and Ed Larkin, along with Bob Dalrymple

MR. AMERICA of 1969 [John DeCola of Framingham] will appear at the North Quincy Boosters Club Sports Night March 13, 7:30 p.m., at North Quincy High School gymnasium. Weight lifting and Karate demonstrations will also be featured.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

NOTICE OF HEARING ON STATE HIGHWAY LAYOUT
BRAintree - QUINCY

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 5, Chapter 81 of the General Laws, Ter. Ed., as amended, the Department of Public Works will give a public hearing in the Braintree Town Hall on Tuesday, April 13, 1971 at 7:30 P.M., to all persons interested in the reconstruction and modification of the ramp complex of Routes 3 and 128 in the vicinity of Capens Circle in Braintree and Quincy, and the provisions for access to a proposed Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority station in Braintree.

The project consists of the modification and reconstruction of the present Route 3, 128 and Southeast Expressway interchange in Braintree and Quincy to improve the present interchange and to provide access to a proposed Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority station and parking facility in Braintree and includes revisions to local streets in the area required by this modification.

This hearing is to be a corridor public hearing.

Plans showing the proposed project will be on display in the Council Chambers of the Quincy City Hall on Monday, April 12, 1971, from 2:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. and from 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M., and at the Braintree Town Hall on Tuesday, April 13, 1971 from 2:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. and from 6:30 P.M. to the time of the hearing at 7:30 P.M.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the times and dates listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the public hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Daniel S. Horgan, Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Such submission will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date for receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten (10) days after this public hearing.

The Department's policy for relocation assistance, if required, will be discussed.

By order of the Department of Public Works,

Edward F. Doyle
Secretary

Boston, Mass.

INVITATION TO BID

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Quincy Housing Authority, 95 Martens Street, Quincy, Massachusetts until 10:30 A.M., March 18, 1971 at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read for the following:

To provide all labor and material for painting of chain link fence at Snug Harbor Project 200-1 as per specifications

Specifications for the above may be obtained at the office of the Quincy Housing Authority.

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check payable to and becoming the property of the Quincy Housing Authority, if the bidder whose proposal is accepted refuses or neglects to comply with the terms of the proposal.

The Quincy Housing Authority reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, in whole or in part, if it be in the interest of the Authority so to do.

"I just don't seem to have the will power to save money."

To people with this problem, we offer our Automatic Transfer service. Tell us how much you'd like to save each month, and each month we'll automatically transfer that amount from your checking account into your Regular or Ninety-Day Notice Savings Account.

"I can't put away very much. And I might need it on a moment's notice."

It seems to us our Regular Savings Account would solve your problem. Naturally, this kind of account doesn't pay as much interest as some of our other accounts. But it does earn interest daily, and it's compounded and paid quarterly. There's no minimum amount required, and no advance notice for withdrawal.

"I can wait a year for my money. But I expect a good, fat interest rate."

Talk about coincidences, we just happen to have a One-Year Certificate of Savings that pays a good, fat effective interest rate of $5\frac{1}{2}\%$ per year. Our lowest denomination is \$1000, additional amounts in \$100 increments. Interest is paid either quarterly or at maturity.

"I'll wait two years for my money. But I want the fattest interest rate the law allows."

Is that your problem? What you want is our Two-Year Certificate of Savings. It pays you an effective interest rate of $5\frac{3}{4}\%$ per year, earned and paid either quarterly or at maturity. Lowest denomination is \$1000, additional amounts in \$100 increments.

"I have $1000 to save. But I may want to get my hands on it within a few months' notice."

If you're willing to give us 90 days notice before you withdraw, we're willing to pay you 5% interest per year on your $1000. (That's the minimum balance requirement on our Ninety-Day Notice Account.) Interest is earned daily, compounded and paid quarterly. Does that solve your problem?

"I'd rather watch TV than go to the bank. That's my problem."

Friend, you've got one of the most serious savings problems of all. With your kind of problem, all we can really do is put up offices all over the area south and west of Boston and hope to hit pretty close to you and your TV set. So that's just what we've done.

While others have been trying to get across a friendly image, we've been solving your savings problems.

South Shore National, the place to bank.

Basketball Anyone? St. Joseph's In BIG Game

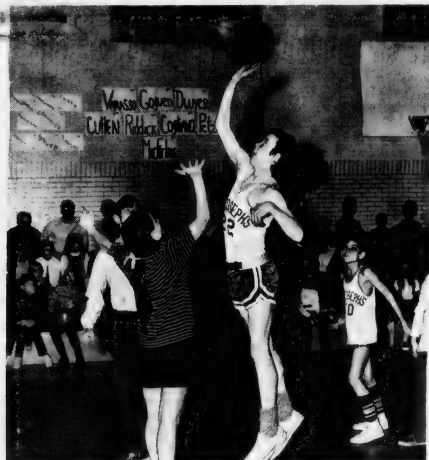

ANY RESEMBLANCE between them and the Celtics is purely coincidental but it was a lot of fun for a good cause at St. Joseph's CYO benefit basketball doubleheader. Stars included, from left, Kevin Hurley, Mike Davis, Councillor Cliff Marshall, Rev. Robert Tyrrell, Rev. Mr. Charles Hogan, Bill Myers, Ray Dunn and Bill Breen. Action was at Point Junior High School gym.

EAGLE EYE -- Rev. James McCarthy climbed stepladder for what looked like a sure score. But would you believe he missed. [Honest] Enjoying the fiasco are John Francesini; Rev. Joseph Downey, St. Joseph's pastor; Rep-Councillor Cliff Marshall, Mike Davis and Mike McLean.

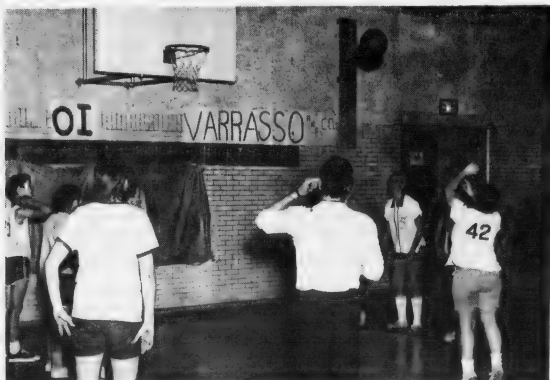

READY TO GO -- Tommy McBride, Referee Dave Coletti, Neal Dwyer, Referee Bob Vincent, Lois McLean and Regina Pestelli talk over ground rules for big game. Nobody is sure of the final score, but $175 was raised to aid youth activities at St. Joseph's.

TALL STORY -- Debbie Spillane finds herself outjumped by Patrick Bradley in this toss-up. Mike Salverio and Clare Oliveri are ready for action.

"OFF TARGET" -- Lois McLean throws a wild one as Dan Perdios, Barbara Glennon, Kathie Glennon, Referee Bob Vincent and Regina Pestelli await results.

"ALL WET" -- Referee Bob Vincent gets hint he's all wet on decision as "angry" Coach Bill Myers follows up his allegation with the real thing.

35 Cranch School Pupils Ready For Trip To England

On April 14 there will be an exodus of 35 students and seven adults associated with Cranch School for a 14-day trip to England--billed as a trip associated with Cranch School for a 14-day trip to England--billed as "a trip the students will never forget."

The group will be paying a return visit to the 24 West Leigh Junior High School students who last year spent two weeks with Cranch School friends.

Their trip was arranged by Miss Mary Lou Murdock, a grades three and four teacher at Cranch and former exchange teacher of the West Leigh group, and a member of the Quincy Education Association.

The Quincy students will, wherever possible, be guests in the home of the same English student they hosted in Quincy in 1969. Since their return to England, many of the West Leigh students have carried on correspondence and even chess games by mail with their Quincy hosts.

The group is scheduled to leave on Irish International Airlines at 8 p.m. April 14. They will spend a day in Dublin, perhaps visiting the zoo there, before continuing to Leigh-on-Sea, some 35 miles from London.

At West Leigh Junior High School, students are preparing a schedule of sightseeing and educational experiences for their guests.

To provide for extra's on the trip, bus fares and unexpected expenditures, the Cranch School students have carried on a series of fund-raising projects which will close within the next week or so.

They have sold tickets for a performance of "Oliver" at Milton Cinema, provided "ecological" pins, held bake sales.

During Tuesday afternoon parent-teacher conferences this week and next, a rummage sale will be in progress by the students. As a final project, there will be a March 27 car wash at Covenant Congregational Church yard.

Chaperones for the trip are Frank D'Andrea, school principal, and his wife; Mrs. Eda Flate, Mrs. Elena Magnell and Mrs. Judith Gorin, parents; Miss Janet Wrigley and Miss Mary Lou Murdock of the Cranch faculty.

Students, all either present Cranch students or graduates of the past year or so, include Nancy Allen, James Baker, Enid Braverman, David Calabro, David Casey, Paula Church, Christine Ciano, Peter DelVecchio, Jean Doran, Debra Flate, John Flate, Amy Gorn, Neal Gorin.

Edward Hanratty, Catherine Hodgkins, Russell Hodgkins, Lisa Horion, Debra MacDonald, Andrea Magnell, Roberta Magnell, Mark Matthew, Margaret McCarthy, Maureen O'Donnell, Larry Player, Beverly Prescott, Dean Prescott, James Purpura, Denis Quintiliani, Elizabeth Raimondi, Gwendolyn Raimondi, Elizabeth Rice, Caren Smith, Eric Sparrman, Mark Stranberg and Brian Taylor.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

School Committee Vice-Chairman James F. McCormick, Sr., has no second thoughts about running for mayor this fall.

"I'm not changing my mind," says the only announced candidate. "I'm a candidate for mayor all the way. Period."

STILL no hint, meanwhile, from Mayor James McIntyre as to what his plans are.

If he doesn't seek re-election, it'll bust just about everything wide open.

Council President Arthur Tobin or Ward 5 Councillor Walter Hannon no doubt would be after the mayor's job. School Committeeman Paul C. Kelly would be running for a council at-large seat. And possibly another ward councillor might move city-wide.

In fact, there would be so many people running you'd have to be careful crossing the street. Or you might get hit by a speeding candidate.

WELL, Arthur Tobin really packed 'em in at Monticello's for his testimonial dinner the other night. Well over 1,200 on hand at $25 per plate.

Observers are convinced he will run for mayor--if McIntyre doesn't--or run for the senate if McIntyre gives up that seat to accept an appointment.

INCIDENTALLY, at the dinner, Mayor McIntyre noted that he and Tobin were born a day apart in May, 1930. Their mothers were in side-by-side beds at Quincy City Hospital.

Then, eyeing the huge crowd, His Honor quipped: "They mixed us up. I'm the real Arthur Tobin. And I want to thank all of you for being here tonight."

SINGER Robert Goulet was the entertainment headliner. And some of the girls are still sighing.

Goulet stepped off stage to mix with the audience, selecting at random several of the girls to sing to, with his arm around them.

Among them were Mrs. Barbara Hunt, the Mayor's sister, and Mrs. Teresa Terranova.

DURING his one-day stint [Tuesday] as Acting Mayor, in observance of DeMolay Week, Robert V. Morgan, Jr., 19, of Edwin St., North Quincy, was asked if he thought he might be interested in a political career.

"It looks interesting," he replied.

Asked if he would like to be mayor, young Morgan, after getting a taste of the jangling phones at City Hall said, "Well, I don't know about that."

STATISTIC DEPT: Donald Strong, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging, speaking at a Quincy Rotary Club Meeting noted that:

* Fifteen per cent of Quincy's population is over age 65 compared to 10 per cent nationally.

* By 1975, there will be more people in the U.S. over 65 than under 15.

SPEAKING of the Rotary Club James Asher [Mr. WJDA] is the new club president. Other new officers: Edward Percy, I vice-president; Fred Bergfors, Jr., secretary; Hobart Robinson, treasurer; Frank Mitchell, Joseph Whiteman directors and Gil Fernald, scholarship trustee.

BOWLER Peter Iannuzzo who has been winning everything on the Ch. 5 Saturday candlepin tourney, has a rabid rooter in Quincy. He's Vin Contino, the South Quincy barber, who is Pete's godfather. Iannuzzo won $1,500 for racking up three consecutive strikes and another $300 each week for four weeks as the top bowler. And he's still rolling for more money.

NOW a resident of Ward 1, Louis Caruso says he will run for that council seat if former Councillor Francis X. McCauley doesn't make a comeback bid. Otherwise, he'll run for council at-large.

SMILE DEPT: Observation in "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction:

"Probably the reason more children don't hang onto their mother's skirts these days is that they can't reach that high".

'Where Can We Go In Quincy?'

Survival, Inc. Asks Council Help Find Locations

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Members of Survival, Inc. have appealed to the Quincy City Council for help in finding non-controversial locations for their various "redirection" centers.

Opposition to the centers in Germantown and on South St. have proven setbacks to the program, supporters claim.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin suspended procedure rules to permit a half-hour presentation by five speakers of the Survival, Inc. program Monday night.

Introduced by Dr. Charles Djerf, president, speakers were Police Lt. Frank Vallier, Dr. Ronald Rosso, program coordinator; Benjamin H. Ross, coordinator in the Division of Drug Rehabilitation for the State Department of Mental Health; Joseph Whitman, Quincy businessman directing Survival's fund drive; and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

Tobin granted also a request of MDC Police Detective Leo Q. Papile, a 20-year police veteran, time to present his views on Quincy's drug problem.

Lt. Vallier cited figures showing the rise in narcotic offenses since 1967, "to show what we in the Police Department are up against."

He said there were 11 narcotic arrests in Quincy in 1967; 115 in 1968; 151 in 1969; 379 in 1970. And to date there have been 194 in 1971. If projected, this would mean 580 offenses by the end of the year, Vallier estimated.

Survival approaches the problem differently, he said.

"Most of these young people need help badly. One of the things they need is love," Vallier stated. "We have tried to bring an organization into this city that operates on that principle."

Accompanying problems are the number of breaks, Vallier said, listing a 10-year rise from 374 in 1960 to 1227 in 1970.

"There is a direct connection between the surge in breaks and larcenies and the heroin or drug problem," Vallier noted. "These kids have got to get out and get the money some where to get a fix, and they don't care how they do it."

Losses in January, February and March of this year already total $90,750, he asserted.

Dr. Ronald Rosso displayed a map showing sources from which the several rehabilitation centers of Survival, Inc. receive addicts and the course followed. They come themselves, from the school, police or court.

"We have had 247 kids in the first quarter [of this year]," Rosso said, "because of drugs or related problems. We will see at least 1,000 kids this year. Nine out of 10 are non-opiate problems."

These are referred to the non-opiate redirection center on Granite St. where they cannot be influenced by the users of heroin or other heavy opiates, who go to the opiate redirection center on South St., not yet in full operation but expected to open in the next month or so, Rosso said. A methadone program will start soon, he said, in a site near the police station.

"This is not a dream," Rosso stated. "There is a program in Quincy now. It has taken thousands of dollars and lots of man hours to develop it."

There are 13 salaried persons on the staff, and Survival, Inc. is meeting a weekly payroll of $1,000, Rosso added. Survival received its State license two weeks ago from the Department of Mental Health, he said.

State Drugs Coordinator Ross, stating he had reviewed 150 applications ranging from hot line to centers similar to Marathon House, remarked:

"I would like to go on record as saying in my humble opinion, I believe that the proposed program submitted by Survival to the Department of Mental Health and the one I have seen and recommended for licensing, is an outstanding project because it involves a complete program which includes a meaningful place for each addict where he can function and do his thing—psychologists, psychiatrists, paramedics. Council To Act On Budget, Zoning Monday

Two major items of interest to all Quincy residents will be acted upon by the Quincy City Council at Monday's 7:30 p.m. recessed session -- the 1971 $45 million budget and the proposed new zoning ordinance.

Monday night's meeting was recessed so that the Council could pass on the budget and return it to the Mayor within the required 45 days from the time it was received, according to J. Vincent Smyth, finance committee chairman.

The Finance Committee had cut $122,000 as of Saturday, or a little more than a 50-cent impact on the tax rate, Smyth notes. Approximately $210,000 equals $1. on the tax rate.

"I still maintain the tax hike will be between $10 and $15," said Smyth.

On Saturday, the Finance Committee passed, as submitted, the budgets of the Planning and Development Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals.

"The rest of the day until 5:30 p.m., we went into detail on the School Department," Smyth said.

"The City Council members are scrutinizing the budget item by item," Smyth said. "We are looking at expenditures in various categories, new positions, etc."

Quite a few spectators attended last Saturday's meeting, Smyth noted.

This coming Saturday, the Finance Committee will conclude its budget sessions by considering budgets of two remaining small departments and that of Quincy City Hospital.

Mayor James R. McIntyre's proposed $45 million budget is expected to be acted upon by the City Council at its April 5 meeting.

Robert Smelcer Cited For Meritorious Service

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Robert Smelcer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Bergstrom of 961 Sea St., Houghs Neck, was awarded the Meritorious Unit Commendation Ribbon while serving aboard the guided

Women Outnumber Men Here, Median Home Value $20,300

Quincy's official population is 87,966, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce 1970 census of population.

This is only 808 more than shown in 1965 state census of 87,158.

Women outnumber men 46,924 to 41,042, a difference of 5,882.

While there are 3,582 boys under 5 years compared to 3,543 girls, from 18 and 19 years through 75, females are on the increase until at age 75 and older there are 3,103 women and 1,620 men.

The population is housed in 29,173 "units", ranging from 631 one-room "units" to a high of 6,948 with six rooms, and 1,931 of eight rooms or more. A total 28,392 have all plumbing facilities while 657 lack some or all plumbing. There are nine mobile homes or trailers.

There are 12,411 owner occupied homes. Of these, 46 are valued at less than $5,000 with the greatest number [1,464] valued from $20,000 to $24,999, and 125 valued at $50,000 or more. Median value is $20,300.

Renter occupied units number 12,486, with 133 rented at less than $40; 2,655 pay rents in the $100 to $119 range, and 386 pay $200 or more. Median rent is $152.

Hadassah Launches Drive For Jerusalem Ambulance

Quincy Chapter of Hadassah will participate with other New England Chapters in a drive to provide an ambulance for Hadassah Hospital atop Mt. Scopus in Jerusalem, Israel.

Mrs. William Robinson, president, has named Mrs. B. Robert Levin as chairman of the ambulance drive for Quincy. She requests that anyone wishing to help may send S & H green stamps, either loose or in books, to: "AMBULANCE" P. O. Box 64, Weymouth.

The Rothschild-Hadassah University Hospital on Mt. Scopus was built in 1939 to provide health care for both Arabs and Jews in that area.

Access to the hospital was lost in 1948, and although within the Israeli enclave, it had to be abandoned. It was rebuilt in 1967 and is scheduled to re-open in 1972 to serve as a general hospital and rehabilitation center for Moslems, Christians and Jews of Jerusalem and surrounding areas.

Health High-Lights

BEST EXERCISE FOR FATTIES

What's the best exercise for a fat man? You say, "Pushing away from the table". Well, don't believe that old saw. According to the President's Council on Physical Fitness, the best exercise for weight reduction is the plain old, grunt-and-groan kind. And that's the modern fat American's tragedy - he's concentrating on calories and forgetting about exercising. And this lack of exercise is considered the most important cause of "creeping obesity" found in modern mechanized societies.

Few occupations, says the Council, now require vigorous physical activity. And as for Americans who exercise in their spare time, most do too little, too late. Authorities point out that adding 30 minutes per day of moderate exercise to one's schedule can result in a loss of about 25 pounds a year - assuming food intake remains the same.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-5426 for fast, prescription service. You can also pay your electric or telephone bills or use our notary public service. Hospital equipment and supplies for rent or sale. Prescription tax and insurance records kept plus 24 hour emergency service in North Quincy. Open 7 days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Your Thinking

I like begets like -
To fear loss causes losing.
Wealth brings more wealth -
And to win causes winning.
Over and over the ball
bounces back -
And life's circle goes spinning and spinning.

The circle starts and ends in the very same spot -
And it looks like it had no
beginning.

Now - You are the circle - perhaps you'll find out - Why and how you are losing or winning.

A thought has begun in the depths of your mind -
And it gradually comes to the fore.

Will you check it after it leaves your mind?
A wise man would check it before.

Your thought's now on the journey of the circle it begins -
And it's coming back to you -
Because this is where it ends!
What kind of thought was that?

Do you see the web we're spinning?

What ever leaves your mind comes right back to it's beginning.

Just as like begets like -
Fear of sin finds you sinning.
Thoughts of health help bring health -

Expect to win - you'll be winning.

Now do you see the chain we are linking?

YOU ARE WHAT YOU
ARE...BECAUSE OF YOUR THINKING.

Marilyn Almqvist

Unattached

As a vanishing dream fading away,
So I am, to never delay.

For when night gives way to the looming dawn,
Like the dwindling dark, I'll shortly be gone.

Lingering on only crosses my grain,
I'll never be snared, attached to a chain.

A wayfaring man, yet maybe afraid,
Of life itself, if maybe I stayed.

For I once was stabbed, by a so called gift,
Pierced through the heart, it cast me adrift.

Stunned was I, and really surprised,
This crucial blow, I had never surmised.

The wound has healed, but a scar I bear,
An ulterior badge I reluctantly wear.

And with a new life, a trail I now wend,
Seeking a path, before reaching the end.

Onion Salad Brightens Menus

Add a bright ray of summer to winter menus with an Onion and Orange Salad. Thin circles of Sweet Spanish onion and segments of orange are marinated in a tangy oil and vinegar dressing. Just before serving they are tossed with tender leaves of spinach and crisp iceberg lettuce. Crumbled bacon adds a flavorful garnish.

For a raw onion salad of this type it is important to select an onion with the delicate flavor and juiciness of the Sweet Spanish variety. Often called Gentle Giants for their mild flavor, these huge onions with delicate golden-bronze paper-like skins are grown in Eastern Oregon and Southwestern Idaho. You'll find them on the market from September through March.

Sunshine Onion Salad

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1/2 Idaho-Oregon Sweet Spanish onion | 3 cups torn spinach |
| 2 oranges, peeled and sectioned | 1 cup torn Western Iceberg lettuce |
| Tarragon French dressing | 3 slices bacon, drained and crumbled |

Peel and slice onion, separate into rings. Place onion rings and orange sections in bowl. Add tarragon dressing. Cover and refrigerate 2 hours. To serve, place spinach and lettuce in salad bowl. Add onions, oranges and dressing. Toss. Sprinkle with bacon. Serves 6.

Tarragon Dressing: Combine 1/2 cup oil, 1/4 cup wine vinegar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon tarragon. Shake well to blend.

"JUST CHECK THE AIR, PLEASE."

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of Mar. 18 - 25

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - You can take the lead in legal action or other matters pending for some time now, but use serious thought, not impulsive action.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Get ready to take a back seat toward the end of the week and keep ideas to yourself for now. There may be disappointments with family.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - You may be giving some serious thought to giving up one of your activities in favor of staying home more often. Talk it over with friends.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Things that have been pending for a long time now need solution but don't force it - the answers will come in their own good time.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Your big opportunity has been delayed until the Fall but other pending matters are settled to your advantage so count your blessings.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - Time now to take a new look at your business affairs. Throw out the old methods and get the new ones established.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - There is too much going on for you to decide the best course to follow. Try to delay those who are pressing for decision.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Financial matters can come up for review this week and the decision may not be what you had in mind. A friend may leave your life.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - You can stir up a lot of excitement as you change your direction and begin to retrace some past actions or events.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - This is a time of trying to touch all bases at once - an almost impossible task. Secret problems will soon be solved.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - Working behind the scenes and seeking peaceful settlement to everyone's problems is your task during this period.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Your difficulties reach a peak now and then slowly ease off, giving you a well deserved break. Virgo's message applies.

"Tomorrow's Another Day, said Scarlett as she shut the door.

Tomorrow...manana...next Monday...they all have the same meaning to the dieter. And the reality of it comes through in all the languages—it means NOT NOW.

I have a friend who found it impossible to begin dieting until she had - on one day - eaten all her favorite foods, which included pizza, submarine sandwiches and strawberry shortcake. If perchance she couldn't get her mouth on all these items on the day designated as pre-D[iet] Day, she cancelled her appointment with discipline and chose another date. You can readily see how she gained five to ten pounds just "thinking" about losing weight.

'The Big Bull Snake'

A recent study by a large University regarding failing students of the freshmen class revealed that the one complaint of students against parents and teachers which was mentioned more than any other was... "You didn't teach me to stand on my own feet."

So many failed because they didn't know how to handle their lives when away from the supervision of parents and teachers. For so long they'd been told what to study...how many pages...when to study...when they could go out...when they must stay in...from early childhood what to wear...who they could have for friends...when to go to bed...when to get up. They didn't have to think...they were discouraged from thinking rationally... "Just do as I say...and we'll get along fine." This runs a tight ship...but it doesn't teach people to stand on their own feet.

There's need for a strong parental role. I believe in strong fathers and warm mothers. I believe in fathers being the HEAD of the family. Wives usually do too...unless they are "masculine females" who want to dominate. Warm women are happy people and they make everyone else in the family happy.

Fathers give strength...stability...character...decision making powers...security to a family. Every home needs a "take charge" father...a father who has accepted the responsibility for being "in charge"...and who is willing to take and exercise the authority which goes along with his responsibility.

For a man to fulfill his responsibility he must recognize what it is...both materially and emotionally. Working to earn money to support the family is certainly one facet...and in so doing a man is showing his love...concern...responsibility to his family. My heart goes out to men whose incomes have been cut by the recent economic recession...and the threat or actual loss of jobs. It is no small anxiety that many men are suffering. A man turns himself into cash on his job. In this sense he is giving himself for his wife and family. Wives should not minimize this expression of love.

Then...the emotional factors are also vital...a father's presence...his requirements...his encouragement...his participation in the interests of his wife and the children. I told a man only a few days ago... "Go to the school to visit the teachers...don't leave that as a sole responsibility of your wife." It makes a difference if Dad's influence is felt with the children. A man encourages his children to stand on their own feet...to make decisions...to call him if they need him...but to work things through themselves...to use their brains and their brain.

I've always loved nature...dogs...horses...wild life...birds. I quit hunting a few years ago...put up my guns. I feel that the day of grown men gunning for animals is past. [I should add that the animals and birds weren't much in danger when I hunted anyway]. But one animal I never learned to like is the snake. At age 7 I had an awful scare. I found a little bird behind the car in the garage. I knew there was a nest above the garage door. So...I picked up the bird...climbed up on the back fender of the old Ford and just as I reached up to replace the little bird in the nest a great big 5-foot bull snake projected his neck...hiss-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s-s...it must have been the most blood curdling scream ever uttered from a human throat. From his second floor study raged my father to answer this need call. He saw his terrible frightened little son...knocked the big snake from the garage door track...and killed it.

I never called for my father once when he didn't come. I never called for him once when I didn't need him. There was never a false alarm. He taught me to care for myself unless I couldn't...then to call. He never failed to answer.

This is the kind of father that eliminates the criticism of the freshman college drop-out... "You didn't teach me to stand on my own feet." This is the kind of father that teaches a boy by example how to be HEAD of a family. This is the kind of father that teaches children to be independent...unafraid...warm...free...secure...aggressive...and how to "take charge" in a family...and in the affairs of life.

In order for a man to be and do this...he must have the authority. He can't have his legs cut off by a wife who down-grades him or fights him...in over-protecting and over-caring for their children.

One of the luckiest women in the world is the wife who understands and appreciates the actions of a strong...aggressive husband...a man who wants his family to learn to stand on their own feet...but who responds quickly and warmly at the real need call of a boy threatened by "the big bull snake."

Sacred Music Concert Sunday At First Congregational Church

A concert of sacred music will be presented at First Congregational Church in Braintree on Sunday at 8 p.m.

Christopher King, organist, with Anne Hanson Bishop and E. Ione Lockwood, sopranos, will be heard in a program of organ music, duets and solos.

Mr. King will play the 19th century organ work, "Sonata on Palm 94" by Reubek, among other works, while Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Lockwood will sing duets by Heinrich Schutz and Benedetto Marcello, and arias by Bach and Handel.

Mr. King, organist and choir director of the First Congregational Church since September, 1969, is also director of music at Brooks School, North Andover and at Rogers Hall, Lowell.

Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Lockwood have been soloists in the South Shore area for many years. Mrs. Lockwood sings also at Melrose Highlands Congregational Church.

An informal reception, sponsored by the music committee, will follow the concert. Mrs. Irvin Marstin, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. David A. MacKenzie and Mrs. William A. Beck. Other committee members are John W. O'Connell, George M. Daley and Richard C. Nelson.

The public is invited to attend.

My Life As A Guinea Pig

My name is Squeakey the Guinea Pig. My owner is Mr. Crowley. A lot of kids take me home during the weekends. When they take me home I feel like a king. I have two neighbors Mr. & Mrs. Fish and Mr. & Mrs. Turtle. I live alone in a cage. I don't mind because I travel a lot. If you ever want me I am in Room 23 during the week. I am out during vacations. I like being a guinea pig because I am different from anyone in the room. I am the only guinea pig in the whole room. I get treated well too. When I am happy I squeak I can't talk but I can squeak. Maybe that's weird but talking is weird to me. I hate it when the door slams, the teacher yells, the bell rings and all noises. I especially hate it when the fire alarm starts to ring. The kids all walk out and leave me here all alone. I get scared because if the school is on fire I might smother to death. I like a lot of things about the school and especially Room 23.

If I Were

A Leprechaun

If I were as tiny as a leprechaun for a day, what fun I would have! I would go to Nantasket and get on all the rides. I would be so small no one could see me. I would have to be careful that no one would step on me. By the end of the day I would go swimming. After swimming I went home, I had to use magic, of course, because I was too small. They called me Tiny Tim if they could see me. At the end of the day I went over the rainbow and found the pot of gold. After that I turned myself back to a person and lived a rich life.

Danger To The Deer

Through the forest the deer runs
Dodging the terrifying hunters' guns
He meets with more horrible grief

He must put up a quicker pace

Or else, he will lose the race!

My Trip To The Trailside

My two favorite things were Hercules, the owl and the deer. "Herc" was gray, black and white. He was very pretty. He can turn his head half way around. We got to pat Herc. My other favorite animal was the deer. We all thought it was a girl; because it didn't have antlers but it wasn't. The lady told us they lose their antlers. The deer was licking us. The deer was very pretty, also. We saw a lot of other animals, but those were my favorites.

Valentines

To me Valentines day means love. At this time people give a part of themselves to others. They give love, and love is a beautiful thing, that everybody needs. When this day comes people feel happy and friendly and they want to share this with others. You may give candy and cards but the best thing of all is the love you give.

My Life As A Fish

Hello, I am a fish in Room 23. My name is Donna. I feel so cool in my aquarium. I am always cool. I don't ever have to worry about being hot. I like being a fish because I feel so free. I feel like a queen. Of course I could be if I wanted to. I have no children to worry about all day. That's why I feel so free. I don't have to worry about going and looking for food to eat. I just swim around until somebody sprinkles food into my aquarium. I just swim around and wait. Of course I don't live alone. I live with my brother. I am a white fish with black and blue spots all over me. I think I am a catfish. I love to sway around and do whatever I want to. I live in an aquarium where there are rocks at the bottom of it. There is a filter in my tank so that I can breathe. The filter makes noises like small bubbles that are popping. That is one of the noises I hear all of the time. I never sleep because I never get tired. Whether it is morning, noon or night I don't ever go to sleep. When I am alive I always hear that bubbling noises. Oh boy! I have to end now because my brother is calling me now. By - bye.

If I Were

A Leprechaun

If I were as tiny as a leprechaun for a day what fun I would have. I would get a ride up to the biggest candy store in the world. Then I would pop in the store and get all the candy that I liked and put it in a bag and leave the store. I'd go to a bike store and get a five speed bike and zap it down to my size. I would try to go to the top of the mountain and ride down it. When I got to the bottom of the mountain I would get in a very small boat and sail to the Indian Ocean and back to the Pacific Ocean and then I would go home and return to my normal size.

The Under

Privileged Applesced

One day I lived in an apple and felt a big bump. The apple had fallen out of a tree and the apple said that everyone could go out and find a spot to grow except me. Then the apple said I could go find a place to grow in one week. The next day all the apple seeds came back except four. Those four had been eaten by birds. Just then I noticed that if I went with the others I would have been eaten up by a bird! I wasn't underprivileged! In fact, the apple just saved my life! Ten years later I was a happy tree.

Goodness! The Pile Is Falling

One afternoon on a farm the farmer was piling hay as he was doing it the horses were running in the pasture. When it was breakfast time mom called him in. After breakfast father milked the cows. He brought in fresh hay so it wouldn't smell a lot in the barn. He went into town about 11:30 a.m. to buy some feed for the chickens. At lunch father was reading the newspaper. Mother yelled the pile is falling! Quick as a flash father ran and caught it before it hit the ground. Next minute brother yelled the Pile is falling. Father caught it again. Then the next morning a neighbor stood under the hay loft. Father yelled the pile is falling! Oh fiddle sticks. The neighbor yelled Oh no it is falling thump! Thanks for telling me neighbor, see you around. By the way the sun set down father said he's a nice neighbor.

A Wonderful Day

If I were as tiny as a leprechaun for a day, what fun I would have! I would go to the White House and have dinner with the President of the United States. Then I would drop in on the Partridge Family and watch them perform. Then I would go and see the Young Rebels perform. I would go to Disneyland also I would go on all the rides free and no one would see me. Well this has been an exciting day so I think I will go to bed. Good-night!

way that involves methadone.

"I am cautiously optimistic that if this program is given an opportunity to function, you will perhaps indeed have the outstanding program in New England. I believe that because I have seen hundreds of other places in operation.

"I commend the City for getting together as a team to combat the problem."

Whiteman outlined financial needs and said he headed a finance committee including Thomas S. Burgin, Stephen T. Keefe, Jerry Rilett and Charles G. Peterson of the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

"We are after $250,000 from the community of Quincy," Whiteman said, explaining that the budget had been cut to "a good deal less than we had originally thought we would strive to get."

Some $14,000 has been given by individuals and firms, he said.

"We are here to ask the council's help not because Survival's program is in any difficulties, but with difficulties we have run into in some communities where we had hoped to purchase, we are being stopped."

Whiteman asked that the Council members help Survival by telling the group where they might run into opposition, and where Survival might be able to locate.

"We cannot go out on a major fund-raising drive until we find places that we have to have," he said.

School Supt. Creedon discussed also the problems of site locations, saying, "I hope we can work with the Council in attempting to locate sites for the entire Survival program."

He presented Council

Bruce H. Walker

At Guantanamo Bay

Coast Guard Seaman Bruce H. Walker, son of Mrs. Martha A. Walker of 294 Water St., South Quincy, is serving aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Escanaba in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

He is taking refresher training in fields of military readiness and seamanship and emergency procedures.

President Tobin with copies for each Councilor of a curriculum guide in drug education for grades 7-12 in the Quincy Public Schools, which he called "the result of a year's research effort."

Dr. Creedon credited the Council with "100% cooperation" when the Survival program was first presented to them for assistance. He added that the School Committee had since allowed him to have two people on the program full time.

He called Survival, Inc. "a self-help program. If we are going to eliminate the problem throughout the City of Quincy, we are going to have to do it by a bootstrap operation."

He asked for an opportunity for Survival, Inc. to meet with the Council from time to time to report on progress and to receive advice.

Dr. Djerf again thanked the Council for $15,000 given Survival, Inc. during its early stages.

MDC Det. Papile commended Dr. Djerf for going ahead with his program, saying he was at the Council to express his feelings and "get it off his chest."

He asked, "Why can't members of Survival sit down with members of the Council and ask, 'Where can we go in Quincy?'"

He recounted his experience after World War II in 1964 when the late Chief William Ferrazzi suggested sending veterans to an island so they could drink their fill and get it out of their system.

Instead of seeking locations on South St., Snug Harbor or even West Quincy, Papile said, he would suggest Long Island or some site away from the community.

He deplored the publicity given many of the young people, adding, "It could happen to the best of families. We have seen it."

Granite ORT Chapter To Take Part In Membership Drive

Granite Chapter of Women's American ORT [Organization for Rehabilitation through Training] will be represented March 22 at the Hotel Statler Hilton for the Spring Membership Drive.

Dr. William Haber, president of American ORT Federation, will be guest speaker.

At last night's meeting at the home of Mrs. Neal Coffman, 172 Puritan Drive, Quincy, a tasting party was held with the theme "A Taste of Wine a Taste of ORT."

The next community bloodmobile will be March 15 at the Wollaston Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston. Hours will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Appointments may be made by calling the Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter.

A donation was voted to Cerebral Palsy.

Mrs. Agnes Reichert was hostess for Moosehaven Chapter Night, and a miscellaneous sale followed the meeting.

Membership Chapter Night will be noted April 12 with Mrs. Edith Purpura Chairman. Members are to bring donations for a sale.

'What's Right With America?'

'We Have All Kinds Of Freedoms, Rights And Fair Laws'

[Editor's Note: This is another prize winning essay in the contest "What's Right With America?" sponsored by the South Shore Auto Dealer's Association.

Denise Walter of 23 Edgewater Drive, Houghs Neck, a ninth grade student at Broad Meadows Junior High School won a $25 fourth prize for her entry.

Essays of other Quincy public school winners will also be printed by the Quincy Sun.]

Broad Meadows Junior High
Ninth Grade

In this country we have a democracy so that we have the right to elect anyone we want to be our president, governor, and representatives. While we are voting we have a secret ballot and nobody knows how we vote.

We can disagree with people in the government and they will listen. In other countries without a democracy the people couldn't question anything their leaders said. In countries like that they even tell people what and what not to say, but here we have a mind of our own.

We can help to make our own laws and we also have a right to say we don't think some of the laws are right for the people to live by. Because of this they might change them. Our laws are very good ones. They are fair to everyone. If we didn't have these laws this country would probably be like a jungle. Everybody could take anything he wanted to take. He could even kill. The strongest person would survive.

DENISE WALTER

We have all kinds of freedoms here, even more than in any other country. We can say whatever we want to say as long as it doesn't offend anybody. We can also write anything that we want to write. The most important of these freedoms is the freedom of religion. We have the right to worship whatever or whom ever we want to worship.

Everyone has the right to an education. The education here is for everyone, no matter what color or religion he or she is. Everyone gets a free education up to the twelfth grade. We also have some very fine colleges.

In my opinion, the most important thing that is right with our country is that we are not fighting among ourselves. What I mean by "among ourselves" is that we are united; we are not fighting state against state or North against South. This country is not divided by religion either, like Northern and Southern Ireland. We are living together in peace.

To improve it, we could send some people that aren't satisfied with our country, to countries that don't have the freedoms we have. They will then see how good things are here.

The best way to improve our country would be to teach the children when they are very young, about other countries where they don't have a democracy and can't even say what they want to say.

I think then the children would learn to appreciate what we have in our country. We might also have travelers from our country speak about what it was like in Russia or Red China. Our people would then realize that our country is the best place to live.

Everyone knows that our ancestors worked hard for our freedom and now we must work hard to keep it.

South-West Credit Union Elects New Officers

'Love Story' Box Office Smash

Several editions ago this column strongly suggested the possibility that SEAN CONNERY and his James Bond portrayal are so cemented in the viewers mind as one, that it would be a good idea for CONNERY to plunge back into the role he made famous... Well, CONNERY has done just that; namely, signed on for another stint as Bond for the upcoming "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER"... The main reason for his returning to the fun, games, adventure and excitement of Bondism, was the unheard of financial offer the producers dangled before him... He is getting everything short of the proverbial kitchen sink. CONNERY's deal involves 12% of the gross profits against a guarantee of $1 million... With SEAN CONNERY back as "Bond" the producers have a potential box office bonanza on their hands...

STEVE McQUEEN moved up into some pretty exclusive company when he joined on as a business partner of First Artists Productions Co. The original founders include PAUL NEWMAN, BARBRA STREISAND and SIDNEY POITIER... The first production of the company, which stars NEWMAN, is scheduled to roll before the cameras on April 15. NEWMAN will play the title role in "JIM KANE" with all the location sites being shot in the wilds of Arizona and New Mexico... JOSEPH STRICK'S "INTERVIEWS WITH MY LAI VETERANS" could prove to be the most controversial 22 minute short subject ever filmed. The Academy Award nominated release already has the brass in the Pentagon in a cold sweat... It will be playing the greater Boston area shortly and the interviews with the five veterans of the My Lai "Incident" should prove most revealing...

Some motion picture studios never learn. RICHARD D. ZANUCK, fired from 20th-Fox for incompetence, was hired by Warner Bros. in the capacity of senior executive vice-president... Well at least they're keeping his lack of business acumen in the same family [films]... UNITED ARTISTS is in trouble! For lack of funds production on "MAN OF LA MANCHA" has skidded to a complete halt. As if this isn't bad enough, UA has already invested $2 million in this supposed "low budgeted" flick... EVE MEYER [the former Mrs. RUSS MEYER] is in a fury over the X-rating given her masterpiece, "PINOCCHIO". If EVE had stuck with the original story she would have been given a G-rating for sure. But no, these sex-flic artists have to jazz up everything... Serves her right!...

CANADA's addition to the trash market, "LOVE IS A FOUR LETTER WORLD" only makes one contemplate what we did to deserve this from our northern neighbors. The picture is slated to mass screen the U.S.A. theatres in a month or so... "LOVE STORY" has edged over the $30 million mark, and is far and away the fastest moving film in motion picture history. Even "THE SOUND OF MUSIC" didn't take off so quickly in so short a time... WALTER MATTHAU and ELAINE MAY are hilarious as the love couple of the 70's in what could prove to be the laugh riot of the year, "A NEW LEAF"... Central Wins 10th Title Under Casali

Mario [Mike] Casali has been coaching basketball at Central Junior High school for 13 years and has won 10 ninth grade city championships.

His remarkable record during that time shows 137 wins and only 17 losses.

"This year's championship was one of the most satisfying for me," Mike said. "We had no height and no one gave us much chance for the title. We lost three of our first four games but the boys refused to quit, kept hustling and won the next seven games to edge Point by a half game."

Central topped Point, 43-37, in the championship game as Dan Minton, Carl Leone and John Flynn combined for 39 of the winners' points and Mike Varrasso and Tim Dwyer had 12 points apiece for Point.

Top players for Central this season were Co-Captains Leone and Flynn, Minton, and Steve Maloney.

The members of the championship squad were:

Craig Chamberlain, Joe Condon, Steve Constant, Dave DiBona, Charlie Djerf, Tom Donovan, Flynn, Gary Flanigan, Chuck Graham, Tom Hannon, Bob Harrold, Roy Kandelaft, Leone, George Louis, Maloney, Bob Mathieson, Dave Mathieson, Don Martucci, Minton, Rich McCarthy, Art Neary, Steve Orlando, Dan Rota, Steve Salhaney, Sam Salomaa, Dan Smith, Phil Spring and Steve Vickers.

"The great spirit and determination of this group was very pleasing to me and I was glad to see the 28 boys who reported for the squad stayed with the team all year long," the veteran coach said.

Casali used everyone on the eighth grade squad in looking forward to next year. Atlantic won the eighth grade title over Broad Meadows.

Standouts on the eighth grade squad were Mark Reale, Jack Rabel, Jim Timmons and Bruce Shea.

There is no official seventh grade championship as all coaches give everyone a chance to play and stress their development. However, Central did win the unofficial city crown.

In the season's finale against Point, Central's seventh graders eked out a one-point win as Jack Browne, son of Quincy's Public Works Commissioner, calmly sank a foul shot with one second left in the game.

Sparking the seventh graders were Paul Kelleher, Jack Browne, Jack Hatfield and Scott Roberts.

The roster included: Russ Affsa, Ken Beagle, Roger Belanger, Eric Bergstrom, Leo Blaney, Browne, Dave Calabro, Rony DiRocco, Kenny Drain, Bill Flaherty, Phil Gavengano, Bob Hacunda, Bruce Hall, Wally Hannan, Jack Hatfield, Steve Johnson, Gary Kandelaft, Paul Kelleher.

John Lawson, Mike Leith, Ed Mahoney, Pete Maloney, Joe McConville, John McKenna, John Nelson, Joel Pearsall, Chris Phelan, Tony Poole, Paul Radzik, Roberts, Mike Shea, Phil Shine, Tom Sines, Steve Smith, Mike Sorkin and Paul Sullivan. Casali coaches all three teams and has developed a program called "early bird" basketball which has been in progress ever since he took over.

This program is for the seventh graders and begins at 7 a. m. Casali conducts the program assisted by several members of the ninth grade squad.

Minton led the Central ninth grade scorers with an average of 14.5 points a game, followed by Leone with a 12-point game average. Central averaged 40 points a game to 28 for the opposition.

Atlantic:

Bill Willoughby had one of his most successful seasons as coach of the Atlantic Junior High basketball teams this winter.

His eighth grade team rolled to the city title with an 11-0 record. The top players were Joe Wilkinson, Tim Clifford, Walter Melton, Bill Cenga, Warren Jordan, Bill Driscoll and John Powell.

Other players were John Nolan, Mike Meehan, Tom Callahan, Frank Granara, Mike Bray, Jim McCastor, Dave Cobban, Don Cobban, Steve Lathrop, and Chris Morton.

"These boys did a terrific job," Willoughby said. "They hustled at all times and were very coachable."

Bill's seventh graders also had a good year with an 8-3 record.

The club was sparked by Tom Wilkinson, John Earle, Jay Nelson, Bob Coughlin, Richard Marre, Mike Kelly, John Riley and Richard Mahoney.

Also playing were Paul Oxner, Paul McGuigan, Tom Psaros, Bob Grazer, Tom D'Angelo, Kevin McLaughlin, Jim Smith, Kevin Worley, Jim Cooney, Paul Bowen and Steve Sylva.

Broad Meadows:

At Broad Meadows Coach Steve Campana had a fairly successful season and his eighth grade squad was in the running for the city title until the following week.

"We wound up with a 7-3 eighth grade record and lost to Atlantic, the champ, by only one point without Don Connors, one of our top players," Campana said. "Our other teams also did well with the seventh graders 5-5 and the ninth graders 4-6, losing some close games."

Among the stars for the eighth grade team were Connors, Jim Forrester, Terry O'Day, Bob Raser and Dick Hebert.

The ninth graders were sparked by Frank DiSalvio, Bob Benn, Bob Goldie and Tom Perry.

Sparking the seventh grade team were Kevin Donovan, John Powers, Bill Carroll and Steve Connolly.

"The ninth grade team has some fine prospects for the high school," Campana said.

The ninth grade roster included Benn, Art Connolly, Paul Craig, DiSalvio, Steve Drew, John Dwyette, Jim French, Goldie, Mark Lorgere, Tom Moriarty, Steve O'Rourke, Perry, Joe Simpson and Mark Wolforth.

Playing for the eighth grade were Dick Brooks, Mark Cardarella, Forrester, Hebert, Terry Isleb, John Kasianowicz, Mike MacKenzie, O'Day, Phil Prakup, Raser and Bob Reardon.

The seventh grade team was made up of Carroll, Tom Connolly, Steve Connolly, John Conroy, Bob Dacey, Donovan, Mike DuBois, Paul Ferris, Jim Grimmett, Scott Howard, Powers and Paul Southard.

Paul Craig and Don Uvanite assisted Campana with the seventh grade team and Bob Prakup assisted with the eighth graders.

Sterling:

It was a frustrating season for Coach Dave Meehan of the Sterling quintets.

Dave's teams failed to win a single game, yet he had some fine individual performers. He was hampered by a lack of height which hurt Sterling considerably.

"We just didn't put it all together," Dave said. "In nine of our 10 ninth grade games we were ahead, I feel, despite our record, we had the best defensive team in the league but just couldn't score when we had to."

According to Meehan, Tom McKinnon was his high scorer, Paul Riggs the leading rebounder, Robin Carrera the playmaker and Mike Kenney the best defensive player. Other ninth grade players were Pete DiBona, Roger Thomas, Kevin Souza, Bob Gosselin, Mike DePolo and Wayne Ponder.

High scorer for the eighth grade was Preston Carroll and Joe Tocchio was the leading rebounder. Other players were Phil Boive, George Vallatini, Bob Souza, Kevin Callahan, John MacDonald, Fred Fanalli, Charles Park, Dominic Venturilli, Marco DiCenzo, Bob Kinan, Dave Gosselin and Mike Starck.

Like the eighth grade team, the seventh graders also had no height. The high scorers were Richard Salvucci and Eric Carrera. Other players were Gary Prezioso, Jim Duggan, Scott Simpson, Anthony Bruce, Don Paluzzi, John D'Angelo, Joe Gillis, Leo Bonome, Glenn Menchi, Peter Keenan, Dave Dostie, Colin Gillis, Russ Boxman, Paul Sullivan, Jerry Martin, George Geisser, Bob Cheney, Anthony Cedrone, Charles Gaziano and Andrew Gore.

No Tourney Berths But Quincy, North 'Spoilers'

Both the Quincy and North Quincy basketball teams missed the Tech Tourney this year but each proved to be a spoiler.

North, in particular, played the spoiler role. After being eliminated from the Tech by rival Quincy, Bob Nolan's Raiders finished up by eliminating both Weymouth North and Brookline of the Suburban League from the tournament.

Quincy, after ousting North, finished up in disappointing fashion as it was shocked by Weymouth South, which ended with its only win in 19 games.

North, refusing to quit after losing out on its Tech hopes, bounced back from the Quincy loss to defeat Weymouth North, coached by Nolan's brother-in-law, Bill Kearns, 69-57.

"I had mixed emotions about this win," Nolan admitted. "I wanted to see Bill make the Tech but sometimes the ball just doesn't bounce right for you. This was the first time we had ever faced each other and I wish it wasn't under these circumstances. But I told Bill we were going all-out to win, as any team should."

North had a hot shooting night with 50 per cent from the floor as Tom Cairns, 6-7 junior, led the scoring with 28 points. Brian Donahue scored 17 and Ken Baker 12.

Cairns also controlled the boards and came down with 18 rebounds. "Tom was unbelievable and had a tremendous night," Nolan lauded.

The successful North coach, who had hoped to take his fourth North team in five years to the Tech, pointed out that both have young clubs who have a lot to look forward to next year.

The Weymouth junior varsity upset Joe Amoroso's North jayvees, 58-57, in an overtime thriller.

North then travelled to Brookline where it used its greater height to good advantage and eliminated the Wealthy Townsers from Tech in easy fashion, 88-57.

Four Brookline players fouled out and Cairns again was the big difference as he dominated the boards and scored 14 points. In a fine act of sportsmanship, Brookline presented him the game ball.

North used an effective full-court press that forced Brookline into many errors which enabled the Raiders to pull ahead, 36-26, at the half.

Cairns was the only North underclassman in double figures. Seniors Baker with 22 points, Tony Kelly with 11 and Bob Flaherty with 10 were the others.

North finished the season 11-6, one win away from making the Tech.

"The boys had a fine season and I was sorry to see them miss out by one game," Nolan said. "We can't blame it all on the two losses to Quincy, as we lost some others we should have won. We have a lot of good juniors and sophomores and should have another good season next year."

North's jayvees wound up a fine season with 62-47 win, making their record 11-5. Dave Barry had 17 points and Bill Bradley 11.

Quincy, with nothing at all at stake, had a let-down at Weymouth but Coach Marty Finnegan had no alibis but praised the South team following the 62-60 win.

"I think this shows the faith and desire that this Weymouth team has had all year," he said. "It is a great tribute to the boys and a coaching staff that never said die. Our hats are off to them."

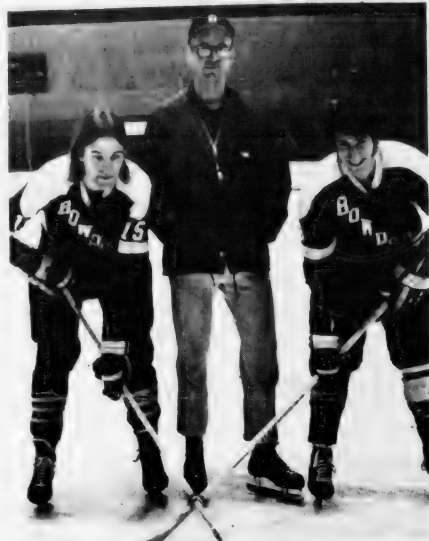

It was a disappointing finish to a good season which saw the Presidents finish 10-7.

Capt. Bob Pike finished a brilliant season with 26 points, his average for the season. It was his three-pointer with less than a minute to play which tied the game at 60-41.

The Presidents then maneuvered until, with eight seconds left, Weymouth's Mike Quinn stole the ball, went the length of the court and put in a lay-up to win it. Quincy missed a last ditch shot.

Like North, Quincy had a number of fine juniors and sophomores this year and, with an excellent jayvee team under new coach Mike Greenlaw, next year's outlook for the Presidents appears rosy.

BOWDOIN HOCKEY PLAYERS - Coach Mort LaPointe of Bowdoin College's freshman hockey team is flanked by two of his Massachusetts players - wing Steve Gifford (11) of Dedham and wing Charlie Condos of Quincy. Condos was a standout for Quincy High.

North Icemen Prospects Bright

A year ago North Quincy's hockey team finished 0-18 but this winter, under new coach Ron Erikson, himself a former Raider star, North showed marked improvement and wound up with three wins and four ties in the Greater Boston League.

Although their 3-13-14 record was not impressive, the Raiders were in the thick of several games they lost and turned in some good performances under Erikson.

One of their finest performances was in the season's opener against GBL champion Quincy. North led most of the way, 2-0, but dropped a 3-2 heartbreaker.

Although North hockey appears to be on the way back, Erikson has a huge building job next year, as he loses most of this season's players including virtually all the starters.

"We will have only seven players returning from the varsity and most of them also played for the jayvees," Erikson said. "This year's ninth graders will play key roles in our hopes for next year."

Graduating from this year's team will be Tom O'Malley, who scored the winning goal for the GBL all-stars against Quincy last week; Bobby Golden, Bob Frizzell, Nick Struzik, Neil Bronin, Jeff Sheehan, a fine goalie; Vin Cameron, Pete Williams, Steve Barry and Steve Mellor.

This constitutes most of the Raiders' scoring and defensive prowess.

Leading the returnees will be Steve MacKay and Steve Leofanti, a pair of excellent forwards; Bobby Guerrieri, who shared the goalie duties with Sheehan and had some outstanding games; and Keith Losordo, a strong defenseman.

Others due to return are Defenseman Doug Connors and Forwards Joe Lannin and Ken Graham.

Junior High-Freshman Coach Eddie Goguen feels several of his ninth graders, especially league all-stars Bob Henderson, a high scoring forward, and Dave Messina, one of the top goalies in the league, will help the varsity next season.

"A lot will depend on how these ninth graders progress and how much skating they and the varsity returnees do during the off season," Erikson said. "I feel, despite the loss of so many players, prospects are bright here at North."

Pagnano Named Grid Coach At Duxbury

Bill Pagnano, who recently resigned as assistant football coach at North Quincy High after three years there, has been named head coach of football at Duxbury High School.

Pagnano, 31, a former Weymouth High and Northeastern U. star and an assistant coach at Foxboro for two years, can go no way but up at Duxbury, which has been pretty much of a South Shore League doormat.

Bill is looking forward to the challenge.

"The school hasn't had much luck in football but there is great potential there. The town is growing and I hope football will grow with it," he said.

Duxbury has been a soccer hotbed and many students prefer that game to football, which hurt Coach Charlie Anderson considerably.

Now a teacher at North Quincy, Pagnano will teach at the Ellison Middle School in Duxbury starting next fall.

Quincy Elks Pace Little Loop

Quincy Lodge of Elks leads the 14-League Quincy Bowling Little Loop with 55 games won, 21 lost.

George G. Burke's team with 53-23 is second, and the Montclair Men's Club follows with a 52-24 record.

Paul Peckham has top average with 100.7. Others of the top 10 are Mike Durkin 94.35; Bick Hirtle 94.29; Mike Martinelli 93.36; Bruce Perry 93.35; Dick Magnarelli 92.0; William J. Connolly 88.48; Frank Alibrandi 88.25; John Brodie 88.16 and Steve Lindstrom 88.0.

Wollaston Bowldrome had high team three of 1371 and weekly high team single of 497.

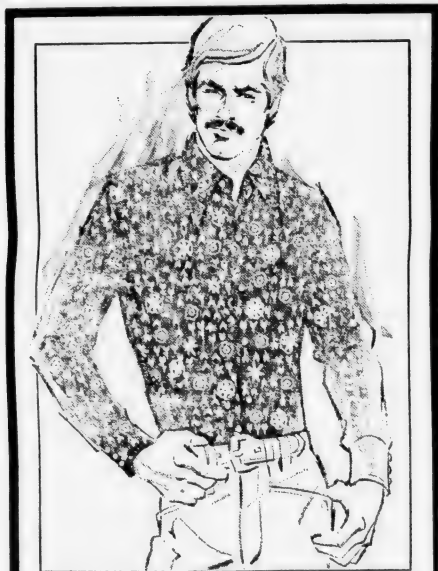

Dennis O'Sullivan took top honors with high individual three of 324 and weekly high individual single of 127.

Kodad Rolls High Series

Paul Kodad of Quincy had the high scratch series of 820 in the recent Boston Bowlers Association Ten Pin Handicap Tournament held in Boston Bowl, Dorchester.

High games were rolled by Vin DeSantis of Quincy with 236 and Jim Ross of North Quincy, 233.

Next tournament at Boston Bowl will be March 27-28.

Crusaders Reach Finals In National Tourney

ENC Caps Best Season In History

A happy band of Eastern Nazarene College basketball players, more convinced than ever that they should have been selected for the NAIA tourney, arrived back in Quincy after a surprising showing in the National Christian College A.A. Tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn.

It capped the most successful season in the school's history.

After being snubbed by the NAIA selection committee, despite the fact they had a better record than three of the four District 32 Southern Division teams, the Crusaders entered the King's Invitational Tourney at Briar Cliff, N.Y.

They won that tournament and gained an invitation to the fourth annual NCAA Tourney in Chattanooga.

Seeded fourth among the eight entries from all parts of the country, ENC was given no chance of even advancing to the second round by the experts. Despite having one of the better records in the event, it was felt that New England basketball was inferior to that in other sections of the country and Coach Jim Smith and his crew were regarded lightly.

However, the Crusaders weren't awed, romped to two impressive wins before bowing in the finals to top-seeded Azusa Pacific College of California, 98-86, as Azusa won its third straight tourney crown.

To say ENC made an impression on the fans and sportswriters in and around Chattanooga is putting it mildly. Most were amazed at the Crusaders' performances.

"I think our fine showing gave New England basketball a tremendous boost," Smith said. "It was a tough loss to take but we have the satisfaction of knowing we lost to a real good ball club and we gave them all they could handle."

Azusa had gone to the finals of the California NAIA Regional Tourney before bowing to Whittier, President Nixon's alma mater, and ranked sixth in the nation among NAIA schools.

The California team also had beaten two of the best small college teams in the country, U. of California, Riverside and Eastern Michigan, during the regular season.

"This was possibly the best team we've faced this year," said Smith, whose Crusaders had won 19 in a row and finished the season with a 26-5 record. "The only team I can compare it with was Western New England, which defeated us. Western New England was probably faster but Azusa had more depth. It was this depth which made the difference in the end as they had four good big men whom they shuffled in and out through the entire three-day tournament."

Azusa Coach Cliff Harnio was high in his praise of ENC. "They have two of the finest guards we've seen this year and we saw some great ones," he said. "In [Ron] Bradley and [Don] Eads they have two shooters who will match up with anyone."

Both Bradley and Eads, who had made the King's Tourney all-star squad, were named to the NCAA all-star squad and Bradley, who received the most votes, was selected the Most Valuable Player with Eads a close second in the balloting.

Eads set a new tourney scoring record with 91 points in his three games. The old mark was 78.

ENC stayed with the winners until the final minutes when Azusa's depth began to tell.

"We were really beat," said Rick Reyenger, the 6-7 freshman from Quincy. "When Steve [Shoff] asked to come out in the second half I knew he had to be tired because he's one of the toughest kids I've ever played with." Shoff, 5-8 guard who plays great defense, almost collapsed from exhaustion before he made it to the bench.

Eads scored 22 points, Clark Adams had 21, Bradley 19 and Reyenger 12.

The students at ENC, more than 200 of them, paid 50 cents each to listen to a telephone hook-up which relayed a play-by-play account of the game back to Quincy. Bob Shoff, the school's director of development, did the play-by-play while Merritt Mann, a graduate of North Quincy High and a former ENC star, did the color.

In the semifinals Eads was sensational and carried the load when Bradley, Adams and Reyenger ran into foul trouble and sat out a good part of the game. He scored 34 points to spark a great second half surge to bury the host team, Tennessee Temple, 97-68.

"Eads is just too much," Smith said. "He broke the tourney record last night with 35 points and tonight scored 34 more. He not only scored for us but he played a good floor game and excellent defense."

In the second half, with Bradley, Adams and Reyenger on the bench, Don led an offense which scored 46 points while spearheading a tenacious defense which held Temple to 21. At half time ENC had only a 51-47 edge.

After the game Sam Woolwine, a sportswriter for the Chattanooga Times, came in to talk to Smith.

"I can't figure it out," he said. "All the publicity has been going to Bradley, but this Eads is the best thing I've seen in some time. He is one of the quickest players I've ever seen."

"Actually," Smith told him, "Eads played his usual game. He just doesn't know when to stop. But, let me tell you, Bradley is one of the greatest players I've seen, also."

Bradley scored 15 points, Adams had 14, Reyenger, despite sitting out 15 minutes, scored 11 points and grabbed 17 rebounds, and Don Constantine came off the bench in the second half to dominate the boards and took down 10 rebounds. He also scored nine points.

It was a rough game with three Crusaders being injured. Reyenger was slammed to the floor and was knocked out, Bradley suffered a groin pull and Shoff suffered a bruised knee. After the game Reyenger was all right but was wearing a big goose egg on the back of his head.

In the opening round the Crusaders struck a blow for New England basketball when they upset strong Grace College of Winona Lake, Indiana, 88-65, to become the first team from the Northeast ever to win a game in the tourney.

Grace, runnerup in last year's tourney, was one of the pre-tourney favorites mainly because of the reputation of 6-9 Larry Christner, 6-4 Bob Close, a hot shooting forward, and the fact Indiana is a basketball hotbed.

But, despite Grace's reputation and the condolences of the driver who picked up the ENC players at the airport, the Crusaders refused to be intimidated and, sparked by the brilliant defensive performance of Reyenger, raced out to a 43-32 halftime lead and never looked back.

Rick completely neutralized Christner, who had averaged more than 20 points a game, and dominated both boards. Christner scored just eight points, four of them when Reyenger was getting a breather. He also had only three rebounds as compared to 11 for Reyenger. Rick also blocked three Christner shots and lured him into four offensive fouls.

"This was a remarkable job by Rick and he was the big difference for us tonight," lauded Smith.

Eads had his tourney record-breaking 35 points.

Bradley had 25 despite one of his poorer shooting nights as well as having 11 assists, and Adams scored 10.

Queen Pins Qualify For Candlepin Finals

The defending champion Queen Pins qualified for the March 28 finals of the 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney by defeating the Alley Kats 1509-1501.

The Parkettes defeated the 8 O'clock Rollers 1455-1427 in the only other match of the day.

The Queen Pins, trailing the Alley Kats by 18 pins in the first string, picked up 13 of the deficit in the second string, and finally defeated the Alley Kats in final boxes of the third string.

Bev Putnam led the Queen Pins with 334; Betty Gagne had 308, and Mary Powell 297. The Alley Kats' team was led by Janice Hutchins with 306; Pat Nestor 304; Sarah Cobban 301, Marie Ford 299 and Joan Prezioso 291.

The Parkettes picked up 60 pins in the first string, enough to offset a 6 pin and 26 pin loss to the Eight O'Clock Rollers in the second and third strings.

Capt. Edna Walker led her Parkettes with 329, followed by Evie DuBois 302 and Dot Welch 293. Noreen Mastroianni bowled a high 352 with strings of 110-115-127 for the losing Eight O'Clock Rollers.

The semi-finals will be held Sunday at 1 p.m. at Merrymont Daylight Alleys with the Rollerettes returning to bowl the Parkettes. The winner will meet the Queen Pins on March 28 in the championship match.

The tourney is sponsored each year by the Koch Club of Quincy as part of its winter athletic and recreation program.

Quincy, Brockton Squirts Battle To 6-6 Tie

Quincy Youth Hockey Squirts All Stars skated to a 6-6 tie with Brockton Squirts All Stars at the Shea Rink in Quincy Saturday.

Within minutes of the face off, Quincy was behind 3-0. Jimmy Triglia put Quincy on the boards with a fine corner shot. Brockton's boys scored again, and this gave the appearance of a runaway.

Fighting the uphill battle, coached by Jerry Cooney and Mike Furey, Quincy's John Norton and Mark Assad put two more in the cage and made it 5-3 with Brockton on top at the end of the first period.

John Kelley from Quincy and John Lankiewicz of Brockton were the only scorers in the second period.

In the third period, Bob Hayes' fired up Quincy team scored two more with Brian Jolley and Brian Bertoni bringing the battle to a 6-6 finish. Jim McHugh and Dean Prescott were goal tenders.

Quincy now has won 8, tied 3 and lost 1.

Junior Baseball League Registration March 27

North Quincy District Wins Koch Club City Championship

The North Quincy District of the Koch Club captured the 1971 city basketball championship, defeating the Broad Meadows District 47-26 in the finals.

North Quincy jumped off to a 25-27 halftime lead as Ron Colon hit for 10, while Rich Mahoney chipped in five. Steve Berlucchi's 14 points in the first half kept Broad Meadows in contention, but North Quincy Height and rebounding in the second half put the game out of reach for Broad Meadows.

Colon had 16 points for North Quincy, while Mahoney chipped in with 11 points, Steve McLaughlin added 8 and John Earle and Tom DeAngelo rounded out the starting five. Berlucchi scored 17 points for the smaller Broad Meadows quintet.

In the semi-finals, the North Quincy District edged Montclair 48-47 in a seesaw battle that was decided in the final 30 seconds.

Ron Colon led North Quincy to victory with 16 points; John Earle and Rich Mahoney chipped in with 9 each, while Steve McLaughlin and Tom DeAngelo rounded out the starting five scorers with eight points apiece.

Richard Marre was top scorer for Montclair with 18 points; Tom Wilkinson had 12 and Bob Grazier 10 points for the losers.

Broad Meadows District had won the championship since 1963 for eight consecutive years. North Quincy won the championship the first year the playoffs originated in 1962. This season was their second series victory.

The Herbert W. O'Donnell Memorial Trophy will be retained for one year by North Quincy. Named in memory of one of the Koch Club charter members, the trophy is revolving each year to the winners.

North Quincy, Broad Meadows Basketball Banquet Tonight

Dormady, Chuck Hill, Rich Doherty and Mike Marks.

Broad Meadows district championship team, the Royals, had an 8-0 season record. Scott Berlucchi was captain; teammates included Donald Mullaney, Thomas Ward, Steve Jenkins and Michael Bondarick.

In the Montclair District, the winning Knicks team included Steve Mullens, Mike Connolly, Jim Dodd, Ed Tobin, Bill O'Connell, Bob Kelly, Glenn Collins, Jean Pillard and Pete Cappola.

The Montclair District will conduct their second annual banquet April 3 at 6:30 p.m. at the North Quincy High School cafeteria.

The Koch Club basketball programs at North Quincy, Broad Meadows and Montclair are part of the club's winter athletic and recreation programs.

Richard J. Koch is executive director of the club; William Jablonski, North Quincy District director; Anthony T. Delmonico, Broad Meadows director; and Peter Cappola, Montclair director.

The Koch Club also sponsors three girls and one boys bowling league during the winter months.

Farina Leads Hockey Bantams

Farina Kitchens leads the Quincy Youth Hockey Bantams after this week's Weymouth game while United Commercial Travelers is tops in the Pee Wees.

Davis defeated Sweeney's, second place team 4-2, with two goals by Frankie Guest, one each by Bobby Morse and Mike Hornbrook with Mike McAuley credited with an assist. Jeff Murphy, unassisted, and Gerry McEleneary with assist by Fred Murray, accounted for Sweeney's goals.

Farina had a 3-1 victory over Cox, to rack up a record of 9-3-5. Paul O'Donnell, unassisted, scored for Farina, while scorers Mark Hurley and Steve Paglierani had one each, with Paul O'Donnell and Hurley contributing assists.

Davis defeated Crestview, 3-2. Tom Cahill and Bob Carmody scored for Davis, with assists by Dave Mitchell and Paul Lindenfelzer; Dave Pedias, scorer, and Jim Triglia, assist, accounted for Crestview's goals.

Maguire's edged Keohane 3-2. Mike Pitts scored two and Dave Lewis one for Maguire, with Doug MacDonald credited with an assist. Keohane's goals were by John Chiavari and Jack McHugh, with assist by Dan Donovan.

UCT had a 4-0 win over Wollaston. Paul Messina, with his sixth hat trick, scored three for UCT and Bob Hayes, one. Assists were by John Mitchell, Dean Prescott and Frank Robinson.

Morrisette defeated Hannon 7-1. Jack Dunn and John Fair scored two each; Paul Radzik, John Yaxter and Mark Kelly, one each for Morrisette, while Joe McConville had two assists, Larry Laing, Mark Kelly and John Fair, one each. Jack Cronin scored for Hannon.

St. Joseph's CYO Basketball Raises $300

St. Joseph's CYO benefit basketball doubleheader proved "an exciting evening of entertainment" as forecast, with 300 attending and $175 raised to aid youth activities.

Games at Quincy Point Junior High School gym were between St. Joseph's Cadets and some members of the 1969-70 St. Joseph's girls Intermediates; and St. Joseph's Juniors vs CYO coaches, parish priests, the deacon, and the rest of the girls' team.

Cadets include Patrick Bradley, Mark Jaehning, Michael McBride, Michael Salverio, Mike Tropea, Daniel Perdios, Thomas DiTullio, John Goguen, Joseph Kinnally, Bruce Perry, Neil Dwyer, Tommy McBride, Jimmie Roberts, Dave Perdios and Richard Wheelock.

Juniors are Mike Davis, Mike McLean, Mark Walker, Tommy Ford, Richard Della Barba, Mark Dwyer, John Francschini, Bill

McCabe, Ken O'Brien, Paul Johnston, Kevin Hurley, Paul Zanowski, Bob Lamie and Bill Breen.

Intermediate players, who were referees, score keepers and in charge of the gate, were Mike Brusin, Tom Daly, Paul Hanratty, Ed Mariano, John Stevens, Bob Vincent, Dave Coletti, Jimmie Walker, Paul DiSalvio, Paul Hand, Dennis Satterwaite, Joe Marani, John Ford and Mike Crosson.

Quacks Tie Brighton, 6-6

Quincy Quacks tied with Brighton Bats 6-6 in street hockey, and lost by only one point to Jamaica Plain 4-3, in weekend action.

Quincy took an early 1-0 lead from the Bats, but Brighton tied it up and the lead was exchanged five times more until finally tied 6-6. The Bats, fighting for a playoff spot, were surprised by Quincy's most productive game of the season.

Dave Stern, Pete Skoler and Kevin Sullivan scored two goals each, with Sullivan and Stern adding one assist each to their totals, while Sullivan added three. Brian Sullivan was also credited with two assists, Don Silverstein and Ron Smith, one each.

Jamaica Plain scored four goals in the second period, was shutout in the first and third frames by the Quacks. Down four goals with 20 minutes remaining, the Quacks broke through with a score by Rick Murphy, assisted by Iltis Sullivan and Mike Menconi. Minutes later, Brian Sullivan scored from Stern and Skoler, and with 30 seconds left, Peter Skoler got an unassisted goal, making the score 4-3.

The Quacks will scrimmage with Roslindale next week before going to South Boston March 28.

Bob Pike Headed To Northeastern

Dick Dukeshire, Northeastern University basketball coach, has grabbed off several of this year's high school stars.

Among them is Bob Pike, 6-3 Quincy forward who was one of the Greater Boston League standouts.

Pike, who sparkled in every game for the Presidents, averaged more than 25 points a game as well as excelling on defense and in rebounding.

Cites 250 Tons Of Refuse A Day

McDonald Urges City Reclaim, Sell Rubbish

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Quincy residents and businesses are responsible for an estimated 250 tons of refuse a day.

Councilor George B. McDonald says a lot of it—paper, beer bottles, tin cans, bed springs, abandoned refrigerators—could be reclaimed at a profit to the city.

Not only could Quincy make money at it but, says he, it could also:

- Prolong by many years use of the Pike's Peak area for refuse disposal.
- Help needed resources recovery by reclaiming waste products.

"We should prepare now for a long-range solution to our refuse problem," McDonald declared. "We should take advantage of the $460 million the U.S. is going to spend in the next three years for solid waste facilities."

The grants, however, are available only for projects that show innovative technology and provide resources recovery of solid waste disposals.

"The sanitary land-fill program we are about to embark upon at Pike's Peak would not qualify by itself for this federal money, because it is not innovative and does not reclaim waste products," notes McDonald.

"But, if we begin a reclamation disposal system there, we could qualify for the money to pay for it and to make us money in the long run."

The U.S., he said, will finance 50 per cent of the cost of such a facility if it serves one municipality and 75 per cent if it serves more than one.

McDonald sees the possibility of Milton being interested, thus making Quincy eligible for 75 per cent federal funding.

He notes that the 118-acre Pike's Peak sanitary land-fill site which lies in a huge valley area is approximately 500 yards from the present Milton town dump.

The Pike's Peak area is expected to last 14 to 20 years as a sanitary land-fill operation.

"But we have to look and plan ahead," says McDonald.

"We should begin now to plan what we are going to do when this area is filled. This is the last area I can think of that can be used for a sanitary land-fill operation. Then what?"

He said no one really wants an incinerator—not near them, anyway.

And sanitary land-fill at Pike's Peak is only an interim solution.

"Now is the time to plan a serious reclamation disposal system at Pike's Peak," McDonald insists.

Reclaimed paper products, he noted, are returned to pulp to make new paper. It also conserves forests.

Metals such as tin cans, old refrigerators and other appliances would be smelted for manufacture of new steel products.

Throw-away tonic, beer and juice bottles would go back into the making of new glass.

"The city could sell this back to industry at a profit which would help ease the taxpayer's burden," said McDonald.

Refuse that cannot be salvaged could be pulverized and compacted, he said.

"This would give us maximum use of the Pike's Peak area. It would make the area last longer—maybe 40 years or more.

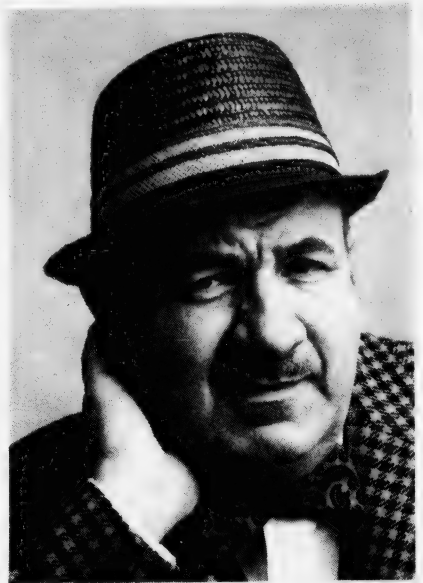

"It would also provide a more solid fill material for better future development of this land."

He noted that the Pike's Peak area with a new access road already constructed leading in from Willard St., plus a new water supply tank makes the area highly valuable for future development.

"Even if we did not get any federal money, reclamation of waste products would be a good thing for the city," said McDonald.

"It is a good opportunity and one I don't think we should pass up."

Quincy, Milton Boy Scouts Asked To Aid In Environmental Survey

Boy Scouts from Quincy and Milton are being asked to aid the local Conservation Commission in conducting an extensive street by street Neighborhood Environmental Survey as part of the national 1971 emphasis on conservation.

The Blue Granite District [Quincy and Milton] of the Greater Boston Council is planning several projects to help their local communities correct environmental problems and make the general public more aware of natural resources.

Bernard C. Moore of 141 Elm St., Quincy, has been appointed by John N. Dwyer, Blue Granite District Chairman, to head the District Conservation Committee.

Moore is a member of the Quincy Conservation Commission and executive secretary of the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

With Harold Crowley of 3 Flag St., Wollaston, Moore is coordinating plans for the two-week Neighborhood Environmental Survey of Quincy which ends March 29. Crowley is also a member of the Conservation Commission and a Scoutmaster, as well as a school teacher.

Environmental problems to be surveyed include clogged up drains, sewers and brooks, excessive litter in vacant lots and public parks, overgrown brush and trees, soil erosion, noise pollution, smoke and dust pollution, abandoned autos, illegal filling in of marshes, brooks and public access.

Survey results will be analyzed during the first part of April, and recommendations for specific troop and individual conservation projects will be made, to be carried out mainly during April School vacation week.

Bus Route Extended

A new MBTA bus route starts March 20 for a trial period between Crawford Square, Randolph, and the South Shore Plaza, Braintree. It is an extension of the present route between Quincy Square and the Plaza via West Quincy.

First SS Checks With 10% Increase Due June 3

The first checks to include the new 10 per cent monthly benefit increase authorized in Legislation acted upon last week by Congress, will reach 26 million social security beneficiaries on June 3, the Quincy Social Security office notes.

Robert M. Ball, Commissioner of Social Security, said the regular June 3rd checks covering benefits for the month of May will reflect the new higher monthly amount.

Separate checks, scheduled to reach beneficiaries later in June will cover the amount of the increase for the month of January through April.

Ball emphasized that social security beneficiaries do not need to get in touch with a Social Security Office to get the checks. Payments will be mailed to them automatically. It will take a little over one month, he said, to refigure the benefits amounts for all beneficiaries, including the adjustment to take account of events that have affected their individual benefit payments for a particular month in the retroactive period.

Over 2.5 million such adjustments are required in a typical month, he said, for such reasons as the death of a beneficiary, the remarriage of a widow, a child's attainment of age 18, a beneficiary's earnings, etc.

Refiguring of benefit amounts is being scheduled so as to avoid delay in the regular delivery of the April 3rd and May 3rd checks, he said. Those checks will be for the amounts payable to beneficiaries before enactment of the 10% increase.

By the first of May, the new records will have been produced by computers on magnetic tapes showing the new monthly amount for each beneficiary and the amount of his retroactive increase.

The Treasury Department will need the month of May to print the checks and turn them over to the Post Office Department for delivery to social security beneficiaries on June 3.

North Quincy Youth Center To Hold Open House Sunday

The North Quincy Youth Center at 440 Hancock St. will hold an open house Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m.

The center is funded by a grant from the State Department of Youth Services and is under the direction of the Quincy Recreation Department, announces Barry J. Welch, Project Pilot director.

The center opened in December, 1970, the result of a cooperative effort between local residents and state and city officials. Volunteers, headed by Thomas Kiley, a Vietnam veteran and law student at Boston University and Charles Anderson, a teacher at Hancock School, located a suitable site, and secured permission from the owner to use the building.

With the City Council and Park-Recreation Board backing, the program opened with a volunteer staff. Later in December Mayor-Sen. James R. McIntyre and Reps. Walter J. Hannon, Clifford H. Marshall and Arthur H. Tobin were able to secure funds from the Youth Service Department for staff and supplies.

The young people themselves have redecorated, painted, repaired and partially rebuilt the center. Paneling was purchased and the cellar remade into a large television room.

The public is invited to the open house.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Insiders wouldn't be too surprised to see two School Committee seats up for grabs this fall.

One, of course, is that of Vice-Chairman James McCormick who is vacating to run for mayor.

The other belongs to Committeewoman Ruth [Betty] Scanlan who in her early 20's won a big upset victory in the 1967 election. Friends doubt if she will seek a second term.

BUT another young lass is reported ready to toss her bonnet into the School Committee ring.

She's Kathy O'Donnell, 21-year old U-Mass senior majoring in government at Amherst. She worked last summer in the city Purchasing Department.

And got a taste of politics as western Massachusetts coordinator for Sen. Edward Kennedy.

SPEAKING of the School Committee, observers believe Paul C. Kelly will make a bid for City Council at-large this year. They expect an official announcement in the next few weeks.

Kelly has nothing to lose if he does go. He's not up for re-election to the school board this fall.

Thus, unlike McCormick, he would still be a school committee member if he didn't win a council seat. If McCormick is not elected mayor, he's out as school committeeman, too.

So, it is possible that Quincy could have three fresh faces on the School Committee in January if Miss Scanlan doesn't run and if Kelly is elected to the council.

If Kelly wins a council seat, it would mean someone being appointed to fill his unexpired school committee term.

Never a dull moment in politics - if you like politics.

LOOKING BACK: The Quincy Taxpayers current newsletter contains a chart showing Quincy's "by gone days" taxwise.

Can you remember the good old days when the city's tax rate was $28? That was 1930 - 41 years ago.

In case you're interested it reached $30.80 in the following year and stayed in the $30-plus bracket until 1949 when it went to $41.

It went to $53.80 in 1952 and actually dropped to $50.80 in 1953. Since then it has really taken off.

The 1970 rate of $132.20 is $104.20 higher than the 1930 rate. And the projected 1971 rate will be another $10 to $15 higher.

WHEN IT COMES to friends, City Clerk John Gillis really has them. Since his illness, he has received over 1,000 "get well" cards.

And John is doing just that. Getting well. He'll be back at his desk in the near future.

STATISTIC DEPT: Quincy had more fires and more resulting damage in 1970 than the year before according to Fire Chief Edward Barry in his annual department report.

Total number of alarms was 3,923 - up 112.

Total damage, $808,631 - up $119,490.

And, of course, the weirdos were "up" too. False alarms totalled 723 - an increase of 81.

UNCLE LOUIE: He's really Luigi DeNicola of 9 Gordon St. But just about every holiday during the school year, he becomes Uncle Louie to the 152 youngsters there.

Like last Valentine's Day, he gave each child and staff member a "chocolate nougat heart". He has other appropriate treats on the other holidays, reports Principal Morrie Hibbard.

De Nicola, who is a salesman, has two grandchildren in the school, Louis and Lawrence Reardon.

TRIBUTE: New City Engineer Edward Leone will be honored at a testimonial dinner May 6 at 7 p.m. at Morrisette Legion Post. Committee includes Betty Fellows, Vic Coletti, Werner Tikkanen, John Ricciuti, Michael Gaudiano, Gus Russo, Ronald Leone and Athletics Coordinator Carl Leone.

LOST & FOUND DEPT: An expensive piece of jewelry was found at the Quincy Lions Club Roaring Twenties Night at the Quincy Armory. The owner may have it by contacting Club President William Shea at Shea's Formica, 809 Hancock St. and identifying it.

TYPO TERROR: In the Wentzville [Mo.] Union: Apartment for rent in Wentzville. Water and garbage furnished.

Two Retire After 107 Years Building Ships

More than a century of shipbuilding is a long time—even for two men!

So it was a unique Friday recently when two men with a combined total of 107 years as shipworkers retired together at Quincy Shipbuilding Division.

They are Henry Castle, Quality Control Structural Inspector and Timothy Collins, Senior Designer. Harry lives at 18 Bay State Rd., North Quincy, and Tim at 31 Gay St., Quincy Center.

"Harry" Castle followed his father, a boilermaker and riveter, into the shipbuilding trade. Beginning as an apprentice loftman, he accumulated experience as a shipfitter, trade inspector and metal fabrication foreman. He began his career at Quincy, and although he joined other area shipyards and yacht yards as work was available, he always returned to the Quincy Yard.

Harry, who will be 72 in July, recalls nearly all of the hundreds of ships he helped build. Highlights of his career, he says, were working on the famous Link "Sea Diver" craft and the 1927 restoration of Old Ironsides.

Phil Ross, Assistant to the General Manager for Marketing, worked with Harry on the Link projects. "Harry was always a thinking man's shipbuilder," Ross said. "He approached every job with the idea of making as many improvements as possible. Harry and craftsmanship went hand in hand."

Tim Collins completed 53 consecutive years of fulltime service at Quincy. After two summers as a Fore River Shipyard office boy, he started in 1918 passing rivets.

In the Hull Design Dept., Tim has worked in the structural, arrangement and rigging sections. He is an excellent instructor, and has helped hundreds of younger people get their start in ship designing. Over the years he became a leading authority on compartment and access.

A vigorous 69 years old, Tim plans to indulge in his hobbies of swimming, traveling and stock market investing. He'll also visit with his son, a Pratt & Whitney test engineer living in Connecticut.

Owners of 140 parcels of property risk foreclosure proceedings for not paying 1970 Quincy real estate taxes totaling $204,900.

City Treasurer-Tax Collector David R. Houston warns that the taxes-plus interest—must be paid by April 8 or a lien will be placed on the property at the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds at Dedham.

The properties are being advertised by law by the city in today's Quincy Sun.

Houston said the advertising sets in motion the legal machinery which will lead to the loss of the properties two years from now unless the taxes are paid.

He said he, by law, can initiate foreclosure proceedings on April 8 and will do so.

"I sincerely hope," he said, "that these people will pay by April 8 of this year so that we will not have to resort to foreclosure proceedings."

Houston estimates that the delinquent bills represent less than half of one per cent of the 23,000 tax bills sent out by the city in 1970. The 23,000 bills totalled $25.9 million.

"Ninety nine and a half per cent of the 1970 bills have been paid," Houston noted. "There is no reason why these other few people should not pay their taxes, too."

By April 8, owners of the delinquent pieces of property must pay their taxes, plus 8 per cent interest retroactive to Oct. 1, 1970 in addition to charges for advertising to avoid a lien.

Property assessed at less than $2,500 may be foreclosed and auctioned off with permission of the Department of Corporations and Taxation.

Property assessed at more than $2,500 may be foreclosed through land court proceedings and sold by the City Council.

In the case of an auction, the owners have up until that very moment to redeem the property by meeting all the demands—including the retroactive 8 per cent interest and additional charges.

Houston noted that some of the delinquents are first-time offenders but others are "repeats".

John W. Blake To Receive Jaycees' Sixth Distinguished Service Award

John W. Blake, treasurer of Colony, Inc., will receive the Quincy Jaycees' sixth annual Distinguished Service Award March 31 at a 6:30 p.m. dinner at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

Jaycee President William J. Griffin announced the selection today after a meeting of the panel of judges. The panel includes Rev. Bradford Gale of United First Parish Church, businessman Frank E. Remick, Remick's of Quincy, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Charles G. Peterson, executive vice-president of Quincy Cooperative Bank and Mr. Griffin of the Hancock Bank.

Blake will receive the award for unselfish donation of his time and effort to the city. He has been a fund-raising chairman for the Salvation Army and is a member of its advisory board. He is a member of the board of directors of Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank, Family Counseling and Guidance Centers, Inc., the Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the Mayor's steering committee to Re-vitalize

Quincy Square.

Blake is a graduate of the Fessenden School, Phillips Academy at Andover, the New York State Maritime Academy and Harvard University. He is a member of Rotary Club, the Clover Club of Boston, and is a past president of Pi Eta Graduates, Inc., a Harvard undergraduate alumni club.

Tickets for the dinner honoring Mr. Blake may be purchased through Jaycee President Griffin at Hancock Bank and Trust Company, or Dale Pederson at South Shore National Bank.

Lynne Wants To Know:

Why Was The 'Pony' Presented To Quincy High By Class Of 1924?

Why was the "Pony" presented to Quincy High School by the January, 1924 graduating class?

How much did it cost?

Who was acquainted with sculptor Cyrus Dallin, creator of the "Pony"?

Lynne Ricciardi of 596 Willard St., West Quincy, is looking for the answer to these and other questions relating to the now-famous Quincy High symbol, a second replica of which stands in the entrance hall at Quincy High School. The original gift was destroyed by vandals.

Lynne, a student of Miss Muriel Goudey's journalism class, has a few leads:

* Among the class officers were Edith Miller, vice president; Clara Zottoli, secretary; and Bertram Barrows, treasurer whom she is attempting to locate.

* Former Principal George A. Lynn informed her that the class of Jan. 1924 was carrying on a tradition begun by Quincy High School graduating classes back in the days when the school was located on Hancock St. in the now - Central Junior High School building. Each class presented a lasting gift to the school.

What Lynne wants to know is why did the Class select the "Pony" as its gift?

Lynne is searching for a person, probably between 63 and 66 years of age, who is looking toward a 50th reunion in 1974 with his classmates, and who recalls details of the presentation.

If you can help - call Lynne at 479-0686 after school hours - or call the Quincy Sun anytime during the day at 471-3100.

It'll Cost $44.6 Million To Run Quincy This Year

A record operating budget of $44,630,992.62 for 1971 has been passed by the City Council.

The figure, presented by Finance Committee Chairman J. Vincent Smyth, reflects a $372,902.90 cut made by that committee from the budget submitted by Mayor James R. McIntyre.

"I wish publicly to thank the members of the City Council, Auditor Alexander Smith and Mrs. Josephine Carnali, clerk of committees, for the excellent and sincere job they did this year in scrutinizing the budget as submitted by the Mayor," Smyth said in introducing his motion to accept the proposed budget.

"We still do not know how much money is coming from the state," he added. "We attempted to cut items in every department in the city without seriously affecting services to taxpayers and residents."

Councillor George B. McDonald interposed that while he intended to vote for the overall budget, "I would like to be recorded as opposed to one part of $125,000 which will completely remove the auditorium of Quincy High School eventually."

The budget was passed by a vote of eight. Councillor John F. Koegler was not in the Council Chambers at the time of the vote.

A Wintry Night's Vision

I walk the street at two below,

And think of that which didn't grow.

While piercing chills are biting through,

My mind wanders on; I remember you.

A desolate wind seems to blow your name,

Across the night, as your face I frame.

And with this thought, I disregard,

The streaming gust that's whistling hard.

Whirling about I start to retrace,

Not my steps, but instead to a place,

Where we knew love, by the side of a pool,

With colorful lights, tranquil and cool.

Those summer nights you spent with me,

Once where cherished, you'll maybe agree.

Yet, a stunted growth seemed to take hold,

How it took place, I've never been told.

Shuddering shivers are trembling my spine,

As you fade away, leaving my mind.

And now I return to blistering pain,

While stored within, your love I retain.

The Parting

The sun is now starting to rise,

While they are just starting to close their eyes,

In a few short hours they'll be forced to part,

Uncle Sam doesn't care its just one more broken heart.

She opened her eyes and started to cry,

The terrible thought, what if he should die?

Why give his life for someone elses undeclared war?

The waves were now beating against the shore.

He took her up in his arms and wanted to cry,

But just came out with a sympathetic sigh.

Beer Bread Highlights Any Party

A successful party depends on a number of factors, not the least of which is one special menu item which steals the party spotlight.

What better food to showcase your own personal touch for any type of party than your own homemade bread?

If you think home prepared bread is too complex, here is a raisin beer bread that is simple to make. The addition of grated cheese to the batter tempers the sweetness of the raisins, and the flavors are subtly blended by beer.

Instead of the usual coffee and sweet cake, try offering guests a traditional glass of refreshing beer, poured into a foot o' ale, with a slice of your special bread. To complete the serving set marmalade or a cheddar beer spread.

Raisin Beer Bread

2 cups beer
1 (15-oz.) package raisins
5 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 tablespoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons ground nutmeg
3 eggs, well beaten
2 1/2 cups grated American cheese (10 ounces)
2 cups chopped walnuts

Heat beer to boiling point and pour over raisins; let stand until cool. Mix flour, sugar, baking soda, salt and nutmeg. Stir in beer with raisins, eggs, cheese and walnuts. Mix well. Spoon batter into 2 greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pans (or muffin pans). Bake in 350° oven 45 minutes (35 minutes for muffins), or until done. Serve warm or cold. Makes 2 loaves or 48 muffins.

* ALL RIGHT, DADDY. YOU'VE GOTTEN YOUR POINT ACROSS.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of March 25 - April 1

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - Those in authority may give you more responsibility and stressing your rights will only bring trouble. Put your affairs in order.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - Go out of your way to meet new people and broaden your social circle. New contacts could stimulate your mental outlook.

GEMINI [May 21- June 21] - Watch all financial affairs closely, be sure you are dealing with honest people. A friendship may be broken, leaving you depressed.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - There is an improvement in your social and domestic life especially if you have been taking care of your health.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - If you haven't accomplished what you are striving toward, it's time to change your plans. Responsibilities add to your prestige.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - It's time to examine the difficult factors in your life and put them to rights by a redirection of your energies.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - There are still a lot of details to be cleared before long range plans can be pushed forward. Use diplomacy, not force.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - Self evaluation, a check on health matters, and an optimistic outlook will help you through these difficult times.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Finances should be closely watched. Avoid those who are not strictly honest and keep your emotions on an even keel.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - Trouble from an unexpected source can try your patience. Self-control is needed to preserve a calm attitude and lessen tension.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - An unexpected event or a sudden change could cost you money but in the long run, everything will work out your way.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Travel, changes, or a new venture keeps you alert and on your toes. Be sure those you deal with are on the up and up.

New England Electric's Tax Bill $38.9 Million

Officials of the New England Electric System announce its total property tax bill for 1970 was $38.9 million—an increase of $4.7 million (13.7%) over 1969. Unlike other industries, electric companies pay taxes on "personal property" at the local property tax rate.

New England Electric pays property taxes in 341 cities and towns in four states: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont. As in the past, the largest amount of taxes went to the 210 communities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

To them the Massachusetts Electric Company, New England Power Company and the eight system gas companies paid a total of $30.1 million—$4.4 million (17.1%) more than the previous year.

Houghs Neck Legion Post Honors Three Past Commanders

Three members of Houghs Neck Legion Post were honored at the annual Past Commanders Banquet Saturday at the Post Home.

Immediate Past Commander Paul McKeon was presented with a past president's pin by Commander Ernest Fitzgibbon.

A gold Life Membership card was presented to Past Commander Ernest Deveau, now a member of the County executive board, in recognition of his services as officer of both the Post and Post Building Corporation.

A citation of appreciation was awarded Alexander Crombie, sergeant-at-arms, for "outstanding service" by him and members of his family.

New Post colors were presented to Commander Fitzgibbon by Mrs. Mary Timcoe, president, who accepted from Past Commander D. Paul Shaw Auxiliary flags for standard and parade use.

Past Commander Thomas Hurlebaus was master of ceremonies. An additional past commander attending was William Clark. A letter was read from Past Commander Thomas Manahan, now living in Osprey, Fla.

GERMAN MEASLES SHOT FACTS

There is a vaccination available to immunize our population against the dreaded effects of German measles among pregnant women who run a high risk of suffering miscarriage or giving birth to physically or mentally abnormal children.

But there are certain precautions that must be taken. For instance, if a woman of child-bearing age requests vaccination, her doctor will first ascertain if she has developed a natural immunity [80-85% of adult women have]. If the lab test indicates she is already immune, the shot is not necessary.

If the woman is not immune, and is not pregnant, her doctor may decide to vaccinate her if she understands that she must not become pregnant for at least two months after vaccination.

The best way, of course, to wipe out this disease, is by mass immunization of children between the ages one and twelve—the most common spreaders of the disease.

Love

Shaking a hand would be a wonderful thing,
If I could find a hand that would bring.

Friendship, brotherhood, peace and love,
But only the hand of God above.

Has these things open to us all.
It could make everyone so proud and tall.

If only we could get along,
Then everyone would know,
This is the world to which we belong.

We could have it by shaking God's hand above,
And he would provide us with our lost love.

My Trip To The Trailside Museum

We started from the school and got on the bus and went to the museum. When we first went to the museum I saw a diagram of the Blue Hills. Then I was this machine you guess the right insects, like the butterfly. You have to push the right kind of button. If you do, then you will see the big spiders tail will light up. Then the lady told about Hercules the owl and let us pat Hercules. It was real soft. We went outside and saw the red fox and he did smell. It was a baby one. Then we saw the raccoon, his face was like a mask. I liked the deer the most, because he licked some kids hands. It was funny.

Me In My Own World

One night I had a strange dream. I was in my bed. All of a sudden my bed blasted off. We were traveling in space, then we landed in a flower garden. It wasn't an ordinary garden because the flowers had faces on them. One of them walked up to me and said, "Who are you?" I said, "George". He looked at me very strangely and then went over to the others and began to whisper. Then he came back and all of them circled me. I was scared. Then they pushed me down. Then I woke up. I was on the floor.

Johnny Applesced's Seed

Once, not far from Washington a boy named Johnny was walking along. He had a pouch filled with a lot of applesced. I was happy I was a seed. I don't care if he plants me and leaves forever because I'll be doing good for the people. I will grow up some day and be eaten by some little girl or boy and make them happy and healthy. Or - maybe I'll be a sweet blossom and fill pretty vases.

Oh! Good-by! It's time to be planted.

Goodness! The Pile Is Falling

"Captain" said first class privat Anthony Andronico "The pile is falling!" The pile of what? dirt? guns? leaves? "If it is then pick it up" said the captain. "We can't" said the privat "We tried and besides, we don't even know what it is!"

The captain came running and tried to help along with the privats, coprals, and sargents. It was pretty heavy and wouldn't budge, so, they decided to let it fall but it stayed right there. The capain said it was in the way so we can't just leave it here. As he walked off he wondered how it got there.

It was a cold, cold day with ice and snow everywhere so they said it was frozen.

Then one day the sun shone brightly and all of a sudden just like magic it fell and became wet dust.

My Trip

We had to wait in school until the bus came. We went on a bus. When we got there we saw animals. Like the deer, rabbit, otter, owl, skunk, snake, porcupine, fish, lizard, duck, and a bat. We saw two demonstrations of the owl and porcupine. We saw some skiers too.

I Am An Applesced

I live out in the country. When the people come to pick apples, they never pick me. When they go by, they say, "That apple is too soft." I wish I could show them I'm not so soft.

That night I thought, "How can I show them?" Then I heard something. It was a man! He was taking the money and some apples! He came over to me and said to himself, "He's too soft." Then I saw the people who pick the apples. They were running after the robber! It was my chance to show them I wasn't so soft. I pulled with all my might and fell. I landed on the robber's head and he fell to the ground. The apple pickers saw what I did and said, I wasn't so soft after all!

My Life As

A Chameleon

I am a Chameleon. I live in room 23 where a lot of people always talk. A big man teacher tells them to sit down and of course they sit down. While they are there they pick me up. It tickles and sometimes I climb up the glass to get out but those people just sit there. I like it when they put mealworms in the terrarium. Those little mealworms put up a big fight but I always win. I am the green Chameleon. My friend has a lump on his head. But that big man is very funny with that forest under his nose. I heard those big boys say he is a very nice man. All those big huge things have fun with him. Those big things have fuzz on their tops. One has curly locks. I have heard that there are more animals on the other side of the world [the other side of the class] where they hear water falls and they get big storms. You should see that big man! He is really big! My life is really very funny looking at them all the time and watching them write miles and miles. My life is much more fun.

The Beautiful Vase

There was once a beautiful vase. It was never seen-i: wasn't even in the catalogue. It was a white fat vase and tall.

One day a lady came in the store to look at vases because she just bought some beautiful flowers that would look just fine in the vase but it wasn't seen. The lady looked everywhere until she came to the shelf where the hidden vase was. She was looking it over very closely like any other lady would to make sure there weren't any scratches on it. She said to herself, it is so beautiful a vase but it doesn't have a pricetag. So she asked the storekeeper. He said he never saw it come in. He said you may have it for free. So the lady took it and the vase stood proudly in the living room.

The Ocean

The ocean is sometimes calm. When it is calm, it is nice to swim in. Riding on boats is more fun. When the ocean is rough it is all wavy and swimming is not good but jumping waves is fun and diving under them when they are big enough. Riding on boats is fun too; especially when waves spatter on you and get you wet. The boat rocks furiously and water splashes on rock and the fog rolls in and fog horns start, lighthouses honk too. You get scared-then it calms down once more. The ocean can't make up its mind.

My Favorite Pal

My favorite pal is a big black and white dog. Sometimes we go on a hill. My dog Will likes to chase rabbits-he has all sorts of habits. Some of them are funny, like chewing my toy bunny. One time my hat blew away. I chased it. While I was chasing my hat, my dog the hog drank my can of Sprite. But it was okay because I didn't feed him all day.

Our Class Has A Pen Pal

Our class is writing a pen pal. Their class lives in Billerica. They write to our class too. It's fun to write to pen pals. I'm writing to Timmy McCoy and Mark Pearson and they are my friends, 2 boys.

Goodness! The Pile Is Falling

Goodness the pile of love is falling. Love is no more around it just goes down and down. Everyone you see is fighting or playing roughly. No one likes each other, the boys don't like the girls and the girls don't like the boys. Boys are punching each other and girls are hitting. Everyone used to be nice and friendly but now they aren't. The only way to do it is to let boys and girls be friends.

Sons Of Italy Start $350,000 Headquarters, Functions Facility

Quincy Sons of Italy begin construction this week on a new $350,000 Headquarters and functions facility at 120 Quarry St., West Quincy.

Official signing of a contract with L. Pasqualucci and Son of Quincy took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dante Mastro of 11 Rosemary Lane.

It was hailed as "one giant step" for the organization.

Kenneth Parry Associates of Quincy are architects for the 70 by 100 foot two-story structure which will be located on a one-acre site between Madden Rd and Smith St. Off-street parking for 75 cars will be available.

The main hall of the building will accommodate 300 people. It will have a cathedral ceiling and parquet floor. Also on the first floor there will be a bride's room, offices, kitchen, bars, checkroom and restrooms.

The lower floor of the structure will contain a smaller hall, lounge, card room and additional kitchen, as well as rest rooms.

It is expected that the new Sgt. Boudreau home will be completed by Oct. 1, with a gala opening probably held on Columbus Day.

The Quincy Sons of Italy lodge, founded in 1927, hired different halls for meetings for many years until it purchased a building on Furnace Ave. in West Quincy. This building was used by the Lodge for about 12 years, but was sold two years ago.

Phillip D'Olimpio is venerable of the lodge. Dante Mastro is building trust chairman, and Edmund Pellegrini, assistant chairman.

Guests at a party following the official contract signing were Grand Venerable Aldo Cairra, Grand trustee Jack Cincotta, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin; Councillors Albert R. Barilaro and George B. McDonald, and Assessors Chairman Elmer K. Fagerlund.

Mary Johnson of the Stella Del Nord Lodge, Anthony Bruce, Dante Lauretto, Nick Fantasia, A. A. Rocozzo and James Mastrantonio, members of the Building Trust.

Quincy P & G Employees Share In $29.1 Million Profit

Procter & Gamble employees in Quincy last year shared in a record $29.1 million paid or credited in profit sharing sharing benefits to P & G employees in the U.S.

Plant Manager Robert A. McIntire announced the profit sharing total in connection with P & G's semi-annual "Dividend Day" celebration here Saturday.

The occasion, celebrating the 84th year of P & G's profit sharing plan, will be a dinner dance at Valle's Steak House, Braintree. D. I. Lowry, Cincinnati, P & G Manager of Technical Staff Divisions and former Quincy Plant Manager, will be the featured speaker. An estimated 500 persons are expected to attend.

McIntire said the objective of profit sharing is to assure employees a retirement income and to give them a direct personal interest in the successful day-by-day operation of the business.

Total benefits accumulated by participants have increased far beyond the profit sharing dollars set aside by the Company, according to McIntire, because these funds have been invested in P & G common stock, which over the years has risen in value and never failed to pay a dividend.

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

You may not be one...but large numbers of people are living...or existing...without much purpose. We go to work...eat three meals a day...make love...or just have sex...[there's quite a difference you know]...and have children...pay bills. Year in...year out...that's the life of millions. Such dullness...monotony...sameness can be stifling. Without purpose for our lives...it's little wonder that people are unhappy and looking for new kicks.

I'm going to ask you at the beginning of 1971 to face yourself with these questions: "WHY AM I LIVING?" ... "WHERE AM I GOING?" ... "WHAT IS MY PURPOSE?" Many people don't dare to stop to ask themselves these questions...they are afraid of the answers. So they just keep pounding on...day after day...year after year...for what? More dullness...more monotony...more stifling sameness.

Back in World War I days we had a purpose..."to make the world safe for democracy." The war didn't do it...but we didn't know that then...so we worked [or our parents did] and paid taxes...and fought...and sacrificed..."to make the world safe for democracy" We had a purpose. Everybody was caught up in this common goal.

Something of the same common purpose sparked people in World War II...to stop that madman Hitler. And...again we had some meaning in life...not very personal...but a collective purpose.

But since World War II many of us seem to have lost our way...our meaning for living. We are confused as to our purpose. My beautiful Irish Setter, Princess, seems to have a built-in purpose...just to please herself and people. With her soft brown eyes...big paws reaching out to shake hands...she even acts as a little hostess to many of my patients in the office. No question in her life about meaning...purpose. It's built-in. But for some of us people...our reason for living is not at all clear.

I was taught as a boy that my purpose was to be pleasing to God. As I matured and lost my childish idea of an old grandfather god sitting up there on a cloud, I began to ask, "Who is to say just what pleases God?"...my parents?...the Church?...ancient scriptures?...my own mind? Often they conflicted. Since I didn't know what God is like often I couldn't be sure what pleased Him...so often I felt guilty because I found my personal needs in conflict with what I'd been told pleased God. Unresolved guilt makes one miserable. You probably know that as I do. So just pleasing God isn't the whole answer.

Some have been taught that making money gives life its meaning...so you can buy the comforts of life. Well...until something better comes along to take its place, don't sell money short. Your meaning in life doesn't need to be thwarted because you make money. But some of my more successful friends tell me that they're still looking for something meaningful to live for.

Girls are often conditioned to believe that motherhood is the big thing...their reason for living. "If so"...they ask..."why do I get so frustrated on rainy days when my four little cherubs are indoors all day?" And why are women so lost when their children are all grown and gone?

How about marriage? Isn't that the cure-all to meaningless lives? The 75% of unhappy married people wouldn't say so.

How about SERVICE? Now...we may be getting closer...serving your fellow man...in any way that meets human needs...whatever is your "thing" that brings good for others. Selling drugs to kids on streets doesn't seem to me to meet that criteria...nor being a "bag man" for the syndicate...but whatever meets honest human needs is purposeful...meaningful...valuable.

Come one step further...How about pleasing yourself...so that you feel like a real man...a real woman? Without that your life probably won't have much meaning. I said to a man recently..."Jim you've got to start thinking about yourself...your own needs...what's good for you. You've been so hell-bent on serving others and pleasing everybody else that you've lost your own way in life. Now here you are alone...depressed...feeling that no one cares. Start loving yourself...believing in yourself." He seemed to stand taller when he walked out of my office. He had so neglected his own life-needs while pleasing family and others.

I didn't invent this idea of loving and pleasing oneself first. The founder of the Christian religion did. You'll remember "Love your neighbor as you love yourself." His top commandment. Top formula for meaning in life. I've been trying it. I recommend it. By the way...it's working out pretty well.

The Cisco Kid Rides Again --In Japan!

JAMES CAAN was signed to play the role of Sonny in "THE GODFATHER". As soon as he raps up his co-starring duties with CANDICE BERGEN in the Chicago based "T. R. BASKIN". CAAN will join the all star "GODFATHER" cast which includes, among others, JOHN MARLEY... JOE DIMAGGIO has inked a lucrative one year contract with the up and coming HUGHES SPORTS NETWORK. The former New York Yankee great will serve in the capacity of vice-president assigned to public relations functions... JAMES GARNER joins the NBC-TV roundup this fall on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. in his new western adventure series, "NICHOLS"... Remember "THE CISCO KID"? THE DUNCAN RENALDO-LEO CARRILLO cowboy yard of the early television 50's has been picked up by Transglobal and will be aired on Japanese TV screens for the first time...

QUOTE, UNQUOTE: BURT LANCASTER badmouthing the artistic merits of his box-office success "AIRPORT": "I don't know why it's been nominated. It's the biggest piece of junk ever made"... That's not only telling-it-like-it-is, but is a classic example of kicking the proverbial gift horse in the mouth. LANCASTER downgrades a picture which netted him several millions, and at the same time, pulled his career off the skidslator as well... Nice going BURT... BRIAN GARI, grandson of the great EDDIE CANTOR, is off and running on a singing career. GARI debuted at The Bitter End West in Los Angeles to better than average reviews... ANDREW DUGGAN is the latest name actor to join Warner Brothers' "THE SKIN GAME", now filming in New York City...

"RED WHITE AND BLUE" could be the surprise of the year. The motion picture draws its inspiration from the recent government Report on Obscenity and Pornography; and deals frankly and honestly with the problems of censorship, pornography and obscenity in America. "THE BOYS IN THE BAND" garnered 10 of a possible 13 nominations in the second annual Motion Picture Advertising Awards race... Conglomerates seem to be the latest business craze as they gobble up film studios et al. Probably the most show biz conscious firm GULF and WESTERN has just acquired POLLY BERGEN's cosmetic empire... "COLD TURKEY", an anti-smoking comedy extraordinary, is setting box offices ablaze in the Mid West. The DICK VAN DYKE starrer will be showcasing Eastern screens any edition now...

ANNA GAEL and director MAC AHLBERG join talents in the modern film version of Emile Zola's classic masterpiece, "NANA"... MUHAMMAD ALI may make his film debut this year. WILBUR SMITH, South African author and independent producer, wants ALI to star in "CHAKA", the life story of a Zulu tribe leader in the 19th century... What's leggy JULIET PROWSE doing these days? Haven't seen her on the big or little screen for some time now... "PLAZA SUITE" will screen debut this summer. The NEIL SIMON scenario boasts a talent heavy cast in the persons of LEE GRANT, MAUREEN STAPLETON, BARBARA HARRIS and WALTER MATTHAU... The Berlin Film Festival hasn't selected an American film as its best of the year since 1963 when "LILLIES OF THE FIELD" won the coveted Golden Bear...

"THE SENATOR" segment of NBC-TV's "THE BOLD ONES" has been cut from the three in one series and will not be back next season. Hopefully, the highly talented HAL HOLBROOK will latch onto another vehicle; he is too gifted a thespian to remain idle... DAVID NIVEN is going the memoirs route. The 1958 Oscarred actor will explore, amongst other things, why he accepted a role in "THE STATUE". His book is slated for an early fall release... Singer PHYLLIS MCGUIRE scored a resounding bulls-eye at her recent Caesars Palace stay. Miss MCGUIRE's Las Vegas tour was so well received that Caesars inked her for a return engagement this fall... Newsgal NANCY DICKERSON debuts her new syndicated news show on March 29th...

DAVID LEAN has agreed to tackle the awesome task of bringing to the screen the life and times of MAHATMA GHANDI. The script is being drafted by ROBERT BOLT... SENTA BERGER is one busy actress. She is now in Paris shooting the gangster-police flic "COBRA". As soon as this film is completed, she will star in JOSEPH LISBONA's "I WAS A DRUG ADDICT" which is set to roll in June... Newcomer LAURIE BIRD is a HAYLEY MILLS look-a-like. You can catch her in the soon-to-be-released "TWO-LANE BLACKTOP" in which she proves she is very much her own woman... SUSAN OLIVER was selected this year recipient of the Amelia Earhart Award as the woman who has contributed the most in fostering female aviation. As an actress Miss OLIVER is best remembered as a regular on "THE RICHARD BOONE REPERTORY THEATRE". Since then scripts have been far and few between...

South Shore Retired Officers Election Meeting March 25

The newly formed South Shore Chapter Retired Officers Association will meet at 8 p.m. March 25 at the Commissioned Officers Mess, Naval Air Station, South Weymouth.

Adoption of chapter By-Laws and election of chapter officers will be held. All South Shore area members of The Retired Officers Association are urged to attend.

The Retired Officers Association is an organization of retired officers of the seven uniformed services, Army, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, Public Health Service and National Oceanic & Atmospheric Administration.

All interested retired Commissioned and Warrant Officers of these services are invited to attend.

For Hockey And Skating Municipal Ice Rink Seen As 'Must' Here

One of the biggest needs in Quincy involving schoolboy sports is a rink for the Quincy and North Quincy high school and junior high hockey teams.

And the City Council holds the key to such an important addition.

The School Committee has approved the use of land adjacent to the Vocational-Technical High School on Coddington street but the approval of the City Council is still needed.

The Quincy hockey teams, like those of other cities and towns, are handicapped by a lack of ice time for practice. The teams have to travel to Weymouth, Milton, Braintree, Neponset and other towns for workouts and many times must work out early in the morning or late at night.

Every skating rink and ice arena in the state is bursting at the seams and operators are hiking their rental fees every year and turning many school teams away.

The recent proposal for a municipal skating facility in Quincy has been greeted with great enthusiasm on the part of those concerned with hockey and recreational skating in the city.

"We need a municipal rink badly in Quincy and I dream of the day that ground will be broken for one," Quincy Coach Bob Sylvia said. "Not just as a coach, but as an educator, I feel this would benefit the city. A rink would be a tremendous addition to our physical education program and it could be enjoyed by anyone who enjoys skating."

"As far as our team is concerned, it would be ideal if it gave us some kind of normal practice hours. Up to now we've been holding practice at 10 and 11 at night and it has been detrimental to the boys. In general, the grades of the team in school fall during the hockey season."

Bob's statement is echoed by North Quincy Coach Ron Erikson:

"It should make a great difference in our program" he said. "Not only through more practice time at better hours but indirectly through the youth hockey program in the city."

One of the biggest boosters of a skating facility is Bob Hayes, president and founder of the Quincy Youth Hockey League.

"We started our program six years ago with 40 boys and we now have 318 boys skating and a waiting list of 350 names," he said. "The interest is tremendous but as it now stands we can't expand any more because the ice just isn't available."

The lack of ice time has also made it hard for the Bantams and Pee Wees to schedule games with other towns because they can't provide the ice for their end of a home and home series.

Hayes, a member of the Ice Skating Committee appointed by Mayor James McIntyre to study the feasibility of the rink, is also concerned with the recreational benefits of a skating rink for the city as a whole.

Carl Leone, Athletic Coordinator for the Quincy Schools, is chairman of the committee. "I want to emphasize that this will not be strictly a 'hockey rink,'" he explained. "We are primarily concerned with getting a facility that would serve all the citizens interested in skating. We are hoping for a year-round rink that would be useful well beyond the hockey season."

Right now the proposal is in the early stages and no concrete plans have yet been drawn up.

The committee would like an arena-type facility with seats for 1,800 spectators.

"The important thing for us, though, is building a recreational skating area," Leone went on. "If the seating capacity affects the procurement of the rink, we'll have to yield somewhat in that respect. An arena for high school hockey is a secondary concern in our proposal."

The committee's report states that the skating facility could pay for itself without adding to the city tax rate and the projected income does not include any admission fees for spectators.

"It would be of enormous interest to the city if Quincy and North were to play on their own ice," Sylvia continued. "We have had good attendances when we've played in Boston and other cities, so just imagine what it would be like if Quincy played North right here in the city."

Squirts Lose To Braintree After Routing Natick, 5-1

Quincy Youth Hockey Squirts All Stars were outpowered by Braintree Squirts 6-4 at Ullin MDC Rink, Milton, on Sunday after defeating Natick last week.

Quincy Squirts were the only scorers in the first period when goals were rung up by Brian Jolly, Brian Bertoni and Jimmy Triglia, with assists by John Kelley and John Yaxter, and Braintree scored twice.

In the second period, Braintree kept control of the puck and sank three more goals while Quincy scored once with a goal by Jimmy Triglia.

In the third period Quincy remained scoreless while Braintree added another.

Quincy goalies were Jim McHughie and Dean Prescott. Coaches are Gerry Cooney and Mike Furey.

Quincy now has a 9 win, 3 tie, 2 loss and faces Brockton Squirts Saturday in Brockton.

Last week the Quincy Squirts defeated Natick 5-1 at Natick Rink.

David Lewis and Brian Bertoni scored in the second period, after a scoreless first period.

In the third period, Mike Furey scored once and John Yaxter twice, with assists credited to Mark Assad, Dave Lewis and Brian Bertoni.

Quincy Tennis Club Elects First Woman President

Pike In All-Star Games

Bob Pike, standout Quincy High basketball player who averaged more than 28 points a game this season, has been selected to play in two all-star games with 22 other schoolboy stars, from which 10 will be chosen to play in the Capitol Classic April 3 and 4 in Albany, N. Y.

The first of the two games was played Sunday night in Brockton. The second will be played Friday night at 8 at Somerville.

Pike was one of the Greater Boston League's outstanding performers this year. In addition to leading the President's scorers, the 6-3 forward was a standout rebounder and defensive player.

The Massachusetts team is being coached by Brockton High Coach Jack Lehan, assisted by Hamilton-Wenham's Sherm Kinney.

Others competing in the Classic will be teams from Rhode Island, New York and Connecticut.

Semi-finals will be played on April 3 with the championship and consolation games the following day.

The game is open only to seniors not participating in a spring sport.

Boys In Golden Gloves

Bobby Hayes, 9 years, and John Mitchell, 12, of Wollaston will be boxing in the 9th Annual Golden Gloves Boxing Exhibitions tomorrow [Friday] at 7 p.m. at Florian Hall, Dorchester.

The event is sponsored by the John P. McKeon Post Amvets.

NORTH QUINCY CITY CHAMPS - North Quincy Celtics, winners of Koch Club City basketball championship, are Chuck Hill, Rich Dolphyn, Tom Dormady, Coach Bill Jablonski, Capt. Granara Team Koch Club Boys Second Half Winners

Team One captained by Frank Granara has won the second half of the Koch Club Boys Bowling League and will bowl Tom Ward's Team Nine, first half winners, Saturday at 9 a.m. at Merrymount Daylight Alleys, for League championship.

Other members of Granara's team are Ron Thomas, Paul Butts, Bernie Mullaney, Chris Gorman and Bob Kelliher.

Ward's teammates are Kevin Welch, Joe Bohan, Joe Deane, Pete Plant and Mike Doule.

The nine to 13-year old Boys' League is completing its eighth season. This year 13-year old Granara established a new average record of 100.2, while 13-year old Paul Andrew finished with 99.1, also topping the previous seven-year high.

Others of the top 10 bowlers are Steve Martinelli 95.9; Jeff Mangan 94.1, Steve Connolly 92.9, Frank Miceli 91.4, Joe Pagnano 90.5, Art Barrett 89.6, Joe Connolly 84.9 and Ken O'Sullivan 84.9.

Andrew holds high three 346 and Granara is second with 344. Andrew is high single 145 followed by Granara 135.

The annual banquet will be April 2 at Fore River Clubhouse.

Rollerettes, Queen Pins In Candlepin Showdown Sunday

The Rollerettes defeated the Parkettes 1480-1431 at Merrymount Daylight Alleys Sunday in semi-finals of the 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy.

The Rollerettes meet the Queen Pins Sunday at 1 p.m. for the championship rolloff.

In their semi-final round, the Rollerettes picked up a 30-pin lead in the first string, lost the second to the Parkettes by eight pins, but coasted to victory in the third string. Helen Van Buskirt led the Rollerettes with 317 followed by Evie Larusso 313, Peg DeFazio 303, and Tina Lungari 299.

Edna Walker with 320 topped the Parkettes, her third tourney score of 300 or better; Evie DuBois was second with 296.

The Queen Pins and Rollerettes have each drawn a by during the tourney with high pinfall for the day. In three weeks of competition for both, the Queen Pins have a 101 individual average for their girls, while the Rollerettes post a 100 average for each girl.

The Queen Pins to date have a total pinfall of 4587 for nine strings, compared to the Rollerettes' 4537.

Tourney averages include Queen Pins, Bev Putnam 110; Betty Gagne 104; Mal Adams 98; Mary Powell 98 and Dod Connolly 97.

Rollerettes, Evie LaRusso 108, Tina Lungari 104; Helen Van Buskirt 99; Peg DeFazio 98 and Rose Ferris 93.

Individual records show Bev Putnam with high average of 110; Noreen Mastrolanni and Bev tied with high three 352, and Taffy Serroni with high single of 138.

Condos No. 4 Scorer For Bowdoin Icemen

Chuck Condos, former Quincy High standout, was the number four scorer this season for the strong Bowdoin College freshman hockey team.

Condos scored 18 points with 12 goals and six assists, behind Fred Ahern of South Boston, 26 points; Ralph Taylor of Berkeley, Calif., 24, and Capt. Bill Shanahan of Lynn, 20.

Condos, who helped spark Quincy to three successive Eastern Mass. Tourney berths, figures high in the Polar Bears' varsity plans for next year.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

Massachusetts Heart Association

KIDNEY AND HEART: AN UNBREAKABLE LINK

By Donald E. Oken, M.D.
Associate Director, Cardiorenal Section
Peter Bent Brigham Hospital

There is so little public awareness of the relationship between kidney function and heart disease that a heart patient is often surprised if his cardiologist orders a kidney test. Even a minor kidney defect, though, could have profound effects on the heart. The kidney and heart are so linked together that the American Heart Association has recently formed a separate Council on the Kidney in Cardiovascular Disease to aid in both its research and physician-education programs.

The heart is continuously circulating to the body's tissues a pool of fluid which carries essential materials to the cells and takes wastes from them. It is the job of the kidneys to dispose of these wastes and to balance the composition of the fluid. When the kidneys become unable to maintain a reasonable balance of critical salts and water, the results can be either too much or not enough fluid in the body.

If salt and water intake into the body exceeds the capacity of the kidneys to handle them, the body can swell, and this fluid retention, called edema, can result ultimately in failure of even a normal heart. On the other hand, if too little fluid and salt are taken into the body, the result can be low blood pressure, which in turn can further reduce kidney function.

Malfunction of the kidneys affects the cardiovascular system in other ways. Hypertension, or high blood pressure, at times severe, often accompanies kidney disease, placing considerable stress on the heart and blood vessels. The kidney also is the source of a hormone essential to normal red blood cell production. Anemia is always found to be associated with kidney failure, therefore, putting further stress on the heart. Many medications, including digitalis, the chief drug for treating heart failure, rely on the kidney for their excretion, so that medicine dosages may need periodic re-adjustment in patients with serious renal disease.

For reasons which are not clear, severe kidney failure also is associated with pericarditis, a painful and serious inflammation of the sac containing the heart. Diffuse malfunction of heart muscle also may occur, leading directly to resistant heart failure.

On the other hand, diseases of the heart may greatly affect kidney function. As heart failure develops, decreased volumes of blood reach the kidney, impair its ability to excrete wastes, and an intricate series of events causes abnormal retention of salt and water. Blood volume expands further, therefore, and tends to worsen the degree of heart failure already present. Treatment of the heart failure centers prominently around inducing excretion of the excess salt and water by the use of so-called diuretic agents. High blood pressure of any cause may severely and permanently damage the kidney -- kidney failure being the prime cause of death in a significant proportion of hypertensive patients. Bacterial endocarditis, a disease of the heart valves commonly seen in rheumatic heart disease, also causes progressive and permanent renal disease if inadequately treated.

These are only a few of the many interactions between the heart and kidney. It is inevitable that research in the area of kidney function and disease will continue to be supported by local Heart Associations and by the American Heart Association as it has in the past.

["Living With Your Heart" is a public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association, which can provide further information on the care of the heart.]

New Zoning Ordinance Now In Effect

Density, Open Space, Business Districts Features

Quincy has a new Zoning Ordinance, passed unanimously by the City Council on Monday. The 76-page ordinance, "Chapter 24, As Amended," is the result of three and one-half years of professional study, citizen review and ward-by-ward public hearings.

Major features of the new ordinance include:

- * Density and bulk controls, establishing maximum limits on the number of apartments that can be built on a lot based on the area of the lot. This will aid in regulating apartment construction in Quincy.

- * Setback, front, side and rear yard requirements providing greater space between structures, permitting adequate light and air circulation to adjoining buildings.

- * Open space requirements recognize the need for landscaped and recreation areas to provide beauty as well as the "amenities" of a yard for apartment tenants.

- * Parking in apartment districts, requirements are increased to 1.5 spaces per dwelling unit to help curtail overcrowded conditions in apartment house parking areas and preclude the need for much on-street parking.

- * Business districts are increased from one to three. They are designated as Downtown Quincy, Wollaston, and the area west of Hancock St., North Quincy which now includes the State Street Bank complex.

- * Planned Unit Development permits "master planning of the few remaining large land parcels in such a way as to preserve open spaces while enabling the city to broaden its tax base and encourage compatible land uses on large sites.

- * A Zoning map provides for more rational locations of multi-family housing, with apartment construction limited to areas near rapid transit and other major transportation facilities. It is hoped this will minimize automobile traffic on residential streets and encourage maximum use of public transportation.

"Zoning is not intended to solve all Quincy's problems," says Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson. "However, it is a statement of the City's land use and development policies, and is a positive step forward for our community."

The motion to approve the ordinance was made by Ward 5

Councillor Walter J. Hannon, chairman of the Ordinance Committee, who said, "We have attempted to the best of our ability to amend and bring up to date the zoning ordinances for the City of Quincy. We haven't ever spent as much time week after week, Saturday after Saturday, on officially called meetings."

He commended Planning Director Davidson, Gregory Doyle, his assistant, City Solicitor Harry Pavan, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, and Mrs. Josephine Carnali, clerk of committees for their work at the zoning committee meetings.

Two Wollaston Men Back From Mediterranean Duty

Two Wollaston men were scheduled to arrive this week at Newport, R.I. aboard the destroyer tender USS Grand Canyon after a five-month deployment to the Mediterranean.

They are:

Capt. James W. Hayes, Jr., husband of the former Miss Doris C. Hanigan of 20 Wollaston Ave.

Seaman Apprentice Thomas L. Collins, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Collins of 154 Beach St.

Finn Commends 13 Police Officers

Chief Francis X. Finn announces commendations and awards to 13 members of the Quincy Police Department.

Recipients include Officers Peter Benedict, Robert Hanna, Robert Perchard, Kevin Cook, James Condon, Richard Curran, Ronald Heggblod, Robert Wilson, Donald Pearson, Thomas

Casey, John Foster, Robert Lamb and Donald Murray.

Benedict and Hanna were credited with saving the life of a Quincy man who had collapsed of a heart attack.

Benedict was commended also with Perchard and Cook, Casey and Foster for preventing thefts; Condon, Curran and Heggblod for apprehending a child molester; Wilson and Pearson, for recovery of 14 stolen Volkswagens, seizure of narcotics, and development of information that may lead to dissolution of a ring of car thieves and drug sellers.

Lamb and Murray were commended for apprehending a vehicle wanted in connection with a shooting, the arrest resulting in charges of illegal possession of a firearm and violation of narcotic drug laws.

Over 1,000 Processed Daily At Quincy Claims Office

Jobless Here Almost Doubles

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

More than 1,000 unemployed persons a day—almost double that of a year ago—are being processed through the Quincy office of the Massachusetts Employment Security Claims.

Of these, 200 are filing new claims and the others are collecting unemployment compensation.

The bleak figures were disclosed by Edward M. Ghiz, supervisory unemployment manager, in an interview this week with the Quincy Sun.

"This is almost double what it was a year ago," he declared. Comparing the figures with a comparable week in 1970.

The Quincy office located at 160 Parkingway, serves in addition to Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Scituate and Weymouth.

Ghiz, who on Monday began his fourth week as manager of the Quincy office told the Quincy Sun.

"People living in those towns and communities come here with their 'unemployment problems.' They go to 1433 Hancock St. for placement, looking for work. Here they file claims for unemployment compensation. They receive checks for 30 weeks and nine weeks extended benefit."

"Most people will draw 39 weeks in conformity with federal regulations."

"This is aimed at tiding people over until they find suitable employment. It's enough to keep up some buying power, and to keep them alive."

"After 39 weeks, a person has to do something, or it's up to other agencies."

The 1,000-a-week figure quoted by Ghiz includes people who are filing claims and those who are collecting unemployment compensation checks.

The office staff has been increased, but not doubled, says Ghiz. Some positions require more time and work, some require overtime.

"There were seven of us working here Saturday," Ghiz said, "just to catch up on paper money there are plenty of records and forms that have to be accurate. We try to start with a clean slate on Monday."

"It has got to be efficient here, and we are making it a more efficient place. If people are unfortunate enough to lose their jobs, they shouldn't have to stand in line for hours to file and to wait in line for hours to have an interview. I want staff people here to have an empathy for people."

"We can't have any of our people growling at them. It's bad enough to be out of work without that."

"I am very happy with the changes here. Most of our people are cooperating and doing a good job. I want the people who have to come here treated with respect and dignity."

Workers of all types are out of work at this time, Ghiz noted. Transferred here three weeks

Sgt. Rugg Wins Bronze Star

Sgt. Paul Rugg has been awarded the Army's Bronze Star for gallantry in action in Vietnam.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rugg of 22 Narragansett Rd, Merry Mount, Sgt. Rugg has been serving with the 1st Cavalry Division in the infantry at Bien Hoa for two and a half months.

No details were immediately available as to the action involved.

SGT. PAUL RUGG

A graduate of Quincy High School and Quincy Junior College, Sgt. Rugg was stationed at Fort Dix, Fort Polk, La., and Fort Benning for training before going to Vietnam.

Sgt. Rugg, 20 years old, is the oldest child of six in his family, and the oldest of 41 grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fitzgerald of 12 Narragansett Rd.

Tax Rate Climbs $104.20 Since 1930

When they talk about the "good old days", they were good days if you were a taxpayer, anyway.

Quincy's tax rate has skyrocketed from $28 to $132.20 since 1930. That's an increase — hold onto your hat — of $104.20.

And, with a record $44.6 million 1971 budget passed this week, another $10 to $15 hike is seen possible.

A chart containing Quincy's tax rate since 1930 appears in the current issue of the Quincy Taxpayers Association news-letter.

London Bridge Traffic Makes You Feel At Home

[Editor's note: Frances Vaughn of 64 Conant Rd, North Quincy, is touring Europe and serving as a Quincy Sun correspondent. This, the first in a series of articles she is sending back, tells of her experiences in London.]

By FRANCES VAUGHN
Quincy Sun Correspondent

LONDON - Your first need, after arriving in London, is money.

Though the British are in the process of converting to a decimal system, spending money is no problem. Realizing just how much you are spending is when difficulties begin.

The new pound has 100 "new pennies", each worth two and one-half cents; whereas, the old pound had 240 pennies, each worth one cent.

Some old coins are still in circulation and are acceptable currency at a new value. American Banks [Harvard Trust] are still issuing the old half-pound paper note, and these are obsolete, as the half pound is now a seven-sided coin [50 "new pence"].

If you're still in doubt about the currency, use an American dollar bill. Old or new, it's acceptable everywhere. Many Englishmen are as confused as the tourist, and have to refer to decimal charts when making sales.

Once you have the monetary system straightened out, you can go about the purpose of your trip.

If you don't know how to conduct yourself on a clean, inexpensive and efficiently run subway, take a taxi. Drivers are courteous, friendly and witty; and the meter does not click upward with every beat of your heart.

Driving along the Thames River, the driver graciously points out scenes of interest.

Not Trying To Rule Drivers Over 65 Off Road, Says Registrar

Editor, Quincy Sun:

May I be granted the privilege of your Letters column to correct a widespread and false rumor that I or the Registry of Motor Vehicles is seeking legislation to rule "Drivers over 65 off the road."

This is both absurd and erroneous. We have tens of thousands of safe, competent drivers in their 70's, 80's and even into the 90's in some cases. What counts is not merely chronological age but, rather, physical and mental competence. We have sound, alert and capable drivers of great age. Equally, we have substantially impaired men and women in their middle years—even in the 40's or younger.

Letters to the Editor

What I have asked for is a law which would require physicians to report to the Commissioner of Public Health those individuals who, in their professional judgment, appear incompetent or unsafe to operate motor vehicles, regardless of age. Physicians now report drug addiction, gunshot wounds, communicable disease and abortion. Why not report the most dangerous category of all—drivers who should not be driving? Persons with epilepsy, heart conditions, hyper-tension, glaucoma, etc.

I should welcome your readers' opinions on these points.

Girls, if you're looking for an office job this summer, don't turn up for the interview in a pair of hot pants.

They may be hot stuff, fashion-wise, but they'll get a cool reception businesswise, according to Snelling and Snelling, the professional employment service with offices in Quincy and throughout the U.S.

Notes District Manager Burton Bartzoff:

"They [hot pants] look great on Joey Heatherton and Diahann Carroll but they're way out of place at work. The bosses went along with the gals on mini-skirts and pant suits, too. But they've drawn the line on hot pants."

Big reason, says he, is the distraction.

"It wasn't too long ago that somebody figured out that a man in a business office wasted as much as an hour a day, I think it was, looking at minis.

"Think what it would be with the dinky little pants."

ALL'S QUIET, it appears, on Checkerboard Square. [Also known as City Hall] A whole week has gone by without a hot rumor as to who is going to move where.

BUT, for what it's worth, Mayor McIntyre was dropping hints over the weekend at various functions that "I'll probably run again."

School Committee Vice-Chairman James McCormick, who is the only announced candidate for mayor, was at one of the functions. So, maybe it was just to keep McCormick wondering.

SAD NOTE DEPT: Already the Vietnam war has taken more Quincy lives than the Korean War did. According to Veterans Services Director William J. Villone, 41 Quincy men died in action during the Korean War. As of the end of 1970, 44 had died in Vietnam.

And, time continues to thin out the ranks of our veterans with startling rapidity. Last year, reports Villone, taps sounded for 192 Quincy veterans—most of them World War II.

The deaths by wars: Spanish American—1. World War I—74. World War II—98. Korean War—11. Vietnam—8.

HISTORY NOTE: Tricia Nixon will be the eighth daughter of a President to be married in the White House.

But did you know only one son of a President was wed in the White House? According to the UPI, it was John Adams II, son of Quincy-born sixth President John Quincy Adams. He married his cousin, Mary Hellen, Feb. 25, 1828 in the White House Blue Room.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club news-letter:

REMEMBER? This week last year we had plenty of snow on the ground from our unexpected "White Easter". Easter arrived March 29 and with it a seven-inch blanket of snow. And that was followed by a new five-inch covering March 31. Twelve inches!

It should take its place in history with such memorable reminders of nature's wrath as the "Portland Storm", the St. Valentine's Blizzard of 1941 and the twin-blizzards of March, 1956.

It will be remembered as "The Year It Snowed On Easter".

'Where The ACTION Is'

Quincy Minister Turns Author 'To Say Something On Wider Scale'

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Rev. Stephen W. Brown, minister of First Presbyterian Church at 270 Franklin St., South Quincy, has his first book on the market this week.

"Where The ACTION Is", a young minister's faith, in both hard cover and paperback, is published by Fleming H. Revell Company of Old Tappan, N.J.

"When you go into the ministry, so many people have so many wrong impressions of you and I get so angry at some of the things," Rev. Brown told the Quincy Sun of his desire to write.

"I said, 'I think I will say something on a wider scale than just to my own congregation.'"

In the preface to his book, Rev. Brown writes, "I feel that so much is being written these days about either the 'sweet, smiling young parson' or the 'new, radical young clergyman' that I want to show another picture.

"I want to explain the faith of one young man who allows himself to be called 'Reverend' when he knows he isn't."

And the ministry he feels, is where the ACTION is.

He was encouraged to write by an old retired minister at the Cape, where he preached at East Dennis while in seminary. This friend urged him to go ahead, promising a list of names of seven publishers for him to submit his idea to, and seven more if the first group were not interested.

REV. STEPHEN W. BROWN

"I sent away to the seven publishers asking 'Do you like the idea?' " Rev. Brown continued, "—and I didn't even have anything written. I got seven answers—all interested. I picked Revell, wrote a sample chapter. They sent it back and wanted to see the rest of the book—which I hadn't written. I wrote the rest of it last summer, and they accepted it."

"I'm kind of excited,"

Rev. Brown says, "It's kind of a fluke—and I'm appalled at the money Revell is spending in pushing it around the country—I hope they don't go broke!"

Reaction from 'outstanding Christians' quoted on the book's cover indicate that Revell's investment is safe:

"Refreshing! After all the books of gloom and criticism I've read in recent years, this book is long overdue," says Russell T. Hitt of The Evangelical Foundation, Inc.

"This is an exciting, refreshing and honest book," writes Leighton Ford, associate Evangelist with the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. "Stephen Brown is a young minister who believes that Jesus Christ is the Answer and he isn't too sophisticated to say so!"

Rev. Brown, 30 years old, has been minister at First Presbyterian Church for three years—he was 29 when he was writing his book. He came to New England from the mountains of Nashville, N.C., after receiving his bachelor's degree in philosophy from High Point College.

He attended Boston University School of Theology, preaching at a non-denominational church at East Dennis, Cape Cod, while in seminary.

His own views on religion he terms "orthodox, or, I hope, intelligently conservative."

Rev. Brown, married, dedicates his book "To the women in my life: my mother Launia, my wife Anna, and my daughters Robin and Jennifer." Robin is eight, and Jennifer will be four on Saturday.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon will deliver the main address at the formal dedication of the new $1.3 million addition to the Squantum School Sunday at 2 p.m.

Some 1,700 invitations to the ceremonies have been sent to residents of the area, school committee and city council members by Miss Ruth L. Haggerty, school principal.

Rev. Msgr. Mark H. Keohane, pastor of the Star of the Sea Church will deliver the invocation. Approximately 75 Squantum School students attended classes in the church hall over the past 18 months while awaiting the addition's opening.

Music will be by the sixth grade glee club at Squantum School directed by Mrs. Mary M. Beaton, and by North Quincy High School Choir directed by Maurice Carbonneau.

Rev. Ernest Hayhow, pastor of First Church of Squantum, will offer the dedication prayer and Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue will give the benediction.

Following dedication ceremonies in the school's gymnasium, some 80 sixth graders will lead guests on a tour of the 23,000 foot addition.

From 4 to 5 p.m. refreshments prepared by Culinary Arts Department students of Vocational-Technical School will be served by 10th grade students and about 14 mothers from the Squantum area.

The addition to the school occupies some 23,000 square feet of open space and provides references materials and learning spaces for some 325 students simultaneously.

About 225 students in grades 4, 5 and 6 use the area daily, but teachers in other parts of the building may send their students to the addition for individual study or gathering resource materials.

Area Unemployment Nearly Doubles In Year

ago from Norwood, Ghiz compared the persons receiving unemployment aid there, a population of about 30,000 with the 300,000 in the area covered in Quincy.

There are more professional persons applying for work in Norwood, Ghiz enumerated. "In Norwood there isn't any outfit that hires more than 1,000. Here, if General Dynamics has a big layoff, it has a big impact on the area."

Looking to the immediate future, Ghiz declared:

"One of the big things now is that the construction people are going back to work because of the weather. Spring and warm weather seem to revitalize people and maybe there is more hope in a clear bright day than in a dreary overcast day. That is the feeling I always get anyway."

In Massachusetts last month there were 184,600 persons unemployed, the most since 1959, according to the Associated Press. This is 67,000 more than in February, 1970.

Statistics released by federal and state government agencies indicate that unemployment has struck harder at New England than at most of the rest of the nation.

New Bedford, Lowell and Fall River lead the state in unemployment figures, followed by Brockton and Springfield.

General Dynamics Gets $150,013 JOBS Grant

A $150,013 federal grant has been allocated General Dynamics, Quincy Shipbuilding Division, by the U. S. Labor Department, announces Congressman James A. Burke. The funds are made available under Job Opportunities in the Business Sector program for skill training to upgrade 103 workers.

North Quincy Girl Finds Money Problem In London

At Kensington-Chelsea, about one mile before Parliament, there is a British power plant which recirculates its exhaust fumes under the Thames, and it is used for central heating low income apartments opposite the plant, on the other side of the river.

After passing Big Ben and Parliament, you go through Trafalgar Sq., where Lord Nelson's statue stands, and you proceed to Buckingham Palace. At 11:30 a.m. the guard changes.

If the person in front of you is not taller than 6 ft., 6 inches, there will probably be a mob of unchaperoned 5-year olds. What you do see of the ceremony is very impressive, but it's advisable to get to the palace early.

When the ceremony is over at noon, the Tower of London is a good place to visit next. If you find yourself getting homesick enroute, the maximum traffic confusion caused by the dismantling of London Bridge should make you feel right at home at Neponset Circle.

The fabulous crown jewels are contained in the Tower of London, but you should not neglect visiting All Hallows Church. Just across the street from the tower, this small church is where John Quincy

FROM LONDON—Frances Vaughn of North Quincy, Quincy Sun correspondent, files her first article at Russell Sq., London, about a block from British Museum.

Adams was married.

Piccadilly Circus is the best evening place to go. There are a multitude of theatres and restaurants. Chances are anyone you ask for help will be an American, so carry a pocketguide of the city with you. Streets are too narrow for getting around in a cab quickly.

Full-day tours include trips to Shakespeare country or Canterbury. Oxford and Cambridge Universities can also be visited on another full-day tour; and there is an open-air market at Cambridge where you can buy anything under the clouds.

These full-day tours cost about $10 American dollars, and the cost includes dinner and two stops for tea.

Right now it's chilly in England, so you'll probably find yourself shivering yourself to sleep. By morning a little heater should have your room bearably warm enough to toss off the blankets.

Don't worry about your hotel being less than standard because of that strange sensation at the foot of the bed.

It's probably only a muscle spasm in your foot.

Love

Love is when two people are together.

Love is when a child is born.

Love is helping those who need help.

Love is when a child takes its first step into the new world of love, joy, peace, happiness, and care.

Love is God who created the heaven and the earth.

Love is trying to Keep America beautiful.

Love is being able to love one another.

Love is trying to make someone smile.

Love is everything.

Love comes from the goodness of our heart.

Love is something that we don't have enough of in this world of ours.

Won't you please give each and every child peace, care, happiness, joy and love.

Stones with names, large and small.

Growing grass, and a surrounding wall.

Unheard voices squelched in the dirt.

Recounting tales to those once alert.

A resting place, a soundless lot.

Many one lived, many did not.

Voiceless regrets, and forgotten schemes.

The finished book with unlined dreams.

Clouded reflections in a shadowed tomb.

Discouraged desires in plots of gloom.

Some took heed, but some just a glance.

In the direction of truth, that life was a chance.

It doesn't matter what's outside

But it's what is within.

There are many religions

And languages of every kind.

But when God made the earth,

I think he had equality in mind.

Equality isn't just a word,

It's a law of our earth.

I know how it take it.

You take it for what you think its worth.

FOR REAL—The back-to-nature mood of sportswear puts earthy cotton denim in the category of fabric most likely to succeed. Designer Calvin Klein uses it for a contemporary art form—the pants costume, complete with mid-calf sleeveless coat and cotton knit turtleneck sweater.

ZINGY STRIPES—The pants costume is clearly delineated for spring in red and white cotton stripes. A sleeveless maxi coat tops matching striped pants and a ribbed knit cotton turtleneck sweater in this design by Chuck Howard.

"Frankly" Thrifty

Cutting down on the food budget without sacrificing nutrition, creativity or flavor may be one of your problems at income tax time.

"Frankly Italian Casserole" gives you precisely this opportunity. Since it begins with a packaged dinner, this recipe is simple, quick to prepare and very economical. The addition of meat and cheese provides that good protein nutrition so essential to health and vitality. The rich tomato sauce enhances the flavor and color of all the ingredients as well as sparking the appetite with its mouth-watering aroma.

Even by adding a salad, vegetable and dessert to round out the meal, you will still be keeping your resolution to cut food costs but not at the expense of family nutrition. This recipe contains all four elements of the recommended Basic Four Food Plan.

Frankly Italian Casserole

1 pkg. Kraft Italian Style Macaroni Dinner
1 lb. frankfurters, sliced diagonally
1/4 cup sliced green onion
4 Kraft Pasteurized Process American Cheese Slices

Prepare macaroni and sauce as directed on package. Reserve two sliced frankfurters; add remaining frankfurters and green onion to dinner. Place in 1 1/2-quart casserole; top with cheese and reserved frankfurters. Bake at 350°, 15 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

Sun Signs By Regina Russell

Week of April 1 - 8

ARIES [Mar. 21-Apr. 19] - You can be very busy stirring up trouble and antagonizing others this week - just be sure you're right before wading in.

TAURUS [Apr. 20-May 20] - You can speak your piece now but don't expect others to take it lying down - back stage opposition is fierce during this period.

GEMINI [May 21-June 21] - Step into the background and give others a chance to simmer down before you make your announcement. Making it now causes back-lash.

CANCER [June 22-July 22] - Other people are up tight and you can almost "see" the tension. Stay out of their way for this week since you're not involved.

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] - Your travel plans may have to be cancelled because you may have decided to use the money in another way, perhaps as investment.

VIRGO [Aug. 23-Sept. 22] - You can secretly out-think the best of them now but don't take any action yet - wait for the green light in 2 weeks.

LIBRA [Sept. 23-Oct. 22] - The planets are in a dangerous position this week and you should be extremely careful to avoid a serious accident.

SCORPIO [Oct. 23-Nov. 21] - It's very possible that you could find yourself in trouble with the authorities this week or you could be in an accident.

SAGITTARIUS [Nov. 22-Dec. 21] - Don't rush into any speculative adventure even though things look good to you. It's not as "big" as you think.

CAPRICORN [Dec. 22-Jan. 19] - You can be under extreme nervous tension this week and you must be careful to avoid accident-producing situations.

AQUARIUS [Jan. 20-Feb. 18] - This can be a difficult week for you as you try to cope with annoying, unexpected troubles that come your way.

PISCES [Feb. 19-Mar. 20] - Postpone any legal hassles you may be involved with since if you settle now, it will be to your disadvantage.

It's In To Be Thin By Lois L. Lindauer

Director, The Diet Workshop

Dear Desperate:

Thank you for the letter you sent last month.

Though you are eighteen and have tried a zillion diets, there is still hope. The hope lies in getting through a well balanced diet, so that you don't experience the torturous cravings which accompany so many plans. Well balanced dieting is insurance against being fat ever again because it can be expanded easily to a lifetime eating plan.

I was fat at your age, too, and I know it can be an agonizing experience. But it doesn't have to last your whole life. Let me help you to find a life of pride and vitality through self discipline and will power. I will make it easy for you by featuring food which tastes good.

Dear Desperate - I want to help you. Why didn't you send me your address?

If you have any questions regarding dieting, or wish a copy of our free fish folder, please write me in care of the Quincy Sun or at 28 Merrick Avenue,

Merrick, New York.

BAKED FISH TOPPER

Come Let Us Reason Together

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'The Ladies' Man'

A wife was talking with another wife on the telephone one Monday morning... "What I enjoyed about the dinner party Saturday night was your husband...the way he treated you...he seated you at the table...lit cigarettes for you and others...didn't dominate the conversation...yet he participated...he didn't over-drink and become obnoxious. All evening he was so attentive to you...you must be very happy."

The other wife glowed...so often her husband had been accused of being a "ladies man"...only because he was so courteous...attentive...considerate of women. The wife was right...her friend was a very happy woman...she was married to a man who wasn't a boor...the modern word is "jerk". My observation is that there are a lot of "jerks" around...males who just don't know how to act...much less how to treat women.

The "ladies' man" tag is usually put on a man by other men...fellows who themselves are rude...rough...backward...ignorant. Very often they are judgmental and narrowly moralistic...sometimes impotent.

The trouble with a lot of us men is that we just don't know why we're married. The only real reason that I can see to justify the institution of marriage is companionship...a close...warm...confidential...sharing relationship with a member of the opposite sex. No man needs to get married to get his laundry done...rather expensive laundry. No man needs to get married to have his meals cooked. To say that one marries for sex shows a distorted concept of both marriage and sex. Those married for sex only are usually disappointed people. No...the only good reason for marriage is companionship. That's why I'm against anything that stands in the way of a growing companionship between a husband and wife...in-laws...alcohol...children...choppers...hair rollers at night...lack of frequent bathing...granny nightgowns...or just being a rude jerk. A few more "ladies men" might make for happier wives...fewer emotionally disturbed children...and a reduction of the work of marriage counselors. NOT MANY MEN KNOW HOW TO TREAT WOMEN. But they can learn.

Some suggestions...for one thing, men...TALK. There's something missing in a man...and in the marriage when husband and wife seldom have more to say than "I thought they got new shoes last month"... "Why are you always too tired?" There are so many things to talk about...and I don't mean to talk about people. Gossip is the lowest form of conversation...and one reason why some husbands don't want to talk with their wives is that they can't stand talking about other people. The next highest level of talk is about things...and there is no limit of things to talk about. The highest level is ideas...about life...its meaning...current issues...what's happening in our world...anything from "April fool's day" to "cease-fire in the Middle East." A real man talks...he doesn't clam up at home. No normal wife can live with a tight-lipped husband. A man who likes to talk with women is "a ladies man"...and that's good.

The second suggestion in relating to a woman, men...FEEL. Feelings are often submerged...unexpressed. A lot of men miss the boat on the little things which tell a wife... "I was thinking of you." A wife said in my office recently... "You wouldn't believe the difference in my husband...he's on the road a lot...and frequently he'll stop at a roadside telephone to call me. Since he's been doing that I don't talk to the girls so long on the phone...I wouldn't miss his call for anything." Remember the old song... "Little things mean a lot." A touch...an unexpected kiss...a pat...don't be shy...you're paying for it...enjoy her. Put feeling into your life...you're not a computer...you're a MAN. You're not married to your job...you're married to a woman. However effective you are at the job...unless you have become expert in "how to relate to the woman" who is your wife you have not achieved success.

Finally...be STRONG...strong emotionally so that you give security and stability to your wife and children. Stand tall emotionally...even when you stoop to kiss your little boy...even when you take your wife out for an evening and show her attention...courtesy...admiration. Yours is a lopsided life if your aggressiveness is nothing more than making money...while you act like a withdrawn clod to your wife.

Perhaps the thing that most of us men need is to determine in our hearts...just what it is I want to be. If we don't...we'll end up drifting into something we don't want to be. To commit ourselves to being an all-round man will gain favor...both with men and women.

Miss Fleanor Brown is secretary of the Union; Miss Hazel MacGregor, treasurer.

School Administrative Staff Discusses PLAN

The Quincy school system's administrative staff met yesterday at St. Ann's Youth Center to discuss Quincy's involvement with Project PLAN [Program for Learning in Accordance with Needs], Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon reported today.

The meeting followed a March 20 session at Vocational-Technical School during which more than 100 teachers, 60 of whom are presently using PLAN materials provided by Westinghouse Learning Corporation, discussed pro's and con's of the program.

Over the next several weeks Dr. Creedon will meet with staff members of junior high school cluster groups to determine what they feel the next step for the school system should be when the formal contract with Westinghouse runs out in June.

Dr. Creedon plans to bring the matter before the school committee May 12.

Spring

Spring is here,
Flowers everywhere.
The March wind is blowing.
Let's hope there's no more snowing.
Birds come from the south,
Children with ruddy face and puffing mouth.
Buds on the trees start to grow,
And the green leaves begin to show.

My Trip To

Trailside Museum

We went to the Trailside
Museum and we saw a porcupine and its points were white and very very sharp. If a man touches its back or tail or head, that man would get some quills in his hand, and his hand would get infected. We saw a owl named Hercules, and she was a girl. Hercules was nine years old and a very very little owl. That owl could turn his head all the way to his back and Hercules could only make one sound.

Smells

Through all the frozen winter
My nose has grown most lonely
For lovely, lovely colored smells
That come in springtime only.

The purple smell of lilacs,
The yellow smell that blows
Across the air of meadows
Where bright forsythia grows.

The tall pink smell of peach
trees,
The low white smell of clover,
And everywhere the great green smell
Of grass the whole world over.

My Trip

On Jan. 29, 1971 we went to the Trailside Museum. We saw an owl and a porcupine. And we saw a skunk and a rabbit too. We saw some otters and snakes too.
We saw a deer and a red fox and we saw a raccoon too. We saw a mouse and a big model of the Blue

Goodness! The Pile Is Falling

Once upon a time there was giant who liked eggs. So one day my friend Mary and I went exploring, and we came to this big castle. We knocked on the door but no one answered, and there was a crack in the door so we walked in. Everything was so big, the chair, table, and bed. We walked into a room where there was a big giant, sitting at the table, on the table there was a hen that layed eggs. And everytime the hen layed a egg the giant would eat it. Then there was a big pile on the table.
Then all of a sudden the egg shells fell. I screamed, Mary! The egg shells are falling! And Mary got out just in time or she'd be

Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q. Are there any tips that you could recommend as for preparing my tax return?

A. You may find it helpful in preparing your 1970 return if you follow the following steps:

1. Collect records relating to 1970 income including Forms W-2 and 1099.
2. Unless you are sure that you will not benefit by itemizing deductions, collect records of medical and dental expenses, charitable contributions, real estate taxes, state income tax, home mortgage interest, etc.
3. Peel off mailing label and stick it on the return you file in the address area of Form 1040. Check for and correct any errors in social security number, name and address.
4. Check filing status and enter exemptions [lines 1 through 11, Form 1040].
5. Follow lines 12 through 17. Complete any necessary supporting schedules for income and adjustments to arrive at adjusted gross income on line 18.
6. If you itemize deductions, fill out Schedule A.
7. If you do not itemize deductions and line 18 is under $10,000, find tax in Tax Tables 1 through 15. If you itemize deductions, or line 18 is $10,000 or more, fill in the tax computation, Part IV, page 2. In addition use the Tax Surcharge Tables to figure your surcharge.
8. Check Parts V [Credits], VI [Other Taxes] and VII [Other Payments] on other side and carry totals to page 1. Enter withholding and estimated tax on page 1.
9. Compute balance due or overpayment.
10. Verify all entries, check arithmetic and sign return.

Q. I was a full time student in 1970 and earned about $2,000. Do I have to file a return?

A. Yes. A full time student must file a return if he had:

- A. Gross income of $1,700 or more, or
- B. Gross income of less than $1,700 but had:

1. Self-employment income of $400 or more, or
2. Uncollected Social Security tax on tips. Remember that you should always file if you had wages from which income tax was withheld in order to obtain a refund of the amount withheld.

Q. What are some examples of taxable income.

A. Taxable income includes but is not limited to:

- Wages, salaries, bonuses, commissions, tips
- Dividends and interest income
- Rents and Royalties
- Pensions and Annuities
- Capital gains and losses
- Alimony
- Partnership, estate and trust income
- Prizes and awards

Q. Last July, I had an automobile accident. I did not have any collision insurance and had to pay $450 to have the car repaired. Is this deductible?

A. The portion of a non business casualty loss which exceeds $100 is deductible. In your case, the allowable deduction is $350 assuming that this amount is not more than the fair market value of your car at the time of the accident. A casualty loss would be deducted on Schedule A under miscellaneous deductions.

Q. I have moved since last year. My tax form has been forwarded to my new address but it has my old address imprinted on it. What should I do?

A. Draw a line through the old address and insert the new address on the label. The label is on the outside of the tax forms package that was mailed to you. It should be peeled off and put on the return you file in the address area of the Form 1040.

Q. Where can I get one of those books published by the Federal government which explains the income tax rules?

A. The booklet entitled, "Your Federal Income Tax", may be obtained from your local I.R.S. office.

Q. What can I do to speed up my refund?

A. If you have not yet filed your return, there are several things that you can do to facilitate the processing of your return. The main thing is to thoroughly check over your return before sending it in. A return that is unsigned, which lacks a social security number, or is missing a W-2 form will have to be completed before it can be processed. This will cause a delay in the refund. If you have already filed your return, the best thing to do is to wait patiently.

Q. How do I report reimbursement received in 1970 for a medical deduction claimed in 1969?

A. If you have deducted a medical expense in one year and receive reimbursement for that expense in a subsequent year, you must include the reimbursement in your gross income in the year that you receive it.

Q. I have saved my old tax returns for the last twenty years. Now my wife is cleaning out the attic and she wants to throw them out. How long must I keep them?

A. You should keep your records for as long as their contents may be material to your tax obligations. Usually, records which support income and deductions should be kept for a period of three years from the due date of the return. Records pertaining to property transactions should be kept for a much longer period as they may be important if the property is sold or otherwise disposed of.

Quincy High Students Invited To Enter Feminist Essay Contest

Quincy High School students are being invited to enter a Feminist Essay Contest sponsored by the National Organization for Women [NOW], Eastern Massachusetts Chapter.

Subject of the 1,000-2,000 word essay is "Feminism: A Movement, A Philosophy, A Way of Life." Students interested may obtain details from NOW, 45 Newbury St.,

Boston. All entries must be received by May 15, 1971.

The goal of NOW, whose membership includes both men and women, is full participation for both sexes in every aspect of American life.

Active Quincy members are Mary K. Duffy of 112 Elm St., Quincy Center, and Rev. Gwen Jones Lurvey of 100 Albatross Rd., Adams Shore.

QEA Endorses Drive To Establish Separate U.S. Dept. Of Education

Robert V. Garner, president of the Quincy Education Association, today endorsed the nationwide drive to establish a separate United States Department of Education.

Garner, who concludes his term of office in June, cites the "complete accord of the QEA's Executive Committee in that a federal cabinet-level post will undoubtedly elevate education to its rightful place in the nation's priorities and at the same time help ease the financial burden on the state's school system."

Garner, a media specialist at Snug Harbor School and a Weymouth resident, notes that the Massachusetts Teachers Association plans to write President Nixon asking constructive action.

The QEA agrees that this is the time to give education full identification through establishment of a separate Department of Education. This should eliminate duplication of Federal education programs now included not only under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, but spread through scores of other federal agencies.

The QEA executive board includes, with Garner:

Mrs. Louise V. Schofield, vice president; Mrs. Susan A. Greene, secretary; Mrs. Alma P. Ries, treasurer; Marie T. McKeever, Ruel Mohnkern, Charles W. Djerf, Charles V. Hickey, Patrick Crozier and Bernard LaCouture, directors.

Special IRS Assistance For Taxpayers In April

District Director William E. Williams announces a schedule of dates on which taxpayer assistance will be given during the month of April in the Quincy office located at 1 Cliveden St.

The dates are: Wednesdays, April 7, 14, Fridays, April 2, 9, Thursdays, April 15.

On those dates, Internal Revenue Service personnel will be available from 8:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. to render taxpayer assistance to all taxpayers who call at the office seeking assistance in the preparation of their Federal Income tax returns.

Williams urges all taxpayers in need of assistance to complete as much of their return as possible before calling at the office.

Taxpayers desiring telephone assistance may call 472-9032 or 479-5028 any time from 8:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. on the above dates.

CHILDREN AND ASPIRINS

Thousands of children every year fall victim to accidental drug poisoning and hundreds of them die as a result. Accidental poisonings are most common with drugs which are prevalent in the home. In fact, 25 percent of these poisonings are caused by aspirin ingestion.

Because of this problem, manufacturers, physicians and the Food and Drug Administration have agreed on a method to help control accidental aspirin poisoning. Children's aspirins are now packaged in bottles of not more than 36 tablets. Even if all are accidentally swallowed, a child would become ill, but such an overdose would rarely be fatal. Don't rely on this alone. ALL medicines should be stored in a cabinet out of reach of children. Also, a lock is a safety precaution only if it is used.

Money is meaningless without good health. So, even if you're a sick millionaire, have your chauffeur drive you to NABORHOOD REXALL PHARMACY, 406 Hancock St., No. Quincy or call PR 3-6426 for fast, prescription service. College Information Night at North Quincy High School will be held April 7 at 7:30 p.m. Information will be presented by five speakers to interested 11th and 12th grade students and their parents.

Peter N. Fitch, head counselor, is in charge of the program. Principal John W. Walsh will welcome those attending.

Speakers will be: Richard

Mula, dean of continuing education, who will discuss Quincy Junior College; Professor Mary Flynn, coordinator of cooperative education at Northeastern University, discussing nursing programs.

Miss Janet Klein, admissions counselor at University of Massachusetts, discussing four-year colleges; Charles P. Uppvall, dean of student personnel at Wentworth Institute, speaking on two-year technical schools; and William Coughlin, director of admissions at Suffolk University, whose topic is scholarships and student loans.

There will be refreshments in the cafeteria following the program, with an opportunity for informal questions and answers.

Mrs. Melanie Messer Wins National Science Award

Mrs. Melanie B. Messer, a science teacher at North Quincy High School, received an honorable mention and a $250 award during a presentation last week at the National Science Teachers Association convention in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Messer received the Science Teaching Achievement Recognition (STAR) award for her research paper entitled, "A Practical Chemistry Course for the Non-Achiever."

Her paper presents convincing examples of her success in reaching non-college bound chemistry students who are studying chemical reactions such as the dissolvability of sugar and tooth calcium in coffee and soda pop.

The STAR award, co-sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association and the American Gas Association, is given each year in recognition of science teachers and educators who have developed new or unusually effective programs in science education.

The awards are part of the total effort by NSTA and A.G.A. to encourage creativity and innovative approaches in science teaching. By recognizing thoughtful research and effective procedures in science education, the associations hope to enhance the prestige of the science teaching profession.

Citizens Institute Taking Part In 'War On Drugs'

The Citizens Institute for Better Government will participate in a "citizens' war on drugs" in Norfolk County, announces Francis P. J. DiCesare, president.

Initial plans were made at a recent meeting in City Hall to set up a Norfolk County Drug Coordinating Committee to start the first phase of a Norfolk County Drug Association.

Object of the Association is to coordinate all drug prevention programs, including rehabilitation, medical, educational, law enforcement, legal and other social services dealing with the drug problem.

Present at the meeting were representatives from Dist. Atty. George G. Burke's office, Rep. Clifford H. Marshall, Project People in Braintree, Survival, Inc. in Quincy, Project Win in Canton, Youth Project Committee in Milton, Hot Line in Stoughton and Hot Line in Dedham.

'USS Scorpion' Launched At N. Quincy Ceremony

Launching of the model submarine USS Scorpion at 264 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, by LeClair Model Shipbuilding Company is announced by Charles LeClair, president.

Mrs. John M. Gillis, wife of Quincy's city clerk, officiated at the ceremony, with the keel initiated by Mark Gillis, their son. The new submarine, named for the former U. S. sub, is one foot long and weighs one pound.

At the same time, the keel was laid for the USS Thresher, named for the ill-fated U. S. vessel.

Survival, Encourages New, Expanded Anti-Drugs Programs

Survival, Inc. today invited the development and growth of new drug rehabilitation programs within its area, while at the same time offering its assistance in the strengthening of existing drug facilities in Norfolk County.

In a letter from the coordinator's office to all ongoing facilities in the county's 28 communities, Survival, a comprehensive drug rehabilitation and youth problems organization in Quincy, asked for a "liaison-type relationship, a communicative alliance with an exchange of services, information and ideas between organizations whose goals are similar for the purpose of providing Norfolk County with a strong, effective team to combat the rising incidence of drug abuse."

The letter pointed out that Survival does not see the need for programs to lose their own identity or initiative in the county-wide unification.

Survival also offered whatever help it could provide in the way of needed assistance or use of resources, while describing available facilities for outpatient care, a walk-in center, a 24-hour hot line, a forthcoming methadone and inpatient program, a therapeutic community, a complex of redirection centers for both opiate and non-opiate users, counseling services, outreach workers, administrative offices, educational and audio visual equipment, etc.

The letter concluded: "We intend to remain an entity within the drug treatment field and, while our cooperation will be extended to federal, state and county co-ordinating agencies, we feel it would be grossly premature to consider the assimilation or merger of Survival's directorship until granted funds and resources, equal to those of Survival's, are immediately available to Eastern Norfolk County."

Lynne Making Headway In 'Pony' Research

Lynne Ricciardi believes she is now on the right track to complete her research on the "Pony" presented to Quincy High School by the 1924 graduating class.

In response to a Quincy Sun story last week, she was informed that Clara Zottoli, 1924 January class secretary, is now Mrs. Fred Costanza of 58 Greenleaf St. Lynne discussed the gift with her.

Mrs. Costanza told her it was the June, 1924 graduating class who made the gift, not the class of January as thought.

Research led to those class officers: Eliot Weil, president; Geraldine Hanson, vice president; Mildred Wiley, secretary; and Perley Payson, treasurer.

Is there anyone who knows any of these officers and their present addresses? If so, please call Lynne at 479-0686 after school hours, or the Quincy Sun anytime during the day at 471-3100.

ENC Team Coming Back

"They won't be able to keep us out of the NAIA Tourney next year."

This is the vow of the Eastern Nazarene College basketball players, who this year had their most successful season in history.

They won the Kings College Tourney in Briar Cliff, N.Y., and went to the finals of the National Christian College Athletic Association tourney in Chattanooga, Tenn. ENC was the first team from the Northeast ever to win a game in that tourney.

The Crusaders won 19 games in a row before losing to Azusa Pacific of California, the top-seeded team, 98-86, in the NCCAA Tourney finals.

"The boys felt they should have been selected for the NAIA District 32 tourney this year and were very disappointed when they were overlooked," said Coach Jim Smith. "We had a better record than three of the four teams selected for the Southern Division tourney and also we beat Barrington, which had easy sailing over St. Francis, the top-seeded team in the Northern Division tourney."

Smith, in his second year as Crusader coach after taking over for Carroll Bradley, was elated that his team won the Kings Tourney and qualified for the NCCAA Tourney. His team finished the regular season with a 21-4 record and, with three wins in the Kings event and two in the Tennessee tourney, wound up with a fine overall mark of 26-5.

"Our boys just missed bringing home a national championship," Smith said. "We surprised everyone down there by beating Grace College and the host team, Tennessee Temple, to move into the finals, as no one gave us a chance of even winning a game. We were extremely tired in that championship game. Azusa, which won the title for the third year in a row, had three big players who moved in and out of the line-up throughout the tourney and they were much fresher than we were for the finals."

It appears the Crusaders' chant that they can't be left out of the NAIA tourney next year has much merit.

Not a single player will graduate this year!

And Coach Smith won't be sad if he receives another transfer such as Don Eads, number two scorer this year.

Eads, a six-foot guard from Morrow, Ohio, transferred from Mt. Vernon Nazarene Junior College and teamed with junior veteran Ron Bradley of North Quincy to give ENC one of the best one-two punches in college ball.

Eads averaged better than 23 points a game and seven rebounds a game. Twice he broke the school scoring record and, with Bradley, made the all-star teams of both the Kings and NCCAA tournaments. He also made honorable mention on the NAIA District 32 team. He broke the NCCAA Tourney scoring record.

Bradley for the second year in a row led the ENC scorers with a 25-point game average, five points under his great average of last year. Ron, son of former coach Carroll Bradley and a 6-3 guard, also led the rebounders with an average of 13 a game and was outstanding on defense. For the second year in a row he made the NAIA District 32 all-star team. He also was named MVP of the NCCAA Tourney.

"These two boys are the finest I've ever worked with and I don't see how they will be able to improve on their performances next year," Smith said. "But don't bet they won't. They are terrific competitors."

Also returning next year will be Don Constantine of North Quincy, 6-2 junior with a 10-point scoring average who is a brilliant defensive player; Steve Shoff, 5-9 sophomore from Quincy, six-point average and the team's exceptional playmaker; Rick Reyenger, 6-7 freshman from Quincy, who joined the team after the eighth game, averaged nine points and 12 rebounds a game.

Clarke Adams, 6-3 freshman from Lapeer, Mich., 17 points a game; Jeff Davidson, 6-5 junior from Roseville, Mich.; Mark Sanford, 6-1 sophomore from Harrisburg, Pa.; Tom Gonsales, 5-11 freshman from Ogdensburg, N.Y.; Jerry Hoche, 6-3 junior from Hull; Bob Rose, 6-3 junior from Gibsonsia, Pa.; Ray Shannon, six-foot sophomore from Braceville, Ohio; and Bill Whitman, 5-10 freshman from Hamlin, N.Y.

One of the real keys to ENC's success this year was Reyenger, who joined the club after his discharge from the Army. The former Quincy star joined the team which had a 5-3 record and the Crusaders were 16-1 with him in the lineup the rest of the regular season.

"Rick [6-7 and 210 pounds] is big, strong and he can move for a big man," Smith said. "I think just having him on the team meant as much in moral support as having him on the floor means."

"Just the knowledge that we have a big man in reserve, ready, willing and able to do the job gave us tremendous moral support."

Rick was certainly willing to play. "The toughest thing I had to get used to was not starting," he said. "I was used to starting. When the band started playing and the fans started yelling, I wanted to play, but I'm not complaining. We were winning and that was the main thing."

Rick was brilliant on the boards and on defense. In the NCCAA tourney he was pitted against 6-9 Larry Christen of Grace College, who had been averaging 20 points a game. He held him to four points and out-rebounded him, 11-3.

Quincy High Coach Marty Finnegan is one of Rick's biggest boosters.

"He did a great job for us and he played some outstanding ball. I understand, in the Army," Marty said. "I thought I had him sold on the University of Connecticut but he wanted to stay around here. He should be tremendous next year."

"Paul Beston, a good friend of mine in high school, was playing with ENC when I came home on leave in December," Reyenger said.

"Paul brought me to a couple of games and I talked to Coach Smith and that was it as far as I was concerned. I feel it was a smart choice. I'm in my home town playing on a real good team and the people at the school have been great to me. I can't get over the tremendous spirit here."

So, look out for Eastern Nazarene next year!

Sun Writer Sees:

Major Trade 'Must' For Red Sox

By TOM SULLIVAN

Although the Red Sox brass is again oozing confidence and the Boston team is reported to have an excellent defense, there will be an abundance of question marks when the Sox open their season next Tuesday against the Yankees at Fenway Park.

Unless a major trade is made, things do not appear at all favorable for the Sox to give the Orioles a run for their money this season.

This writer has been covering the Sox for 15 years and can't remember when they have had any more question marks than they have at present.

Catching still appears to be the team's weakest spot without a bonafide major league receiver, something that has plagued the team for several years.

From all appearances, Manager Eddie Kasko will use three catchers, Tom Satriano, Don Pavlevitch and Bob Montgomery. They aren't real major league receivers.

Another big question mark is the pitching staff. It looks as though the starters will be only so-so but the bullpen will be strong.

Kasko will use Ray Culp, Gary Peters, Sonny Siebert, Mike Nagy and Bill Lee as his regular starters with the latter also serving as long relievers, right and left.

Culp and Peters look like the best bets but both are veterans and are a year older. That also goes for Siebert. Sonny is 34 years old, Peters will be 34 on April 21 and Culp will be 33 in August. Nagy and Lee are much younger but have not been overly impressive.

The relief pitchers should be strong with Ken Tatum, acquired in the trade for Tony C, giving the club another established fireman who should help considerably.

Tatum, Sparky Lyle, Bob Bolin and Gary Wagner should do well in relief and, if they are still with the team, Vicente Romo, Cal Koonce and Ken Brett could help. Don't count on Jim Lonborg or Jose Santiago to be of much help.

Even the infield poses a problem.

Rico Petrocelli has been having trouble adjusting himself to the change to third base, despite the claims of Kasko and Scout Frank Malzone that he should have no trouble making the transition.

It seems too much to expect Luis Aparicio, now 37, to approach last year's amazing season. His legs could be a problem, but he should steady the infield down.

Rookie Doug Griffin is a big question mark at second base. He looks good in the field but has not been hitting at all. Having Aparicio at short should help him and he will give the team some needed speed. If he gets on first, he will steal a lot of bases.

If George Scott isn't traded, he is all set at first, but must still take off more weight. If he goes elsewhere, Mike Fiore looks ready to take over. He has been hitting well and is a good first baseman.

It is reported the Sox may trade Reggie Smith. If he stays, the outfield looks strong with him in right, Yaz in left and Billy C, who should be better without Tony, in center. If Reggie is traded, Joe Lahoud is all set to step in.

Boston's strongest point could be the bench.

The Sox have outstanding bench strength in George Thomas, John Kennedy, Fiore and Lahoud. Thomas and Kennedy in particular were exceptional last year and are awfully good men to have waiting in the wings.

This writer hopes the Sox do make a trade for a catcher and right-handed power hitter. If they do, their chances of giving the Orioles a battle for the Eastern Division flag will be much better.

As of now, they don't appear to be in the running for the pennant.

Queen Pins Retain Crown In Women's Candlepin Tourney

The Queen Pins retained their crown in the finals of the 16th annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tourney, defeating the Rollerettes 1529-1512 Sunday at Merrymount Daylight Alleys.

The Queen Pins gained their victory in the first string as they jumped off to a 36-pin lead led by Bev Putnam's 119 and Betty Gagne's 114.

The Rollerettes surged back to pick up 18 pins of the deficit in the second string as Peg DeFazio rolled 120 and Evie Larusso followed with 111.

The Rollerettes attempted to close the gap in the third string, but a final surge led by Mal Adams and Dot Connolly led the Queen Pins to the championship.

Bev Putnam was top for the Queen Pins with 316, followed by Mal Adams 314; Betty Gagne and Dot Connolly 306 each, and Mary Powell 239.

Evie Larusso with 331 was high for the Rollerettes, while Peg DeFazio followed with 318.

The Queen Pins received a $50 check, and each member a trophy on Tuesday at their weekly meeting.

Bev Putnam took high tourney average with 109.2 and shared the high three string total honors with Noreen Mastroianni, each bowling 352, while Taffy Serroni captured high tourney single of 138.

The tourney is sponsored annually by the Koch Club of Quincy with 20 teams participating this season.

Squirts Tie Braintree, Down Brockton, 2-1

Quincy Squirts All Stars tied Braintree 4-4 at MDC Shea Rink in Quincy, and defeated Brockton 2-1 at Asaf Memorial Rink in Brockton.

In a hard see-saw scoring game with Braintree, Quincy's scoring was by John Yaxter, John Kelley, Brian Bertoni and Bobby Hayes. Assists were by Jimmy Triglia [two], John Norton and John Kelley.

Quincy and Brockton fought a hard checking game, with Quincy's winning goals by Bobby Norton and Brian Bersani. Assists were by Mark Assad.

Quincy now posts a 10 win, 4 ties, 3 loss record.

It's Now Presidents And First Ladies

On Your Mark, Get Set, Go, Girls!

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy High's track team lost only its final meet of the season a year ago and the Presidents are expected to be even stronger this spring.

However, they must move over and give a share of the spotlight to a newcomer to the high school sports scene—a girls' track team!

Girls' sports were added to the interscholastic schedule only two years ago. Both Quincy and North now have interscholastic schedules in girls' basketball, tennis, softball and gymnastics. Field hockey will be introduced next fall on an intramural basis.

Due to a great display of interest among Quincy High girls for a track team, the sport was added this spring, with the cooperation of Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone.

Although it was supposed to be introduced on the intramural level, four outside meets have been scheduled with two more in the offing.

The girls, coached by Peter Gallagher, who moved up this year from Snug Harbor Elementary School to the high school and is the coach of boys' gymnastics there, will face Attleboro at Veterans Memorial Stadium April 29.

They will run at Attleboro on May 13, host Canton at the Stadium May 25 and go to Needham May 27. It is hoped to add meets during the weeks of May 3 and 17.

"I was amazed at the great interest among the girls," Gallagher said. "About 70 girls reported but many only work out now and then. I have 25 who have stuck with me every day and it is these girls I will carry. Some show outstanding ability and I think we will do all right."

"Everyone has been wonderful. The YMCA has given us the use of its outdoor track, as Veterans Stadium is not yet in shape, and members of the boys' team are working with the girls on such events as the javelin, discus and shot put."

Gallagher is undecided on the events many of the girls will compete in, but has lined up some of the more promising candidates in several events. The high jump is the only event which is wide open with no one definitely designated to it.

The top hopes in the 50-yard dash are Debbie Spillane, Jean Macchi and Carol Baharian.

Miss Spillane, Kathy Ilacqua and Sue Toches are the leading aspirants in the 100, Debbie Condon, Sarah Kane and Nancy Cappadonna lead the way in the 220 and 440; Betsy Witt, Mary Wustenev and Nancy Bernstein in the half mile, and Miss Witt, Kathy Glennon and Patti Burr in the mile.

Linda Robertson, Debbie McCarter, Miss Wustenev and Miss Toches are the best bets for the relay team but other girls are coming along fast and show good potential.

In the hurdles Misses Robertson, Ilacqua and Spillane top the list.

Margaret Ryan, Miss Witt and Miss Glennon look best in the discus, Miss Ryan, Miss Toches and Karen Fruzetti in the shot put, Misses Witt, Bernstein and Macchi in the javelin.

The top long jumpers are Misses Spillane, Ilacqua and Condon.

Other girls being counted upon are Yvonne Conley, Joan White, Yvette Shaw, Pat Sines, Debbie Brichta, Kathy Butler, Jean Fain, and Linda Waible.

"We had a practice meet with a group of girls at Weymouth and I was pleased with the results," Gallagher said. "The girls in Weymouth want to form a team but are not getting the fine cooperation from school officials we received from Carl Leone. He was all for this program."

Pike Picked For N.Y. Basketball Tourney

Bob Pike, Quincy High basketball captain during the past season, is one of 10 Massachusetts schoolboy hoop stars who will play in the annual Capitol District Tourney Saturday and Sunday in Albany, N.Y.

Pike, the Presidents' leading scorer with a 26-point game average and one of the team's top rebounders and defensive players, was picked by a committee of high school coaches following two games last week between 22 players selected to try out for the team. The games were played in Brockton and Somerville

Selected along with Pike, 6-3 forward, were Ron Williams of Boston English, Bob Curry and Pete Anderson of Hyde Park, Steve Strothers of Dorchester, Jim Burke of Needham, Billy Noel of Revere, Bill Rosary of Barnstable, Brian Sullivan of Brockton and Bob Bigelow of Winchester.

Alternates are Gerry Kavanaugh of Bishop Stang and Kevin Smith of Abington.

The Massachusetts all-stars, coached by Brockton's Jack Lebane, will face teams from New York City, Rhode Island, Connecticut and upper New York State.

Paglari, Sylvia Appointed Golf, Girls' Tennis Coaches

Warren Paglari, a teacher at Vocational-Technical High School, has been appointed golf coach at Quincy High.

Bob Sylvia, a teacher at Quincy High school and successful coach of the boys' hockey team, has been reappointed girls' tennis coach at the high school.

Sylvia last year coached the school's first girls' team and was appointed again for one year until a qualified woman coach can be secured.

'What's Right With America?'

Eighth Grader Looks At U.S., World Problems

[Editor's Note: This is another prize winning essay in the contest "What's Right With America?" sponsored by the South Shore Auto Dealer's Association.

Martha Berenson of 42 Cheriton Rd, Wollaston, an eighth grade student at Atlantic Junior High School won a $25 fourth prize for her essay.

Essays of other Quincy public school winners will also be published in the Quincy Sun.]

By MARTHA BERENSON

Atlantic Junior High School
Eighth Grade

Well, what is wrong with the world? Plenty! There is pollution, crime, violence and many other disturbing matters in the world today. People keep talking and talking about these matters but what are they really doing about them. Like they say, "there is big talk but no action".

These problems are very serious. We the people must do something about all these horrible problems facing the world. Oh, of course, the government is trying to do something about it but they can't do everything. It takes team work and we are the team that can do something about it.

On October twenty-fourth, there was a clean up on the Neponset River. Many kids showed up and this was just great. They cleared all the junk, filth and other stuff that makes the river so ugly. This doesn't mean that the Neponset River isn't polluted any more but it is a start. Little programs like these help a great deal. If only more of these little programs were started by the Mayor, City Council and the people themselves.

Another serious problem is crime. It is very dangerous, threatening and scary. This is why people are not walking the streets at night and some people are even scared of walking in the daytime because it is so bad. Breaking into homes, getting jumped and having your money stolen is what taunts the people and this is what crime is all about.

What I would do to decrease crime is to tell people to lock their doors, to leave a little light burning so the person outside would probably think that someone was home and call the police if they see any crime being done. Having more police would help too. Kids call them Facist Pigs, The Fuzz and many other rotten names.

But these kids that use this kind of language really know what they are talking about? Do they really know what Facist Pig means. Or do they just say it to be "in" with the crowd. I have to admit I have called the police "Fuzz" before, but who hasn't. Even when you were a kid you had to have a name for the police and you had to call them mean names. You felt like we all do, that you were in with it.

Crime and drugs go together hand in hand. Many people who are on drugs are the cause of crime. Some people with a bad life go from Marijuana all the way to Heroin. Sometimes it is because nobody cares about them. They generally have hang-ups, no friends no money or even self-confidence.

This is why kids are going on drugs. Some do it for "Kicks" others take drugs because they want to be "in" with it "One of the crowd". Many rehabilitation centers have opened up and have helped many of these unfortunate drug addicts. I would like to help these kind of people. Maybe by showing them a film on drugs to show them how badly drugs effect your nervous system. Maybe this would give them more information on drugs they didn't know and possibly give them a "little scare". I was in a drug program in the seventh grade last year and it told us everything about drugs. We saw films or drug addicts and pushers and I think all the kids that had that program probably won't go on drugs. Not after they saw other peoples experiences.

MARTHA BERENSON

Maybe the kids that didn't see this film will go on drugs or even try them. Oh yes, they have heard about drugs, everybody has in the news or elsewhere, but do they know what it is all about. Nobody does, not even the greatest professor or scientist. Scientists now know that Marijuana leads to Heroin, the most harmful and addicting drug. But do we know what it is all about? The results are starting to come in now.

Another great hazzard to the United States and also many other countries is pollution. About five years ago the big word was Ecology but now it is pollution. I think people are using this word too freely like they did ecology. They say there is noise pollution from planes and think they are attacking this word. Pollution is everywhere, in the water, in the air and on the land. It is contaminating everything. In the water fish, plants [which give off oxygen] and wildlife drink the polluted water. Air pollution is just as bad. Some people now have lung and heart disease from it. I couldn't stop pollution by myself. Nobody could! It takes time, money and effort. I could do my part by throwing cans, paper and the little things into barrels that bring this great big mess.

Factories are putting these so called filters on the smoke stacks which filters out most of the dirt that goes into the air. Automobiles are one of the major causes of air pollution. There are so many of them. If only the people that own these cars could put in steam tanks or they could be run by electric power. This would decrease the air pollution. Industries cause both air and water pollution. All the smoke and soot floats into the air and the waste goes running into the water.

Our eighth grade class did a project at St. Moritz Pond in West Quincy where we collected samples from the water to see if it was polluted. An article was in the newspaper about it. My job was to filter out the algae from the water with a special net. When I got back to school I looked under the microscope and saw the algae and identified it. Most of the algae was polluted water algae.

One other class went before us and they got a result of more pollution in the water. Then we found a sign that said that they added a chemical to the water which cut down the bacteria. I think that they could add this chemical to other polluted waters such as Lake Erie, the Mississippi River and to the Charles River and to other bodies of water with high pollution content. This chemical could help a great deal.

One other subject that I think ties in with pollution, crime etc. is money. All the prices of everything are going up and making everything you buy or do very expensive. When I say that inflation ties in with crime and pollution I mean this: It costs money to fight crime, help solve the pollution problems and to open rehabilitation centers for drug addicts. All these things and many more frustrating problems are very expensive. I think that crime is the most expensive thing to deal with. You have to pay the policemen their salaries, buy police cars, ammunition, such as guns, and police stations. They need lots of equipment to locate criminals such as computers, radar, radios, walkie talkies and other very expensive equipment they use in the line of duty.

Some people were once considered criminals if they were sinners who chose to offend against the laws of God and man. During the Middle Ages and afterwards many offenses were punishable by death. For example, a man might have paid with his life for stealing a loaf of bread. As I said before, causes of crime include poverty, undesirable living conditions and inadequate education. I think most of the people commit crimes live in the ghettos and slums. They haven't got enough money to buy what they need so they steal. They don't have enough education so they lack self confidence and go on drugs.

I would like to help these people and make friends with them so they could have some friends. Then maybe they won't think that the whole world is a total loss. Some people that live in the ghettos, the run down section of the city, are on welfare. Many are negroes. This comes in as a big problem. Does it really matter what race you are? The whites have been treating the blacks terribly for hundreds of years. Just remember back in the days of slavery in the 1800's. The white southern people treated the black slaves like dirt. Just imagine if it were the other way around.

The whites were the slaves and the blacks were the masters. I don't think that the whites would like that very well. What makes us whites so special? The blacks are just as good as we are and even when they were slaves they were wonderful people. Many years ago some radical white groups were set up. One group in particular, is called the Ku Klux Klan. They are against Negroes, Jews and Catholics. Some great people were black such as Martin Luther King the great civil rights leader. Also there was Malcolm X, Stokely Carmichael and Adam Clayton Powell. There will be many more before this civil rights issue is completely successful.

After going over all these important problems and trying to find a way to solve them, it is nice to know there are still many good and wonderful things in this world we face.

School Music Department Schedules Six Performances

Six performances are scheduled this coming week by the Music Education Department of Quincy Public Schools.

A guest string quartet from Boston University will present three programs tomorrow in Quincy Schools.

At 8:45 a.m. there will be a chamber music workshop program at Webster School, with Webster students as soloists; at 10:30 a.m. at Snug Harbor School with school soloists; and at noon, a chamber music concert in the Quincy High School bandroom. Miss Catherine Bishop is in charge of arrangements.

Three musical events are scheduled by the Music Education Department of Quincy Public Schools for April 7.

At 1 p.m. the woodwind and percussion ensemble will give a performance at Senior Citizens Center, 1000 Southern Artery, under direction of Carl Leone. The Quincy High School spring concert will take place at 8 p.m. with Gale Harrison directing the choir; Anthony Ferrante, band; and Miss Bishop, orchestra.

An exchange concert will be held during the school day at Hingham South Jr. High School with Sterling Junior High School participating, led by John Gulicello, conductor. Ted Haines will conduct the Hingham South Junior High group.

The same musicians will take part in a return performance at Sterling on April 12.

Dr. Maxwell Finland Honored By American College Of Physicians

Dr. Maxwell Finland, M.D. of 46 Sycamore Rd., Squantum, on Monday received the John Phillips Memorial Award "for distinguished contributions in internal medicine" at the 52nd annual convocation of the American College of Physicians in Denver.

Dr. Finland, George Richards

Minot Professor of Medicine, Emeritus, at Harvard, and epidemiologist at Boston City Hospital, presented the Phillips Memorial Lecture on Tuesday. He is a lecturer in medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine. Before his 1968 retirement, Dr. Finland headed Harvard's Department of Medicine at Boston City Hospital, was director of the Second and Fourth [Harvard] Medical Services and the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory at the Hospital.

He is recognized for his study of infectious diseases and for investigations of chemotherapeutic and antibiotic agents.

Activities Planned 'For Senior Citizens Month'

Senior Citizens Month in May will be marked in Quincy by many special activities for elderly residents.

The fourth annual May Festival will be held at the Quincy Armory May 12. A dinner dance will take place May 21, also at the Armory.

Arrangements for both events are being made under the direction of Mrs. Marion Andrews, assistant to the Director of the Quincy Council on Aging.

The Festival will be open to the public from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., free of charge. City departments and agencies dealing in service for the elderly will sponsor exhibits and tables, sponsored by the Quincy Federation of Senior Citizens Clubs, will offer for sale many items including home-baked goods, handicrafts and white elephant items. A snack bar will also be available.

Tickets will be going on sale next week for the dinner dance at the Quincy Council on Aging Office, 1120 Hancock St. A social hour will precede the catered dinner followed by dancing to Ray Coleman's orchestra until 11 p.m.

Further information may be obtained from the Council on Aging Office.

Coolidge Exhibit At Main Library

Jack Coolidge of Milton will exhibit paintings at the main hall gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library through April, announces Carmen Unger, art librarian.

Still-life motifs in the exhibit are presented as windows, cabinets, shelves and panels, rather than framed in the conventional manner and include three-dimensional works. Included also are large canvases done in acrylic colors.

Coolidge graduated from Boston Museum School of Art and Harvard College. He spent some six years overseas either studying or teaching art.

He is now instructor of painting and history of art at the School of Practical Art, Boston. His paintings are exhibited regularly at galleries from New York to Maine.

Spring Homemaker Program Topics Listed At Library

Spring homemaker programs for adults at Adams Shore Branch Library are announced by Mrs. Margaret-Anne Myers, librarian.

April topics are: April 7, Sewing books; April 14, Books on art and an art demonstration by Carmen Unger, Art Librarian at Thomas Crane Public Library; April 21, Travel to foreign countries; and April 28, It's fun to travel in the United States.

This free series of programs is conducted by Mrs. Myers. Books are discussed at each program.

Council On Aging Accepting Senior Rally Reservations

Reservations are now being accepted by the Quincy Council on Aging for the annual Senior Rally April 23 at Suffolk Downs, announces Executive Director Donald H. Strong.

Four buses are being made available for free bus transportation, through cooperation of the Quincy

School Department.

Nationally prominent speakers will be heard in the morning and Senior Citizens may attend the afternoon races without charge.

Those planning to attend should call 471-1730 weekdays from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Pomona Grange To Entertain Metropolitan Members Saturday

Blue Hills Pomona Grange will entertain Metropolitan

Pomona members at Saturday's 4:30 p.m. meeting in Brookville Grange Hall. The visitors will present a program.

Supper reservations should be made today with Mrs. Alice Curtis at 961-3468.

Members are to bring candy for the Youth Table, and donations for Home and Community Table.

On The Screen By Vincent Puleo

Jack Benny Fiddles Up $5.1 Million

VANESSA REDGRAVE has been signed by HAL WALLIS to star in the title role of "MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS". This is the second English historical drama that WALLIS has done. His first was "ANNE OF THE THOUSAND DAYS". Location filming starts May 17 in England... For Miss REDGRAVE this could prove to be her most important acting assignment to date, and though it's too early to talk Oscar, a work as monumental as "SCOTS" could place her in the coveted nominee position come 1972 provided she is creatively up to the role... To date JACK BENNY has raised $5,138,000 for the benefit of various orchestras. BENNY's most recent outing of March 9th raised $269,000 for the Jacksonville [Fla.] Symphony...

Politics and Show Business continue their mixed bag. EDWARD L. SCHUMAN, vice-president of the Walter Reade theatre chain, has taken an indefinite leave of absence to become the national coordinator of fund-raising for aspiring presidential candidate EDMUND S. MUSKIE... "M*A*S*H" was this year's winner of the United Nations Award in recognition of its being judged the "film of the year" by the British Society of Film and Television Arts... STEVE McQUEEN continues to receive his choice of the best available scripts. McQUEEN will play the title role of "PAPILON", a film autobiog based on the life of HENRI CHARRIERE, the first man to ever escape the Devil's Island penal colony...

What producer LARRY SPANGLER wants he generally gets, and right now he wants JOE NAMATH to sign on the dotted line for the lead of "THE BIG MAN"... QUOTE, UNQUOTE: Critic PAULINE KAELE commenting on the social significance of JANE FONDA in relation to the times we live in: "JANE FONDA stands a good chance of personifying American tensions and dominating our movies in the seventies as BETTE DAVIS did in the thirties"... Horror flick devotees should find "BLOOD AND LACE" to their taste. The MELODY PATTERSON starrer has more than its share of gore and screams... KAREN BLACK and RICHARD BENJAMIN have been signed to star in Warner Brothers' "PORTNOY'S COMPLAINT"...

Top draw French comic LOUIS DE FUNES is putting the finishing touches on his latest motion picture "JO"... JILL ST. JOHN has O.K.'d a pact to star her as "Tiffany Case" in the upcoming James Bond adventure "DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER". The role was originally offered to RAQUEL WELCH, but she rejected it because of a conflict of film schedules. HOWARD HAWKS would like BURT LANCASTER to play ERNEST HEMINGWAY in the filmbiog of the famous scribe... BARBARA BAIN must be regretting the day she huffed and puffed off the set of "MISSION IMPOSSIBLE". Television and film offers have been scarce the past year and a half. If the situation continues, her career could be at an end!

Like a fine wine, veteran thespian ORSON WELLES gets better with age. His many fans will be delighted with his virtuoso antics in the soon-to-be-released "RABBIT"... Former screenwriter BUCK HENRY tackles his first major film role in "TAKING OFF", and handles the assignment in superb fashion. His performance is such that will whet the viewers appetite in anticipation of seeing him in other, and more varied roles... Remember GROUCHO MARX of earlier television seasons? Well, he may be back on the small screen shortly as host of his own game show... Heavyweight champ JOE FRAZIER has been included in the talent lineup of BOB HOPE's next special on April 5th...

A tip of the hat to STEPHEN D. SEYMOUR who was recently named general sales manager of WBZ-TV... ALFRED HITCHCOCK is still directing pictures. His next, "FREZZY" will be released under the Universal banner... Watch for another network to pick up the recently axed CBS ED SULLIVAN SHOW... ARTE JOHNSON's television special of March 18 was a boring fizzle. Please, never again... Early in his career ALEC GUINNESS was told repeatedly to give up any thoughts of becoming an actor because he "had no talent"... Whatever became of TOM TULLY? He hasn't been seen on the screen since 1953 when he picked up a best supporting actor nomination for "THE CAINE MUTINY"...

Poor ERNEST BORGNINE; whenever there is a meaty role available worthy of a performer who has won an Academy Award, BORGNINE is always around for "consideration". But that is about all. He was in the running, right up to the last week, for the feature role of "THE GODFATHER". He lost out to BRANDO. Now he is being "considered" for the role of VINCE LOMBARDI. However the producers, JERRY KRAMER and ALAN FACTOR, would rather have GEORGE C. SCOTT... If someone would only give the 1955 Oscar winner a chance to prove himself, it is this columns belief that BORGNINE would hand in another "MARTY" performance. For after all, an actor needs the right script to really demonstrate his ability. Since 1954, BORGNINE has never been given the chance to prove his mettle...

Guidance Offices To Be Open Nights During May

Guidance offices at Quincy's high schools will continue to be open one evening each week through May, announces Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel services for Quincy Public Schools.

Guidance offices at Quincy High and Quincy Vocational-Technical School will be open Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. Available for counseling on April 13 will be William Hutchinson; April 27, Donald Fowke; and May 5, William Hutchinson.

At Voc-Tech on April 6, Gerald Gherli will be available; May 11, Richard Haines; May 18, Marc Heyman; and May 25, Richard Haines.

At North Quincy High School counselors will be available Wednesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. College Information Night will be held April 7. On April 14, Gail Westerman will be available; April 28, Peter Fitch; May 5, Marjorie Rogers; May 12, John Murphy; May 19, Richard Meyer; and May 26, Peter Fitch.

The evening guidance program, inaugurated in January, has provided many working parents with opportunities to talk with their child's counselor on academic progress and future plans, says Dr. Griffin.

Quincy High Spring Concert April 7

Quincy High School's music organizations will present their annual spring concert April 7 at 8 p.m. in the Quincy High School auditorium.

Featured soloist Serena Nelson, winner of the 1971 Wollaston Glee Club Scholarship award, will play "Trisone Ballade" for piano by Chopin.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

NOTICE OF HEARING ON STATE HIGHWAY LAYOUT

BRAintree - QUINCY

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 5, Chapter 81 of the General Laws, Ter. Ed., as amended, the Department of Public Works will give a public hearing in the Braintree Town Hall on Tuesday, April 13, 1971 at 7:30 P.M., to all persons interested in the reconstruction and modification of the ramp complex of Routes 3 and 122 in the vicinity of Capens Circle in Braintree and Quincy, and the provisions for access to a proposed Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority station in Braintree.

The project consists of the modification and reconstruction of the present Route 3, 128 and Southeast Expressway interchange in Braintree and Quincy to improve the present interchange and to provide access to a proposed Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority station in Braintree.

This hearing is to be a corridor public hearing.

Plans showing the proposed project will be on display in the Council Chambers of the Quincy City Hall on Monday, April 12, 1971, from 2:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. and from 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M., and at the Braintree Town Hall on Tuesday, April 13, 1971 from 2:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. and from 6:30 P.M. to the time of the hearing at 7:30 P.M.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the times and dates listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in support of or in addition to, oral statements at the public hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Daniel S. Horgan, Chief Engineer, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Such submission will also be accepted at the hearings. The final date for the receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten (10) days after this public hearing.

The Department's policy for relocation assistance, if required, will be discussed.

Marshall Seeks Air Pollution Monitor At Fore River Circle

Rep-City Councillor Clifford H. Marshall is seeking installation at Fore River Circle of a new floating air monitor equipped to measure air pollution.

In a letter of request to Engineer William Simmons of the State Department of Public Health, Marshall wrote:

"I understand that the floating monitor will contain more instruments than the stationary monitors and will measure a greater variety of pollutants. I also understand that in addition to the sulfur dioxide and particulates, such as fly ash, measured by the stationary monitors, the floating monitor will measure the nitrogen dioxide and carbon monoxide levels in the air."

Marshall believes that the new floating air monitor is much superior to that now in use. Located near Fore River Circle on Route 3A, it would be possible to monitor General Dynamics Shipyard, Proctor &

Gamble and Boston Edison Edgar Station Plant.

Boston Edison, Marshall notes, must by Oct. 1 convert to a one per cent sulfa fuel.

"I appealed to them and asked if they would convert to it in advance. They said they had considered it and did not feel they could afford to do it in advance of the Oct. 1 deadline set by the Department of Public Health," Marshall explained to the Quincy Sun.

"However, if at any time the air monitor showed that their content was above what the Public Health Department allowed, then they would go along with it."

"I am making the request to satisfy my own feelings on this, and also so the people in the area will know they are getting the best possible investigation."

To date, Marshall says, he has had no reply from the Department of Public Health to his request for the new monitor.

CD Medical Self-Help Courses Started Here

Civil Defense Medical Self-Help Training Courses are now being initiated in Quincy, announces City CD Director Edward H. Roberts.

Medical self-help is first aid and medical aid to the public by trained volunteers when normal medical assistance is not available, he said.

The Women's Auxiliary of Houghs Neck Legion Post is among the first to sponsor a series of six classes, two a week.

UCS Names Stowlow

Arthur Stowlow has been appointed regional planning associate for the South Area Planning Division of United starting April 6 at the Post Home, 1116 Sea St. Persons interested may call Mrs. Diane Clark at 37 Bird St., 773-6885 or Paul Shaw at 337 Rock Island Rd., 773-0274.

"At least one member of every family should be trained in medical self help," said Roberts. "One never knows when disaster might strike at home."

Information on classes may be obtained from the Quincy Civil Defense Office.

Four Students To Represent Quincy At State House Friday

Four high school students from Quincy will take seats in the state legislature Friday, representing the city on Student Government Day.

They are Daniel Zink of 127 Davis St., Wollaston, from North Quincy High School; David D'Olimpio of 70 South Walnut

St., Quincy Point, Quincy High School; Gloriajean Thompson of 30 Minihan's Lane, West Quincy, Woodward School for Girls; and Stephen J. McGrath of 36 Bass St., Wollaston, from Archbishop Williams High School.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett, for his 12th year, will accompany the students to the State House, act as their guide, and be their host for lunch, returning them to their homes at the close of the afternoon session.

Bills up for consideration that day before the Student House relate to an act requiring that drugs be classified according to their effect, an act providing for the increase in tax rates upon the increase in income, and a resolve providing for an investigation and study by a special commission relative to a school tax for educational support.

Pending before the Student Senate are acts amending the general laws to include a representative for youth on the Board of Education, a requirement that all local schools be organized on open enrollment, and a provision for the registration of qualified voters at high schools.

Dr. Creedon Commends Police Officer, Teacher

Quincy School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon has sent commendations to Quincy Police Officer Lawrence Kelly and to shop teacher Gaetano T. Abruzzese at Quincy Point Junior High School, both of whom prevented financial loss to the School Department.

Kelly was commended for "efficient police work in discovering and returning to Furnace Brook School a television set that had been removed by vandals" and for setting an example to young people "in the performance of your duty".

Abruzzese was commended for his "quick response" in extinguishing a fire in a wood supply shed at Quincy Point Junior High School, which prevented a "serious fire loss".

Sees Public Sentiment Against School Committee On Lunch Vote

Editor, Quincy Sun:

WE GET LETTERS

It is interesting to note that Germantown Mothers Lunch Committee lost no time in announcing that they plan to institute a suit against the Quincy City Council in an attempt to reinstate the funds cut from the Quincy School Committee's budget for the Snug Harbor Lunch Program.

They announced their intention to sue at the same time that Mr. Sweeny of the school committee wisely tried to cool the subject of suit down in the hope of finding a way of avoiding court action.

After having attended all of the recent school committee and city council hearings and budget review meetings, I came to the following conclusions:

1. The school committee gave this matter serious consideration before making a decision. In my opinion, they made the wrong decision.

2. Public sentiment is overwhelmingly against the school committee's decision.

3. The Quincy City Council cut the money from the school committee budget because they felt that this was an unwise expenditure of money that did not have the support of the taxpayers. "Political motivation", while probably present to some degree has been overplayed as a factor.

The Quincy City Council for the first time in recent years attempted to thoroughly review the school committee's budget. They had not tried to review it item by item as they do with other city department budgets because of the "fiscal autonomy" aspect of the school committee's budget. I think this type of detailed scrutiny is here to stay and that the taxpayers will benefit from it.

The city council is frustrated by the fact that they take the frontal assault of the taxpayers on the rising tax rate, especially, at election time, while the school committee does not seem to get similarly challenged on school costs.

4. The state law making lunch programs compulsory is bad legislation. Each community should be allowed to review their own needs, school policies, physical plants and finances and make their own decision.

5. Though it took the lunch program controversy here in Quincy to make people wonder about the wisdom of "fiscal autonomy", this subject is being debated throughout the state. I believe that this debate is healthy. It should certainly remind school committees that the taxpayers are concerned about their activities. The warning is clearly being given. If they lose their "fiscal autonomy", it will be by their own hand.

April 15 Postmark Deadline For Tax Returns

Income tax returns must have an April 15, 1971 postmark in order to meet the Internal Revenue deadline, the Post Office reminded taxpayers today.

Customers depositing their returns on the last day, April 15, should make certain that they drop their letters in the collection box before the final pickup.

The last collection from all communities in the Boston Postal District is at 7 P.M. from boxes located in front of local post offices only.

"If you miss the last collection," said Postmaster George K. Walker, "the self-service post office located in the General Post Office at Milk and Devonshire Streets, downtown Boston, is open 24 hours a day, and tax returns can be deposited up to midnight to receive an April 15, 1971, postmark."

It looked like a Summit Meeting at City Hall the other day. In conference, behind closed door, in the mayor's office: Mayor McIntyre, City Council President Arthur Tobin and Councillor Walter Hannon.

Observers on the other side of the door wondered. Was this it? The long awaited BIG decision?

The Speculation Corps has been kicking this three-way move around for weeks: If McIntyre accepts an appointment and retires from active politics, Hannon will run for mayor and Tobin for His Honor's senate seat.

Of, course, that's if McIntyre decides to retire. Those really close to him find that difficult to believe. But then Lyndon Johnson caught a few people by surprise too.

If McIntyre decides to seek term No. 4, Tobin and Hannon will have to wait.

The only man to step forward to challenge McIntyre is School Committeeman James McCormick. No one else, Democrat or Republican, seems to want to tangle with the McIntyre power.

HANNON has strongly hinted—virtually announced—he won't seek re-election to the Ward 5 City Council seat. He may change his mind about that between now and September.

Meanwhile, Atty. William Delahunt, who came within a handful of votes of winning the seat, is expected to make another bid this fall.

THERE IS another man who would live things up if he yielded to current coaxing and tossed his hat into the mayoralty ring. The hat is stenciled: Richard J. Koch.

Koch who served as local coordinator for both Jack and Ted Kennedy, has never run himself but has always had a big influence in Quincy elections.

Can you imagine, for example, how many thousands of youngsters have been members of his Koch Club since he founded it just after World War II? And how many of them are of voting age today?

He would carry a mighty big block of votes into an election as a candidate.

He has been approached by individuals and groups to run for mayor. Who knows—maybe they might yet convince him. If not this year, perhaps in 1973.

WATER DEPT: How much water do you think you use in a day? Would you believe 116 GALLONS! Well, if you're a Quincy resident, that's what it amounts to.

Total daily consumption during 1970 was 10,242,000 gallons reports Water Department Supt. Robert Barry. Or, 116 gallons per capita.

GOOD NEWS: Snelling and Snelling see employment beginning to pick up locally. "The tell-tale signs are everywhere," says District Manager Burton Bartzoff.

Specific industries—like food, auto, services, building materials, medicines—are looking for employees.

"Most of the business and financial publications are filled with optimism. They report an upsurge in consumer spending which is always a good sign that things will get better," notes Bartzoff.

"Our local economy is not unrelated to conditions elsewhere and, consequently, we see emerging job opportunities immediately ahead for secretarial, office, clerical, administrative and sales people, as well as for a variety of other career fields."

THAT'S LIFE: Mike Blatt, the North Quincy tailor, tells the true story of the guy who got a carton of cigarettes for a present. They weren't his brand so he took them to a friend who owned a store and asked him if he would swap them?

The friend said, "Sure". And did.

But the guy stood there for a while as though waiting. The friend finally asked: "Anything else?"

"Y'eah", replied the guy with the cigarettes. "Have you got the matches that go with a carton?"

TYPO TERROR DEPT: In the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot: The bill would allow them to trim their budgets where they can then borrow what they need to fake up the difference."

Anytime Is A Good Time But This Is THE YEAR To Visit Edinburgh

[Editor's Note: Frances Vaughn of 64 Conant Rd, North Quincy, serving as a Quincy Sun correspondent, reports today from Edinburgh, Scotland.]

Quincy Sun Correspondent

EDINBURGH, Scotland — In Scotland, as in England, the decimal system has gone into effect.

True to his reputation, the Scotsman will convince you to hold onto your money as long as possible. Evidence of this is the porter at Edinburgh Airport who will insist you ride a bus into the heart of the capital city rather than take a taxi.

Not only is the individual Scot going to make your visit to Edinburgh enjoyable and memorable, but the government is taking steps to provide you with all the comforts of home. Presently, grants are being provided to build and expand Edinburgh hotels, and it's planned to equip all first-class hotel rooms with a radio, television and private bath.

Any time is the right time to visit Edinburgh, but during 1971 its visitors will get more than they bargained for. From August 22 to September 11 Edinburgh will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its annual International Festival. Performances by leading opera, drama and ballet companies from around the world will be among the festivities.

Famous birthplaces include Alexander Graham Bell's, who unwittingly conceived the nine dollar trans-Atlantic phone call. Joseph Lister, whose name has become a mouth-hold word, and Sir James Simpson, who strived to make childbirth one of the joys of motherhood, were also born in Edinburgh.

A bicentennial celebration will be held this year for Sir Walter Scott, another famous native. Anyone who climbs the 287 steps to the Scott Monument in the Princes Street Gardens will receive a certificate from the city of Edinburgh. There will also be two exhibits of his works at Parliament and Waverley Station.

From the Scott Monument, as well as anywhere else on Princes St., you can't help but see Edinburgh Castle, which overlooks the city. Contained in the castle are the Scottish United Services Museum and the Scottish National War Museum. During the International Festival there is a Military Tattoo at the castle.

The Royal Mile begins at the castle esplanade and leads to the Palace of Holyroodhouse, Queen Elizabeth's palace away from the palace. There are guided tours through Her Majesty's Scottish residence, but the palace may be closed occasionally for State visits.

Edinburgh has a population just under a half million yet it is the home of two universities. It is also the headquarters for the Law and the Church of Scotland, and the Scottish Parliament. With its art galleries and museums, zoo, libraries and theatres there is something of interest for everyone to see, and there are many guided tours to these places.

Souvenirs should be purchased during the week because all stores are closed on Sundays and drugstores will only sell medicinal supplies. Princes St., Edinburgh's Hancock St., offers many varied shops and restaurants along one side. If you tire of shopping, you can cross the street and visit the Princes Street Gardens, climb the Scott Monument or walk the hill to the castle, if not already done.

According to a reliable source — a taxi driver — there are about three establishments in the city which offer an evening of dinner, dancing, drinking and entertainment. Many pubs and restaurants provide two or three of the above combination.

You'll probably have a tear in your eye and a lump in your throat, when you leave Edinburgh. Not only will you miss its scenic beauty and friendly people, but that turbo-prop at the airport has a strange affect on you, if you have any inhibitions about flying.

The writer gratefully acknowledges the gracious assistance of Miss Lorna R. Rhind and Mr. J. Brian McGuire of Edinburgh's Public Relations Department.

Use of Broad Meadows' 115 acres of marshland for industrial development was urged by George D. Reardon of the Quincy-South Shore Industrial Development Corporation at Monday's City Council meeting.

He said it has "a tax possibility of $1.5 million per year for the citizens of Quincy."

Attending with Reardon was Robert M. Faxon, also representing the Quincy South Shore Industrial Development Corporation.

The regular order of business was suspended by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin so that a letter approved that afternoon by the corporation might be read by Reardon.

The marsh area between Sea St. and Southern Artery and Germantown was sold several years ago for $80,800 to Massachusetts Electric Company for future development. It has been held by them for approximately 12 years.

Recently Mayor James R. McIntyre secured approval of the area as the site for a community junior college.

Pointing out that "today, available land for development in Quincy is at an all time low," Reardon said that since Massachusetts Electric Company does not desire to use the land, Quincy should exercise its privilege of repurchasing it at the original cost, plus taxes.

Also, the area could be sold to a city-owned development corporation for industrial development of the area, he said.

To protect the city's tax base, the Industrial Development Corporation contends that Broad Meadows could be best used for business development because:

• "It is, and has been, zoned 'Industrial A.'"

• "It is a 24-foot channel which is now being dredged to 35-feet at great expense to the taxpayer."

• "It has the natural barrier of the dike and could have a park corridor separating it for the balance of the space between this development and the residential area."

• "It is to be filled, whether used for a school or not."

• "With over 100 acres, it has a tax possibility to the citizens of Quincy of one and one-half million dollars per year, plus."

• "It is a natural continuation of present business establishments along the Town River."

• "To be fair in determining the advisability of proper business land use, one must figure the tax revenues over a period of 20 years vs. the loss and drain of the Junior College cost to see what most benefits all the citizens of Quincy."

"We don't want to talk against Quincy Junior College, what we want is the best use of Broad Meadows," Reardon commented. "We ask the land use of Broad Meadows be submitted to a committee that will study the matter and make the best findings for the future of the citizens of Quincy."

Councillor John J. Quinn, commenting on junior college requirements, pointed out that students' cars require a great deal of land for parking. He suggested a 10 or 12-story junior college built near an MBTA terminal for easy access.

"This waterfront could be a tremendous asset to the City of Quincy and it should be looked on from the point of view of development," Quinn said of the Broad Meadows site.

"We should have a letter from the Electric Company, in all fairness to the community, regarding whether or not they will use it for a power plant, or give it back to the City for the original sales price plus any taxes paid into it."

Mrs. Josephine Carnali, clerk of committee, was directed to refer the letter to the Mayor's office.

Easter

... Easter ...
Beauty Queen of Revival!
Stirring mother-earth from her deep winter's slumber,
To make ready for earthly rainbow-creations.

Trees and plants begin to blossom prettily,
Birds glide through the air,
Singing sweet melodies,
White lilies are seen everywhere,

While Easter baskets filled with cute bunnies
Colored eggs and other dainty goodies, decorate

Store-windows, especially intended to fascinate Children's attentions, on this festive occasion.

Of course we mustn't forget-parades, Easter bonnets, and fancy garments.

The word-Easter-stems from Eastre,
Goddess of Spring-beautiful and divine.

This "definition" also brings to mind,
Another association of Easter and spring.

And that is the Resurrection of Jesus.

Christ demands from us
Christians,

A simple but vital attribute-
And that is to have "faith" in Him-

Determined to live as He taught,

For our Lives can be correct,
Only as they conform to Christ's teachings.

Take a "lesson" from the Easter flower,

"Symbol of the Resurrection"

It's pure, delicate, strong and straight.

Above all-it's face turns heavenward,

Need you more proof than this,

Of God's earthly beauty and
"Spiritual essence of His Love?"

Anna T. Anderson, Quincy

Sunrise

I woke up each morning,
Its still darkened by the moon.

But I know something very special,
The sun will be up soon.

Its hidden by the buildings,
It keeps down out of sight.

Until its very sure,
It is no longer night.

The sky at first is dark,
It gets brighter as time goes on.

Finally the sun has risen,
We now know that this is dawn.

What Is Peace?

What is peace?
Peace is the war coming to an end.

Peace is quietness in the world.

Peace is love and happiness in the world.

Peace is everything.

Think Spring! Think Tuna Salad Casserole

Here's a Springtime Tuna Salad Casserole that you don't have to cook. It's a wonderful recipe to have for a delightful spring day. You can fix it in minutes. And it's inexpensive. In fact canned tuna in vegetable oil is one of the best low-in-cholesterol, low-in-calorie protein buys today—with the same complete protein as lean beef.

When you use this canned tuna, nothing is wasted. Even the polyunsaturated vegetable oil in which it is packed may be used —as it is in this dish—to enrich a salad dressing or sauce.

Write for your FREE copy of the attractive recipe booklet, TUNA: AS YOU LIKE IT. Send your request with name and address to: TUNA RESEARCH FOUNDATION, Box 508, 215
Cannery Street, Terminal Island, California 90731.

Springtime Tuna Salad Casserole

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil	¼ teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
½ cup mayonnaise	1 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon prepared mustard	¼ cup diced green pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice	Sliced process American cheese
	Green pepper strips
	Pimiento

Drain oil from tuna into mayonnaise. Blend in mustard, lemon juice and Tabasco. Toss lightly with tuna, celery and green pepper. Turn into shallow oblong serving dish. Top with "pe-ranium" garnish. Cut slice of cheese to resemble "flower pot."
Place on top of tuna salad. Use strips of green pepper for stems and leaves. Cut out "flower" from pimiento with round scalloped cutter. Serve casserole with salad greens. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.
